Camp Whitley Is Now Operating In Third Week Of It's 20th Year, First Campers' List

Editor's no te: This is the first in a series of weekly stories which this newspap er will feature on Camp Whitley , the only school-owned camp in Indiana. The people in this comm unity (chiefly the children) are most fortunate to have its facili ties.

Camp Whitley on Troy Cedar Lake is now operating in the third week of its 20th year as a Columbia City school camp. The enrollment for the camp is filled for the entire summer camping season of eight weeks.

Boys' camp is now in progress and will continue until July 23, when the girls will take over the camp until August 6.

Last summer an inspection of Camp Whitley was made by the American Camping Association, and after the inspection the local camp was accepted as a first rate member of the national association, meeting all the standards for membership.

The camping activities offered at Camp Whitley are many and varied. Included in the program are: swimming, boating, sailing, fishing, canoeing, rifle, archery, paddle tennis, loop tennis, volley ball, basketball, horseshoe, croquet, softball, touch football, box hockey, dramatics, cook-outs, overnight camp-outs, hiking, compass orientation, treasure hunts, nature lore, conservation of plants and soil, boxing with 14-ounce gloves, starting camp fires, and many other educational activities.

Win cond In Festival Amateur Show Thursday

Local Cutie Float Also Places Second

Judy Lawson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Lawson, of Tri Lakes, will compete in the finals of the amateur contest at the Mermaid Festival Sunday evening. Judy placed second in the Thursday night round to become eligible for the final round.

The Tri Lakes youngsters did an acrobatic routine, to the musical accompaniment of "Tea For Two", and tap danced to the music of "Margie." Mrs. Warren Hunt, of near Tri Lakes, played the musical accompaniment.

Two other Tri Lakes children were among the many competitors in the Festival activities Thursday. Cleis Ann Stuckey and Stephen Bales were the Columbia City Cutie King and Queen entries in the festival. They are both five years old and are children of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stuckey and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Bales. Neither the Cutie King nor Queen were among the winners.

However, the Columbia City Cutie Float was judged second best. "The Cinderella Story" was the theme of the local Cutie Float. It was a large pumpkin drawn by two gray mice, which were driven by a white mouse. The Cutie King and Queen from here road on the float, which was built by Mr. and Mrs. Donald Phend of this city.

This evening the Mermaid Parade will be staged, and the preliminary judging for the "Queen of the Lakes" beauty contest will be held.

Benson Hopes To Make Amends To Premier U Nu

Burmese Official Felt He Was Slighted

WASHINGTON (UP) — Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson hoped to make amends today for an appointment snafu that caused Burmese Prime Minister U Nu to stalk out of the Agriculture Department Thursday.

Benson invited the Burmese official to return for an early morning conference.

U Nu, in this country for a goodwill visit, went to Benson's office Thursday afternoon to keep an appointment with the agriculture secretary.

But Benson "had someone else in his office." After waiting five minutes, Nu and his party walked out. A Benson aide hastily said the prime minister had been expected a half hour earlier.

That threw the State Department officials into a diplomatic dither. One of them, obviously thinking of Burma's importance in the struggle with Communism in Asia, called it "a very delicate matter."

There was no announcement of who called whom. But two hours after U Nu left the Agriculture Department, Benson went to Blair House, where the Burmese is staying, to apologize.

But the prime minister was not there when Benson and his wife arrived at Blair House. They cooled their heels for about 10 minutes until he returned from a tea at the home of William J. Sebald, deputy assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs.

When the Burmese leader returned, he spent about five minutes with Benson. The secretary explained he had visitors when the prime minister arrived at the department and couldn't shoo them out too abruptly.

He said he was sorry about the whole thing. U Nu said he understood how it was. At one point, a witness to the meeting reported, the two even chuckled over the affair.

Mrs. Benson said she was "glad the incident happened. Otherwise I would not have met the premier."

This Past June Was Very Cold: Thursday's 92 Highest

This June will go down in the weather history books as one of the coldest on record.

There have been but two days during the month that the temperatures hit 90 or better, reaching 90 on June 19 and a maximum of 92 Thursday.

This is quite a contrast to June of 1954 when the mercury soared to the nineties on 14 occassions with a high of 93.5 on the 15th. Last year there was not a day since June 6 that the mercury did not reach at least 80.

This year there was a total of 13 days that the temperature did not reach 80, with four below 70 and one day the highest recorded was a 56. This compares to last June when there were but two days under 70 and only three under 80.

The rainfall has been practically equal, with 2.11 inches this June while there was 2.88 inches last June. However, this month had all the rain between June 6 and 13. Until yesterday's rain there had been no measurable precipitation since June 13.

In Columbia City the rainfall yesterday was only .05 of an inch. North of town the rain was quite heavy with two inches of rain reported in some areas. South of town it did not rain at all in some locations in the county.

Taken Ill Thursday

Howard Wherry of South Main street, of Mimi's Cafe, became seriously ill at the cafe Thursday noon. After examination by his family physician, he was taken by the J. A. DeMoney and Son ambulance to the Whitley County Hospital, where he will undergo x-ray examinations and treatment.

Thorncreek Township Maps Plans For Sale Of School Stock

Thomas Cornelius, Thorncreek township trustee, met with a group of township residents at the schoolhouse Thursday evening and planned the sale of stock for the Columbia City Joint high school.

Money receipt pads were distributed to those who will be selling the $10 shares of stock and areas were designated for the sellers.

Those who will be selling stock in Thorncreek township are: Argyle Beard, Tim Zumbrun, Harry Jagger, Norman Martin, Mrs. Robert Fry, Max Lawrence, Leon Alter, Robert Pontzius, Floyd Chapman, Harold Schmidt, Robert Starkel, Bob Fahl and Mr. Cornelius.

Skillen Asserts Charge Against Him Is "Smear"

Admits Getting Profit But Was No Secret

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—Indiana Democratic State Chairman Charles E. Skillen labeled a "political smear" today a disclosure he received nearly $25,000 from a beer wholesaler in Winamac over a four-year period.

Skillen readily confirmed he received money, but said his share was not profits from a secret partnership.

"It's true I did receive pay for serving as public relations adviser to the beer wholesaler," Skillen said. He said he did not have records with him to show the exact amounts he received.

"I was not engaging in the beer wholesaling business," said Skillen. "That's a fairly common procedure (serving as public relations adviser) and there are many persons in both parties getting paid for such services."

The disclosure of Skillen's connection with the wholesalership in his home town appeared in today's editions of the Indianapolis Star, a Pulliam newspaper, under the headline "Skillen 'Beer Profit' Bared."

The Star said photostatic copies of receipts exist which show received payments from 1950 through 1954 from owners of Winamac Beverages.

Skillen charged it was a "smear" arranged by Dr. H.J. Halleck, a Winamac physician, Pulaski County Republican chairman, and brother of House Minority Leader Charles A. Halleck (R-Ind.).

"He got those receipts, Skilen said, "from the man he put in the beer wholesaling business up there and had them photostated to smear me.'

"I was not a beer wholesaler, merely an adviser.'

31 Indiana Schools, Including Smith Township, Ask Aid

Thirty-one Indiana school corporations applied for emergency state aid under the new veterans memorial school construction law.

Since the deadline for applications was midnight June 30, applications dated by then will be accepted, the state school superintendent's office said.

The Commission on Education will meet July 8 to consider applications, State School Supt. Wilbur Young said.

Included among the applicants were Noble township, Noble county and Smith township, Whitley county.

No Paper July 4

According to custom there will be no issue of this newspaper next Monday, July 4. Publication will be resumed Tuesday.

The courthouse, banks and most business houses will be closed on the nation's birthday anniversary.

Man Who Served 23 Years Called For Lie Detector

Claims He Was Not Guilty Of Slaying

JACKSON, Mich. (UP) — Frank Moriconi, 59, who has served 23 years in Southern Michigan Prison for a murder he claims he did not commit, was called out of his cell for a lie detector test today.

The test was arranged by Stephen Schutt, lie detector expert for the Keeler Laboratory of Chicago. He said he would administer the test to Moriconi, who had professed his innocence during his long years behind bars.

Paul Thurlow, Moriconi's attorney who accompanied Schutt here, said the state's case against Moriconi was "strictly circumstantial with no direct evidence."

Moriconi was convicted in Detroit in 1922 for murdering Fred Viola, his 7-year-old common-law stepson.

The state charged that Moriconi struck the boy and held his head over a gas stove to collect $2,000 insurance. The defense contended the boy climbed onto the stove and accidentally turned on the gas when he fell and struck his head.

Thurlow said the state based its case on the fact Moriconi was on relief and needed the insurance money. The lawyer, who also is a Presbyterian minister, said the state failed to prove Moriconi even was home when the death occurred.

A coroner's report, according to Thurlow, also failed to establish whether the boy died of asphyxiation or a blow on the head. He said Moriconi spoke little English at the time and perhaps was unable to cooperate with his attorney.

In addition, Thurlow said, Moriconi may have been inadequately represented,' which would involve a violation of constitutional rights.

Clifton Smith Hurt Slightly When Car Hits Rear Of Tractor

A Whitley County man suffered minor injuries at about 3:45 p.m. Thursday when a car rammed into the rear of a tractor-mower he was driving on State highway 9, north of Columbia City.

The driver of the tractor, Millard Clifton Smith, 69, of R 3, was treated at Whitley County Hospital for fractured ribs and released. The injuries were suffered when he was thrown from the tractor during the collision.

The driver of the car, John Francis Wolter, 16, of Albion, Mich., was uninjured.

According to Trooper Wayne Reese of the Indiana State Police, both Smith and Wolter were driving their vehicles south on the state highway. Wolter was starting to pass the tractor at the bottom of a hill and swerved back when he saw a vehicle approaching from the south. In swerving, he struck the rear of the tractor.

Smith, who was driving the tractor with a side-mounted mower owned by the County Highway Department, told Reese that he was traveling at a speed of about eight miles per hour at the time of the accident.

Reese said that the pavement was still slick from an earlier rain.

Marilyn Wilson Is Given English Club Award At Indiana College

Marilyn Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Absalom Wilson of R 2, Pierceton, received the English Club's $10 award at Indiana Central College at the honor day convocation before the close of school last month.

Miss Wilson is a freshman at the college. She is a 1954 graduate of Larwill high school, where she was valedictorian of her class.

Churubusco Woman Asks Clear Title To Lots

A complaint to quiet title to real estate was filed in Whitley County circuit court by Mary E. Pusey, Churubusco, against Ward Ketcham, C. W. G. Hannah and Sophia Hannah, their heirs or other interested parties.

The plaintiff is seeking to clear a title to lots 16, 17, and 18 in Edgewood Addition of Churubusco. She charges that the defendants claim an interest and hold liens on the property.

In instituting the suit, she claims that the public records on real estate in the county disclose certain breaks or ommissions in the record of title for the Churubusco lots.

Rain Pours On Parts Of County, Animal Killed

Cloudbursts Spotty, Lightning Kills Bull

Severe showers fell on parts of Whitley county Thursday afternoon, soaking some areas with as much as two and one-half inches of water, while other parts received no rain and were left as dry as they were before.

Heavy thunder showers were reported in the Tri Lakes and Big Lake areas and between Wolf Lake and Churubusco, while farmers east of Collins were not interrupted with their hay making. After the rains had passed over the Larwill area also was still as dusty as before the clouds began to appear in the sky.

During the storm north of this city, one instance of lightning killing a bull in the pasture field was reported. A Holstein bull was killed on the Elmer Lauer farm, better known as the old Adams Farm, west of Cresco. Nobody actually saw the lightning hit the animal, but a neighbor, Gene Ross, reported seeing the cattle scampering across the field following a loud clap of thunder.

Residents at Big Cedar Lake estimated that two and one-half inches of water drenched that area in about two hours' time.

The rains appeared to be of the same nature over the entire midwest, as travelers through here mentioned "cloudbursts" in some spots and no rain at all short distances away.

In this city Main street east of the Courthouse appeared to have been soaked by flushing the water hydrants, while only a couple blocks on south, at the Blue River bridge, the street was dry.

600,000 USW Members Had Shut Down Steel Mills Across Nation

By J. ROBERT SHUBERT
United Press Staff CorresPondent

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The CIO United Steelworkers and U.S. Steel Corp reached a strike-ending agreement today on a wage offer averaging more than 15-cents an hour.

The agreement came less than 12 hours after 600000 USW members shutdown the nation's steel mills.

The offer included an 11½ cents an hour across the board increase, plus ½ cent increases in increments for 32 job classifications.

The new wage scales were made effective as of today.

The increase boosted the average wages of steelworkers to more than $2.38 an hour.

Other companies in the industry were virtually certain to write similar agreements with the union, and the industry was sure to announce price increases on its products in a few days.

U.S. Steel President Clifford Hood directed the mills of his company, the largest steel producer in the country, to begin preparations at one to get back into full production.

Both Sides Concede

Hood said both sides made concessions to reach the agreement.

Steelworkers across the nation closed down the mills last midnight. But the less than half-day shutdown cost the steel companies, who had been running at virtual capacity, millions of dollars in lost production.

USW President David J. McDonald said he believed the agreement with U.S. Steel "will provide a basis for concluding mutually satisfactory agreements between the USW and the basic steel companies."

The union opened negotiations June 7 with 96 basic steel and iron ore firms whose contract wage provisions ran out at midnight Thursday.

The walkout idled 600,009 men, two-thirds of whom are employed by the six top producers having contracts with the USW. In addition to U.S. Steel, they include Bethlehem, Republic, Jones & Laughlin, Youngstown Sheet & Tube and Inland Steel.

The neggotiations covered wage rates only. All other provisions in the current contracts, signed a year ago, run until June 30, 1956 when the USW will make the guaranteed annual wage a main contract issue.

Annual Wage Next

The steelworkers were expected to go after guaranteed annual wage provisions next year similar to those won by the CIO United Auto Workers earlier this month. In addition to a form of GAW the auto workers won a 6-cent, or 2½ per cent hourly pay raise, whichever was higher; a cost-of-living clause boosting wages one cent an hour for each half-point rise in the cost-of-living index; bigger pensions and better insurance provisions, triple time holiday pay and a seventh annual paid holiday.

New wage scales in the steel industry will range from a minimum of .68½ to a top of 3.54½. Increases ranged from the minimum 11½ cents to a top of 27 cents an hour.

McDonald made preparations immediately to contact other members of the "Big Six" groups — plus Great Lakes Steel Corp, Wheeling Steel, and Crucible Seel. Their negotiators were standing by to arrange for their contracts.

Even as the strike ending agreement was being announced, smaller producers jumped on the bandwagon. Pittsburgh Steel Co. called the union to ask that it be allowed to sign its contract today.

Hodd said his company probably would announce price increases early next week. The increase was expected to be at least $4.50 to $6.50 a ton. The industry's "composite" price of steel now averages about $95.

Tells Cheering Union

McDonald and Stephens came up with the agreement after bargaining in almost continuous session inc about 8 a.m. Thursday. The negotiating teams were locked in conference when the walkout began and McDonald and Stephens did not part until 3:30 a.m.—When they reached "an agreement to get

Fourth Of July Fireworks Here Monday, Various Parking Facilities Are Given

Robert Erdmann, chairman of the Fourth of July fireworks display for American Legion Post 98, states that everything is in readiness for next Monday night.

Erdmann emphasized that although the display is one of the projects of Post 98, it is a community-wide event and would be virtually impossible without financial support given by business firms, industries and individual contributions throughout the entire county.

Recalls Accidents

Erdmann recalled how it was nothing unusual in past years before fireworks were declared illegal in Indiana, for families to spend upwards of $5.00 or more for fireworks. Also each year there would be stories relating the tragic results of someone's carelessness. The loss of an eye or finger, or burns were all too often results of the 4th celebration at that time.

Today with supervised displays thousands of persons can safely enjoy the Fourth as attested each year by several thousand who throng the DeVol Athletic Field, the parking areas, and the highways to view the local display.

Baseball Games

Following several Little League baseball games at the athletic field, the fireworks display will get underway at approximately 9 p.m., Erdmann said. Games will be called or postponed as soon as darkness has come, he said, and the display will then get underway.

Walk if Possible

Adrian Scott, chairman of parking for Post 98, has requested all local persons who possibly can to either park uptown or leave cars at home and walk to the DeVol Field. Those walking from the north section of town should cross Van Buren street uptown at a stoplight to avoid crossing heavily congested U.S. 30 near the field. Or better still, he said, use the underpass by walking through Baker Memorial Park.

Parking Lots

Parking lots available are at the American Legion Home, the city parking lot, the trangular lot just off 30 at the top of the athletic field, Eyanson lot, Happy Valley Skating Rink lot and the Columbia Products lot.

Only access to the Eyanson lot, Scott said, is through the alley parallel to Market street, with entrance off South Oak street.

The athletic field parking area will be utilized only for the shut-ins whose physical condition makes it impossible for them to walk, Scott added.

City police, the Sheriff's department, state police, and city firemen will direct the anticipated heavy traffic along U.S. 30 and other heavily traveled routes through Columbia City.

Asks For Legionnaires

Commander Edwin Pugh of Post 98 has requested all Legionnaires who can assist at the various lots to meet at the Legion Home 6:30 p.m. Monday.

Fireworks Fund Goes Over Top With Total Of $665

An additional $195 turned in today made the goal over the top for this year's fireworks. Robert Erdmann general chairman for Post 98, stated that any surplus money received this year will start off next year's fireworks fund, as the contract has already been signed for $650.00.

CONGRESS, JULY 4, 1776

When in the Course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed. That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shewn, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security.

Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former Systems of Government.

Here follows thirty paragraphs covering the repeated injuries and usurpations all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute tyranny over these States.

"We therefore, the Representatives of the United States of America, in General Congress assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the name and by the authority of the good people of these colonies solemnly publish and declare that these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, Free And Independent States that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain is, and ought to be, totally dissolved; and that as free and independent states they have full power to levy war, conclude peace, contract alliances, establish commerce, and do all other acts and things which independent States may of right do. And for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor."

This Declaration was signed by John Hancock as President of the Congress and by 55 delegates from the states of Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Maryland, Virginia, Pennsylvania, Delaware, New York, New Jersey, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and Connecticut, in that order.

Tri-Lakes Minister, Family Welcomed By The Community

The Rev. Dan McQuire, new pastor for the Tri-Lakes Interdenominational Church, and his family were welcomed to the community by about 40 of its residents Tuesday. The affair was a pantry shower.

The Rev. McGuire was graduated from the Philadelphia Bible College. Village Missions, sponsored by the Christian Business and Professional Women, are responsible for securing the pastor.

He extends a welcome for visitors to attend any Sunday or Wednesday evening service.

Rev. Fox To Preach In Larwill Sunday

The Rev. Fred Fox, son of Sam Fox of near Larwill, will be a guest minister at the 9:30 service at the Methodist Church in Larwill Sunday. The announcement was made by the Rev. Walter Meecham, pastor of the church.

The Rev. Fox, formerly of Andover, N. H., is en route to his new home in Washington.

Washington Center Bible School Ends; Sunday Set For Achievement Program

An enrollment of 101 persons, with an average attendance of 80 persons was reported at the end of the Washington Center Community Daily Vacation Bible School [illegible].

The two-week school was sponsored by the Sugar Creek Church of the Brethren and the Washington Center Evangelical United Brethren Church.

HOSE HAZARD

MONTVILLE, Conn. — (UP) — Firemen fighting a house blaze were hard pressed for water. They discovered a nearby pond and unrolled their lines across railroad tracks and began pumping. Minutes later a freight train passed and cut the hose. The house burned down.

Fewer Polio Cases Reported So Far Than In Year 1954

WASHINGTON (UP)—The U.S. Public Health Service said today that fewer polio cases have been reported this year than in the comparable period of 1954.

The service said that [illegible] cases have been reported since Jan. 1 as compared with 4,135 in the same period of 1954. Since the beginning of the disease year April 1, there have been 2,314 cases reported as compared with 2,582 last year.

The service said that 277 new cases were reported in the week ending June 25 as compared with 265 in the [illegible] week. However this number was well below the 495 cases reported in the corresponding week of last year and the five-year (1950-54) median figure of 419.

The service said a total of 174 cases have been reported among vaccinated persons, 107 paralytic and 67 non-paralytic.

It said there were 141 "family contact" cases reported, 107 para-

Peggy Ann Mallon Becomes Bride Of Jerry Lagel In Cermony Read In Grace Chuich

The Rev. Graham L. Kleespie received the marriage vows Friday evening at 7:30 of Miss Peggy Ann Mallon and Jerry L. Yagel of Union township, in Grace Lutheran church.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Vera Bryarly of near this city and Mrs. Ross Smith of near this city is the mother of the bridegroom.

Mrss Mary Dowell presented a half hour musical before the ceremoney read in the presence of 150 guests. White gladiolus, painted daisies and palms decorated the altar and white bows marked the family pews.

The bride chose the traditional white in lace and net over satin. The pretty gown was styled with a lace bolero. Her finger tip veil fell from a half hat embroidered with pearls and she carried a colonial bouquet of red roses. The bride was given in marriage by Harry Maynes.

Her maid of honor, Miss Priscilla Burke of Arcola, was in an orchid gown fashioned like that of the bride. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses. Norman Smith served Mr. Yagel as best man.

The bride's mother chose a blue ensemble for her daughter's wedding and the bridegroom's mother chose a lavender afternoon dress. Both mothers wore white orchids.

Reception At The Church

The guests were received in the church parlors after the ceremony. From a prettily appointed table, punch was served with the bride's cake. Mrs. Olin Dailey of LaPorte and Miss Melba Schrader, Miss Jocelyn Diebold, Miss Shirley Middleton and Miss Bety Wherry of Coesse, and Mrs. Lee Krieg and Mrs. Robert Krider served.

White candles burned on either side of the bride's cake decorated with pink roses and flanked on either side by white roses.

The couple are on a undisclosed honeymoon trip and later will reside in Fort Wayne where the bridegroom is employed by the International Harvestor Company.

Mr. Yagel is a graduate of Coesse high school and his bride attended school there.

Guests From Dis ice

Among the guests e those from LaPorte, Miles, ch., Ligonier, Angola, Fort Wa e, Huntington, and Springfield, ass.

FREED BY SHERMAN—Matt Carter, former slave, is 103 years old, but his memory is still vivid enough for him to describe the Civil War days when he was freed by Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman during the Union leader's march to the sea. The Columbus, Ohio, centenarian lived on a plantation near Phenix City, Ala., then. He was the property of a Doctor Ingersaw, who bought him for $500.

"Help Wanted" By Summer Hostess

VACATION days set a happy mood to most summer weekends — with July 4th at the tip-top.

Following the holiday spirit, visitors are likely to show up on your doorstep any Saturday or Sunday. What fun to see folks from just down the road . . . as well as travelers from across the country. Pull up a chair everybody! Talk begins to fly.

Need Food Fast

Food sounds the call to take a break from the "talk-athon." Then it's up to you, Mrs. Hostess, to bring out a party meal, jet propelled.

Trust to those ever-faithful helpers, the refrigerator and the canned-foods shelf. In the refrigerator is the rosy tomato salad you made day before. It's a good-keeper of tomato soup, gelatin, and lots of crunchy vegetables.

Team Beans, Meat

Reach to your canned-foods corner for pork and beans (to lend the hot, hearty touch); luncheon meat (to slice and frizzle for bean topper); plus Boston brown bread.

An ice-cold melon, with strawberries, tastes good later. Pass angel cake with it.

Holiday Tomato Salad
(Star-garnished for 4th of July)

- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatine
- 1 cup cold water
- 1 can (1¼ cups) condensed tomato soup
- ½ cup diced celery
- ¼ cup diced green pepper
- 1 tablespoon minced onion
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
- ½ cup diced cucumber

Soften gelatine in cold water; place container in pan of boiling water until gelatine dissolves. Blend gelatine with remaining ingredients. Prepare a 1-quart mold (or 6 individual molds) by rinsing with salad oil; this makes it much easier to slip salad out of mold when it's firm. Pour in salad mixture. Chill until firm. Unmold.

NOTE: For July 4th parties, shape the salad as a star or loaf. Garnish with stars cut from cucumber slices.

Keep Makings for Beef-Wiches: Hot beef sandwiches with oodles of brown gravy look like party fare anytime. Always keep ingredients on hand in case a party comes up. Just a can of beef gravy and a package of frozen minute steaks are needed. Brown steaks in butter and place them on toast; then heat gravy in same skillet. Ladle it liberally over each sandwich.

TRANSIT STRIKE CRIPPLES CAPITAL—Street-car tracks form emergency parking areas in the nation's capital and thousands of extra cars jam the streets as Capital Transit Company employes go on strike for arbitration of a wage dispute.

DOUBLING PRODUCTION—This 2-year-old White Rock hen may be a little surprised herself as she contemplates her odd egg production. In the past two months, she has laid nine large eggs like the one at right. Each contained a yolk and a regular-sized egg inside. Large egg is 9 inches around the long way and weighs 9 ounces. Normal egg, from one of the other giants, measures 6½ inches and weighs 2½ ounces. Hen is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lubke of Michigan City, Ind.

DANCING DUO—Setsuko Tatewaki (front) and Tsukiko Akashi, both 21, rest up after dancing practice in Tokyo. Members of a touring revue, they wowed 'em in southeast Asian countries with their Japanese version of the mambo.

Triplets, Almost Born In Plane, Doing Fine

NEW YORK (UP) —Mrs. Gordon Keith, who gave birth to triplets in Gander, Newfoundland last week, left by plane today for her home in Windom, Minn., accompanied by her husband and their two other children.

Before boarding a plane for Minneapolis Mrs. Keith said the girl triplets would remain in Saint Johns, Nfld., at a U.S. Air Force hospital until they are able to travel.

Mrs. Keith was returning from Oslo, Norway abroad a Scandinavien airliner when the babies gave indication of arriving. The pilot of the plane hastily headed for Gander where the babies were born a few hours after Mrs. Keith was taken off the plane.

The petite brunette, her husband and their two other children, Bruce 14 months old and Tordis, three years, arrived from Gander this morning.

omers, tra Base Hits Rattle Off Dodger Bats As On Assembly Line, Bunt Has Place

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer

Home runs and extra base hits rattle off Brooklyn bats almost on an assembly line basis, but the humble little bunt, sneered at by sluggers, is as big a factor in the Dodger pennant runaway as any other.

In fact it would hardly be amiss to say that the Dodgers are bunting their way to the bunting.

In their shining 6-5 victory over the Giants in 11 innings Thursday, four bunts, each deftly delivered on the first pitch, meant more than a two-run homer by Willie Mays which looked as if it would win the game for the Giants in the 10th.

On each occasion the Dodgers were desperate — facing sudden death defeat. In the last of the ninth, trailing 3-2, after Sandy Amoros and Gil Hodges singled, Carl Furillo, who is not noted for his bunting ability laid down a sacrifice on the first pitch. Dixie Howell, rushed into the lineup for the first time this year because both Roy Campanella and Rube Walker were hurt, followed with a sacrifice fly that tied it up at 3-3.

Finessed Into A Tie

After Al Dark singled and Mays hit his 20th homer and his third of the series to put New York in front, 5-3, in the 10th, the Dodgers again finessed themselves into a tie. Jim Gilliam led off with a bunt single which hog-tied the Giant infeld. Duke Snider tripled him home and Jackie Robinson slapped down a perfect squeeze to the first base side to tie it at 5-5.

The winning rally was achieved in the 11th when Ramon Monzant, sixth Giant pitcher, walked Furillo to hotten the water. Howell came through again with a sacrifice bunt within easy delivery distance of home plate on pinch-hitter George Shuba's bounding single througgh the middle.

The victory was especially significant because of the showing of the Brooklyn bench, Howell coming through after Walker was injured in a collision at home plate and Shuba's bounding single through from being sent to the minors when the Dodgers bring up talent to replace men on the injury list. The Brooks now are 13 games in front of second place Milwaukee, 13½ ahead of the Cubs and 18 to the good of fourth place Cincinnati. The Giants in fifth, 18½ games in arrears, seem hopelessly out of it.

Braves Regain Second

The Braves regained second place in the only other National League game, coming from behind to defeat the Cubs, 7-4, with four runs in the eighth set up on an error by Randy Jackson, Joe Adcock hit a two-run homer for the winning blow. Del Crandall also homered for Milwaukee. Jackson and Harry Chiti homered for the losers.

In the American League, Detroit made it three in a row over Chicago with a 4-3 squeaker and Washington ended Boston's five game winning streak 3-2, in the only games scheduled.

Ray Boone drove in three Detroit runs with a homer and a single. Steve Gromek pitched a seven-hitter for his eighth victory, yielding one damaging blow, a two run homer by Minnie Minoso.

Washington called on veteran Spec Shea to strike out young Norman Zauchin on four pitches with the bases loaded in the ninth and thus save Ted Abernathy's first big league victory. Johnny Groth drove in two of Washington's runs with a triple and squeeze bunt.

Three-Way Fight For Decathlon Title Is Looming

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind. (UP) —A three-way fight for the National AAU decathlon championship, track and fields most grueling gcontest, loomed today as the ling contest, loomed today as the opened at Wabash College.

A field of 32, the largest in history, was poised for the two-day show at Ingalls Field.

Defending champion Rev. Bob Richards, the polevaulting parson representing the Los Angeles Athletic Club, along with 20-year-old Southern California freshman Bob Lawson and Joel W. Shankle of Duke were tabbed as the all-around athletes to beat.

Richards, who has vaulted 15 feet or better more than 30 times, won in 1951 and at Atlantic City, N.J., last year with 6,501 points. He may have to do better than that this time for Lawson whipped him in the recent Southern Pacific Coast meet by 78 points.

The program includes four running events and six field events. Scheduled for today were the 100 meters, broad jump, shot put, high jump and 400 meters.

The meet will be concluded Saturday with the 110 meter hurdles, discus throw, pole vault, javelin throw, and the tough "metric mile" the 1500-meters.

X-Rays On Al Walker's Shoulder Show Negative

BROOKLYN (UP) —The injury-riddled Brooklyn Dodgers finally won a photo finish today—X-rays on catcher Al Walker's bruised left shoulder showed negative and he will be back in the lineup in a day or so.

Walker suffered the injury in a collision at home plate when he tagged out Willie Mays in the Dodger victory over the Giants Thursday. He was carried off the field in considerable pain Dr. Harold Wendler, the Dodger trainer, made a preliminary examination and said he thought Walker might be out some time.

Until Walker is in shape to play again, third stringer Dixie Howell, who has been the chief bullpen catcher, will take over the mask and pads.

Meanwhile, Roy Campanella, who had clinched the job as the National League catcher in the All-Star game at Milwaukee, rested comfortable, tryingg to get his injured knee in shape without surgery. He has a loose spur from a previous injury floating in his kneecap, and his doctors have prescribed rest.

Red Holzman Will Coach St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (UP)—William (Red) Holzman former City College of New York court star, has been named to coach the St. Louis Hawks of the National Basketball Association for the second straight year. The Hawks are scheduled to open their training at Concordia Seminary here on Oct. 1.

Pirates, Orioles Are Not The Worst Teams In Baseball

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)— Captain Kidd and the most near-sighted member of the International Bird-Watching Society never had it so tough as the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Baltimore Orioles — but they aren't the worst teams in baseball.

Kidd wound up all by himself in chains but there are 25 of the modern-day Pirates in the National League dungeon. And a bird-watcher who needs the help of an oculist isn't nearly as bad off as 25 birds without wings, the grounded Orioles of Baltimore.

Still, although it's hard to conceive, there are teams in worse shape.

As example, the Pirates were 29 games back of the league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers, as of Thursday, while the Orioles' .286 percentage was the worst in the major leagues. Maybe it will come as something of a consolation to their fans to learn that at last report Channel City was 30½ games back of the lead in the California League and Hornell of the Pony League had a .220 percentage.

Not "Number Five"

Channel, obviously not "number five," thus had the longest margin of any team in organized baseball separating it from first place. Yet it's percentage of .254 wasn't the worst, either.

The dubious distinction went to Hornell's .220, although the game's lowest such mark left the club "only" 28 games behind league-leading Hamilton. Giving chase downward were "Les Mineurs' of Thetford Mines, a club whose .239 percentage had it in a deep hole in Canadas Provincial League. Still, the Miners were only 22½ games behind pace-setting Quebec.

Even in the upper minor leagues there were clubs with more than their share of trouble. Consider Little Rock of the Southern Association. The Travelers, who weren't, had a .272 performance to their woe this season which left them 26 games back of the Memphis Chicks.

Brooklyn Has Competitors

Brooklyn, floating along a rough dozen lengths on top in the National League with a .729 percentage as of Thursday, was the winningest team in baseball— but had its competitors.

That percentage figure was well below the .780 mark of the Hamilton Cardinals, who managed only a 10-game lead over second place even at that pace.

Quebec, the Provincial League leader, was in a first place dogfight despite its .723 pace .But Cananea, Mexico, of the Arizona-Mexico League, had jumped into an 11½ game lead over second place Phoenix.

It is interesting that the world champion New York Giants ,badly off their feed, trained at Phoenix, where the "Stars" are having such a rough time of it. Either it is catching or the new Phoenix theme song is "Are The Stars Out Tonight?"

Another big winner is Corpus Christi of the Big State League. The "Clippers," with a .710 pace, are 11 games to the good over second place Port Arthur.

All of which proves that the Dodgers shouldn't get too cocky because, class for class, they aren't in a class by themselves. And it should provide evidence that things can get worse than they are in Pittsburgh and Baltimore, believe it or not.

New Boxing Code Sought By Governor Of Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UP)—Gov. George M. Leader said today the Pennsylvania Legislature will be asked to approve a new boxing code after a current investigation of the sport is completed. The investigation stemmed from a fight between Harold Johnson and Julio Mederos last month in which Johnson collapsed on his stool after the second round.

Day-Dreaming Is Not For The Motorist

CHICAGO — (UP) Day-dreaming behind a wheel often steers a driver to eternal sleep.

That's the opinion of safety experts for the Kemper group of insurance companies after studying 10,000 accident reports of drivers involved in mishaps for which they claim they have no explanation. Day-dreaming while driving is directly responsible for 16 per cent of accidents and a contributory factor to many others, the study revealed.

Ted Gray Signed By New York Yankees

NEW YORK (UP) —Lefty Ted Gray, twice cast adrift by American League teams this season, hoped for the magic of the pin-striped Yankee uniform today to make him an effective pitcher once again.

Gray was signed by the Yankees as a free agent Thursday to replace Bob Grim, last year's rookie of the year, who is suffering from a sore elbow and was placed on the disabled list.

Apparently it was a "last chance" assignment for chronically sore-armed Gray, who was given his unconditional release by the Cleveland Indians last Friday after all other clubs waived on his services. The Indians signed him on June 15 and he worked twice in relief for them, showing little each time.

Tony Trabert Gains Major Goal; Wins At Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (UP) — Top-seeded Tony Trabert of Cincinnati achieved the first major goal, on his 1955 tennis program today when he won the men's singles title at the Wimbledon championships with a 6-3, 7-5, 6-1 victory over Denmark's Kurt Nielsen.

Trabert becomes the seventh U.S. player to capture the symbol of world amateur tennis supremacy in 10 renewals since World War II.

But Trabert hopes to use the title as a stepping stone to more concrete gains. He hopes to go on to regain the U.S. crown and successfully defend the Davis Cup in a campaign to gain a rich professional contract.

Trabert is one of the hardest servers in amateur tennis but he crossed up Nielsen by serving slow spin serves which kept the Dane from getting the most out of his power game. Tony backed his service guile with brilliant net play. He anticipated Nielsen's shots and unleashed a shower of accurate volleys to befuddle the mustachioed Dane.

It took him just 73 minutes to win the title.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

Notice is hereby given by the Board of Public Works & Safety of the City of Columbia City, Indiana, that sealed bids will be received by said Board in its office in the City Hall until 8:00 o'clock P.M. on July 12, 1955 for the installation of a new roof on the City Hall as follows:

All roofing and flashings to be removed and deck cleaned thoroughly. Loose boards renailed and rotted sheathing replaced where necessary. The deck to be covered with one (1) inch thick insulating board which meets Federal Specifications LLL-F32lb.

Apply a 20 year bonded type 5 ply roof consisting of 2 - 15 lb. felts nailed over rosin paper and 3 - 15 lb. felts mopped solidly together with a finish surface of slag or gravel imbedded in hot pitch.

Build up valleys to drain to sumps, remove flag pole base to roof line on east wall, furnish copper vent flanges for soil pipes, reset vants and drains, and furnish copper metal cap flashings. Clean coping joints and reseal with caulking compound. Coat exposed brickwork on inside of parapet walls with one (1) coat primer and one (1) coat asphalt coating.

Successful bidder to furnish insurance policy insuring the City of Columbia City, Indiana, from all damage that might occur during the completion of this work, said insurance to be in a sum sufficient to cover any and all damage. Said successful bidder to furnish adequate policies of Workman's Compensation and Public Liability Insurance. Said successful bidder must furnish a surety bond guaranty for twenty (20) years from date of completion of roof which he must record at the Whitley County Recorders Office.

Successful bidder must also present a signed Affidavit that work will be started on or before July 30, 1955, and completed on or before October 1, 1955.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check payable to the order of Franklin Dillman, City Clerk-Treasurer of the City of Columbia City in an amount equal to 10 per cent of the bid price. The City reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Booming Auto Industry Finishes First Half Of Year With 7 Million Output Likely

By REY W. BRUNE
United Press Staff Correspondent

DETROIT (UP)— The booming automobile industry whose activity is one of the best pulses of the nations economy, finished up the first half of 1955 today with the biggest year in its history—the first 7-million-car year on record—almost assured.

The fear that many had earlier in the year that the keystone industry wouldn't keep up its rapid early pace was all but gone.

The only possible trouble in sight appeared to be the threat of a steel strike. A prolonged strike could shut down the entire industry eventually. Within a week or two the first effects could be felt, although some producers like Chrysler said they had a "normal" 45-day stockpile of steel on hand. The general feeling in the industry however was that a steel strike would be averted.

Production was expected to be down for the three-month quarter starting tomorrow, as the industry prepared for model clean-up and introduction of new models. But the "slack quarter" will be one which would have looked like a rip-roaring production period in any other year.

Only Twice Before

With sales still booming at record rates, production is scheduled to slacken to only a 1½ million mark for the July - August - September summer months while the industry finishes selling 1955's and readies plans for 1956.

But 1½ million cars for a quarter is turning them out at a better than a 6 million cars a year mark. Only twice before in history—in 1950 and 1953—have more than 6 million cars been turned out in a year. The record of 6,674,933 in 1950 was expected to be left far behind by December 31 this year.

Already between 4,200,000 and 4,300,000 cars have been produced this year. The third-quarter output will raise this to about 5,800,000.

FARMERS —

You have only a few days left to supply the necessary nitrogen to your corn fields in order to obtain higher yields for the work and expense you already have invested.

Have your corn plants, tissue tested to show whether or not they are already starved to some degree for this vital plant food. THE NEW PLANT TISSUE TEST will show you in just one minute the actual condition of your corn ---- and most fields came thru the winter very short of NITROGEN because of weather conditions.

Use Anhydrous ammonia for this purpose.

Mrs. George Wilson Dies Early Today In Local Hospital

Had Been Ill For The Past 10 Years

Mrs. Thelma Carolyn Wilson, 54, wife of George Wilson of Union township, died at 1:42 today at Whitley County Hospital where she had been a patient since Tuesday afternoon. She had been in ill health for the past 10 years.

Born in Union township to James and Josephine Kinsey Tucker November 3, 1900, Mrs. Wilson spent her life in the township where she was born with the exception of a short time in 1924 she spent in Chicago. Prior to her marriage Mrs. Wilson was employed by the General Electric Company in Fort Wayne. Her marriage to Mr. Wilson occurred May 22, 1922.

The husband survives also one son, Phillip G. Wilson, Union township and three daughters, Mrs. Sam Flannery, Cincinnati, O., Mrs. C. P. Hoover, Hawaii now on her way from Washington D.C. and M Ralph Wall, Union township.

The surviving brothers and sisters are Charles Tucker, Stuart, Fla., James and Garth Tucker, Union township; Clyde Tucker, Arcola; Mrs. Thomas Perry, Mrs. Wave A. Cook, Columbia City, and Mrs. Robert Briggs, Coesse.

Mrs. Wilson was a member of the Lutheran church at Coesse and the Order of Eastern Star in this city. Friends will be received at the J. A. DeMoney and Son Funeral Home after 7 o'clock tonight. At 8 o'clock Saturday evening Twilight services will be held at the funeral home by the Order of Eastern Star.

At noon Sunday the body will be taken to the Coesse church where it will lie in state until the funeral service to be held at 2 o'clock, the Rev. G. L. Kleespie officiating. Burial will be in Coesse Lutheran cemetery.

The family requests that no flowers be sent, but contributions be made to the heart fund.

Memorial services were held from the chapel of the J. A. DeMoney and Son Funeral Home Thursday afternoon for Mrs. Delpha Mae Borkert. The Rev. Russell E. Vance, pastor of the Calvary EUB Church, Fort Wayne, and the Rev. W. Lynn Henry, officiated at the services. Members of the Northern Indiana Conference of the EUB church attended the rites.

The Rev. Edward M. Cornelius, pastor of the St. James EUB Church, Peru, sang, "Good Night and Good Morning." His organ accompaniement and the brief prelude and postlude were played by Mrs. Cornelius. Members of the local EUB church who served as pallbearers were Lawrence Wolfe, Jr., Lewis Blanchard, Willard Charles Wolfe, Benjamin Herr, Phillips and Harry Prumm.

The committal services were held in South Park Cemetery.

Explorer Scout On European Tour

McGUIRE AIR FORCE BASE, N. J. (UP)—David A. Riggs, Evansville, Ind., was one of 16 Explorer Scouts who left with three leaders Thursday on a Military Air Transport Service plane for a 5-week tour of Europe.

The Scouts were selected for their leadership qualities. The visit was arranged in exchange for a group of Eruopean scouts who arrived June 19 in this country for a 5-week visit.

Husband Arrested In Wife Shooting

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) —Mrs. Mary Ruth Jackson 37, was shot and wounded today with a pistol and police arrested her husband, Oscar, 72, on charges of assault and battery with intent to kill.

State Police said the shooting apparently followed an argument at their home near Bridgeport. Jackson was held under $2,500 bond for trial July 6.

Mrs. Jackson was reported in "not serious" condition at General Hospital.

Shot Whizzes From Blazing Boxes Of Shotgun Shells

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UP)—Shot from a stack of boxes containing shotgun shells whizzed around firement Wednesday night as they fought flames in an apartment.

Robert Stoner, who lived there, said he had a supply of shells in a closet where the fire started.

CIO - Steel

theyt reached "an agreement to get a little sleep."

But as it turned out, the U.S. Steel offer was in its virtual final form, and the two men met for 50 minutes at 9:30 a.m. to put on the finishing touches.

Then McDonald left the conference hotel, walked across the street to the hotel where his wage-policy committee and union executive board waited in anticipation. He announced the agreement to the cheering union group of more than 170 men and the vote on the proposal came about 15 minutes later.

The first agreement was for all U.S. Steel Corp. divisions and covered 150,000 production and maintenance employes of U.S. Steel Co. and its divisions of American Steel and Wire, Columbia, Geneva Steel National Tube, and Tennessee Coal and Iron.

The 11-hour strike idled the mills of most of the nations basic producers and cut off 90 per cent of the nation's steel productino at a time when mills were running a virtual capacity production and scrambling to meet order backlogs.

By the time it started it had cos the industry an estimated 300000 tons of basic steel and the loss could mount to one million tons before full scale operations begin.

Industry sources had estimated that the strike would cost $12,800,000 a day — including about $10,800,000 in wages and $2,000,000 in profits.

Some 600,000 members of the CIO union began the strike officially at one minute after midnight today at a signal from union chieftains that no wage agreement had yet been reached.

Most Costly Steel Strike

The tieup, which threatened to be the most costly in the history of the steel industry in daily production loss, started exactly on deadline time under the union's "no contract, no work" policy.

Labor and management were believed only a few cents apart in the negotiations at the time their top leaders separated this morning. Steelworkers averaged $2.23 an hour. Management offered a 10-cent hourly raise and announced it would be willing to boost that offer somewhat if labor would also make some concessions in its demands.

Labor originally sought a settlement approximating the 20-cent-an-hour package won recently by the CIO United Auto Workers from major automobile manufacturing firms.

U.S. Steel, according to most recent reports, was prepared to increase its 10-cents-an-hour wage boost offer to perhaps as much as 13½ cents. A reduction, if any, in the union's demands was not made known.

At the time Stephens and McDonald adjourned their bargaining sessions, McDonald promised both would "strive diligently, if not more so, to reach an agreement."

Both Sides Work Hard

"We did not want this strike,' he said. "We tried to avoid it. It is here now. I will give everything I've got to reach an agreement." But the union president would not say whether he was optimistic about a settlement.

Stephens said "both sides feel the seriousness that would result from a steel strike and the hardhip that may be involved with regard to the men and their families.

"We all feel that honest and sincere men should work diligently to avoid the catastrophe that a steel strike will entail, so we'll be back here tomorrow (Friday) morning at 9:30."

The walkout broke one of the greatest periods of production in steel history. Recent multi-million dollar expansion programs have boosted steel production to record heights. Mills had been scheduled to turn out 2,300,000 tons of steel this week, about 96 per cent of capacity.

Steel fabricators will be hit hard by the immediate effects of the walkout. The gigantic automobile industry, which uses about one-fourth of all steel produced, reported sufficient stockpiles to ward off immediate strike effects but if the tie-up continues it would suffer severely.

An estimated one million workers were expected to be laidoff in a number of industries depending on steel supplies if the strike continued for very many days.

Strike Starts In Pittsburgh

The midnight strike began in Pittsburgh with a parade of pickets who took up their posts at U.S. Steel's huge Homestead, Pa., works. It spread quickly. Within minutes pickets were reported at half a dozen plants along the Eastern seaboard. Then the strike call pushed westward. In three hours, when clocks reached midnight on the Pacific Coast, pickets appeared there, at the Pittsburg, Calif. steel plant. The nation's steel production had been frozen except for a handful of small mills which continued to operate under other contracts.

"As far as U.S. Steel is concerned the strike is on," said a representative of the company a few minutes after midnight.

A striker at Big Steel's Homestead mill took up his picket post and commented: "Nobody here wants a strike."

But another added: "We follow the leaders and will do what they say."

Gene Maurice, district director of Pennsylvania's Monongahela Valley, one of the top steel producing areas, said all mills in that district were "down tight."

"They'll stay that way until we get a contract. My men are standing by waiting for word."

Mills Prepared For Strike

Most steel mills had prepared for the walkout at least 72 hours in advance. Furnaces had been banked; production had been slowed to a trickle. The advance preparations were necessary to prevent damage to costly furnaces and equipment.

But this preparation for a shutdown alone had cost many tons of production and was already being felt.

A few steel plants closed before the midnight strike deadline in anticipation of the event.

Pickets appeared with signs late Thursday at two Pittsburgh mills of Jones & Laughlin Steel Co., the fourth largest producer in the nation. U.S. Steel laid off 10,000 workers at its Chicago area mills Thursday afternoon. Some 1,300 workers at an Ansonia, Conn., iron casting plant struck hours ahead of the official termination of the old contract's wage clause. Production lines at U.S. Steel's Homestead, Pa., mill ended some eight hours before the strike began and about 3,000 of the plant's 8,000 workers were turned away from the gates.

Today's strike ended three years of labor peace in the steel industry. The last steel strike, in 1952, lasted 54 days. It reduced production that year by an estimated 18 million tons and cost the steel industry some 450 million dollars. About one million workers in related industries were ultimately affected before a settlement was reached.

City Orders Covered Walk Around Bank During Remodeling

The city issued a notice Thursday to Gerald "Dufty" Phend, contractor for the remodeling work at the Citizens State Bank, that no more such work is to be done on the building until a covered "walk-around" platform erected to protect passing pedestrians.

The notice was directed to Phend and copies were sent to Forrest M. Orr, president of the bank. The notice was signed by Mayor Thos. H. Hood and attested by Franklin Dillman, city clerk.

The bank is presently having remodeling work done to the south outside wall of its building. Plans also include remodeling of the outside west wall of the building.

The notice specifies that the "walk-around" must be covered with a roof, have guard rails, and a platform even with the sidewalk with no steps, and the walk must be kept clear at all times for pedestrians. The notice also states that "the same 'walk-around' will be required on the west side when work begins there."

The ordering of the covered platform is for the protection of pedestrians, walking past the sides of the building being remodeled, from falling bricks and the danger of any equipment being used in the work.

Several complaints have been received by the city concerning the danger to pedestrians in the vicinity of the walls being torn down at the bank. And, at times the entire sidewalk along the south wall of the building is blocked off to pedestrians.

Pastors Listed For July Posts At County, Farris Homes

The Rev. Frederick Wraight, vice-chairman of the Whitley County Ministerial Association, has announced the list of ministers to preside at Sunday services at the county home and the Farris Home during July.

The July 3 pastor for the county home will be the Rev. Merle Bright, of the Church of the Nazarine in Columbia City, and the Rev. Robert Crosby, of the First Presbyterian Church of Columbia City will speak July 10. On July 17 the Rev. Ernest Minegar, of the Blue River Methodist church in Churubusco will preach, and the Rev. Herbert LaPage, of the Evangelical United Brethren Circuit, and the Rev. G. L. Kleespie, of Grace Lutheran Church in Columbia City will speak July 24 and July 31 respectively.

The Rev. Valmont A. Fry, of the Free Methodist Church of Columbia City, will give the July 3 sermon at the Farris Home. The Rev. Lynn Henry, of the Evangelical United Brethren Church of Columbia City, will speak July 10, and the July 17 minister will be the Rev. Hubert Miller, of the Oak Grove Church of God. The Rev. Alvin Link, of the First Church of God, will be the pastor July 24, and the July 31 service will be under the direction of the Rev. Merle Bright.

First Men Begin Mining Walkout

DENVER, Colo. (UP)—The of an expected 60,000 union w ers began leaving their jobs ac the country today idling produc of copper, lead, zinc and other fense-vital non-ferrous metals.

The first reported walkout volved 2,700 miners in north Idaho who walked out at midni after negotiators for the Bunk Hill & Sullivan Mining Co. br off their talks with the Interna tional Union of Mine, Mill & Sme er Workers (Ind.).

These front-runners were fo lowed by an estimated 1,800 mine mill employes of the American Smelting & Refining Co. at Perth Amboy, N.J., who posted pickets at 6 a.m.

Union contracts expired at midnight and workers prepared to leave jobs with the beginning of day shifts, in most places at 7 a.m. local time.

Affected by the dispute were the copper industry's so-called "Big Four" which, besides American Smelting Refining, includes the Anaconda Co., Phelps-Dodge Copper and Kennecott Copper Corp.

Most of their operations are centered in the West, particularly in Arizona, New Mexico, Utah and Montana, but installations in 16 states stretching from the Atlantic to Pacific coasts were involved together.

Mine-mill representatives were scheduled to resume talks with Phelps-Dodge in Arizona this afternoon after the union rejected a 12½-cents an hour wage offer earlier this morning.

Makes Sense

HASTINGS, Neb. (UP) — A serviceman brought back a Japanese traffic rule that he translasted as follows:

"When a passenger of the foot heaves in sight, tootle the horn. Trumpet at him, melodiously at first; but if he still obstacles your passage, tootle him with vigor, express by work of mouth the warning — hi hi!"

"Beware the wandering horse that he shall not take fright as you pass him by. Do not explode the exhaust box at him as you pass; rather, go soothingly by."

Hoosier Republican Mayors Meet In The Capital Thursday

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) —Hoosier Republican nominees for mayor were told here that television, newspapers, radio, personal campaigning and a platform are important in seeking election.

Candidates from most of the state's 104 cities with mayors concluded a two-day workshop by getting tips from party leaders and communications experts.

Mayor Vernon Anderson of Hammond told how he used a "house party" system to win his first term in 1947.

"It's a gruelling way to campaign,' Anderson said, "but you can't beat that personal contact."

Daniel C. Parks of WIRE and Steven T. Briggs of WISH-TV advised candidates on use of those media in their campaigns.

John V. Sellers, secretary of the GOP State Committee and himself a former newspaperman, told of the importance of winning the confidence of newspaper editors.

Mayor Ralph Leech of Marion said a platform is a "must."

"A platform is nothing but a how you plan to meet them," Leech said.

Governor Craig said at a banquet Wednesday that candidates hitch their campaigns to President Eisenhower's coattails. Mayor Ivan Brinegar of Bedford urged the GOP to go on record in favor of tax aid to cities and towns because, he said, a big issue this fall will be rising property taxes.

Youth For Christ Convention Starts At Winona Lake

The eleventh annual Youth for Christ International Convention will begin Sunday night at Winona, YFCI president Dr. Robert A. Cook has announced.

Four initial programs for the Independence Day holiday have been prepared, beginning with the national broadcast of America's Town Meeting of the Air emanating from the Billy Sunday Tabernacle on Sunday night at 7:30. The topic to be discussed on the network program is "Where should youth seek moral leadership?"

Cook has announced three special meetings for July 4, including the 10:45 Bible Hour with Rev. Cedric Sears, Wheaton, as speaker; a 3 o'clock patriotic rally featuring Dr. Lee Roberson, Chattanooga, as speaker, and an evangelistic rally at 7:30 with Dr. H. H. Savage, of Pontiac, Michigan, president of the National Association of Evangelicals, as speaker.

Ralph Carmichael, well-known musician of Los Angeles, is in charge of the convention music program.

Road Signs In Color Forecast For Future

CHICAGO (UP) — The Chicago Motor Club says that highways of the future may have highway markers of various colors to prevent motorists from taking the wrong route.

Matthew C. Sielski, director of the organization's Safety and Traffic Engineering Department, cited experiments being conducted in the use of colored highway markers in Washington, D. C.

"At Washington Circle," he said, federal highway markers are posted in brilliant colors — blue, green, yellow and red.

"All roads marked with yellow signs lead west; those marked with blue head north, green for east and red for south."

8 Portuguese Jets Crash Into FogCoveredPeak

Planes Were Built In U.S. — Pilots Killed

LISBON, Portugal (UP) — The Portuguese air force announced today that eight American-built F84 Thunderjets of the Portuguese air force in two stacked waves crashed follow-the-leader fashion into a fog shrouded mountain peak.

All eight pilots were killed in the multiple crash which forced cancellation of the nation's observance of Air Force Day.

Earlier reports from the scene had said the eight planes collided together in air during maneuvers.

Later reports said the eight planes, which had been given Portugal as U.S. aid to a member nation of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization failed to clear a 3,000-foot peak in the fog-shrouded Carvalho Mountains.

A third group of four planes skimmed over the hidden mountain top and returned safely to Ota air-base, 30 miles outside Lisbon.

The 12 planes had taken off a short time earlier from Ota air base for a flying salute to the separate Portuguese air force which was created three years ago, on July 1, 1952.

The planes were flying in three tightly grouped formations of four planes each, the air force said.

Stonecutters Sign New Wage Contract

BEDFORD, Ind. (UP) —The Monroe - Lawrence County limestone industry and AFL stonecutters signed new contracts Thursday a few hours before the old contracts expired.

Eighteen companies were represented at the session as a one-year agreement was signed. Terms were not announced but it was said they included a 15-cent hourly wage increase.

Two Contests To Fill Busy Week For County 4-H Club Members

Judging and demonstration contests have been set for county 4-H members. The Whitley County 4-H judging contest will start Wednesday at 10 a.m. at the 4-H Community Center, Miss Joan Martin, county girl's leader announced today.

Two senior 4-H members in each class will be selected to represent this county at the district contest at Wabash July 14. Senior contestants must be at least 14 years old.

Winners will also be selected from the juior entrants, although their judging will be mainly for experience.

Miss Marjorie Gillespie, Columbia City leader, will be in charge of recreation during the sack lunch hour at noon.

Judges Names

Local 4-H leaders in charge of judging will be:

Clothing – Mrs. Robert Fry, Thorncreek, Miss Gillespie.

Baking – Mrs. A. L. Palmer, Union, Mrs. LeRoy Kreider, Cleveland.

Food Preparation – Miss Roxie Barcus, Smith, Mrs. Lewis Miller, Etna-Troy.

Food Preservation – Mrs. Willard Knisley, Columbia Miss Mary Elln Schuman, Richland.

Home Improvement – Mrs. Gerald Wallace, Jefferson.

Demonstration Contest Set

The county 4-H demonstration contest will be at the REMC auditorium Friday, and Miss Roxie Barcus will have charge of registration.

Each club may enter one demonstration in the junior contest, and registration for that division will start at 8:30 a.m.

Two demonstrations may be entered in the senior contest, and registration will begin at noon. This plan has been adopted to encourage entry in the special contests, such as for cherry pie, dairy foods, or home electrics.

One demonstration and an alternate will be selected to represent this county in the district contest July 14 at Wabash. The special district contest will be July 15 at Wabash.

Mrs. Fred Geiger, of Kimmell, will judge this contest, although all local club leaders will assist.

Meet Your Merchants

Earl E. Fisher

Earl E. Fisher has been in the filling station business in Columbia City for over 30 years. He began his long association with the business in 1924 when he started working for his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Hoffer. At that time the station was known as the Anthony Service Station.

Fisher believes the station was built in 1920 on a large vacant lot. Many years prior to this it was the site of the old livery stables.

The Anthony Station became known as the Fisher Bros. Service Station in 1936 when Earl and his brother, Marion, were partners. Later in 1948 Earl purchased the interest of his brother in the station. Marion took over the bulk plant operations.

Earl was born and reared in Whitley county. As a lad he lived on a farm in Thorncreek township. Leaving the farm, Earl started working for the Peabody Lumber Company for a short while and was employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad for five months before he joined his uncle in the station.

Fisher has served on the city council for nine years.

He served from 1940 through 1948. During his term of office the election laws were changed, thus giving an extra year.

At present, Fisher is a county commissioner. He is a past director of the Commercial Club and served as president of the Columbia City softball league at the time the retaining walls were installed.

Mr. Fisher is a member of the Elks Lodge and Oddfellows. He is married and has one daughter, Mary Jo.

Mr. Fisher has long been known for his active interest in any community event.

Thunderstorms Pass Us Up — Hooray!

Severe thunderstorms passed up Columbia City and vicinity last night for which we believe most people said "hooray" except those who live where rain may be needed.

Yesterday's high was 92 with a high wind blowing much of the day. The low last night was 71. At 8 a.m. today the mercury stood at 77 indicating that it might not be impossible for the mercury to go to a predicted 95.

Thunderstorms are predicted again but the sky was very blue in the early morning and at that time at least they appeared unlikely.

President, Mrs. Eisenhower Are At Camp David

In Cool Retreat For The Long Weekend

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UP) — President and Mrs. Eisenhower tried to slip one over on summer today by retreating to cool Camp David in the nearby Catoctin Mountains for the holiday weekend.

The first couple left Gettysburg Friday night after celebrating their 39th wedding anniversary with a picnic supper for White House staff members on the front lawn of their farm home.

They will entertain six couples while at Camp David. The President decided to spend the holiday at the camp because it is cooler and has better accommodations for guests. But White House press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the President may drop by the Gettysburg Country Club for a few rounds of golf before the weekend is over.

White House staff members presented the Eisenhowers a large silver tray and a sofa as anniversary presents. After the lawn party, the Eisenhowers gave their 150 guests a personally-conducted tour of their newly-renovated home.

Reporters were barred from the affair. But Hagerty said Mrs. Eisenhower, in taking the staff members through the house, was anxious to show them where some of their earlier gifts had been placed.

Mr. Eisenhower flew to Gettysburg in his new two-engine commuting plane Friday from Washington where temperatures were in the 90s. He was greeted by a small fry friend at the Gettysburg airport —2-year-old Timmy Bollinger.

The boy piped, "Hi, Ike" as the President stepped from his plane. Mr. Eisenhower said, "Well, hello, who are you, Davy Crockett?" The President was carrying two paper-bound books and a package—possibly an anniversary gift for his wife.

"Miss Columbia City" Is Named Parade Queen

Conveyance Judged Best Decorated

"Miss Columbia City" was named Queen of the Mermaid Parade Friday night at North Webster but was not among the seven princesses from which the 1955 Queen of the Lakes will be chosen Monday night. Miss Charity Meyer, as "Miss Columbia City" received her bouquet of flowers and a check for $100 from the Mermaid Festival, and Lt.-Gov. Harold Handley presented the loving cup to her.

The Columbia City queen conveyance was rated the best decorated in the long Mermaid Parade, and the selection of "Miss Columbia City" as Queen of the Parade was based on that placing.

Among the seven princesses selected by the five judges was "Miss Pierceton", Miss Sandra Brubaker. Others were "Miss North Manchester," "Miss Green Township," "Miss Beaver Dam Lake," "Miss Northwestern," "Miss Nappanee," and "Miss Barbee Lake".

Best Decorated

The best decorated float in the parade was sponsored by the Pierceton State Bank. Columbia City's queen conveyance won first place. It was called the "floating island." On the island was a real willow tree with pink blossoms, two pink Flamingos standing in a small pool, and it was trimmed with various ferns. Richard Baker decorated the queen's conveyance, and the Donald Phends constructed the framework, which was mounted on a jeep. The $100 prize money will go to the queen contest here.

South Whitley's queen conveyance placed second, and Pierceton's was ninth.

Columbia City's band was not among the first three winners named for schools over 150. Middletown placed first in the band competition.

Local Men Attend Area Commissioner Meeting Wednesday

Two county commissioners, Earl E. Fisher and Lee Plattner, and Russell Miller, road superintendent, attended a meeting of the northeastern district of the Indiana Association of County Commissioners at Hartford City Wednesday night.

There were 150 commissioners in attendance.

George Goodwin, of the Federal Bureau of Public Roads, explained some of the changes in the laws affecting use of Federal Aid Funds on county secondary roads and bridges.

He said, a great many of the counties have not been using their Federal Aid Funds because of various reasons, and that use of the funds is voluntary.

It was brought out at the meeting that the State Highway Safety Commission has a wonderful safety display available at the various county fairs of festivals. The display will be furnished at no cost to the county and is reported as very educational.

The next meeting will be in September.

Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Geiger of Noble township, Noble county, are great-grandparents.

Report Dixon - Yates Contract MayBe Cancelled

If Memphis Really Builds Power Plant

By JOHN A. GOLDSMITH
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower is ready to cancel the controversial Dixon - Yates contract if the "new look" which he has ordered shows that Memphis, Tenn., really will build a power plant of its own, informed sources said today.

These sources, who have been close to recent developments in the year - long Dixon-Yates controversy, said a decision on the matter should come next week.

President Eisenhower and his aides, according to these informants want to be absolutely sure that opponents of the contract have not prodded Memphis into announcing plans for its own plant as a subterfuge to head off the Dixon-Yates arrangement.

Same Position Taken

The same position was taken on Friday by the Senate Appropriations Committee in voting on a $6,500,000 appropriation for a transmission line to link the proposed Dixon - Yates plant with the government - owned Tennessee Valley Authority.

The committee provided that if the City of Memphis makes a definite commitment within 90 days to build its own plant, the $6,500,000 power line money may not be spent. If the city does not act in 90 days, the money still may not be spent until the financing of the Dixon-Yates plant is approved and construction begun.

Significantly, it was Sen. William F. Knowland, who as GOP leader is the administration's top spokesman, who suggested the language of the committee's decision.

The Dixon - Yates privately - financed plant would be built at West Memphis, Ark., across the Mississippi River from Memphis and would feed power into the TVA system at the Tennessee city. Memphis has said that rather than receive Dixon - Yates power, it would build its own plant to supply its needs.

Controversy Will Continue

It was clear, however, that cancellation of the contract — if that is done — will not end the Dixon-Yates controversy nor stop the investigation currently being conducted by a Senate anti - monopoly subcommittee. Chairman Clinton P. Anderson (D-NM) of the Congressional Atomic Energy Committee said there are "interesting" revelations still to come on the genesis of the contract.

White House Press Secretary James Hagerty said Friday that will consult with the Atomic Budget Director Rowland Hughes Energy Commission, the Tennessee Valley Authority and Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell over the holiday weekend in the course of the "new look" ordered by Mr. Eisenhower Thursday.

Mr. And Mrs. Andris Parents Of Their Second Daughter

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Andris of Saybrook, Ill., became parents of their second daughter, Janet Ruth, born June 27, according to word received by Mrs. Roy Goodrich, the maternal grandmother of this city.

The mother was formerly Miss Zovelda Goodrich of this city. Joe Andris of Leroy, Ill., is the paternal grandfather.

Mr. and Mrs. Andris have three sons, Joe and Marvin and twins, Darrell and Carol.

Committee To Give Go Ahead For Polio Shots

Will Be First In Nearly A Month

WASHINGTON (UP)—The government's polio vaccine committee was expected to give the go-ahead today for the first release of Salk shots in nearly a month.

The panel of six top scientists, including Dr. Jonas E. Salk, met behind closed doors at the National Institutes of Health. Their meeting was the windup of a two-day review of a "considerable amount" of vaccine which has been submitted for federal approval.

A spokesman for the Institutes said there was no way to say in advance what the committee's decision would be or when it would be announced. But insiders confidently expected the release of some vaccine before nightfall.

These sources said the total amount could run "well over" 3 million doses. This would be enough to give one shot to 3 million children in the school inoculation program of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

The vaccine committee, which is headed by Dr. James A. Shannon of the Institutes, was formed to rule on the release of all batches of vaccine under the government's rigid new safety standards.

The committee delayed the approval of any vaccine at a meeting last Thursday because it had not yet passed its final container tests — checks made on random samples of vaccine after it has been bottled. Most of those were said to have been completed when the group met again Friday.

New Secretary Of Chamber To Begin Duties Next Week

Woodfin B. Jones

Woodfin B. Jones will begin his duties next week as executive secretary of the Columbia City Chamber of Commerce replacing Roy P. Whitton, who resigned to become secretary of the Seymour Chamber.

Jones officially assumed the position this week, however, he has been attending the National Institute for Commercial and Trade Organization Executives at Northwestern University at Chicago.

Whitton will remain here for two weeks while "Woody" becomes familiar with the position. Whitton will assume his duties at Seymour July 18. He, his wife and 10-year-old son, Dave, expect to move there soon.

Jones, a native of Columbia City, presently resides in Churubusco, where he was editor of the Tri-County Truth weekly newspaper. He, his wife, and two-year-old daughter, Carrie Kay, expect to move to Columbia City soon. He is 27 and the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Jones, South Line and Market streets.

On Vacation

Harold Olree, of the newspaper reporting staff, left this morning for his former home at St. Louis to spend a week. He was accompanied by Mrs. Olree and their infant sons.

1900 Steamer Car Makes Stop Here

Friday several local persons got a "sneak preview" of the Mermaid Festival at Webster when a Dyke Steamer automobile, 1900 vintage, stopped at the Whitley County Motor Sales for minor repair.

The ancient car looks very similar to a carriage. The car was driven by Barett Moody of Fort Wayne and is owned by Dick Means of G. S. Means Co.

Disagreement On Social Reforms Dooms Attempts

Of Antonio Segni To Form New Government

ROME (UP) — Disagreement over his own social reform plans appeared to have doomed Antonio Segni's attempts to form a new Italian government today.

The 64-year-old Christian Democrat reports back to President Giovanni Gronchi tonight on his efforts to re-form the four-party center coalition and end the country's 11-day-old crisis.

Political observers gave Segni no more than a 50-50 chance of success, despite an extra two days of negotiations granted by Gronchi.

Sources close to Segni's grueling week-long talks with political leaders said there still exists a split in the coalition that has ruled Italy snce the late Alcide de Gasperi ousted the Communists from the government eight years ago.

The conservative - minded Liberals presented the major obstacle to formation of a coalition. They objected to Segni's social reform plans. All other center parties backed the reforms.

The objections of the Liberals, one of the four partners of Segni's prospective coalition, threatene dto enlarge even further the backstairs squabble that toppled Mario Scelba's 16-month-old pro-Western government.

Union leaders inside Segni's own party appealed to the premier-designate to drop the Liberals rather than trim social reforms to please them.

Omission of the Liberals would mean a government composed of Christian Democrats, Social Democrats and Republicans — a government that would have no majority in parliament.

The three-party coalition then would be forced to depend on the questionable support of Pietro Nenni's leftwing Socialists. Opposing the coalition would be the right wing Monarchists and neo-Fascists.

Fatal Mishaps Slightly Behind 380 Dead Estimate

Hot, Muggy Weather Gripes Nation - Soldiers Shown "Coffin On Wheels" Movie Film

By UNITED PRESS

The final wave of outgoing holiday vacationers headed for the hinterlands today as millions of fun-loving Americans took advantage of the long Fourth of July weekend.

The National Safety Council predicted that a record 40 million vehicles would be on the move during the holiday period, causing an all-time high of 380 persons to die in highway mishaps.

But motorists apparently were ignoring the gloomy forecast and exhibiting lifesaving caution during the weekend's early hours.

A United Press count since 6 p.m. Friday showed fatal holiday accidents of various sorts, slightly behind the council's estimates.

Traffic accidents killed eight and miscellaneous mishaps two for a total of 10. Michigan had the most traffic fatalities, three, while Colorado, Illinois, Indiana, New York and the state of Washington had one each.

Ned H. Dearborn, president of the council, suggested prayer to help hold down the traffic toll. He warned that the worst hazards were yet to come when tired drivers clogged highways on the way home.

Movies Warn Soldiers

At Ft. Dix, N.J., soldiers leaving on weekend passes were first shown movies entitled "Coffin on Wheels," "Drunk Driving," "Traffic with the Devil" and "Wanton Murder."

Meanwhile, hot, muggy weather gripped the eastern two-thirds of the nation with widely scattered showers predicted through Monday. Temperatures of 90 or more were common, with Colorado and Texas reporting 100 in several towns.

The weather provided a sunny setting for the millions who flocked to beaches, picnic grounds and ball parks.

But, at Tampa, Fla., it caused two near-disasters. Officials at Tampa blamed a thunderstorm for a $500,000 fertilizer plant fire and the crash of a jet fighter.

Lightning started the fire at the chemical plant of the Superior Fertilizer and Chemical Co. Rain kept flames from spreading, but two firemen were overcome by smoke.

Limited Work Forces Return To Work At The Steel Mills

By DANIEL R. STEARN
United Press Staff Correspondent

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Limited work forces returned to their jobs at the nation's steel mills today at higher pay scales which producers said would be reflected in steel price increases, some effective next week.

The new wage rates, hammered out in tension - packed bargaining sessions Friday between U. S. Steel Corp. and the CIO United Steelworkers union, ended a nation wide 12-hour strike of 600,000 workers in the basic steel industry. The wage agreement expires next June 30.

Production workers began streaming back to their jobs at wage rates boosted an average of more than 15 cents an hour.

Pacesetter U.S. Steel Corp. immediately announced price increases averaging nearly $7.50 a ton which subsequently would raise the production cost of consumer items from automobiles to electric toasters. Other producers were expected to follow suit.

The Wage Boost

The wage boost, ranging from 11½ cents an hour for the lowest paid workers to 27½ cents an hour for top skilled men, brought the average steelworker's pay to $2.38 an hour. Wages of class 1 steelworkers under the new rate were boosted to $1.68½ an hour, while those in the highest classification, job class 32, will receive $3.54½ an hour.

U. S. Steel Corp. and the USW signed their formal agreement, announced shortly before noon Friday, by mid afternoon. Second - ranking Bethlehem Steel Corp. signed next, followed by Jones G Laughlin, the nation's fourth-ranked producer.

Union district officers across the nation were ordered by USW President David J. McDonald to hold contact-signing conferences in their areas. The signing in Pittsburgh by other firms such as Republic Steel, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Wheeling Steel Corp., Great Lakes, Pittsburgh Steel and Allegheny - Ludlum was routine. Terms were virtually identical with those agreed to by "Big Steel."

The pacts also will serve as a pattern for agreements covering another 600,000 USW members employed in steel fabricating, finishing and aluminum industries.

Union's Shortest Strike

Although the strike was the shortest in the history of the union, it cost the industry millions of dollars in production. Producers of 90 per cent of the nation's steel had begun the slow and costly process of banking blast furnaces and shutting down operations thre days before the strike at midnig Thursday night.

Near - normal operations w expected to be resumed in mills this week end, although

IT'S THE "BLUE, WHITE AND RED!"

Editors note: Taken from "So Proudly We Hail" by United States Flag Foundation.

Many years ago an English song writer changed the order of our National Colors to the order in which his country rates the colors, when he made the last line of his song, "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean" read "Three Cheers for the Red, White and Blue."

Due to the propensity of the average person to remember best such words as have been set to music (a tribute to advertising's principles of "reiteration - repetition - reputation") the mass of the people has persisted in calling our National Colors in that incorrect order, when they should be called the Blue, White and Red!"

In heraldry blue (next to "gold, silver") outranks red, probably because it is the color of the Heavens, therefore should be designated first. The union (blue field) is the point of honor in the Flag, and one must recall that General Washington, in describing the design of the first Stars and Stripes, said: "We take the Stars from Heaven."

In the case of bunting the blue strip should always to on top. One has only to attempt to use bunting, in the blue of which there are stars, to prove the correctness of this rule. The first airmail boxes were painted red, white and blue from the top down, but when called the attention of Postmaster General Farley the boxes over the entire country were repainted almost over night with the blue on top.

And this is as you will see the Colors cited in all government literature, the War Department's "Flag Circular," Boy Scout Handbook, etc. Yet hundreds of users of the National Colors (in printed matter, lighographs, posters and magazine cover) are careless, if not ignorant, of the correct order of the color arrangement.

When you attend a Horse Show, a Dog Show, or an International Stock Exposition you always see given to the 1st Prize winner in every class, the "Blue Ribbon". In advertising pages and on store counters you will see " Blue Ribbon This" and "Blue Ribbon That," —in every case that "Blue Ribbon" trademark denoting highest (first) quality product.

Emperor Charlemagne, many many years ago, had a tassel on his oriflamme of our National Colors, Blue, white and red, while these, and in that order, are the colors of the ancient Jewish Church.

Let us American Citizens be true to our own Colors, — the Blue, White and Red!

EMERGENCY WITHDRAWAL

GARY, Ind. — (UP) — A Gary housewife, who was being interviewed on a morning television show, suddenly remembered she forgot to give lunch money to her three children. So she voiced an "emergency" appeal on the air hoping a friend would hear and take care of the matter. But she needn't have worried. The children raided the piggy bank before toing to school.

Broadway Actress Isabel Bonner Falls Dead Speaking Lines Before Playgoers

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Broadway actress Isabel Bonner fell dead before 900 shocked playgoers at the Carthay Circle Theater Friday night while speaking her lines in the first act of "The Shrike,' a prize-winning play written by he husband, Joseph Kramm. She was 47 years old.

She was playing a hospital ward scene. She had just told her sick husband in the play, co-star Dane Clark, "You look much better to day, darling," when she collapsed

She apparently died of a heart ailment. The play closes as scheduled tonight.

About a dozen actors were on stage in the scene. One said she was speaking the line when she suddenly slumped on the edge of Clark's bed.

Clark put his arm about her and ad-libbed "Ann, speak to me. Is something the matter? What's wrong, darling, I love you."

He signaled for the curtain to be rung down and the audience thought it was the end of a scene. The theater management immediately asked if there were any physicians in the house and called police and firemen, who were unable to revive her with oxygen equipment. Three doctors reported to the stage from the audience and she was pronounced dead.

Miss Bonner's husband, at their New York home when she died, was scheduled to arrive in Hollywood by air this afternoon.

Kramm said as he left New York that his wife had complained recently of a muscle pain but did not think it was serious.

"I just spoke to her last night," he sobbed. "She said she was feeling fine."

The red-haired actress played a different role in the original broadway production of the play two years ago. She recently made a film version of it in her original role. The film is yet to be released.

Eda Reis Merin, Miss Bonner's understudy, will replace her in today's performances.

Miss Bonner had been on the stage since starting as a child actress with her fathers stock company near Pittsburgh.

She later studied in New York under Alexander Koiransky and the late Maria Ouspenskaya.

The actress first appeared on Broadway as an ingenue in "Let Freedom Ring." Other Broadway plays in which she appeared included "Professional," "Trojan Women,' "Uncle Harry," "Medicine Show," and "Front, Page."

Stocks Mount To New Record Highs On Reduced Volume

By ELMER C. WALZER
United Press Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UP) — Stocks mounted to new record highs in the industrial section on reduced volume in the past week.

Trading fell off to the lightest daily average since the week ended May 27.

The drop in volume reflected a cautious attitude on the market pending clearing up of the steel wage situation.

An actual strike starting at midnight Thursday failed to shake the market. Prices dipped moderately in the steel department and then immediately turned up again. When a settlement of steel wages was announced with U.S. Steel shortly before noon Friday the steels let go with a bang on the upside.

The overall result for the week was a rise of 4.18 points in the industrial average which finished the week at 453.82, a record top. Rails lost 72 cents to 161.42. Utilities gained 21 cents to 64.48.

In the Thursday session there were reports that a steel settlement was near. The market moved higher. It closed that day with industrials at a record high. That was the last day of June and the first half.

Rails and utilities also gained o nthe month, but industrials stood out as the stars. The trading volume for the first half of 359,688,156 shares was the highest for the period since 1930 when it was 493,264,470 shares.

For the first half the industrial average finished at 451.38 up 46.99 points compared with the close on Dec. 31, 1954; rails, 160,95, up 15.09 points and utility, 64,34, up 1.87.

For the week, the industrials closed at 453.82 up 4.89 points; rails, 161.42, off 0.78; utilities 64.48 up 0.21 and 65 stocks, 165.54, up 0.83.

Sales for the past week totaled 11,451,058 shares, a daily average of 2,308,211 shares.

"Ole Miss" Makes Final Flight To The Smithsonian

ATLANTA (UP) — The "Ole Miss," a little monoplane destined for a niche in aviation's hall of fame, made its final flight in easy stages and in fair weather today.

The "Ole Miss," which made aviation history by staying aloft 27 days in 1935, was to take off for Washington where it will be placed in the Smithsonian Institute.

Fred Mack Key, who with his brother Al piloted the "Ole Miss' on its record shattering endurance flight two decades ago, expected to pilot the rugged craft to a Washington landing.

Key arrived at the Atlanta Municipal Airport late Friday after a flight of less than three hours from Meridian, Miss. He planned to stop over to refuel this morning at Winston-Salem, N.C,

The weather for this last hop of the "Ole Miss," was fair and hot.

The "Ole Miss" was chosen by Smithsonian as being representative of aviations advancement in the 1930's as well as for its record flights. It will stand beside the Wright Brothers' plane and Lind-

Two Mississippi National Guard planes served as escorts on the flight from Meridian, Miss., ite of the endurance flight of 635 hours and 35 minutes which ended on July 1, 1935.

Peggy Ann Mallon Becomes Bride Of Jerry Lagel In Cermony Read In Grace Church

The Rev. Graham L. Kleespie received the marriage vows Friday evening at 7:30 of Miss Peggy Ann Mallon and Jerry L. Yagel of Union township, in Grace Lutheran church.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Vera Bryarly of near this city and Mrs. Ross Smith of near this city is the mother of the bridegroom.

Mrss Mary Dowell presented a half hour musical before the ceremoney read in the presence of 150 guests. White gladiolus, painted daisies and palms decorated the altar and white bows marked the family pews.

The bride chose the traditional white in lace and net over satin. The pretty gown was styled with a lace bolero. Her finger tip veil fell from a half hat embroidered with pearls and she carried a colonial bouquet of red roses. The bride was given in marriage by Harry Maynes.

Her maid of honor, Miss Priscilla Burke of Arcola, was in an orchid gown fashioned like that of the bride. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses. Norman Smith served Mr. Yagel as best man.

The bride's mother chose a blue ensemble for her daughter's wedding and the bridegroom's mother chose a lavender afternoon dress. Both mothers wore white orchids.

Reception At The Church

The guests were received in the church parlors after the ceremony. From a prettily appointed table, punch was served with the bride's cake. Mrs. Olin Dailey of LaPorte and Miss Melba Schrader, Miss Jocelyn Diebold, Miss Shirley Middleton and Miss Bety Wherry of Coesse, and Mrs. Lee Krieg and Mrs. Robert Krider served.

White candles burned on either side of the bride's cake decorated with pink roses and flanked on either side by white roses.

The couple are on a undisclosed honeymoon trip and later will reside in Fort Wayne where the bridegroom is employed by the International Harvestor Company.

Mr. Yagel is a graduate of Coesse high school and his bride attended school there.

Guests From Distance

Among the guests were those from LaPorte, Miles, Mich., Ligonier, Angola, Fort Wayne, Huntington, and Springfield, Mass.

The Wrights Make 2000-Mile Trip Through Eight States

Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Wright, Union township, returned Tuesday from a 10-day 2000-mile vacation trip which took them to eight states besides Indiana.

The Wrights traveled to Greencastle, where they visited relatives and then went south to Nashville, Tenn. Continuing to Greenville, Tenn., they visited Mr. and Mrs. Lester Eikenberry, formerly of Arcola.

The Wrights then crossed the Appalachian Mountains to High Point, N.C. and visited with Herbert Stinson, a cousin of Mrs. Wright, and other relatives near Ramseur and Greensboro, the latter being her father's birthplace.

After spending a day in Washington, D.C., the Wrights began their trip back to Indiana over the Pennsylvania Turnpike and through the Allegheny Mountains.

Mrs. Wright recalls that from the Eikenberry's home in Greenville, Tenn., could be seen four different moutain ranges. While in the south, the Wrights went through the Cherokee Indian Reservation between the states of Kentucky and Tennessee. They also visited a tobacco factory at Winston-Salem, N.C.

Marilyn Ann Cox, Charles W. Morrissey Wed Friday Evening

Miss Marilyn Ann Cox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Cox, 724 South Main street, and Charles W. Morrissey, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Morrissey, 400 Collins street, were married Friday evening at 6:30 in a quiet ceremony in the chapel of Grace Lutheran church by the Rev. G. L. Kleespie.

The bride wore a red rose corsage and white accessories with her white linen street dress and Miss Shirley Rosen, the attendent, was in a lavender street dress with which she wore white accessories and a white rose corsage.

The two mothers wore red rose corsages and the men of the bridal party wore white carnation boutonnieres. Max Cox attended the bridegroom.

The couple will reside in the Mullendore apartments in this city. Both were graduated from Columbia City high school. Mr. Morrissey is employed by the Tokheim Oil and Tank Company in Fort Wayne and his bride is employed by the South Whitley Industries.

FREED BY SHERMAN—Matt Carter, former slave, is 103 years old, but his memory is still vivid enough for him to describe the Civil War days when he was freed by Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman during the Union leader's march to the sea. The Columbus, Ohio, centenarian lived on a plantation near Phenix City, Ala., then. He was the property of a Doctor Ingersaw, who bought him for $500.

"Help Wanted" By Summer Hostess

VACATION days set a happy mood to most summer weekends — with July 4th at the tip-top.

Following the holiday spirit, visitors are likely to show up on your doorstep any Saturday or Sunday. What fun to see folks from just down the road . . . as well as travelers from across the country. Pull up a chair everybody! Talk begins to fly.

Need Food Fast

Food sounds the call to take a break from the "talk-athon." Then it's up to you, Mrs. Hostess, to bring out a party meal, jet propelled.

Trust to those ever-faithful helpers, the refrigerator and the canned-foods shelf. In the refrigerator is the rosy tomato salad you made day before. It's a good-keeper of tomato soup, gelatin, and lots of crunchy vegetables.

Team Beans, Meat

Reach to your canned-foods corner for pork and beans (to lend the hot, hearty touch); luncheon meat (to slice and frizzle for bean topper); plus Boston brown bread.

An ice-cold melon, with strawberries, tastes good later. Pass angel cake with it.

Holiday Tomato Salad
(Star-garnished for 4th of July)

2 envelopes unflavored gelatine
1 cup cold water
1 can (1¼ cups) condensed tomato soup
¼ cup diced celery
¼ cup diced green pepper
1 tablespoon minced onion
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
¼ cup diced cucumber.

Soften gelatine in cold water; place container in pan of boiling water until gelatine dissolves. Blend gelatine with remaining ingredients. Prepare a 1-quart mold (or 6 individual molds) by rinsing with salad oil; this makes it much easier to slip salad out of mold when it's firm. Pour in salad mixture. Chill until firm. Unmold.

NOTE: For July 4th parties, shape the salad as a star or loaf. Garnish with stars cut from cucumber slices.

Keep Makings for Beef-Wiches: Hot beef sandwiches with oodles of brown gravy look like party fare anytime. Always keep ingredients on hand in case a party comes up. Just a can of beef gravy and a package of frozen minute steaks are needed. Brown steaks in butter and place them on toast; then heat gravy in same skillet. Ladle it liberally over each sandwich.

TRANSIT STRIKE CRIPPLES CAPITAL—Street-car tracks form emergency parking areas in the nation's capital and thousands of extra cars jam the streets as Capital Transit Company employes go on strike for arbitration of a wage dispute.

DOUBLING PRODUCTION—This 2-year-old White Rock hen may be a little surprised herself as she contemplates her odd egg production. In the past two months, she has laid nine large eggs like the one at right. Each contained a yolk and a regular-sized egg inside. Large egg is 9 inches around the long way and weighs 9 ounces. Normal egg, from one of the other giants, measures 6½ inches and weighs 2½ ounces. Hen is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lubke of Michigan City, Ind.

DANCING DUO—Setsuko Tatewaki (front) and Tsukiko Akashi, both 21, rest up after dancing practice in Tokyo. Members of a touring revue, they wowed 'em in southeast Asian countries with their Japanese version of the mambo.

"THANK YOU" NOTE

WESTPORT, Conn. — (UP)—A Bronxville, N. Y., women sent a letter to state police thanking them for arresting her son on a speed charge. "The summons to court was worth more than all the preaching I could ever do," she explained.

TALKIES

CHICAGO — (UP) —The Art Institute of Chicago is experimenting with "talking pictures." A touch of a button beside a painting brings a recorded two-minute talk about the masterpiece.

PURSE RETURNED

HAGERSTOWN, Ind. — (UP) — Mrs. James Nelson, who lost her purse nine years ago, got it back recently. It was in a package in her mailbox addressed to her in her maiden name. As far as she could recall nothing was missing.

Triplets, Almost Born In Plane, Doing Fine

NEW YORK (UP) —Mrs. Gordon Keith, who gave birth to triplets in Gander, Newfoundland last week, left by plane today for her home in Windom, Minn., accompanied by her husband and their two other children.

Before boarding a plane for Minneapolis Mrs. Keith said the girl triplets would remain in Saint Johns, Nfld., at a U.S. Air Force hospital until they are able to travel.

Mrs. Keith was returning from Oslo, Norway abroad a Scandinavien airliner when the babies gave indication of arriving. The pilot of the plane hastily headed for Gander where the babies were born a few hours after Mrs. Keith was taken off the plane.

The petite brunette, her husband and their two other children, Bruce 14 months old and Tordis, three years, arrived from Gander this morning.

STOP! BEFORE YOU PAINT Your House
BE SURE TO SEE
ARMSTRONG
LOW-LUSTRE EXTERIOR FINISH
...the Outside Paint of the FUTURE!

You've never seen such beautiful, modern colors in ready-mixed, outside paint—Chartreuse, Old Wine, Patio Rose, Fiesta Red, Patio Blue, Dewkiss Green . . . and many others.

Stunning colors that give your house modern "decorator" color styling like you see on new homes in current magazines.

Another new feature is this paint's soft-toned, velvety sheen—there's no harsh glare or "shine" which detracts from the rich, uniform, velvety beauty of the colors.

And this paint is ideal for all type siding materials, wood and cement shingles, and concrete. And one coat is sufficient for most repaint work and also over many new surfaces.

Yes, before you paint be sure to see ARMSTRONG Low-Lustre EXTERIOR FINISH—the sensational, new paint everybody is talking about and likes so much. It takes only a minute to drop in here to see it and get your free color chart (while they last).

Early Wynn Measures Up As Best Pitcher In Baseball, Perhaps In American League

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer

By almost every yardstick burly Early Wynn measured up today as the best pitcher in the American League — perhaps in baseball.

The Cleveland right hander chalked up his fifth shutout—tops in the majors — and his third in a row Friday night, blanking the second place White Sox, 1-0, on six hits as Larry Doby hit a fifth inning homer for the winning margin.

There were these things also to consider about Wynn. He now has an 11-2 mark, best in the American League and surpassed only by Don Newcombe's 13-1 figure for Brooklyn in the National. He beats the good clubs. In his string of shutouts prior to Friday night he scored his third victory of the season last Sunday with a four-hit job against New York.

That marked the third time Wynn had beaten the Yankees, more than any other pitcher .The only club which has beaten him is Boston with two triumphs. He has beaten every club now including Baltimore and Kansas City twice and Boston, Washington, Chicago and Detroit once.

The victory over Kansas City was achieved in a duel with lefty Billy Pierce, who suffered his fifth defeat. It was the sixth straight loss for the White Sox ,who now are only half a game ahead of the third place Indians.

Yankees Stretch Lead

The Yankees took a 6½ game first place lead with a 7-2 triumph over Washington in which Whitey Ford won his 10th game and Bill Skowron set the hitting pace with four runs batted in on a double and two singles. Andy Carey blew the game wide open with a two-run homer in a four-tally rally in the fourth.

Kansas City came home to a big welcome and rewarded the fans with a 3-2, 7-5 sweep over the Tigers. In the opener Bill Wilson and Joe Astroth hit homers to give Cloyd Boyer his fourth victory and in the second game the Kansas Citians put on a seven inning rally in the seventh. Vic Power led it off with a homer and the other big blow was a three-run double by Wilson.

The Red Sox sent the Orioles down to their 10th straight defeat in 13 innings, 4-3, when Norm Zauchin hit his 16th homer of the season. Ellis Kinder picked up his second victory with three hitless relief innings.

Pirates Beat Brooklyn

In the National League, Vern Law pitched and batted Pittsburgh to a 3-2 victory over Brooklyn, driving in a run with a single and holding them to seven hits. The Cubs cut Brooklyn's lead to 12½ games with a home-run slamming victory over the Cardinals that included a grand slammer by Gene Baker and other route clouts by Hank Sauer, Randy Jackson, and Ernie Banks .Cincinnati also let go with a home run barrage in a 14-2 triumph over Milwaukee that strengthened its hold on fourth place over the New York Giants, who blew a 9-3 decision to the Phillies.

Ted Kluszewski hit his 24th homer for Cincy to tie Duke Snider of Brooklyn for the major league lead and Smokey Burgess, Gus Bell and Wally Post also homered. Joe Adcock hit one for the losers.

Robin Roberts won his 11th game and his fourth in a row over the Giants when the Phillies put over five runs in the eighth inning, two on a single by Marv Blaylock, one on a passed ball by Wes Westrum on a Hoyt Wilhelm knuckle pitch in which he struck out Del Ennis and two on a double by Jim Greengrass.

U. S. Track Stars Win Specialties

HELSINKI, Finland (UP)—Three track and field stars from the United States captured first place in their specialties Friday during an international meet at the Olympic Stadium.

Tom Courtney of Fordham University set a new stadium record of 1:48.3 for 800 meters, bettering the 1:49.2 clocking made by Mal Whitfield of Los Angeles in the 1952 Olympic games.

Bob Backus of New York established a new personal record of 58.63 meters (192.206 feet) in winning the 16-pound hammer throw, while Dick Blair of the University of Kansas won the 200-meter dash in 21.6 seconds.

In the 3,000-meter steeplechase, Pentti Karvonen of Finland bettered the world's record with a winning time of 8:47.8. Ken Reiser of Eugene, Ore., the American two-mile steeplechase champion, finished third.

The U.S. athletes plan to remain in Finland on tour until later this month. They then may visit Czechoslovakia before competing in several meets in Britain.

Phil Rizzuto, Always First Class, Hopes To Stay In Game

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP) --Fearless Fraley's facts and figures:

Little Phil Rizzuto always has gone first class and his last year as an active player is no exception with the "Scooter" at a $30,000 salary being the highest-priced bullpen catcher in baseball.

That's his main function now as, nearing 37, he has lost that extra speed which formerly made up for his lack of stature. Yet Phil still has hopes of remaining in the game "if I get a first class proposition."

Rizzuto hopes for a managerial post no lower than Triple-A or a major league coaching job, other wise he will call it a career. There can be small doubt that what his playing days are over with the Yankees carrying him as high-priced insurance for he has been at bat only 41 times in 35 of the club's 74 games.

Archie Moore, who finally earned a shot at Rocky Marciano's heavyweight championship after a long period of name-calling, is getting a taste of his own medicine. Archie charged for quite a while that the Rock was afrad of him.

Now Archie McBride, the Trenton heavyweight who meets light heavyweight challenger Floyd Patterson at Madison Square Garden on Wednesday night, says that ancient Archie dodged him. McBride claims that Moore cancelled a bout with him a few months ago because "He heard I licked Nino Valdes, even though I lost a split decision, and Moore figures I was too much.'

Happy birthday :Today, Rene La Costa 50 and Chuck Stobbs 26; Sunday, Johnny Palmer 37 and Buddy Rosar 40; Monday, Bob Olin 47; Wednesday, Steve ONeill 64; Thursday, Ezzard Charles 34 and Billy Herman 46.

Milwaukee has really gone all out to make the July 12 major League All-Star game the cause for a week's sports orgy. Throughout the week there will be suc incidental attractions as a golf tournament, stock car races, polo game, horse show and tennis tournament. Nightly there also will be a play entitled "What Every Woman Knows," and don't think some of 'em don't know more about sports than some men.

Willie Mays was really tough on Rube Walker during the recent Giant-Dodger series. In one game he walked up the wall to rob Rube of a big hit, causing Walker to moan: "He wouldn't have done that to a .350 hitter." Then Willie rode into Walker at the plate and put him on the shelf for three days with a badly bruised shoulder. Just after Rube got his big chance to be a daily operator because Roy Campanella was inactive.

There are any number of "systems" for playing the horses but have you heard about the "bird" system? This one was devised by a bettor at Chicago's Washington Park to play the daily double.

He would arrive early and stare at the sky. If one bird fluttered past he would take horse number one in the first race. Then, say, it was a flock of five, he'd take the five horse in the second race. And, y'know som'pin? they say it worked, too.

Proving, no doubt, that picking winners has to be an exact science.

Record-Breaking All-Star Poll Ends Last Night

CHICAGO (UP) — The record-breaking 1955 All-Star baseball poll ended at midnight Friday night. The latest tabulation showed only one major change in the lineup.

Del Ennis, Philadelphia Phillies veteran, took a 16,708 vote lead over Whitey Lockman of the New York Giants for the National League's left field post.

The latest tabulation showed a record 5,172,408 votes cast during the 22-day poll to name starting American and National League lineups for the 22nd All-Star game at Milwaukee, July 12.

Final returns in the promotion directed by the Chicago Tribune in conjunction with 774 newspaper, radio and TV outlets will be announced Monday.

The pitchers, alternate outfielders, infielders and catchers will be named by the rival All-Star managers, Leo Durocher of the New York Giants and Al Lopez of the Cleveland Indians.

PICKETS HAIL END OF STEEL STRIKE—Pickets at Republic Steel's Cleveland, Ohio, rolling mill hail news that the 11½-hour nationwide steel strike is at an end. Agreed-on wage offer averages more than 15 cents an hour, according to steel and union officials.

Bob Lawson Holds Lead In Decathlon

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind. (UP)—Bob Lawson, a rangy Southern California freshman with tremendous stamina and youth on his side, nursed a 151-point lead into the final five events of the National AAU decathlon championships today.

Close on his heels in order and with less than 200 points separating them were Jim Podoley of Central Michigan College, Joel Shankle of Duke and defending champion Rev. Bob Richards of the Los Angeles Athletic Club.

Lawson, who defeated Richards in a West Coast meet recently—his first decathlon effort—Compiled 3886 points in Friday's five events.

He finished ahead of the pack in the 400 meters in :51.3, tied Dale Saxton of Eastern New Mexico in the high jump at 6 feet, 4 inches for another first, copped second in the broad jump, tied for fourth in the 100 meters and finished fifth in the shot put.

Today's program included the 110 meter high hurdles, discus which closes the show at Ingalls Field at Wabash College.

Al Kaline Boasts Best Batting Mark In Major Leagues

NEW YORK (UP)—Al Kaline, the 20-year-old Detroit Tiger outfielder who never played in the minors, boasted the best batting mark in the majors in the midweek averages.

Kaline led American League batters for the fourth week in a row and his .370 average left him 37 points ahead of his nearest rival, Nelly Fox (.333) of the Chicago White Sox. The figures included players with 175 or more times at bat through Wednesdays day games.

Kaline, who has faced only two kinds of pitching — high school and big league -- also led the majors in hits with 101 for 274 times at bat.

Al Smith (.321) of Cleveland Indians, Harvey Kuenn ([illegible]) of Detroit and Larry Doby (.312) of Cleveland were 3-4-5 in the American League batting race.

Richie Ashburn of the Philadelphia Phillies raised his average two points since last week and paced National League hitters for the fifth straight time. His .355 mark gave him a 19-point lead over Don Mueller .336) of the New York Giants.

Roy Campanella (.335) of the Brooklyn Dodgers, Ted Kluszewski (.328) of the Cincinnati Redlegs and Bill Virdon (.327) of the St. Louis Cardinals rounde dout the top five hitters in the National League.

strike production schedules will not be reached generally until after the July 4 holiday.

About seven hours after news of the wage agreement was announced, President Clifford F. Hood of U.S. Steel Corp. disclosed his company would hike its prices about 5.8 per cent, or nearly 17.50 a ton, effective July 6.

The price increases will raise the average price of U.S. Steel - produced ingots from $125 a ton to $132.50. Hood estimated the new price scale would raise the cost of steel in automobiles selling between $2,500 and $3,000 by about $15, in a refrigerator 90 cents and a $25 toaster four cents.

Hood said the boosts would exert "only a minor influence upon the cost of the finished product that the consumer buys."

The price boost, he said, was necessitated by "powerful inflaaffected every phase" of the steel tionary forces which have seriously industry's operations for the past 15 years.

First Tournament Appearance For New Open Champion

MILWAUKEE (UP)—Jack Fleck will make his first tournament appearance since his spectacular victory in the U.S. Open golf tournament when he plays in the $35,000 Miller Open July 14-17. Other "name golfers" who have announced they will compete in the tournament are Frank Holscher, Porky Oliver, Doug Ford and Davie Douglas.

Dark Glasses, Rope Arouse Suspicion

NEW YORK (UP) — Detectives Ray Dukes and Jean Vertefeuille got suspicious Friday when they saw two men wearing dark glasses and carrying a length of rope enter a construction company office — so they waited outside.

When the men emerged without the rope the detectives searched them and found a loaded pistol, $105 in cash and an expensive wrist watch .Inside the office, the sleuth, found office manager Victor Bendel, neatly tied. The two men, JulioVivo and Joseph Villalba Jr. were booked for robbery.

Newspaper Boy Returns Wallet With Over $55,000 In It

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (UP)—Thirteen-year-old Joseph Borrello found a wallet containing $55,664 in cash and negotiable bank notes on U.S. 131 while delivering news papers on his paper route Tuesday.

The wallet's owner, Robert Erath, South Bend, I. told police the wallet apparently fell out of his car as he was driving back to Indiana.

THIS HISTORY-MAKING TRACTOR will be among those shown at the Centennial of Farm Mechanization at Michigan State University in East Lansing, August 15-20. It's the first low-pressure, rubber-tired tractor ever used on a farm. At the wheel is its former owner, Albert F. Schroeder, Waukesha, Wis. who farmed with this machine from 1932 until 1946. Now, it's being shipped from the museum of the Wisconsin Historical Society to Michigan State where other famous old-timers and first-timers will be gathered from all over the country. The Centennial is a drama that will give in one sweep many of the developments of farm machinery that has made this one of the best-fed nations on the earth.

Cultivation, Weeding Of Crops Well Under Way In Indiana

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) —Cultivation and weeding of seasonal crops is well under way with an adequate supply of labor and favorable weather conditions, the Indiana Employment Security Division reports in its weekly Farm Labor Bulletin.

Local youths are being recruited for hybrid seed corn detasseling in the corn growing areas in about two weeks.

The bulletin minimized the extent of hail damage to a small acreage in the Logansport area.

The report by areas:

ANDERSON: Pea harvest ending. Quality reported as good. Blocking and hoeing of tomatoes in full swing. Out of area workers 310, including 246 Texas Mexicans.

CONNERSVILLE: A week of comparative dryness has been beneficial to all crops. Cultivating is bringing the weed situation under control; No out of area workers.

LFORT WAYNE: Tomato crop reported in excellent condition. Southern parts of area 10 days to 2 weeks early in progress. Preventive spraying and dusting continue. ut of area workers 366, including 210 Texas Mexicans.

INDIANAPOLIS: Pea harvest completed, crop reported as fair to good in both yield and quality. Good weather enabled tomato growers to step up blocking and hoeing activities. Out of area workers 479, including 308 Texas Mexicans.

LAFAYETTE: Pea harvest ended June 21. Quality reported as good. Tomato blocking is completed. Some weeding, the only activity. gno out of area workers.

LAPORTE: Truck garden planting, weeding, and picking continue as the primary activity. Out of area workers 5.

LOGANSPORT: All crops reported in good condition except approximately 400 acres of hybrid seed corn which was damaged by hail. Weeding of muck crops and tomatoes continues. Transfer of season workers among the growers has prevented any acute shortage. Special recruitment of hybrid seed corn detasselers is progressing favorably. Out of area workers 443, all Texas Mexicans.

MARTIN: Hoeing and weeding of tomatoes continues. Crop reported as good. Out of area workers 174, all Texas Mexicans.

Muncie: Iproved weather conditions enabled workers almost to complete blocking and hoeing of the tomato crop. Weeds have ceased to be a problem. Out of area workers 69, including 40 Texas Mexicans.

NEW CASTLE: Tomato cultivating and blocking in full sway. Several crew leaders have gone to Michigan to contract for their crews for the cherry harvest. Out of area workers 280, all Texas Mexicans.

PERU: Pea yeild and quality are ported as excellent despite the heavy rains the first part of June. Processing will end this week. British West Indies workers were transferred to Wisconsin to harvest early crop of peas. Resultant shortage of labor only prevented by transferring workers back and forth between fields and canning plants. Tomato and pickle acreage cultivation and weeding under way. Out of area workers 124, including 47 Texas Mexicans.

SOUTH BEND: Weather favorable for cultivating and weeding of all crops. Tomato blocking and pickle dusting continue. Some tomato plants were washed out by recent rains. Out of area workers 254, all Texas Mexicans.

VINCENNES: Early apple picking started. Less than 1,000 bushels of Dutchess and Early Transparent apples in county.

Iowa Attorney General To Rule On Sale Of Caps For Fourth

DES MOINES (UP)—The Iowa attorney general has been asked to rule on whether the sale and use of caps and cap pistols will be legal for this Fourth of July.

The last Iowa Legislature passed a bill seeking to legalize the sale and use of caps and cap pistols. But it forgot to revise a section of the law banning the use of all fireworks, except when part of a supervised exhibition. The attorney general's office said it will try to have a ruling before Friday.

Distant Wheat Contracts Stand Out Alone At The Close

CHICAGO (UP)—Distant wheat contracts stood out alone above the steady mark at the close of the Board of Trade this week.

Compared to Friday a week ago, wheat ruled 2 cents a bushel lower to 3¾ higher; corn ½ to 1 lower; oats ¾ to 1¾ lower; 463 1¾ to 2¾ lower; soybeans 2¼ to 4¼ lower; lard 8 to 13 points a 100 pounds lower.

Cash wheat declined about 1½ to 3 cents as the result of new crop arrivals. Cash corn sold about 1 cent higher, and oats were ¼ to ½ cents higher with offerings scarce and demand strong. Cash soybeans were unchanged.

Wheat futures made strong gains at the start of the week after farmers voted approval of continued marketing quotas. The bread cerea lalso was given a boost by the fact that weather in the winter wheat belt was unfavorable for marketing during most of the week.

On Friday, however, the prospect for heavy receipts of wheat during the long weekend overshadowed that development. Another bearish factor in the wheat market Friday was the heavy decline in prices at outside markets, started by reports that 140,000 bushels of wheat would be tendered at Kansas City against the July contract.

Domestic flour business qas quiet following small sales to the family trade Thursday, but millers expect the business to pick up considerably after the winter wheat harvest reaches its peak this month.

Rye futures advanced Thursday after an announcement from Washington that imports of rye will not be increased during the next two years but will be restricted to present levels.

Rye, corn, oats and soybeans faided to survive pressure of favorable crop and weather reports, however.

The markets also were unsettled Friday by word that the barley rye, oats and grain sorghums to the trade at sharply reduced prices. In most cases, government officials said, the new offering pr ices for wheat and the other grains are above market levels. But in some instances—certain types of premium wheat, for example—the new minimum sale prices are below market values.

The Chicago market apparently was little affected by reports Thursday that Russia was interested in buying 25-million bushels of Canadian wheat. But traders paid considerable attention to news that Western Germany would be in the market Wednesday for 5,595,000 bushels of U.S. hard wheat and 3,357,000 bushels of Canadian wheat.

Step-Father Of Newell Rice Dies At Berne Friday Night

Heart Attack Is Cause Of Death

Louis Neaderhouser, 75, step-father of Newell Rice of this city, died unexpectedly of a heart attack at his home in Berne about mid-night last night.

Mr. Headerhouser was a retired rural mail carrier and is known here for his activities in the Indiana Rural Mail Carriers Association. He had suffered a serious heart condition for about eight years, but nevertheless his death was unexpected.

He was born at Linn Grove, Indiana and has lived his entire life in the Berne community. The body was removed to the Yager Funeral Home at Berne, but funeral arrangements are not complete.

Mr. Rice has been a teacher in the Columbia City schools for 27 years.

18 New Stamps In Ordinary Series Issued

Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield has announced the subjects for the remaining 12 stamps in the new ordinary series. The series will consist of 18 denominations depicting six former Presidents of the United States six featuring historic national shrines, and six honoring famous Americans.

The ordinary series of postage stamps has not been revised since 1938, when thirty-two stamps were issued. Denominations for the 18 new stamps have been selected so that it will not require more than two stamps for any mailing up to sixty cents.

The fourteen stamps discontinued are the 4½C, 11c to 19c inclusive, 21c, 22c, 24c, and $2.00. As soon as the present supply of these stamps is exhausted, no more will be printed.

In commenting of the new series the postmaster said, "Careful thought was given to the subject matter for these stamps. The Presidents included in this series were chosen because it was felt that they made great contributions to the welfare of our country during significant periods of its development. The historic shrines selected perpetuate some of our most cherished traditions. The six famous Americans are all outstanding figures in our public life who have executed great influence in the affairs of the nation."

Presidents 1c George Washington, 2c Thomas Jefferson, 4c Abraham Lincoln, 5c James Monroe, 6c Theodore Roosevelt, 7c Woodrow Wilson.

Historic Shrines 1½c Mount Vernon, 3c Statue of Liberty "In God We Trust", 8c Bi-colored Statue of Liberty "In God We Trust", 9c The Alamo, 10c Independence Hall, 20c Monticello.

Famous Americans ½c Benjamin Franklin, 30c Robert E. Lee, 40c John Marshall, 50c Susan B. Anthony, $1.00 Patrick Henry, $5.00 Alexander Hamilton.

Quakers Get Gromyko To Look At Peace Plans

Proposal Presented To Soviet Foreign Office

MOSCOW (UP) —A group of American Quakers reported today they had got Acting Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko interested in their own blueprint for peace.

Clarence E. Pickett of Philadelphia, secretary emeritus of the American Friends Service Committee, presented the proposal to Gromyko in an interview at the Soviet Foreign Office Friday night.

Pickett said Gromyko had studied the plan and "evinced interest."

Pickett said the Quakers' proposal for peace — and checking armaments — is based on the International Labor rganizations (ILO) scheme for inspection of factories by its inspectors for spot checks on labor conditions.

He said the ILO constitution provides for inspectors to have free access to factories at any time and to have permission to question workers without informing the management.

The ILO inspectors, Pickett said, also can examine the books of any factory they choose, without giving prior warning.

"Mr. Gromyko didn't seem to be aware that this system is already in use, and he appeared interested," Pickett reported.

Pickett, who said he previously met Gromyko at U.N. sessions in New York and Paris, said he told him the ILO pattern might be used by an international disarmament commission.

Gromyko smiled and said "disarmament is a very difficult problem," he reported.

"Mr. Gromyko said the Soviet delegation would be interested in any thinking about the problem of governmental or non governmental bodies and encouraged us to send along some further ideas," Pickett said. "The interview was very satisfactory for me.'

Pickett said Gromyko was "extremely friendly" while they discussed other matters and gave permission to Pickett to take rolls of undeveloped film out of the country.

Man Shot To Death As Cop Killer Claimed Innocence

POINT OF THE MOUNTAIN, Utah (UP)—Protesting his innocence to the last, Don Jesse Neal was shot to death Friday for the 1951 murder of a Salt Lake City policeman.

"I am innocent,' the former housepainter told Sheriff George Beckstead, who served as executioner.

"But I have no malice toward anyone," he added seconds before the four slugs from five 30-30 caliber rifles ripped through the black-shaped heart which served as a target for the five marksmen hidden behind a canvas drop only 20 feet from where he was strapped to a wooden chair.

The signal for the execution was given at 6:02 a.m. CST. He was pronounced dead a couple of minutes later. Witnesses to the execution were not admitted until 60 seconds before the rifles barked their death signal at sunrise.

Neal Given Sedative

The peaked, black hood already had been placed over Neal's head and face. He was nervously clinching and unclinching his fists as he spoke his last words to Sheriff Beckstead and the prison chaplain, the Rev. Robert Pollock of the Salt Lake Catholic church.

"Newsmen did not see the signal which set the executioners rifles ablaze.

Warden Marcell Graham said Neal had been given a sedative before he began the walk from his death cell to the especially constructed execution site at the south side of the prison.

Courteous drivers allow ample clearance when passing.

Brancato, Swager Sign With Cardinals

CHICAGO (UP) —George Brancato and Bruce Schwager, both of Brooklyn, have signed 1955 contracts with the Chicago Cardinals, managing director Walter Wolfner announced today.

Schwager, a graduate of Kings Point, N. Y., College, was the Cards' 27th draft choice this year. Brancato joined the Cardinals last year and played defensive half-back.

Coach Ray Richards said he plans to use Brancato at right half on offense this season in addition to defensive chores.

Peron Asserts Government Was Not Weakened

By The Attempt Made By Rebel Forces

SANTIAGO, Chile (UP)—Argentine President Juan D. Peron stated today that his government was not weakened by the abortive revolt of Roman Catholics in Buenos Aires June 16.

In an interview with former Chilean Senator Maria de la Cruz, Peron also declared that he is still a Catholic despite his excommunication by the Vatican, which he said, was prompted possibly "by obfuscation or lack of information."

The interview was recorded at Peron's headquarters in Buenos Aires and transmitted today by Radio Corporacion of Santiago.

The Argentine leader branded the organizers of the bloody revolt as "cowards." He said that "to kill General Peron is the easiest thing in the world."

Peron added that the only problem in Argentina today is the clerical controversy.

"Peron was not elected by the Pope or any other authority," he stated emphatically. "He follows only the dictates of his people."

In Buenos Aires, meanwhile, the Peron regime showed signs of increasing conciliation towards the Roman Catholic Church.

Four new ministers sworn in Friday used the old form of constitutional oath for the first time since before the revolt. This oath refers to God and the Holy Gospels — references that were dropped from swearing in ceremonies for several weeks.

Body Of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, Famed Novelist, Exhumed

CROWBOROUGH, England (UP) —Grave diggers sworn to secrecy exhumed the body of Sir Arthur Cowan Doyle today from an eerie, weed-grown garden where it has lain for 25 years.

The heavy oaken, lead - lined caskets containing the last remains of the author of the Sherlock Holmes mysteries and his wife were taken to a London undertaker.

Relatives of the author and spiritualist kept mum—all they would say was that exhumation certificates were issued by Home Secretary Maj. Gwilym Lloyd George.

Villagers in this quiet Sussex hamlet learned of the exhumation from a passing milkman making his early rounds.

The only immediate clue was that Windlesham House, Doyle's residence from 1907 until his death in 1930 at the age of 71, is for sale. Presumably the bodies were to be re-interred elsewhere.

Police Scouring Countryside For Bank Bandits

Robbed Henryville Bank Of $10,000

HENRYVILLE, Ind. (UP)—Police scoured the countryside today for two masked gunmen who robbed the Henryville branch of the New Washington State Bank of more than $10,000 and disappeared in a stolen auto.

The men, wearing gray masks and "ordinary work clothes," entered the tiny, new bank an hour before closing time Friday and forced several persons at gunpoint to lie on the floor.

Mrs. Edith Koopman, manager and assistant cashier, said the bandits "held guns on me and I turned over the cash to them." She said they threatened persons who moved while lying on the floor and told them to stay down for five minutes after they left.

State Police said the robbers scooped up $10,581 in a wastebasket, including $1,500 in dimes. They fled with the wastebasket and sped away in a waiting car.

The car, reported stolen at Jeffersonville, was found abandoned near Otisco, along a deserted country road about six miles from the scene. It was not known whether an accomplice was driving the car.

Mrs. Koopman said she was in the back room when the bandits entered. She said she heard an auto running, but didn't see the car.

The FBI was called o nthe case, and State Police and sheriff's officers set up road blocks in a wide area. Police said two suspects were arrested in a roadblock but were released whe n bank employes failed to identify them.

Authorities theorized the bandits may have intended to enter just before closing time, not knowing the bank closes at 3 p.m. instead of an hour earlier.

One of the bandits was described as about 5 feet 6, with light complexion, the other about 6 feet with dark hair.

It was the first robbery for the bank, located in a small town about 17 miles north of Jeffersonville.

Mrs. Koopman seemed unrattled by her first robbery.

"Oh, yes, I was frightened," she said.

Throughout the nation, Americans prepared for traditional Independence Day ceremonies on Monday. Some of the ceremonies will be dedicated to the servicemen who died preserving this country's independence.

One prominent ex-serviceman, President Eisenhower, started the holiday weekend Friday by celebrating his 39th wedding anniversary.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower celebrated by playing host to the White House staff at a picnic on their Gettysburg, Pa., farm. Then they headed, guests and all, to Camp David in the nearby Catoctin Mountains, where accomodations are larger and cooler.

Forty-two states now ban fireworks in one form or another, 28 of them under a model law which prohibits all use except in authorized public displays.

Legal bans have sharply reduced the number of deaths from fireworks. Last Fourth of July there were four such deaths in the nation.

But the biggest worry, as usual, was the automobile and state and local officials pleaded with drivers to exercise caution.

In the Chicago area, planes will relay information to a radio station which will broadcast advice to motorists on where to find uncongested roads.

In Indiana, members of the Federation of Women's Clubs conducted a "chain" telephone call campaign to promote safe driving. Each member called four persons and asked them to call four others.

Iowa authorities announced a plan to fly nine planes and two helicopters over the state during the holiday period to check on traffic conditions and keep patrolmen on the ground informed by radio.

Manchester Girl Named "Queen Of The Lakes"

Mermaid Festival Ends Monday Night

The 1955 "Queen of the Lakes" was selected Monday evening in the final night of the Mermaid Festival at North Webster.

The queen, who succeeds Miss Jackie Blue of Mentone, is Miss Barbara Ann Bender, 17-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Todd Bender, North Manchester. She competed in the contest as "Miss North Manchester." She was chosen by the Pi Kappa Sigma Sorority of Ball State Teachers College at Muncie. Lt.-Gov. Harold Handley was present for the coronation and placed the crown on the head of "Miss North Manchester."

Second place in the annual beauty contest was won by Miss Sandra Brubaker, competing as "Miss Pierceton." She is the 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Brubaker and will be a junior in Pierceton high school this fall.

Miss Sandra Ballenger, who competed as "Miss Beaver Dam Lake," was the third place winner. She is 17 and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Ballenger, of Claypool. She was sponsored by the Sportsman's Club of Beaver Dam Lake.

South Bend won the Mermaid Festival basketball tourney, dropping Kokomo 65-60 in the finals. In the afternoon semi-finals Kokomo edged out Wheelers of Etna 55-53, and South Bend had nosed Milford 35-34.

Greta Patterson Rests After Long Lake Erie Swim

BATAVIA, N.Y. (UP) — Greta Patterson, attractive 18-year-old swimmer who conquered the 15-mile expanse of Lake Erie between Angola, N.Y., and Crystal Beach, Ont. rested at her Batavia home today content "not to see any more water for quite a while."

Battling choppy water and stomach cramps a good part of the long haul Miss Patterson was pulled from the lake at 7:38 o'clock Monday night, just 13 hours and 3 minutes after she plunged into the 65-degree water off Angola Beach.

The blond beauty, who was graduated from Batavia High School this June, swam much of the distance without a bathing suit to prevent chafing and to eliminate any drag in the water. However, when the flotilla of welcoming boats began to circle off Crystal Beach, she donned her suit again.

A crowd estimated at 30,000 greeted the 138-pound long distance swimmer with thunderous cheers as she reached the Crystal Beach amusement park pier. Fireworks were set off the boat sirns soundd as the chilled girl was wrapped in a blanket by her trainer, Lawrence Slocum.

James Sherwood Is New County REMC Electrical Advisor

James Sherwood is now employed by the Whitley County REMC as the replacement to James Craig as electrical advisor.

A native of Mitchell, he graduated from high school there in 1944 and from Purdue University in 1949. He worked three years with the REA before joining the Marine Corps for two years. He completed his military service in 1954 and has been associated with his brother in the retail lumber business in Logan, Ohio since that time.

The Sherwoods are living in Etna-Troy township on the Jim Craig farm. They have no children. They are members of the St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Logan, Ohio. Mr. Sherwood was a 2nd Lt. in the Ohio National Guard, a member of the Jaycees, and a Mason.

QUEEN OF PARADE - "Miss Columbia City" was named Queen of the Mermaid Parade Friday evening, and Miss Charity Meyer, above, receives the parade trophy from Lt.-Gov. Harold Handley. She received the trophy, a bouquet, and $100 check. The money will go to local queen contest committee.

Wheat Tests Here Indicate Good Harvest

Showers Prolong Harvest In Earnest

The showers here Monday afternoon and evening temporarily halted wheat harvesting in this county, which up to the time of the rain had progressed into the "sampling" stages.

Local elevators report several instances of farmers making initial tests and say these indicate a good wheat harvest.

The Columbia Grain Co. reported testing grain for Lester Barney that went 61 pounds per bushel and 13.3 per cent moisture. Carl Auer had some tested at the Farmers Grain & Feed Co. that went 63 pounds per bushel and 12.1 moisture. This wheat reportedly yielded 50 bushels per acre. On Monday, one sample was tested at the Farmers Elevator in South Whitley that went 61 pounds per bushel and contained 13.6 per cent moisture. Two of these tests were made on Knox wheat.

Harvey Lawrence and Howard Smith report combining their Knox wheat which tested 62 pounds per bushel and contained 14 per cent moisture. They have not finished their harvest but estimate the grain will yield 50 bushels per acre.

One elevator operator stated he had reports from further south, near Marion, that the wheat there was good, testing 60 and 62 pounds per bushel.

Area Minister Is CROP Head

The Rev. George A. Hunn, of the Church of the Brethren at North Manchester, was appointed director of the Christian Rural Overseas Program recently.

"Our brothers overseas need the help of we who live in abundant America, and we need the opportunity to share or we die spiritually," said the Rev. Hunn.

It is the aim of CROP to organize at least half the counties in Indiana to canvass for commodities under CROP. Thousands of refugees still don't have food they need. Thousands of already undernourished persons lose everything, or practically everything, annually from natural disasters droughts. Through CROP, rural America is trying to help these persons abroa dwho have such great need, he said.

The Rev. Hunn and his wife and family recently moved to North Manchester from Wisconsin, where he had been active in CROP activities.

Speakers Assert Politics Cause School Trouble

Responsible For Classroom Shortage

CHICAGO (UP)— The National Education Assn. exploded some Fourth of July fireworks in the direction of the U.S. Office of Education.

Speakers and delegates to the NEA's 93rd annual convention accused the federal agency of being dominated by partisan politics and mainly responsible for the critical national classroom and teacher shortage.

Meanwhile, a leading NEA official charged the federal government with largely ignoring education in the United States while helping educational programs in other lands.

The charge of partisan politics came in a resolution by NEA teachers which said in part:

"The department views with concern indications of continuing partisan political domination of the United States Office of Education. It believes that the development of education, whether at the local, state or national level, should be placed above all temporary and partisan political issues."

Earl J. McGrath, U.S. education commissioner during the Truman administration and now president of the University of Kansas City, called upon the education profession to organize for "nonpartisan political pressure" on the government for federal aid.

McGrath charged that lagging support of the Office of Education by the government is largely responsible for the present shortage of teachers and classrooms. He said this plight is "more serious than at any time in our history."

Meanwhile, William G. Carr, NEA executive secretary, said the Eisenhower administration is bypassing educational problems in the U.S. while financing "far-flung programs" for other nations.

Carr said this foreign program was "splendid," but "at home education has been too largely ignored by our national government."

Arlo Schilling Is Back From 15,000-Mile Europe Trip

Arlo Schilling, principal of the Coesse school for the past three years, returned June 30 from a 15,000-mile European trip. The trip included a 1200 mile auto tour of England, Scotland and Wales and visits to Belgium, Holland, Germany, Italy, Switzerland, and France. Prior to sailing on the Queen Elizabeth for Europe Mr. and Mrs. Schilling visited the United Nations in New York City. While there they attended a session of the Economic Council. The Schillings made the trip with Mr. Schilling's brother, Paul Schilling, principal of the Shipshewana high school, and Rev. H. J. Berger of Elkhart.

The group visited the major cities and the famous and historical sites. Some of the highlights were: Seeing Queen Elizabeth of England as she left Buckingham palace for the Derby, a visit to Waterloo, Amsterdam, The Hague Berlin, (including two days in the Russian Sector) Frankfurt, Heidelburg, Zurich, Lucern, Susanne, Geneva, Milano, Venice, Rome where they saw the Pope, Florence, Paris, and Versailles. The return trip was made on the Queen Elizabeth. The group took approximately 3,000 color slides of important places and rural areas of all countries visited. Also they obtained many pictures of schools in the various places during the six-week trip. The three will use the slides in their respective fields throughout the coming years.

Mr. Schilling will be the high school principal at Montpelier this fall.

Only 9 Killed In Traffic In This State

During Weekend— Total Was 23 Persons

By UNITED PRESS

Indiana motorists held traffic deaths to a "reasonable" level during the Independence Day week-end, but drownings during the hot holiday period kept the accident toll high.

At least 23 persons were killed from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Monday, but only nine died in traffic. Drownings claimed 11 lives. Two men were killed by lighning and another died in a fall from a cliff.

Christ Vassele, 29, Kokomo, was hit by a lightning bolt near Leiters Ford during a thunderstorm Monday as he stood along the Tippecanoe River near his summer cottage. He died three hours later.

Carl Loeffler, 46, Crown Point, was killed by a lightning bolt as he played golf at a course near his home town Monday.

Lawrence Grover, 44, Brownsburg, fell 30 feet to a rocky ledge while fishing near Cloverdale Saturday. He died later in a hospital.

6 Die in 10 Hours

The traffic victims included Donald Brimmer, 22, East Gary, killed in a collision in Lake County Sunday; Lawrence Ford, 26, Ambia, who died in a three-car collision in Warren County Monday, and Phillip E. Kidwell, 3, Vincennes, killed when his father's car hit a tree near Vincennes Monday.

Before those deaths were reported, six fatalities were recorded on highways by 4 a.m. Saturday. It was more than 48 hours before any later accidents came to the attention of State Police.

Drownings killed more persons than traffic, as thousands of holiday celebrants thronged to beaches and pools seeking relief from temperatures which climbed to 100 degrees.

Donald Hardin, 21, Muncie, drowned in a private lake in Delaware County Monday midnight.

Greg Coatley, 5, son of a Louisville, Ky., couple, lost his life in Spring Mill State Park lake Monday, and Fred Kelly, 8, Terre Haute, drowned in a gravel pit near his home city Monday.

Killed Outside State

Earlier drowning victims were Michael Otano, 12, East Chicago, who drowned at Gary; M.C. Jones, 19, Rising Sun, who drowned in the Ohio River in the shadow of a showboat which docked for a holiday performance near his home; Wesley Swanigan, 50, Rushville, in the Little Flatrock River; Roger Duff, 20, Indianapolis, near Shoals; Lavon Smith, 14, Muncie, in a stream near that city; Kenneth Mandabach, 16, Washington, in White River; Edgar Ewing, 27, Logansport, in the Wabash River.

A number of Hoosiers were killed in other states.

Mrs. Lois Martinusen, 27, South Bend, was killed in traffic in Chicago Sunday. John Butler, 29, Milford, was killed Sunday in traffic near Watseka, Ill. Nicholas Bellello, 11, South Bend, dornwed in Eagle Lake in Michigan. Bernard L. Eyanson, 32, and George Wagner, Decatur, were killed in a 3-car collision on U.S. 127 in Mercer County, Ohio.

Second Daughter Born To The Robert Straubs

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Straub, R 4, are the parents of a second daughter, Kathy Susan, born Sunday at the Whitley County Hospital. The baby weighed 6 pounds.

Mrs. Straub is the former Eileen Potts. The couple has three other children, two sons and a daughter.

Rain Cancels Fireworks; To Be August 12

New Date Set For Old Settlers Week

For the first time since 1938 when the annual 4th of July fireworks celebration originated rain forced the postponement of the display.

The first community fireworks were held in Columbia City in 1938 when the late George Obermiller was commander of American Legion Post 98. This was the year that fireworks were declared illegal in Indiana.

The fireworks display will be held Friday night, August 12 at 9 p.m. during the annual Old Settler-Legion Festival in Columbia City.

It was impossible to hold the display tonight as first planned as many of the set pieces became too wet. Radio and TV weather reports had indicated no rain and the set pieces were constructed early Monday morning by representatives of the Killian Fireworks Company of Fort Wayne.

The total funds received for this year's display were $819.00. The unused balance will be carried over until next year, Robert Erdmann chairman of the fireworks committee, said.

Previous balance	$800.00
Kroger Company	10.00
Franklin Security Co.	5.00
Frank Goodrich	2.00
George Holloway	1.00
Linda Marie Aker	1.00

Three Former U. S. Soldiers To Be In Hong Kong

Next Saturday, Word From The Reds

HONG KONG (UP) — The U.S. consulate general here has been officially informed that the Indian Red Cross expects the three former American soldiers who chose to remain with the Communists and then changed their minds to arrive in Hong Kong from Red China July 9, an American spokesman said today.

"We are expecting them Saturday,' the spokesman said. "ur assumption they are coming Saturday is based on the assumption the Indiains know what they are talking about.'

The three Americans, who face possible prosecution in Amerfican courts on their return, are Otho Bell, Lewie Griggs and William Coward. Prisoners of the Communists during the Korean War, they refused repatriation and chose Communism.

The Indian Red Cross in New Delhi Monday cabled the British Red Cross here to meet the Americans at the border and assist them in any way possible.

Barn On Harry Clark Farm Burns Saturday

A barn on the Harry Clark farm, 5 miles east of the junction of roads 9 and 14, burned to the ground Saturday.

The fire reportedly started about 11:20 a.m.

Losses include a combine, a hay baler, about 1,000 bales of hay, about 200 bales of straw, and two pigs.

Fire departments from Laud and Arcola answered the call.

Speaker Claims GOP Blocks Ike's Housing Program

Appears To Be In Serious Jeopardy

By UNITED PRESS

Speaker Sam Rayburn Tuesday accused Republicans of blocking President Eisenhower's public housing program.

Housing is one of three major proposals in the President's domestic program which appeared to be in serious jeopardy as Congress entered what its leaders say will be the final month before adjournment.

Other presiidential programs in trouble include federal aid for school construction and liberalization of the refugee law.

Rayburn said Republican votes are holding up the housing program annd it is up to the administration to do something. Republicans on the House Rules Committee voted against approval of the program. Enough Democrats sided with them to produce a tie vote keeping the measure from the House floor.

On the Senate side, leaders were confident of meeting the end-of-month adjournment goal despite the iillness of Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.) His week-end heart attack will keep him away from the Senate at least until January.

Acting Democratic Leader Earle C. Clements (Ky.) said the Senate is "over the hump" in its work. He attributed that in part to the "fine cooperation' of Republican Leader William F. Knowland (Calif.).

Other congressional news:

Johnson: Sen. Johnson's doctor said he should be able to return to the Senate next January if he has no further heart attacks. The Texan has been in an oxygen tent since he suffered a heart attack Saturday night. President Eisenhower, who tiffed briefly with Johnson last week over this Congress' record, sent a personal note wishing the Democratic leader speedy recovery.

Peace ship: Sen. Knowland said administration forces will make another attempt to get congressional approval for President Eisenhower's proposed atoms-for-peace ship. Both houses have refused once to okay the atom-powered merchant ship. Knowland said he expects "an additional effort on an atomic merchant vessel in some form."

Dixon-Yates: Knowland predict defeat for any attempt in the Senate to delete all funds for the Dixon-Yates private power project from the public works money bill. Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) had forecast a fight to eliminate 6½ million dollars in Dixon-Yates funds from the bill. But Knowland said there is enough bipartisan support for the item to defeat such a move.

Program: Part of the President's domestic program faced an uncertain future in the 84th Congress.

Woody Jones Spends First Day In Chamber Of Commerce Here

Woodfin Jones has completed the week's course of the National Institute for Commercial and Trade Organization Executives at Northwestern University and spent his first day in the office of Columbia City Chamber of Commerce today. He officially became executive secretary of the local Chamber last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones and daughter will move here from Churubusco in a few days as soon as interior work on the home they will occupy at 331 N. Walnut street is completed. The residence is owned by Jack Stalf.

Huntington Driver Unconscious; Motorists Ignore All Safety Pleas

Several people were hurt in four one-car automobile accidents over the weekend.

Most seriously hurt, and in critical condition and unconscious at the Whitley County Hospital is Marvin C. Pulley, 37, R 2, Huntington. Pulley received head and chest injuries.

The accident happened at midnight Saturday, 2 miles north of South Whitley on road 5. Pulley, southbound, lost control of his automobile and went off the highway on the right hand side and struck a culvert. The front wheels and axle of his 1941 Ford were knocked off by the impact, according to state police, who said the car was a total loss.

Pulley was tossed out the window and was found unconscious in an oat field about 60 feet from the automobile. A passing motorist saw the wrecked car. He notified Officer William Bowman of South Whitley and the latter went to the scene, found Pulley and called state police. Mr. Pulley is the operator of a car wash unit.

Faces Charge

John H. Lind, 18, 139 Riverside, Huntington, faces trial in city court next Saturday on a charge of reckless driving as a result of an accident at the Eel River bridge in South Whitley at 12:30 a.m. Saturday. He and three other youths had been at the Mermaid festival at North Webster and were on their way home.

According to state police who investigated, Lind went through town at a high rate of speed in his 1950 Chevrolet, ran the 5 and 14 stop sign and rolled over at the Eel River bridge, partially blocking traffic. Damage to the automobile was estimated at $600.

Lind received serious abrasions and road burns on his left arm. He was thrown out. James McClendon, 18, Huntington, suffered cuts and bruises, Basil A. Rice, 17, Huntington, abrasions, Ronald M. Jacobs, 19, Chicago, formerly of Huntington, cuts. All four were taken to the Whitley County Hospital where they were treated and dismissed.

Two young men from Rome City, Edward and Ronald Enswell, received cuts and were treated and

The nation's motorists "celebrated" Independence Day with 391 traffic deaths, a new record for a three-day July fourth weekend.

Drivers ignored the pleas of safety officials and broke the record of 356 deaths set in the three-day observance in 1952.

A United Press tally from 6 p.m. Friday through midnight Monday showed 391 persons killed in traffic. The heat wave sent drownings zooming to a total of 241. Fireworks killed only one, but 13 died in plane crashes and 137 in miscellaneous accidents for a total of 783.

Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council, said 420 Americans were killed and wounded in the battle of Bunker Hill, fighting for the freedom of America.

"Over this last weekend — 180 years from Bunker Hill — almost 400 Americans were killed in the battle of the highways," he said. "Those who fell at Bunker Hill died for a cause. Can we say the same for the casualties in the battle of the highways?"

California led all states with 42 traffic deaths. Michigan had 20, Illinois and Pennsylvania 18 each, and Iowa 16. Only North Dakota, Vermont and the District of Columbia reported no traffic deaths.

One American died on the highways every 15 minutes during the weekend slaughter. An estimated 40 million cars clogged the roads,

Chamber Directors To Meet Wednesday

The directors of the Columbia City Chamber of Commerce and members of the chamber's public affairs committee will meet Wednesday at 12:00 noon at the 30 club.

John J. Meehan, of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, will speak on "Public Affairs."

Everybody Had A Hot Time Over The Fourth Weekend

This past weekend has been the hottest Fourth of July weekend on record since the weather bureau records were begun here in 1938 and is believed to be an all time high for this early in July.

Saturday the mercury reached 95, Sunday, 97 and Monday saw it falling just one degree short of the century mark, a scorching 99 before rain caused the mercury to dip to 68 degrees within a few hours.

Previous high was in July, 1949, when temperatures of 96, 95 and 95 were recorded for July 2, 3 and 4, respectively. The 96 on July 2 was higher than this Saturday's 95, but the weekend as a whole was much hotter this year.

There was a total of .26 inches of precipitation Monday afternoon and evening.

There's Thunder On The Left Within The Democratic Party; New Dealers In Protests

By LYLE C. WILSN
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — There's thunder on the left within the Democratic Party where the organized New Dealers protest that its House and Senate leadership have lost the old time religion.

This is rank ingratitude so far as Speeaker Sam Rayburn is concerned. Mr. Sam was one of the half dozen men on Capitol Hill who breathed legislative life into the reforms, reorganizations and projects which FDR's bright youngsters conceived downtown in the years 1933-37, or, maybe, 1938.

Those years were about the span of the New Deal as Mr. Roosevelt devised and effected it. War shadows were lengthening in the latter year and it was not long after that that the President, himself, was the target of left wing brickbats like those now being thrown at the speaker or at Sen. Lyndon Johnsonn (D-Tex) the competent Senate Democratic leader who was felled last weekend by a heart attack.

Lefties Begin To Yammer

One day as the war neared and the lefties began to yammer that FDR was ignoring reform for other things, the President read his news conference a typical Rooseveltian homily. It related how the dislocation and fervers of the times back there in the mid-thirties had required the servces of Dr. New Deal. Times and ills had changed, Mr. Roosevelt continued, and the country by now was needing the ministrations of Dr. Win-The-War.

It will take more than a simple statement to silence the critiics of the Rayburn - Johnson program which charts a much more conservative course for the Democratic Party ini this Congress than the left wing elements thereof would choose.

That program calls on the party to go part of the way with President Eisenhower on many an issue, being careful, always, to tag all good works with the Democratic stamp, if possible.

But in neither Johnson nor Rayburn is there any reluctance to fight. Rayburn the old pro among his party's big wigs, is a slugger.

Half Of States Are Represented In Hour

Carter Diffendarfer of this city, who likes to count automobiles when traffic is heavy, counted 975 cars between 4 and 5 p.m. on Monday while seated in his automobile at the Chauncey and Van Buren street intersection.

During this time he said that, including Indiana, half of the 48 states were represented.

It was the opinion of the state police that traffic was heaviest on Friday and Saturday and that it was not so heavy on Monday, whether due to rain or heat could not be told.

One state policeman said that official state police records showed Indiana had no fatalities the last 50 hours unless, of course, some of those in critical condition do die.

Einstein Gives To World Message On Nuclear Weapons

LONDON (UP)—Albert Einstein has bequeathed a last message to the world on nuclear weapons, the destructive product of the renowned physicists discoveries which saddened his last days on earth, Bertrand Russell disclosed today.

Lord Russell, the famed philosopher, was a close friend of Einstein. Today he invited newsmen of all nations to hear Einstein's final message revealed at a conference next Saturday.

Russell sent out hundreds of letters over his signature which said simply:

"I propose to hold a press conference . . . on Saturday at which I shall distribute for publication copies of a statement on nuclear weapons signed by eight scientists of international eminence.

"This statement was sponsored by Einstein, and was signed by him just before his death. I shall outline certain plan whicn are contemplated in connection with this statement and shall be prepared to answer questions about iti . . ."

Russell who always called on Einstein during his frequent visits to the United States would not elaborate.

But his American wife told telephone callers at their home in suburban Richmond:

"It is of vital importance to everyone—to you and me as individuals, to people throughout the world.

Whatever Einstein put his signature to before his death in Princeton, N.J., three months ago, it was bound to recall his somber statements on the use to which the world had put his discoveries of atomic secrets.

These discoveries made possible the creation of the atomic and hydrogen bombs, and Einstein often expressed his sorrow.

The physicist once was quoted as labeling the hydrogen bomb as "the very essence of evil." And he promised to speak out at the "decisive moment."

Russell, 83-year-old dean of Western philosophers, apparently felt the "decisive moment" has come.

Craig Planning Extensive Study Of Economic Future

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—Governor Craig says he is planning the most comprehensive study of Indiana's economic future ever made.

The Indiana University School of Business has agreed to make the study of what lies ahead for Indiana commerce and industry, Craig announced during the weekend.

Emphasis will be placed on the economic effects of the toll road program and the proposed northern Indiana seaport, which Craig called a "must."

He said the study will cost $10,000 and will be paid for from his contingency fund. Members of the IU faculty will conduct the study, to be completed by the end of the year.

The report will predict trends in population, manufacturing, the labor force and prices.

"When this study is completed," Craig said, "I am sure we will have a clear picture of where the economy of Indiana is headed."

Legal Notice

TO THE TAXPAYERS OF Columbia Township Whitley County, Indiana.

You are hereby notified that upon the 22nd day of June 1955, that the Trustee & Advisory Board of the Columbia Township Whitley County, Indiana, by resolution duly adopted and pursuant to notice theretofore given and under and by virtue of Chapter 57 of the Acts of the 84th General Assembly of the State of Indiana, approved February 27, 1945, as amended, duly adopted a plan whereby a cumulative building fund be provided for the erection, construction, purchase and remodeling of school buildings, purchase of real estate, and the purchase of equipment, the payment of rentals for renting or leasing of real estate for school buildings, and the levying of an additional tax in said school unit, and that such a fund be provided for by a tax levy of 75 cents on each $100.00 of assessed valuation on all property in that taxing district taxable for such purposes, such tax to be assessed beginning with the levy for 1955 payable in 1956 and annually thereafter for a total period of three (3) years as provided by said Act. Final approval of the aforementioned resolution by the State Board of Tax Commissioners, will invalidate any previous tax rate which has heretofore been approved for this purpose.

That pursuant to said Act, any ten or more taxpayers in the taxing district of Columbia Township, Whitley County, Indiana, other than those who pay Poll Tax only, may file a petition with the County Auditor of Whitley County, Indiana, not later than ten days after this publication, setting forth their objections to such proposed levy. Upon filing of such petition said Auditor will immediately certify same to the State Board of Tax Commssioners.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
International Uniform Sunday School Lessons
BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

Background Scripture: Habakkuk.
Devotional Reading: Habakkuk 3:2-4, 17-19.

God In Dark Days

Lesson for July 10, 1955

SOMETIMES we envy the serene faith of the prophets of old. If so, it shows we have not read the prophets carefully, for some of them had a faith that was anything but serene. Jeremiah was one of those, Habakkuk was another. Habakkuk lived during the dark days at the end of the time of the little kingdom of Judah. Reading his opening lines, one might think he had been reading our morning papers in 1955. "Why dost thou make me see wrongs and look upon trouble? Destruction and violence are before me; strife and contention arise. So law is slacked and justice never goes forth . . ." Why does God let such things go on?

Dr. Foreman

This Is Hard To Believe

Habakkuk asked the same question; and got an answer from God that the Lord told him he would hardly believe. Not only was the local scene, in Jerusalem and Judea, dark with violence and injustice, but the farther horizon was darker still. Out of the east the newly resurgent Babylonian empire was rising. Now empires seldom rise peacefully. They come to power with the uproar and the agonies of war. Empires arise by crushing smaller kingdoms, and Babylon was no exception. If you had asked any wide-awake Hebrew of Habakkuk's time, "What is the greatest national danger you see threatening your country?," he would probably have said: "The imperial ambitions of Babylon." Most Hebrews would have said that the Babylonians, or Chaldeans as they are often called, were the enemies of God's people. But Habakkuk is told something God says is hard to believe: "I am rousing the Chaldeans." That bitter, hasty, terrible, violent, godless nation, whose only god was their own might,—God was arousing that nation to punish Judah for Judah's sins. What was God going to do about the violence and injustice in Judah? He was going to wipe it out, wipe it off the face of the ground . . . and use the Chaldeans to do it with.

Is The Remedy Worse Than The Disease?

We can see from reading the second part of Habakkuk's first chapter, that he could not understand, at first, how God could do such a thing as arousing the Chaldeans. How can God use devilish men to accomplish divine purposes? Is it conceivable that a God who is the Holy One, who cannot look on wrong,—is it conceivable that such a God would be silent while the ruthless and cruel armies of the invaders were capturing men and treasure, cities and villages, as a fisherman takes everything in his net? Nevertheless it has often been true that God's good purpose has been set forward by men who did not know nor obey him. When Joseph's brothers sold him into Egypt as a slave, they intended no good by it. Their only motives were greed, cruelty, jealousy and revenge. But God brought good out of it. War is a terrible thing; but as Lincoln suggested, it is quite possible to believe that the horrors of a civil war are God's way of punishing a nation for the injustice of slavery. If a nation will not listen to its true prophets and repent, God can use sterner measures.

Faith Endures

Habakkuk, pursuing bravely his questioning of God, comes out at last to two illuminating thoughts which the Lord gave him. (It may be noted in passing that sometimes the questioning mind gets answered when the unquestioning mind does not.) One is that in dark days, when God is not to be seen, the man of faith must wait. "God does not settle all his accounts in October." The answer to life's riddles is not always given immediately. God's signature can be seen at the end, though not always do we recognize his handwriting at first. The other thought was this: The man of faith must not give up his faith. For faith has the power of enduring life. God may use a "bitter and hasty nation" to punish another sinful one. But God judges all nations, Chaldea and Judea alike. Seen in the light of history, we can perceive as a fact what Habakkuk could see only with his inward eye: that the God-defying conquering Chaldean nation would vanish soon without a trace, while the little conquered people of the Hebrews would survive, because in them was the undying seed of faith.

Around The World, Around The Clock!

By UNITED PRESS

CLARKE CITY, Que. (UP) — Women and children fled to safety early today while every able-bodied man was conscripted to fight a forest fire that bore down on this paper-mill community on a 15-mile front.

The fire started last Friday east of Shelter Bay and spread eastward. Police said two hamlets of 10 or 15 houses were abandoned. They were believed to have been razed.

NEW YORK (UP) — Burglars Monday night stole more than $32,000 worth of furs and jewels from the penthouse apartment of sultry musical comedy star Eartha Kitt.

The sexy singer who asked "Santa Baby" on records to bring her presents like those that were stolen, told police today that she was preparing to put the furs in storage for the summer. She said they were all insured.

The loot included a stone marten coat and pearl necklace each valued at $10,000; a $5,000 dollar mink coat; a ranch mink coat and a silverblue mink coat both valued at $2,800 and a $1,800 silver mink jacket.

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Federal Bureau of Prisons is seeking a 10 million dollar appropriation for construction of a "giant Alcatraz" to house dangerous and troublesome convicts now committed to overcrowded prisons, it was learned today.

As envisoned by Bureau of Prison Director James V. Bennett, the proposed prison would be built in the next three years somewhere in Illinois — probably in the Springfield area. Bureau spokesmen said it would receive the Alcatraz-type criminal — the habitual offender, the bank robber, the racketeer, and the "explosiive, unpredictable" personality.

It would have a 600-man capacity whereas "The Rock" in San Francisco Bay seldom houses more than 300 convicts.

BERLIN (UP) — The Western Berlin city government voted a new $250,000 subsidy Monday to truckers supplying Berlin to pay for exorbitant Communist road taxes.

The new grant brought to $1,500,000 the total subsidiies paid by the city since April 1 when the Reds arbitrarily raised road tolls eleven fold on truck traffic between Berlin and West Germany.

LONDON (UP) — Radio Moscow beamed Independence Day Greetings to the United States today. Moscow's North American program, which opens at midnight, was begun with this message.

"This is Radio Moscow. On this Fourth of July, we would like to congratulate Americans on their national holiday, and wish them peace and prosperity. We Soviet people admire the fine, Democratic traditions of our American friends, with whom we hope to live in peace, understanding, trust and mutual peaceful effort."

ISTANBUL, Turkey (UP) Bulgarian Vice Consul Georgi Varba Cholakof and two Turks were arrested today for spying against Turkey. Secret military documents were found in their possession.

COLOGNE, Germany (UP — This cathedral city came close to having the biggest Fourth of July firecracker of all Monday.

A steamshovel working on an excavation project scooped up a 3,600-pound land mine dropped during the last war. The operator let it drop down gently, and a demolitions squad quicikly defused the giant explosive.

JERUSALEM, Israel (UP)—The U.N. Israeli-Egyptian Mixed Armistice Commission Monday night found Egypt guilty of "serious violation" of the Armistce agreement wen it shelled three Israeli villages along the Gaza strip May 30. Israel was condnemned for returning the fire. Two persons were killed in the exchange.

TOKYO (UP) — Red China and Soviet Russia have signed a protocol to exchange technical knowledge and experts in industry, agriculture and mining, Radio Peiping announced today.

TAIPEI, Formosa (UP) — The entire customs inispection team at the Taipei post office was locked up Monday night on charges of using the mails to smuggle large quantities of narcotics into Formosa. The peddling operations were believed to run into hundreds of millions of dollars yearly.

Asks Recognition For Davy Crockett

WASHINGTON (UP)—Rep. Ross Bass (D-Tenn) has asked Congress to give Davy Crockett recognition as a "national hero" in Statuary Hall.

He introduced a bill authorizing the Capitol architect to erect a statue of the famed Indian fighter, congressman and hero of the Alamo among other memorials to the nation's great.

Each state is alloted two spaces in the hall for its favored sons and both of Tennessee's have been filled — by statues to John Sevier and Andrew Jackson.

"No Parking"

RACINE, Wis. (UP) — Police officers handed out 44 traffic violation tickets Monday when they found a string of cars lined up near a stone quarry swimminig pool. The officiers said the adjacent highway was plainly marked, "No Parking.'

Little Girl, Taken By Bear, Found In Woods Unharmed

LIBBY, Mont. (UP)—The mother of 2-year-old Ida Mae Curtis insisted today that a bear kidnaped the little girl, found unharmed near a lumber camp in the wild Kootenai National Forest by a search party.

The searchers found Ida Mae Monday in a small hole only 300 yards from the camp where Mrs. Curtis said the bear — possibly a grizzly — grabbed the baby Saturday night.

The child was taken to Libby Hospital. A physician said she suffered only minor cuts and bruises after her 21-hour exposure in wilds of northwest Montana.

"Thank God, thank God," Mrs. Curtis sobbed when she learned her daughter was found. "I can't believe it."

Father Gives Up Hope

Her father said he had given up hope of ever seeing the little girl alive again.

Some of the 350 men who took part in the nightlong search for Ida Mae expressed skepticism that she really had been carried off by a bear.

One of these was Lincoln County Sheriff Ray Frost, who said a bear might have frightened the child and caused her to run away.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis were staying at the lumber camp with their eight children. Curtis, 4, is a woodworker.

On Saturday night, two of the older children said they saw a bear enter the family tent. They ran down the road to tell their mother. Their father was working in the woods a short distance away.

Grizzly Bear Description

Mrs. Curtis said she returned in time to see a huge bear, holding the child in its front paw, run on three legs into the thicket. She said she didn't have the slightest idea of what a bear really looked like, but the description she gave tallied with that of a grizzly.

Hysterical, she tried to follow, but officials at the logging camp prevented her. They began immediately to organize a search.

Ida Mae's father worked through the night and day without a rest in the search line. Mrs. Curtis said she was "frantic" to take part, but did not want to leave her other seven children alone.

A search party led by Kenneth Neils of Libby, found the girl as they were showing a pilot where to look for her. He and his party fired rifles and pistols into the air to let the others know the search was at an end.

Ride Of Death Proves One

HILLSBRO, Ore. (UP) —A Hoosier daredevil motorbike rider was killed Monday night when his stunt misfiried at a holday carnival.

Dean Henry IeRoy Pletcher, about 50, Goshen, Ind., died when his motorbike hit a parked car after plunging through a flaming hoop as part of his act.

Budget Director To Report Soon On Dixon-Yates Deal

WASHINGTON (UP) — Budget Director Rowland R. Highes told the White House today he expected to report "soon' on the review requested by President Eisennower of the need for the Dixon-Yates power plant.

Mr. Eisenhower ordered the review last week in the light of the announced intention by the city of Memphis, Tenn., to build its own power plant.

According to White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty, Hughes worked on the review over the Fourth of July weekend and again this morning, in consultation with Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. and officials of the Atomic Energy Commission and the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Hagerty said Hughes "expects to make his report to the President soon," but he declined to say whether this would mean late today or Wednesday.

Meanwhile, Sen. Hubert HHumphreys (D-Minn.) predicted that controvrsiail contract and then "claim a great victory."

"I expect the administration to make an about face, confess puritanical innocence and claim a great victory," said Humphrey.

"This is the only administraton that never seems to lose, even though its score is zero," the Minnesota Democrat said.

Temperatures Back In High 90s In State Of Indiana

Temperatures climbed into the 90s today in the latest chapter of the summer's first Indiana heat wave which showed no signs of relenting before next weekend.

More thundershowers, like those which gave temporary relief Sunday and Monday in scattered areas, were expected today and Wednesday. But the mercury was expected to climb nearly as high as it did in broiling northeastern Hoosierland with 101 degree readings on the Fourth of July.

Two persons were killed by lightning, one man during a thunderstorm in Fulton County along the Tippecanoe River, the other by a bolt which crashed from a clear sky on a golf course near Gary.

Courthouse Brings Boom In Etiquette

EDINBURG, Tex.—(UP)—When Hidalgo County officials moved into a new $1,500,000 courthouse here, the judges of the four courts in the building signed an order designed to correct certai ncourtroom practices.

1. Attorneys shall wear coats and ties.
2. Bailiffs, clerks and other officers of the court shall also wear coats and ties.
3. No smoking.
4. All persons in the courtroom shall rise when the judge enters on the opening and closing days of the session.
5. Attorneys shall stand while addressing the court.
6. Attorneys shall sit "appropriately and without placing their feet upon the counsel table or in the chair in which they assume to sit."

Blame Shakespeare Fans For Starlings

NEW YORK—(UP)—Millions of starlings are making pests of themselves across the nation because Shakespeare enthusiasts released 120 of them in New York City's Central Park in 1891, the Audubon Society reports.

Kenneth L. Morrison, editor of the Audubon Magazine, said the, birds were brought here by the American Acclimitization Society, which wanted representatives of every type of bird mentioned in Shakespeare's works to amek itself at home in the United States.

"They brought over nightingales and all sorts of birds, but they all died off but the starlings," Morrison said.

In fact, four batches of starlings were released in the park before success finally was attained. The first three groups perished.

From the 120 survivors, Morrison said, have sprung every pesky starling in the country. The little birds have managed to irritate officials of almost every city by infesting building ledges and perching on statuary. And they have become an annoyance to other birds as well.

Not Particular

Starlings will live just about any place, Morrison said. They are so lazy they don't care much for building nests. As a result, they take over various nooks and crannies, particularly the homes carved in trunks by woodpeckers and the nests of bluebirds, martins and flickers.

They don't even have much of a song of their own except for a few squeaks, whistles and chatterings. But they are talented imitators, especially in reproducing the trills and tweets of bluebirds and robins.

Morrison said it was unusual for one type of bird to live in every part of the country. But he explained that the starling has thrived in this country because all the natural forces tending to control its increase were left behind in its native England and Germany. Nature's anti-starling enemies haven't crossed the Atlantic yet, he said.

The English sparrow has moved around the U.S. even faster than the starling, Morrison said, but it isn't much of a pest. The sparrow rode the freight cars west, while the starling, in a rare departure from its inborn laziness, headed for the Pacific coast by wing.

"About the best thing you can say of the starling," Morrison added, "is that it is an enemy of the Japanese beetle."

Glora JoAnn Souders, Russell Armstrong Recite Vows In First Methodist, Fort Wayne

The July marriage rites of Miss Glora JoAnn Souders of 2435½ S. Webster street, Fort Wayne, and Russell Armstrong, son of Mrs. Otis Armstrong, 1207 Ewing street, Fort Wayne, were solemnized Saturday evening at 7:30 in the First Methodist ,church, Fort Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Souders, Tri Lakes, are the parents of the bride.

The Rev. E. Stanley McKee read the ceremony using the double ring ceremony. Miss Marilyn Souders attended her sister as maid of honor and Mrs. Wilson Blackburn, Fort Wayne, and Mrs. Don Grise, Columbus, O., were bridesmaids, all in gowns styled alike of melon colored crystalet over taffeta. The gowns featured a molded torso of taffeta and an empire pleated bodice. Their bouffant skirts were waltz length. Matching mitts and headpieces completed their costumes. The three attendants carried colonial bouquets of shell pink and white shasta daisies.

Gowned in Lace and Satin

The bride, given in marriage by her father, choose a gown of Chantilly lace over satin fashioned with a scoop neckline outlined with beaded lace flowerettes featuring an empire bodice and long tapering sleeves. A pleated skirt beautified with hand-clipped flowers ended in a brush train. Her fingertip veil was held by a tulle half hat. She carried a cascade arrangement of shattered white carnations and ivy leaves centered with an orchid.

The bride's mother was attired in a Wedgewood blue lace dress with which she wore white and navy accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. The bridegroom's mother chose a dress of pink bemberg with which she wore pink and black accessories and a pink carnation corsage. The two grandmothers Mrs. Joseph Hull, Churubusco, and Mrs. Barbara Souders, Albion, wore corsages of white carnations.

Calvin Armstrong attended his brother as groomsman, and Donald Armstrong, a brother of the bridegroom and Willard Scott, Fort Wayne ushered. The candlelighted altar was graced with beauty vases of pink and white gladiolus and carnations. Lou Gerig presented a program of nuptial music before the ceremony.

Miss Phyliss Oyer, Fort Wayne, Mrs. Robert Thompson, Rockford, Ohio, and Mrs. Karen Clark, Warsaw, were assistants at the informal reception held in the church parlors.

The bride was in a dress of yellow silk print when she left for her trip North. She wore white and brown accessories and an orchid corsage.

To Reside in Fort Wayne

The couple will reside at 2435½ Webster street, Fort Wayne, where the bridegroom is a post-office employe. His bride, a graduate of International Business college, is a member of Kappa Chi Delta chapter of Pi Omicron National sorority.

More Than 100 People Attend Reunion Of Class Of 1935; Another One In Five Years

Thirty members of the Columbia City High School graduating class of 1935 attended their first class reunion Sunday evening at the John W. Baker Park. With their families and former teachers, over one hundred people attended.

Following a picnic dinner each member told something of his or her activities during the past twenty years. Letters were read by the president, Charles White, from others who were unable to attend.

It was unanimously voted that another reunion be held in five years from now.

Charles White was re-elected president and a committee was chosen to write a news letter about the class. It is composed of William Bloom, chairman, Annabell Miller Thomson, Helen Salesman Sievers, and Phyllis Keiser Hall.

Letters were received from: John Edington who is affiliated with the Columbia Broadcasting System in Las Vegas, Nevada; Vivian Slusser Shupp who married another classmate and is located in Pasedena, California; Lucille Yohe Harmon of Pomana, California; Lt. Col. William Crooks who is hospitalized in Korea and is a member of the Air Force. Frances Smith Thomas and Virginia Farris Steuber both wrote from Berkley, California. Greetings were enjoyed from Hollis Harrison, Goshen; Margaret Staley Zumbrum, Albion, and Katherine Cullimore Kyler, Blanche Hively Nichols, and Walton Pfeiffer of new Columbia City.

Those attending were: Betty Lee Barton, Marion; Mary Ann Walter Hoard, Helen Chapman Orcutt, and Ronald Kerch, Fort Wayne; Fay Goodrich, Mishawaka; Mabel Miller Jontz, Silver Lake; Phil Braddock, Leesburg; Robert Tripcony, Marietta, Georgia; Carl Hinkle, Bartrom, Huntington; Ruth Hawn Bowsman, Cassopolis, Michigan; and Geraldine Heinley Bockelman, Garland Coolman, and James Bristow of South Whitley.

Two deceased class members are Helen Anderson Nierman, and Teachers who attended were Miss Marguerite Stultz the class sponsor, Miss Bernice Carver, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Shull, and Mrs. Fern Hammer. "Abe" DeVol the other class sponsor, died in 1953.

Mrs. Hammer also gave her son Lt. Col. James Hammer's, regrets that he was unable to attend. He was here a few days last week but the army called him back to duty on Thursday. At the present time he is located at Kenimore, New York.

LeVonne Miller Is Bride In Saturday Evening Ceremony

Miss LaVonne Miller, daughter of Tony Miller of near Larwill, became the bride of Harry O. Chalk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chalk of South Whitley, in a Saturday evening ceremony read at 6:30 at the rectory of St. Paul Catholic church, by the Rev. John J. Frawley.

The bride was in a waltz length gown of light blue imported lace nylon tulle with which she wore an orchid. Her attendant, Miss Marilee Miller, sister of the bride, wore a similiar styled gown in light blue and a corsaeg of pink carnations.

Robert Teusch attended the bridegroom.

The bridegroom's mother chose a light blue afternoon dress with which she wore a corsage of white roses.

A wedding dinner was served at the Thirty Club for members of the wedding party and the parents, after the ceremony.

The bride is a 1954 graduate of Larwill high school. The bridegroom served six years in the United States Army after attending high school at Sidney and is now employed at the trailer factory in South Whitley.

The couple is now on a week's wedding trip, after which they will reside near South Whitley.

Du Pont Spurt Of Nearly 11 Points Is Market Feature

NEW YORK (UP)—A spurt of nearly 11 points to a new high in Du Pont today featured a higher, moderately active stock market.

Du Pont's spurt was accompanied by splitiup rumors. It came after General Motors, of which it is the largest stockholder, ran up 4 points to a new high at 114.

Elsewhere, the steels and metals starred. Copper shares and aluminum issues were up 1 to more than 2. Reynold Metals at its high was up 5. Bethlehem Steel and U.S. Steel set new highs at 148, up 3⅛, and 57, up 2⅛ respectively.

Oil Shares rose fractions to more than a point in Texas Co. and Lion.

A long list of issues mounted to new highs and the industrial average set an all-time record hiigh thanks to the strength n the General Motors and Du Pont. At noon it stood at 460.03, up 6.21 points. Rails rose 0.67 to 162.09 in their average. Utilities lost 15 cents to 64.33. The 65-stock average rose 1.37 points to 166.91.

Sales to noon totaled 1,070,000 shares, against 480,000 shares in the first two hours on Friday.

Rosalind Russell Changes Into Role Of Homely Spinster

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Hollywood Writer

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Rosalind Russell the glamorous clothes horse and musical comedy star, has changed into a homely spinster with wrinkles and curlers in her haid for a movie "so I won't get bored."

Fast-talking Roz' most recent roles were in two musicals, "wonderful Town" on Broadway and "The Girl Rush' for the movies.

But today I found the one-time song-and-dance queen wearing an ill-fitting dress and a mop of uncombed haiir for her return to heavy drama in "Picnic.'

"Some stars are afraid to do this," the actress said as she sat in her dressing room and stared at herelf in the mirror.

"They photograph me terribly in this picture. I push my face into boomed, and made faces at herself in the mirror.

Calls it Mature Role

"Somebody asked me why the heck I'm doing this. Well, I've never worried much about my looks. And you get so darned bored

"The biggest box office stars don't have much looks, really. You can't call Marlon Brando handsome, or Jimmy Cagney.

"Furthermore, this is a mature role and some actresses who refuse to admit they're growing old are pathetic. For God's sake, act your age!"

Roz' clothes for Columbias movie version of the Broadway play were carefully made not to fit. The waist of her cheap powder blue suit was hiked up in the back and the skirt was "cut all wrong." She wears junk jewelry and "I found these wonderful $3 shoes with platform soles and ankle straps."

"I'm supposed to be a man-hungry old maid who's after William Holden," she explained. "For many scenes I wear no make-up, and my hair is up in curlers so I look like a pinhead."

Tires of Career Women

The movie company, headed by Broadway Director Josh Logan, spent uncomfortable weeks on a Kansas location trying to work amid tornades, thunderstorms and hail stones. Some townspeople who watched the shooting thought Miss Russell looked homely not on purpose.

"I got a registered letter from a woman who said it was heartbreaking the way I've let myself go," the actress said with a lusty laugh.

But although she knows some fans will be "horrified" to see her in "Picnic,' she prefers the role to those career woman parts that still are offered her.

"I did nothing but career women for 19 films," she said. "I always had nine phones and the same desk —the same desk!—in all those pictures.

"And the same backdrop behind the office window of the Empire State Building. They always had me on the 40th floor of Rockefeller Center.

"I never even had my wardrobe fitted. I'd just call the designer and say, well, here's the script, another piece of junk, so make four suits and a negligee for the crying scene."

Adjournment Stretch Drive By The Congress

Begun With Part Of Program In Trouble

By RAYMOND LAHR
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — Congress started its stretch drive toward adjournment today with parts of President Eisenhower's domestic program still in serious trouble.

However, many of the items which led President Eisenhower to complain about Democratic inaction last week are sure to pass in some form. Some will bear more of the imprint of the Democratic majority in Congress than of the administration.

As Congress returned from its Independence Day holidiay, t was generally expected that and more than four weeks would be needed for the mop-up and that adjournment would come by July 30 or very soon thereafter.

The serious illness of Senate to delay adjournment. The Democratic Whip Earle C. Clements (Ky) is filling in for Johnson. Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.) was not expected expected to delay adjournment. The Democratic Whip Earle C. Clements (Ky) is filling in for Johnson.

Some administration proposals already have been written off. Thos still alive include three in serious trouble — public housing, federal aid for school construction, and liberalization of the refugee law. A solution of the impasse which has stalled the housing bill in the House is expected. School and refugee legislation appear likely to die.

Mr. Eisenhower included all three of those measures in his last last week of legislation on which Congress had taken no final action. Here is the status of some of the others:

Military Reserve Training: The House skirted the segregation issue which previoiusly stalled thisi bill and passed it Friday. The Senate Armed Servicies Committee starts hearings Thursday. Senate passage is assured.

Highways: The Senate junked the administration plan for a bond-issuing highway corporation and passed a Democratic substitute. The House is still working on the issue. Eventual enactment of a bill without the administration bond plan is fairly certain.

Foreign Aid: Both House and Senate have passed bills closely in line with administration requests. Differences between the two probably will be worked out this week. Sterner efforts at cutting the requests are expected on the follow-up appropriation bill.

Minimum Wage: The Senate passed a bill to raise the 75-cent minimum to $1, compared with the administration proposal of 90 cents. The House is expected to approve 90 cents or $1 this month.

Although congressional fiireworks this year have crackled over domestic issues, the Senate Democratiic Democratic leadership regards foreign policy as the major work of Congress thiis session. In this area, Congress has approved the adminitration's Formosa resolution and its foreign trade program. The Senate has ratified the Paris pacts and the Austrian, Southeast Asia and Formosa treaties. The foreign aid bill is on the verge of passage.

Other major legislation on which Congress has completed action includes bills extending the draft law, renewing excise and corporate income tax rates, raising federal pay scales and extending the government reorganization law.

The House has passed a bill to restore 90 per cent farm price supports for basic crops and expects to pass a bill to liberalize the old age insurance program. Senate action this year is unlikely on either.

President Peron Calls On Foes For Political Truce

Castigates Rumor Mongers Bitterly

BUENOS AIRES (UP) — President Juan D. Peron called upon his enemies for a political truce today.

In a bitter, 10-minute speech, Peron castigated rumor mongers and the authors of the bloody but short-lived revolt which flared against his regime on June 16. But he concluded:

"I ask all comrades for a truce in the political struggle.

"God grant that this hard lesson serve us all. God grant that our bitter enemies lay down hates and vengeances, convinced of their imipotence against the people."

His call for a truce and an end to what he called "fighting psychosis" coincided with reports from Vatican City that Argentina had communicated to the Vatican through "normal diplomatic channels" word that two expelled prelates would be permitted to return to Buenos Aires.

The two, Msgrs. Manuel Toto and Ramon Carlos Novoa, now are en route to Rio De Janeiro from Rome to atend the International Eucharistic Congress.

Their expulsion marked the high point of Peron's battle with the Roman Catholic Church and resulted in the excommunications of Peron and all others connected with the incident.

However, not once today did Peron refer to the church-state controversy.

It was Peron't first public utterance since June 23. Advance announcement that he would make it had raised tension in this unsettled capital to the highest point since the revolt.

Peron said the situation had returned to normal in Buenos Aires and that the rest of the country also was quiet.

"The people and responsible political forces are tranquil," he said. "All are convinced of the uselessness of violence and are inspired by the wish to reaffirm the legal order.

He said some civilians participated in the navy-led revolt but that no political parties, as such, were involved.

said it was only hiis "grea twill-created speculation also about Peron's own position. In his last address 12 days ago, the president said it was only his "great willpower and sense of duty" that kept him from resigning.

The breaking of the silence coincided with reports from Vatican City that two Roman Catholic priests expelled from Argentina by Peron hope to return to their posts soon.

This development, it was made known, would be followed by the lifting of the Vatican decree under which, Peron and all others connected with the expulsion were excommunicated.

Observers believed a reversal of the decree might lead to further relaxation of strained relations between the government and the Roman Catholic Church in Argentina.

The expelled priests, Monsignors Manuel Tato and Ramon Carlos Novoa, were deported by Peron at the time of the abortive revolt by navy and air force units June 16 during the bitter dissension between the state and the Catholics.

Indications that the government and the church may be patching up their differences came Sunday when state officials conferred with the Papal nuncio and leading church dignataries. There was no disclosure of the subjects discussed.

The fact that former Interior Minister Anngel G. Borlenghi had left for the United States was made known for the first time Monday by the Peronista morning newspaper, El Lider.

Borlenghi generally had been regarded as the spearhead of the anti-clericial faction in the former Peron government that resigned after the revolt. He also was considered one of Peron's most trusted men.

Man Stabs Wife To Death On An Emergency Table

So Quickly Interne Couldn't Interfere

COLUMBUS, Ga. (UP)—A man stabbed his wife to death on a hospital emergency table Monday night while an intern was sewing up wounds he ha dinflicted on her at home, police reported today.

Detective B.F. McGuffey said Arthur Mahone, 26, a Negro, so quickly plunged a short-blade pocket knife into the chest of his wife Christine, 22, that the interne beside him could not interfere.

A porter raised his mop to intervene, too late. While the interne opened the woman's chest and futilely massaged her heart, police said, Mahone fled. An hour later he surrendered at police headquarters.

McGuffey said neighbors had brought the woman to City Hospital, reporting Mahone had slashed her and his mother-in-law with a butcher knife.

Fans Pick Starting Lineups For All-Star Game; 4 Left, 3 Righthanders Are Picked

CHICAGO (UP) — The fans picked starting lineups loaded with southpaw sluggers for next Tuesday's major-league all-star game, so rival managers Leo Durocher and Al Lopez were faced today with a pressing need for southpaw pitching.

In each league, the fans picked a lineup composed of four left-handed hitters, three righthanders, and one switch-hitter.

That could force Durocher of the National League to open the game with a lefthanded pitcher, such as Warren Spahn of Milwaukee or rookie Luis Arroyo of Sa. Louis, and Lopez of the American League to counter with lefties like rookie Herb Score of his own Cleveland Indians or Whitey Ford of the Yankees.

The need for a lefty seemed to be greater for Lopez, Indians' skipper who is directing the A.L. squad for the first time.

That's because the N.L. will open with a lineup including Duke Snider of the Dodgers and Ted Kluszewski of the Redlegs, who are tied for the major-league home run lead at 27, plus 20-homer slugger Ed Mathews of Milwaukee, and pesky spray-hitter Don Mueller of the Giants.

Ernie Banks of the Cubs, Del Ennis of the Phillies, and Roy Campanella of the Dodgers all are righthander, but the dangerous Campanella is hobbled by a knee injury and may not even play. Red Schoendienst of St. Louis is a switch-hitter.

The A. L. will toss at Durocher a starting array including the great Ted Williams of the Red Sox, Yogi Berra of the Yankees, Mickey Vernon of the Senators, and Nellie Fox of the White Sox.

These southpaw hitters are a more dangerous group than the three righthanders — Jim Finigan of the A's, and Harvey Kuenn and Al Kaline of Detroit. Mickey Mantle of the Yankees is a switch-hitter.

Just how Durocher and Lopez will move to meet these threats will be known Wednesday when the pitchers and the substitutes on each squad are announced. The fans picked only the starting lineup, exclusive of pitcher. The rival managers pick the rest of the team. The rules say the players picked by the fans must remain in the game for at least three innings, but most of them will stay in longer than that.

Williams will be appearing in his 10th All-Star game, more than any other player in the starting lineup, but Vernon, 37, will be the oldest player on the field. Bonus player Kaline, 20, will be the youngest and he, Finigan, and Banks will be appearing in the game for the first time.

Campanella proved the biggest vote-getter, with 2,154,778 votes to Berra's 2,138,739. All told, 6,562,064 ballots, highest number in history, were cast in the 22 days of the poll.

Half Of 15 U.S. Competitors In Open Expected To Qualify

By FRANK MARGAN
United Press Sports Writer

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (UP)—At least half the 15 Americans entered in the British Open golf tournament were expected today to qualify for the championship proper over the St.Andrews course which many Scots fretted were becoming "too easy."

Frank Jowle, a 46-year-old English weekend golfer, shot a 63 on the "new" course Monday for the best round in the 95-year history of the British Open. That gave him only a two-stroke lead over his closest rival, Charley Ward of England, in the first qualifying round.

Meanwhile, a young Texan and an old Texan shot the best rounds for the U.S. delegation. Joe Conrad of San Antonio, the British Amateur champion, had a 67, while Byron Nelson of Fort Worth, the "old pro" who won the U.S. Open back in 1939, carded a 69.

Approximately half the field of 270 golfers shot the easier par 71 "new" course Monday, while the other entires played the tougher par 72 "old" course. These players will switch courses for today's second qualifying round. Qualifying scores will be forgotten after the field is narrowed to lowest 100 and ties for the start of the 72-hole championship proper on Wednesday.

Because of the rash of low scores for Monday's first qualifying round it was expected that a 150 total would be the qualifying limit. Off their opening-day scores, that would put at least eight Yanks into the tournament proper.

In addition to Conrad and Nelson, the Americans with an excellent chance of making the grade are Ed Furgol of Clayton, Mo.; Jimmy Mc Hale of Wynnewood, Pa.; George Fazio and Mort Dutra, both of Los Angeles; Mike Krak of Weirton, W.Va., and Harreld Kirkpatrick of Greenville, N.C.

Fazio and Dutra shot 70's, Furgol a 71, Krak a 72 and Kirkpatrick a 73, all on the new course. McHale had an impressive 70 on the old course.

Ed Lowery of San Francisco, who had an opening round 75; Jack Munger of Dallas (76), Johnny Bulla of Pittsburgh (77) and O. F. Woodward of Grosse Point, Mich., were given only outside chances of making the grade. All shot on the old course Monday.

W. A. Wickliffe of Greenville, N.C. (79); Calvin Cook of Steubenville, Ohio (89); and Bob Lutz of Clearwater, Fla. (89) were expected to be eliminated.

Cylinder Speed Control

2 Big Reasons

Why You'll SAVE MORE Grain or Seed with a NEW JOHN DEERE 25 Combine

TWO features make the new John Deere 25 a crop-saving specialist. They are the new Quick-Change Cylinder Speed Control, and the new Six-Bar Grate.

With the new quick-change cylinder control you can adjust the cylinder to exactly the right speed for any crop.

The new open-bar grate has six strong rubbing bars that give you cleaner threshing in all crops. The open-bar design permits up to 90 per cent separation at the cylinder. Snap-in inserts make tough crops such as flax or clovers pass over more grate area for additional threshing action.

Come in and see the new John Deere 25 Combine. It's tailor-made for your crops.

Serious Attention Should Be Paid Red Sox By The American League Front Runners

By NORMAN MILLER
United Press Sports Writer

Maybe it's time those American League front-runners began devoting some serious thoughts to Manager Mike Higgins' rampaging Red Sox.

There were many who felt downright sorry for Mike, the freshman manager, when his youngster-laden club was dumped into sixth place, 15 games off the pace, back on June 6.

But here they are one month later, only eight games behind the league-leading New York Yankees, from whom they swept a holiday double-header, 4-2 and 10-5. That gave the Bosox a streak of 10 victories in their last 11 games and 24 of their last 29. At that rate, they could make Higgins a top candidate for manager-of-the-year.

Can they keep this up? Well, throughout this streak the Sox have come up with solidpitching, plenty of power in Ted Williams, Jackie Jensen and Norm Zauchin, and some hustling, heads-up baseball.

Take that double-header sweep against the Yankees, for example, Williams hit his 10th homer and a double to help win the opener; and Jensen connected for a grand slam (his 17th) and Zauchin for a three-run blast (his 16th) to clinch the nightcaps. Willard Nixon demonstrated his customary mastery over the Yankees for five innings and then retired because of the heat. Ike Delock finished up with four shutout innings. After Mel Parnell was knocked out in the second game, young Tom Hurd pitched 6 1-3 scoreless innings to earn the victory.

Home Run Salute

Major league clubs saluted Independence Day with a salvo of 37 homers — just three short of the all-time record for a single day. There were 20 hit in the National League and 17 in the American.

The Cleveland Indians took over second place, five games behind New York, by taking both games of a twin bill from the Detroit Tigers, 6-5 in 15 innings and 8-5. he Chicago White Sox dropped to third place when they split with the Kansas City Athletics, winning the opener 8-3 and droppiing the second game, 4-3. In the only single-game program, the Baltimore Orioles beat the Washington Senators, 6-2.

In the National League, the Brooklyn Dodgers opened a 12½-game lead by beating the Philadelphiai Phils twice, 11-2 and 6-3. The second place Chiciago Cubs lost the opening game to the Cincinnati iRedlegs, 6-3, then won the nightcap, 4-3; the St. Louis Cardinals swept the Milwaukee Braves 4-2 and 5-4 in 10 innings; and the New York Giants split with the Pittsburgh Piirates, coming back to win the second game 5-3 in 11 innings after losing the opener, 4-3. Don Newcombe pitched an eight-hitter for his 14th triumph and Duke Snider hit a pair of Dodger homers in the opening game. In the nightcap, Clem Labine pitched the full nine innings for the first time since his victory over the Giants in the 1951 pennant playoff. Labine gave up only six hits and contributed a home run. Carl Furillo hit a homer in each game.

Cardinals Advance Notch

Rip Repulski's seventh - inning homer broke a 2-2 tie to help Tom Poholski win the Cards' opener witih a six-hitter. Bill Virdon's single after a triple by Wally Moon broke up the nightcap in the 10th inning. Repulski also hit a second game homer. By winning two, the Cards advanced one notch to sixth place.

Art Fowler's four-hitter and Ted Kluszewski's 27th homer played important roles in Cincinnati's victory, while Gene Bakers fifth inning home run provided the Cubs with the margini of their nightcap win.

Pittsbrugh won the opener from the Giants when Windy McCall and Paul Giel each walked two batters iin the ninth to force home the winining run. Willie Mays' 23rd homer — his second of the day — clinched the nightcap for the Giants.

Cleveland spotted Detroit a 5-1 lead in each game and rallied to win both. Hal Naragons pinch single in the 15th won the opener after Ralph Kiner had hit a homer in the eighth and a run-producing single to tie the score. Larry Doby hit two homers and Al Rosen walloped a two-run blast in Cleveland's nightcap rally.

Connie Johnson, back for a second try in the majors, pitched the White Sox to a seven-hit triumph in the opener, but Hector Lopez singled home Vic Power in the give Kansas City a split. Ray Moore's six-hitter and Wiillie Miranda's tie-breaking eighth-inning single were the key factors in the Orioles' victory over the Senators.

Indians, Orioles Make Player Changes

B UNITED PRESS

The Cleveland Indians and Baltimore Orioles both made player changes today — the Indians with the idea of winning the pennant, the Orioles with just the idea of getting out of last place.

The Indians purchased Jim Dyck, leading hitter of the American Association with a .388 average, from their Indianapolis farm club. Dyck, an infielder-outfielder, also had 17 homers and 57 runs batted in for the A. A. club.

The Orioles released unconditionally outfielder Wally Westlake and pitcher Saul Rogovin, and replaced them with two players called up from their farm system—pitcher Bob Alexander from Portland of the Pacific Coast League and first baseman Bob Hale from York, Pa., of the Piedmont League.

Ted Williams Draws Biggest Crowd At Major League Games

By UNITED PRESS

Ted Williams' dazzling return to the "big town" drew the biggest crowd at major-league baseball games on the Fourth of July, but it took those amazing Milwaukee fans to come up with a new record.

Williams, Boston Red Sox' famed slugger, made his first appearance in New York this season and a crowd of 43,794 turned out to see him slug a homer and double as the Sox took both ends of a double header from the New York Yankees.

But out in Milwaukee, Braves' fans reached the one million mark in attendance for the season at the earliest date in history. A crowd of 30,948 watched unhappily as the Braves lost two games to St. Louis, but they shoved the Braves' attendance to 1,006,215. Last year, en route to a record, this figure was reached in the 37th home date; this time it was done on the 35th.

For the first time in three years, American League games outdrew National League games, 107,078 to 103,316. This was despite the fact that Washington and Baltimore, the A.L. tail-enders, met in a single game that lured only 6,929 curious fans through the stiles.

Overall attendance was up from last year's 200,904 to 211,220.

Milo Savage Unhappy About His Victory

NEW YORK (UP) — Middleweight Milo Savage of Salt Lake City was unhappy today about his turn-table victory over Sammy Walker of Springfield, Mass., "because he didn't give me a good fight."

Savage finished stronger and won a majority decision Monday night at St.Nicholas Arena in the return television 10-rounder with Walker, who had taken a split verdict over Milo on March 14.

The Westerner weighed 161 pounds; Walker, 156½.

"I like a good fight whether I win or lose," explained muscular Milo. "but he wouldn't stand up and fight this time. He was afraid to open up."

Savage, 29, said he expects much more action in his next bout with Garth Panter at the Salt Lake City ball park in late August.

Monday night's scrap lacked the thrills of their March brawl, in which Walker rose twice from the canvas to take the decision. Walker, 27, changed his style Monday night and kept at close quarters with bobbing-weaving tactics. He was pushed through the ropes onto the ring apron as the bell ended the seventh round, but there were no knockdowns.

Savage, who landed the harder punches with hooks to body and head, suffered a cut on his left brow in the fifth round. Despite his March defeat, Milo was favored at 2-1 Monday night.

Rain postponed the races and fireworks display at the Warsaw Speedway.

C. E. Gibson, president of the Hoosier Hot Rods, stated that the fireworks and 50-lap trophy races will be held this Saturday night.

Unprecedented Play Off In Tournament

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—An unprecedented 18-hole play-off between three home course swingers will decide the sixth annual Indiana Public Links golf championship.

Jim Shipp, Bob Wilson and Gerald Williams, all of Indianapolis, toured Pleasant Run in two-under-par 142's in the 36-hole test Sunday and Monday.

Officials said the playoff will be held "in three weeks or so."

Williams muffed a golden opportunity to pocket the title when, with the pressure on, he missed a three-foot putt on the 18th hole.

Wilson fired a second-day round of 68, Williams had 69 and Shipp added his second 71.

Defending champion Joe Campbell, Anderson, who in his last two starts captured the national collegiate and Indiana junior crowns, finished with a two-over-par 146.

Leading Association Hitter Moves Up

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) —Jim Dyck, the American Association's leading hitter, moved up from Indianapolis to the "[illegible]" Indians of Cleveland today to ride the bench as a pinch-hitter.

The outright sale of the leftfielder was announced in Cleveland late Monday.

Dyck played with his old mates in a twi - night double - header against Louisville Monday night and left this morning for Kansas City to join the major league club.

Going into Monday's games, he was batting .388, including 17 home runs and 57 RBI's.

His departure left Indianapolis with just three regular outfielders —Vern Grace, Rocky Colavito and rookie Les Mattinson—the recent arrival from Texas Christian University.

Dyck was the second Indianapolis player to be sold over the weekend. Catcher Matt Batts, a veteran of eight seasons in the major leagues, went to Cincinnati to bolster the Redlegs' roster.

Batts has a lifetime batting average of .270.

Affable Andy Linden Wins Feature Race

SALEM, Ind. (UP) —Affable Andy Linden won his firs feature auto race at the Salem Speedway Sunday.

The veteran Indianapolis 500-mile pilot from Manhattan Beach, Calif., captured the 30-lap AAA big-car sprint feature in 10:27.2 minutes. He led from start to finish.

Bob Sweikert, Indianapolis, winner of the Memorial Day "500," was second, about one-fourth lap behind. Pat O'Connor, North Vernon, was third, followed in order, by Jerry Hoyt and Duane Carter, Indianapolis, and Jack Turner, Seattle, Wash.

Hoyt got home on three wheels and a prayer. He threw the wheel in the fourth and final turn and skidded across the finish line.

About 10,000 fans witnessed the program in scorching mid-90 degree temperature.

Hank Sauer Becomes All-Time Homer Hitter

CHICAGO (UP) — When Hank Sauer hit his fifth home run of the season off Cincinnati's Art Fowler in Monday opening game of a holiday twinbill, he became the third leading all-time Chicago Cubs' home run hitter. It was the 191st of his career.

Thousands Of Americans May Own Ford Stock

NEW YORK (UP)—By the end of this year thousands of Americans may be able to sit back put their feet up and muse in the best capitalist tradition: "I own stock in the Ford Motor Co."

It will be the first chance the man-in-the-street has had to own a slice in the richest privately held company in America.

Some Ford stock definitely is going on the block. How much, and when, has not been announced. But the best guess on Wall Street is that the stock will go on sale late in 1955 or early in 1956, and the price may be as low as $60 a share.

Housewives . . . salesmen . . office workers . . . people who have never owned a share of stock in their lives are expected to scramble for a chance to buy.

They'll buy it no matter what the price," said one broker.

Seasoned inivestors also want their share. The name of Ford is as big a lure on Wall Street as on Main Street.

The actual seller of the stock will be the Ford Foundationn, wh has almost 500 million dollars in assets and is the biggest philanthropic trust in the world. The foundation owns 3,089,980 shares of Class A Ford stock, all of it non-voting. Members of the Ford family hold the 172,645 shares of Class B, votiing stock.

The foundation plans to sell part of its stock in order to diversiify its holdings. In order to carry out such a sale, Ford must issue a public financial statement, and up to now Ford's financial balance sheet has been one of the business world's best-kept secrets.

Since individual shares of Ford stock are probably worth too much fiirst be a stock split" — creating more shares of stock and decreasing the value of each one. Some guesses are that the stock put up for sale will run between $60 and $70 a share.

Won't Do As Well

No matter what fortune awaits the new shareholders, they can't expect to do as well as the original backers of Henry Ford Sr. who were willing to speculate on the success of Ford's "horseless carriage."

When Ford launched his company ini 1903 a dozen stockholders subscribed a total of $28,000 in cash for the original 1,000 shares. One woman—a Detroit schoolteacher—inivested $100 for a single share. Over the next 16 years she received $95,000 in dividends, and eventually sold her share to Ford for $260,000.

Ford bought out seven remaining shareholders in 1919 for a total of 105 million dollars. James Couzens, Ford's right-hand-man and business manager for the first dozen years, received 29 million dollars for his stock.

Termies are observed only at the time they swarm, in March and April. At that time they may appear by the thousands in the basement, or occasionally in the first floor of a house. They then have wings, which they bite off each other. Then they crawl into the ground nearby where they may start additional colonies.

In ancient times, people blamed their colds on such things as the influence of comets.

FARMERS —

You have only a few days left to supply the necessary nitrogen to your corn fields in order to obtain higher yields for the work and expense you already have invested.

Have your corn plants, tissue tested to show whether or not they are already starved to some degree for this vital plant food. THE NEW PLANT TISSUE TEST will show you in just one minute the actual condition of your corn ---- and most fields came thru the winter very short of NITROGEN because of weather conditions.

Use Anhydrous ammonia for this purpose.

12 American Farmers Willing To Pick Up Some Soviet Pointers

DES MOINES (UP) — The 12 American farm experts who will make an agricultural tour of Russia this summer are ready and willing to pick up some pointers from the Communists.

Some of the 12 men have said that the exchange trips of American and Russian farm specialists may smack a little of propaganda.

But they are eager to examine Russian farming methods with an eye to improving their own crops.

And they also hoped that "farmer to farmer" talks might contribute a little towards easing East-West tensions.

The names of 10 of the 12 Americans who will make the July 15 to Aug. 15 jaunt were announced in Washington recently and the names of the other two were withheld for the time being because the Agriculture Department had not yet received official word of their acceptance.

Started With An Editorial

The Americans' trip to Russia will coincide with a month-long tour of U.S. farm lands by a Soviet delegation.

The idea to let Russians have a look at American farming methods while U.S. farmers tour Russia stemmed from an editorial in the Des Moines Register and Tribune. Appropriately, the writer of the editorial was 1 of the 12 Americans named to make the trip to Russia.

Editorial page editor Lauren K. Soth said he threw out the idea after Soviet leaders had publicly bemoaned Russia's agricultural troubles.

"I figured the logical answer would be to propose that they come here and see how the 'experts' do it in Iowa and that the Iowa delegation would be glad to help them out over there," he said.

"It may be all propaganda, but its no secret they need help," he said.

Both May Learn

Soth added "I imagine we'll learn something from them—perhaps we could develop some ideas from their research methods.'

Another Iowa, farmer Herbert W. Pike of Whiting, said he's more interested in learning from the Russians than in showing off his own skill.

"It's a theory of mine that when any farmer visits with another farmer, they learn from each other," Pike said. "I've been trying to push the type of agricultural education in which farmer talks to farmer, instead of professor talks to farmer."

The 43-year-old farmer, who specializes in corn and hogs on his 700 acres, said his wife is enthusiastic about his making the trip. But his young son and daughter think the idea is only "pretty good."

Ralph Olsen of Ellsworth, Iowa, also had a personal reason for wanting a look at Russia's farms.

Olsen, visiting in Chicago, said he wanted to see just "how modern" Russian agriculture is because he himself has gone from horse operaton to complete mechcattl farm.

"I also hope it may be a start towards better understanding between our two countries,' Olsen said.

A fourth member of the delegagtion is also an Iowa native, but is now an agricultural economics professor at the University of Chicago.

D. Gale Johnson, 38, said he wanted to discover how much Communist collectivization has done to solve Russias "age-old" agricultural problems.

How Much Incentive?

Of particular interest, he said, would be whether the Soviet method of supplying government-owned machinery to collective farms could be used in other "poor" farm areas, and whether the Red project to increase wheat production by developing "virgin land" in Asiatic Russia is working.

Johnson also wanted to fnd out how much incentivethere is for the Russian farmer, adding "the Russian peasant has less incentive to produce than the Russian industrial worker."

The fourth Iowan officially announced as making the trip was Charles J. Hearst of Cedar Falls. In addition, Iowa Rep. Henry . Talle said in Washington that John Marion Steddom of Polk City was included:

Others who will go to Russia are W.V. Lambert, Lincoln, Neb., dean of the college of agriculture and director of the experiment station and extension service of the University of Nebraska; Asa V. Clark, Pullman, Wash., wheat farmer; and Ferris S. wen, Newhio Farm Bureau Federation.

The other two were John M. Jacobs Phoenix, Ariz., farmer, and J.M. Kleiner, Nampa Idaho distributor of agricultural products.

TELEPHONE NERVES

HARTFORD, Conn. — (UP) — Unemployment compensation was granted to a woman who resigned after 12 days as a telephone soliciter because continued verbal abuse made her nervous. Unemployment Commissioner Harold Strauch extended "considerable sympathy to the busy housewife who is interrupted at a crucial moment by a telephone call," but added that "two wrongs don't make a right."

Aided By Antibiotics

Young chicks, turkeys, pigs and calves from eight to 12 weeks of age seem to benefit most from the addition of antibiotics in the ration

President Buckles Down To Grinding July Schedule

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower put away his holiday memories and buckled down today to a grinding July schedule that will include the Big Four conference and the possible windup of Congress.

For unexplained reasons, Mr. Eisenhower ended his holiday weekend stay at the presidential retreat in Maryland's Catoctin Mountains six hours earlier than originally planed and returned to the White House shortly after mid-

Mrs. Eisenhower did not return with him. She has been at Camp David or their Getysburg, Pa., farm since June 10.

The President faced a Washington steaming in summer heat and stricken by a transit system strike that produced the city's worst traffic jam in history.

It was believed Mr. Eisenhower decided to return early to avoid the morning traffic jam resulting from the strike.

The President spent a quiet Fourth of July practicing putting on his golf green at Camp David. He and Mrs. Eisenhower drove the 20 miles to their farm in the afternoon but returned to Camp David about three hours later.

Willis Sylvester Geiger Dies At His Home Saturday

Funeral Services Wednesday Afternoon

Willis Sylvester Geiger, 76, died at 2:15 p.m. at his home near Knapp lake in Noble township, Noble county. He had been in failing health for 20 years and had been at the Whitley County Hospital June 13 to 24.

He was born November 26, 1878 at Etna and was a son of John D. and Rachel Elizabeth Geiger. On August 25, 1923 he was united in marriage to Golden Marie Brown, who survives and resides at their Knapp lake home. The couple went to housekeeping in Noble county but from 1949 to 1953 lived on the Isaac Bell farm near Etna. In 1953 Mr. and Mrs. Geiger returned to live near Knapp lake. Mr. Geiger was a farmer all his life.

Survivors in addition to Mrs Geiger include four sons, Harold, Noble township, Noble county, Clifton, Etna-Troy township, Donald, Fort Wayne, Corporal Franklin Geiger, U.S. Army, Ansberg, Germany, one daughter Mrs. Julian (Julia Ann) Gregg, Washington township, Noble county, one brother, Adrian, Noble township, Noble county, two sisters, Mrs. Lettie Dyer, Wabash and Mrs. Fannie Snell, Merriam, an aunt, Mrs. Bertha Winebrenner of Merriam and 9 grandchildren and one great-grandchild. A son, John D. died October 11, 1954. A brother, George A. and a sister Marian Gawthrop also are dead.

The body was taken to the J. A. DeMoney and Sons funeral home where friends may call and where services will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday. The Rev. Volie Pyles of the Ormas Baptist church will conduct the rites and burial will be in the Thorn cemetery in Noble county.

Jackson A. Raney Will Head Kiwanis International

Jackson A. Raney, Indianapolis school executive, has been named President of Kiwanis International. He was elected to the number-one Kiwanis post Wednesday, June 29th, by delegates attending the 40th annual Convention of Kiwanis International at Cleveland, Ohio. News of Raney's election was received by officers of the Kiwanis Club of Columbia City today.

As head of Kiwanis International, Raney will be official spokesman for almost a quarter million Kiwanians in 4062 clubs located throughout the United States and Canada, and in Alaska and the Hawaiian Islands. He succeeds Don E. Engdahl, Spokane, Washington lumberman who has held the post since August, 1954.

Raney has devoted most of his professional life to the education of the physically-handicapped. He has been superintendent of the Indiana State School for the Deaf at Indianapolis for 20 years. He is a graduate of Franklin College and a member of its council. Recently, he received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from that institution.

Judge Warns Against Four Types Of Women

LONDON (UP)—There are four types of women men should avoid, according to Judge Scobell Armstrong, who serves in a divorce court. The 76-year-old judge listed the types as:

"The women with catty eyes. Look at her eyes and see if they are warm, bright and kind, or catty. If they are catty, beware.

"The saintly woman, or the woman who spends her life in church. Saints are wonderful, but they may be reather difficult for sinners to live with. The wife who is always wanting to reform can be very trying.

"The amusement fan. The wife who always wants to go out for amusement can be very trying, too.

"The stupid woman. Marriage with a fool, however sweet and lovely, is a drab affair. She will have stupid children."

Judge Armstong, who says he has "put asunder" nearly 1,500 couples, said that far the greatest number of cruelty divorces are due to drink.

2 More Garden Hoses Run Away From Their Home

By Burrowing Into The Owners' Lawns

By UNITED PRESS

Two more hoses ran away from home today by burrowing into their owners' lawns.

The baffled masters of two other sinking hoses meanwhile admitted defeat and either cut them off or dug them up.

The sudden impulse of garden hoses to get away from it all has attracted nationwide attention and prompted scores of explanations.

Hoses were still trying to get to China the hard way today at Downey, Calif., and Duluth, Minn.

Robert Breeze of Downey reported his hose had appropriately chosen a gopher hole in which to dive. At Duluth, 15 feet of Robert A. Wombacher's 50-foot hose had gone underground.

Nobody could pull the two hoses out. Every now and then they'd give a wriggle and go a little deeper.

The most famous of the sinking hoses was meanwhile set free, to roam where it pleases in the underworld.

George di Peso of Downey cut his plastic, nose-diving hose because "sightseers and phone calls have been driving me nuts."

Di Peso became a celebrity when his hose started the disappearing fad. He had no idea why his hose was leaving him and had originally planned to dig to the bottom of the mystery.

But he changed his mind because the hole would ruin his lawn.

"I still don't know what made it go down like that," he said. "But I wish it had never happened."

The earth in the Downey area seemed particularly attractive to hoses, since Calvin Barham's hose also started burrowing in nearby Norwalk.

Barham had left the water running overnight to irrigate a tree and when he inspected the hose the next morning it was five feet under. But Barham didn't let the hose get away with it. He dug down and brought the hose back to earth—or rather, above earth.

None of the four home owners could explain their sinking hoses, but they had plenty of free advice.

The most common explanation was that water action pushed the hoses down under.

There was also speculation that the little men who live in the earth were giving the hoses a tug. Other thinkers, victims of a heat wave themselves, were convinced the hoses had found a sensible way to keep cool.

Whatever the explanation, Di Peso wanted to hear no more of the disappearing hoses or their owners.

"All I can say is 'good luck' to them," he said.

Trying To Stay Fashionably Corked Is Waste Of Time

NEW YORK (UP) — Trying to stay fashionably corked has become a nationwide waste of time, energy, good liquor, good money and good intentions, claims author Robert T. Allen in an article in the July issue of Catholic Digest.

Allen, in his story, said that social drinking is the biggest all round nuisance since chain letters. And the fact that a binge is called a cocktail party doesn't make it any easier to wake up in the morning.

"I'm tired of thinking about drinking, talking about drinking, and listening to other people talk about drinking," he wrote. "I'm tired of waiting for someone to put a drink in my hand before I start to talk, like a mace at a secret club.

"In short, I'm sick of social drinking. That's why I am going to quit," he said.

Allen points out that he has no moral prejudices about drinking one way or the other.

"I've never attended a temperance lecture nor belonged to A.A.," he said. "I'm just going to quit, that's all.

"I'm not talking about alcoholism, drunk driving, problem drinking, or seeing bats come out of bureau drawers. I'm talking about social drinking. I'm talking about the kind of drinking that's respectable."

Allen said drinking had become gay and fashionable and as impossible to hold out against as television.

But, he said, "the only time I ever have a normal, unstimulated talk with a businessman is when I happen to run into one by accident and find him spending his lunch hour in the old fashioned way—just eating."

For every deal made over a drink there are two deals lost, he claimed. "Maybe it loosens things up, but more often it louses things up."

"I'm going to start getting back to some of the things we used to enjoy. I want to start going to parties where people pay some attention to what you're saying instead of sitting and wondering whether the host is going to produce a "jug."

Indiana Pushes Its Plans To Move Into Leased Building

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)— Indiana pushed plans today for moving several state offices into a nine-story downtown building.

William Clarkson, director of public works and supply, said the state will lease the old Peoples Outfitting Co. building for $42,000 a year as another Statehouse annex.

He said the state will gain about 25,000 square feet of floor space for less than the cost of renting offices scattered throughout the city.

Clarkson said the building will be occupied by some offices now renting space elsewhere and by others located in the overcrowded Statehouse.

1955 Wheat Crop Price Support Will Be $2.08

Up 2 Cents From Minimum Announced Last Fall

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Agriculture Department today increased the national average support price for 1955-crop wheat to $2.08, up 2 cents from the minimum price announced last fall.

The rise was forecast in the monthly price report issued last week.

The average support price of $2.08 a bushel compares with the support price of $2.24 a bushel for the 1954 crop.

The increase in the supports results from a higher June, 1955, wheat parity price than the August, 1954 price used to determine the minimum support announced last Sept. 15. At that time the department said if the wheat parity as of June 1, 1955, was higher than the $2.50 parity price of August, 1954 the 82½ per cent of parity minimum support would be increased.

The June 1955 parity price was $2.52, resulting in an increase of 2 cents a bushel above the minimum support announced last fall.

The support rate for the 1956 crop already has been set at $1.81, or 76 per cent of parity.

Slayer Of Three Will Face Trial Next October

State Will Ask For The Death Penalty

GALVESTON Tex. (UP) — Authorities said today Ellis E. Auhon Jr., confessed slayer of three members of a Dickinson, Tex., family, will be tried for at least one of the murders in October. The state will ask the death penalty.

Dist. Atty. Marsene Johnson said the 26-year-old Altus, Arl., airman cannot be tried immediately because Sheriff Frank L. Biaggne said Lauhon would be given a psychiatric examination as soon as possible.

Biaggne said the husky airman has indicated he will plead insanity.

Lauhon is charged with the June 22 murders of Mrs. Ruby McPherson, 42; her son, George, 12; and her mother, Mrs. Zola Norman 65. The three were shot to death from close range as they slept in the McPhersons' home near Dickinson.

Lauhon was captured Friday in Nogales Mexico, where he was trying to sell a dust-covered 1953 Ford owned by Mrs. McPherson.

Five Of Crew Are Killed In Train Wreck

Engines Covered By Fiery Liquid

VAUGHN, N.M. (UP) — Two Santa Fe freight trains collided head-on today, killing five crew members and injuring three others.

A tank car of highly inflammable acetate that was behind one of the two locomotives covered the engines with fiery liquid. All of the dead were in the still-blazing litter of the two locomotives.

The accident occurred at a switch known as Cardenas Junction, about 21 miles east of here.

A Santa Fe official said the collision occurred when a westbound train pulled into a siding at the junction to allow an eastbound freight to pass through without making a halt.

For some reason, the westbound freight apparently failed to stop. It continued on through the siding and back onto the main line where it met the oncoming eastbound freight head-on.

There's Thunder

He swings for a knockdown when he swings at all. Johnson, the handsome, smiling type of politician, has shown extreme skill as a boxer, a political Benny Leonard, if anyone can go back that far.

Because of his serious condition, Johnson probably won't be indulging in any politcal give and take for some time. His office already has announced he won't be back for the remainder of this congressional sessioin. And his assistant, Sen. Earle C. Clements (D-Ky), the Senate Democratici whip, already s taking over his duties. Clements is expected to carry on with the same policy and program set down by Johnson.

Johnson Demonstrate Technique

Only a few days befor his illness Johnson amply demonstrated his technique as a political battler. There was a back and forth between Johnson and the President in which Johnson rubbed it in rather roughly that much of the Republican program this year had been put through Congress with Democratic votes. The point he was making was that Democrats are a high minded group of people who would not stoop to mere politics.

At his next news conference, Mr. Eisenhower replied sharply, not so, and read a list of the legislative projects which the Democratic majorities had cut down or ignored. Back popped Johnson with an observation about Mr. Eisenhower which was sure to sting.

"Of course, I can understand that the President was speaking from a prepared list that someone had given him," said the senator. "After all, he spent last week in New England, and may not fully understand all he was talking about.'

Johnsons policies obviously have not been dictated by any d're that Mr. Eisenhower loves him. More likely his idea was that a young man in his position may properly think one day of getting his party's presidential nomination. That day might be, say, in 1960. And the best way a Texan could win such an honor would be by proving to the middle of the road and more conservative elements of his party that he isi no radical. A nominee wants, above all else, a united party.

causing one of the biggest traffic pileups in the nation's history.

Most Americans Sweltered

Most Americans sweltered through the glorious fourth, baked by the summer's first big heat wave. Temperatures went close to the 100s in the eastern half and were well into the 90s in vast areas of the West.

The heat and the holiday resulted in record millions at New York city beaches, at least one heat prostration death in Michigan, and frayed nerves on the highways.

At Pittsfield, Mass., 37 persons suffered heat exhaustion during a two-hour parade. A Detroit man sprinkled passersby as well as his lawn, but police let him continue saying his actions were "more thoughtful than malicious."

The holiday's greatest tragedies stemmed from an Iowa crash which virtually wiped out two families and a broken bridge at the Cherokee N.C., Indian Reservation.

Two Families In Collision

Near Iowa City Sunday night, the Max Williams family was on a holiday trip from Moline, Ill., and the Clarence Weichmann family was returning to Homestead, Iowa, from a picinic. Their cars crashed and eight persons died — Mrs. Weicihmann and her three small daughters, the Williams couple and their daughter, and a friend of the Williams family.

Also on Sunday, 100 tourists pushed past guards on to a foot bridge over a shallow, rock-lined river. The bridge collapsed, sending two persons to their deaths and injuring 20.

Despite the highway carnage, the nation could at least take credit for the fact that fireworks—once the major killer on July 4th had killed only one person.

The sole victim was a 6-year-old Seattle, Wash., boy who tossed a firecracker into a large kerosene can.

discharged at McCray hospital at Kendallville after an accident ½ mile east of Churubusco in Allen county at 11 p.m. Saturday.

Their 1950 Ford went over a hill and the driver lost control of the car and it ran into an embankment. Damage to the auto was estimated at $400.

Two Union township girls were injured Sunday evening when they failed to stop at a dead-end "T" road intersection four miles west of this city on the county farm road.

Miss Judy Lauer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Lauer, suffered facial cuts when thrown into the windshield of the car driven by Miss Sharon Collier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Collier. They were driving north on a blacktop road approaching the county farm road and failed to stop or turn. The car was heavily damaged as it plunged across the highway and into the dirt enbankment.

They were brought to the Whitley County Hospital in the Hollingsworth ambulance where Sharon was treated for minor facial injuries and a cut on her knee and dismissed. Judy was hospitalized and dismissed today.

The accident occurred near the Otto Trimmer farm.

Accidents In City

Columbia City Police investigated three accidents over the holiday weekend.

Byron Yohe, R 5, city, received minor injuries and was treated and dismissed at the Whitley County Hospital following an accident on South Main street at Ellsworth street Saturday afternoon at 2:50 involving three cars.

Mr. Yohe, 87, reportedly drove his car onto Main street from the east, hitting a southbound car driven by Mrs. Walter Keiser, R. 2. After glancing off the Keiser automobile, Mr. Yohe's car proceded on and struck a parked car on the south side of Ellsworth street belonging to John Hunter Reardon, Wabash.

Mr. Yohe was taken to the hospital in the Hollingsworth ambulance and later dismissed.

Damage to the Keiser was placed at $200, to the Yohe car at $150 and $100 to the Reardon car.

Ronald Pearson, 16, son of A. S. Pearson, North Webster, damaged his 1951 Buick an estimated extent of $225 when he attempted to pass a tractor-trailer after waiting for the stop signal at the intersection of Van Buren and Chauncey streets at 11:15 Saturday night. Police report that Pearson drove his car along the left side of the semi-trailer, which was waiting for the light to change. Pearson got alongside the truck after passing the intersection and then could not pass the truck or get back into his lane of traffic because of other cars in the traffic lanes. The right side of his car collided with the left rear of the tractor-trailer causing $10 damage to it. Pearson was arrested and charged with passing at an intersection.

Three other cars jammed together on West Van Buren street between the Chauncey and Line streets intersections.

Errill Reason Reed, was stopped in a line of traffic for the signal at Chauncey street and was followed by Edward Seman, Fort Wayne. The third vehicle was driven by Charles Alting Moulin, Fort Wayne, who ran into the rear of the Seman car. The Seman car was pushed forward striking the rear of the Moulin car. Damage to the two rear cars was estimated at $50 each.

42 Pennsylvania Freight Cars Are Derailed

BRAZIL, Ind. (UP)—Forty-two of 62 cars of a westbound Pennsylvania freight train were derailed four miles west of here Sunday night.

A car containing 40 tons of dynamite caps remained standing on the right-of-way.

No injuries were reported and no fire broke out. Members of the Seelyville volunteer fire department guarded the wreckage.

The middle section of the train was involved in the accident, tearing up the trackbed and causing extensive damage.

Railroad officials said they believed a "bad crossing" caused the accident.

Driving Bicycle While Intoxicated Proves Costly

HOLLAND Mich. (UP)—Driving a bicycle while intoxicated cost Lawrence Newman five days of freedom. Newman was sentenced to five days for drunk and disorderly conduct when police caught him weaving down the street on the two-wheeler.

Prison Officials Prepare Answer To Demands Of Rioting Convicts

By RUSS NIELSEN
United Press Staff Correspondent

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (UP)—Washington State Prison officials today were preparing an answer to demands from rioting convicts who held nine prison employes as hostages.

Earlier, the prison had announced only seven men held by the convicts, but an early morning check of personnel showed two more employes missing and reported seen in the custody of the rioters.

Spokesmen for 800 rebellious convicts said the hostages would be released at 3 p.m. (5 p.m. CST) today if prison officials showed "sincerity" in dealing with the convict demands.

The spokesmen for the prisoners met with three reporters Tuesday night only hours after the riot, triggered by 35 maximum security convicts, swept through the prison.

Prison Business Manager William Connell said the riot began while officials were interviewing new inmates in the prison guidance center.

Rioters broke into the room and overpowered officials and guards. B.W. Fain, recreation officer, was knocked unconscious when he resisted the rioters and was revived and treated at the prison hospital where several stitches were taken in his forehead.

Armed with knives and razor blades, the rioters took control of wing No. 1, a maximum security block and the kitchen and dining room. They moved into wings 4, 5 and 2 and tried to get control of wing 6 but were halted.

A Hate Factory

"This place above all things is a hate factory," said one of the rioters Tuesday night after convicts had issued a statement listing grievances.

The two-page statement was given to Dr. Thomas Harris, state institutions director. The main grievance centered on isolation in "the hole."

The rioters also scored the Classification and Parole Planning Department at the prison and demanded the ouster of its head.

"We think . . . the department must have a shakeup. When the Parole Department was staffed by one man, there were never more than 12 men overdue for parole at any one time. Now, when the department is headed by Mr. Charles Simon, with the aid of two assistants, there sometimes are as many as 25 men overdue."

Before issuing the statement, the convicts aired their grievances at meetings with prison authorities late Tuesday afternoon.

Harris said three men who spoke for the convicts did not disclose what they intended to do if their demands were not met. They already had threatened to kill the hostages if violence was used against the rioting inmates.

Enough Food For Week

The convicts were believed to be in control of enough food to last them a week. They had access to shops, control rooms, kitchen and dining room and could roam freely through half the prison.

Harris said he hoped the riot might be settled without bloodshed but added "there might be violence."

Hostages held included a parole officer, five prison officials and a guard. They released Al Rembolt, captain of the guards, with the message that if violence were done to the convicts, the hostages would be harmed.

Those held were Theodore Bezzerides, assistant superintendent for custody, Parole Officer W. S. Storey, Vocational Counselor Jess Bentley, control room deskman Bert Kenkins, Assignment Officer Harold Benniss and two unidentified guards.

Bill May Add Million To Social Security Rolls

Democratic Sources Predict Committee Will Approve

WASHINGTON (UP) — Democratic sources predicted today the House Ways & Means Committee soon will approve legislation that could add almost one million persons to the seven million now getting Social Security checks from the government.

To pay for the new benefits, they predicted, the bill will advance the date of future tax increases already scheduled for employers, employes, and self-employed persons covered by Social Security.

One Democratic source said the committee probably would agree to advance to January, 1957, a 25 per cent boost in Social Security taxes now scheduled for January, 1960.

The forecast came as the com-

Mrs. Kreitzer Doesn't Think She Will Go To Work Today; Won $32,000 On TV Quiz

By H.D. QUIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP)—If the folks at the Naval Supply Depot at Mechanicsburg Pa., don't mind too much, Mrs. Catherine Kreitzer doesn't think she'll come to work today.

She didnt get away from New York until half past midnight, and didn't get to her eight-acre farm near Camp Hill, Pa., until a very wee hour.

It takes a bit out of a body winning $32,000 on a television quiz show. And, after all, Mrs. Kreitzer is 54 and has six grown sons and nine grandchildren.

Mrs. Kreitzer has the personal calmness that comes from studying the Bible since she was 4 years old (her mother a Church of God member, read it to her until she learned to read herself; But that calmness has been put to harsh test during the last week as mail and phone calls poured in on her.

Almost Flubbed It

Tuesday night she was tense as she prepared for the next-to-last question on the TV "$64,000 Question" show. And she came close to missing the $32,000 question about the Bible—although it was about Jesus' 12 disciples, a subject she knows well.

When it was all over and she had won, she walked off stage mopping her face with a handkerchief and sank down on a chair. An assistant director asked if she would like some water.

"Please," she replied, "I'm rather nervous."

Mrs. Kreitzer must spend the next seven days worrying with her husband, Joseph, and her father, Joseph Bucher 82 who lives nearby whether she will risk her $32-000 to try for $64,000 next week. If she should try and lose, she'd get only a Cadillac convertible as consolation prize.

Answering questions about the Bible, she has won for three

Huntington Man Dies Here Of Accident Injuries

Marion E. Pulley, 37, died at 12:45 a.m. today at the Whitley County Hospital of head injuries suffered in an automobile accident two miles north of South Whitley on State road 5 at about 11:00 p.m. Saturday.

Mr. Pulley was southbound and lost control of his car which went off the highway and struck a culvert.

The body was removed to the Robbins Funeral Home in Huntington, where friends may call after 3:30 p.m. Thursday.

Survivors of the Huntington native include his father, Ira Pulley, two sisters, and one brother. He was not married.

County Commissioners Ask $6,000 Damages From Herbert Ott, Jr.

A complaint for damages has been filed in the Whitley County Circuit Court by the Whitley County Commissioners against Herbert Ott, Jr.

The complaint states that on October 24, 1954 the defendant drove a truck into the guard rail and damaged a county bridge over Spring Creek in Cleveland township causing the bridge to be totally wrecked. The plaintiff stated the value of this bridge was $6132.-93 immediately before the accident, and immediately following the accident the structure was worth $159.06. The plaintiff charges the damage resulted from careless, reckless, and negligent acts on the part of the defendant and asks $6,000.00 for damages.

County Hires Five Teachers For 1955-1956

Five Other Positions Remain Unfilled

Five teaching positions have been filled in the Whitley county schools, although five vacancies remain, according to County Superintendent of Schools Harry T. Yoder.

Mrs. Guy Miller will teach the third grade at Columbia Township School this fall. She lives in Huntington County and taught last year at Merriam.

Mrs. Elizabeth Phend, of Loon Lake, will instruct music and English at Columbia Township School. A graduate of Ball State Teacher's College, Mrs. Phend taught last year at Rome City.

Mrs. Merle Hupe, who attended Purdue University, will teach the second grade at Thorncreek Township School. A resident of Lafayette, Mrs. Hupe has been teaching in Decatur county.

Miss Norma Strite, of Polo, Ill., will instruct home economics and girl's physical education at Jefferson Center. Miss Strite was graduated from Manchester College this spring.

Miss Myrta Pike, a 1955 graduate of Huntington College, will teach the second grade at Coesse. Miss Pike is from Montpelier, Ohio.

Absalom Wilson, teacher at Larwill, has resigned from his position as junior high school coach and social studies instructor to accept a position at Rome City, where he recently purchased a grocery store on Sylvan Lake. His position at Larwill remains unfilled.

Other vacancies include the second grade at Etna-Troy school, a teacher for English and Latin at Jefferson Center, a commerce teacher for Churubusco, and a home economics teacher for Coesse.

Police Chief Makes Semi-Annual Report

City Police Chief Lee Gross has made the semi-annual police report, for the period from January 1 to July 1.

The reports show that seven persons were injured in the 53 traffic accidents, which caused damages of $15,335.00. There were 124 traffic arrests made and seven arrests as a result of 11 criminal investigations. A total of 131 investigations were made. The city patrol car traveled 18,955 miles. Three of the five breaking and entering cases were cleared.

School Stock Will Be Sold In City On June 13

All Families Urged To Buy $10 Share

A group of persons representing six local organizations met Tuesday evening at the Stuart Smith home and planned the sale of stock in the Columbia City Joint high school to residents of this city. Mr. Smith is in charge of selling the $10 shares of stock in Columbia City.

Next Wednesday evening will be the night that city residents will be contacted to buy the stock. Members of the Tri Kappa Sorority, Delta Theta Tau alumnae will canvass the town. The town was divided into four sections, one for each organization to cover. The Delta Theta Tau alumnae chapter will sell the stock in the Southwest section, Rotary in the Southeast, Tri Kappa in the Northwest, and Kiwanis in the Northeast. The stock is also on sale at both of the banks here where anyone wishing to may purchase it at any time.

It was explained to those attending the meeting last night that selling this stock is a good-will effort and that quanity of stock to one person is not the object. The object of selling this stock is to get as many buyers of shares as possible, and in this way show that the community is back of this school building move. By doing this, the bonding houses which will buy the school bonds are likely to charge a lower interest rate on their money.

Those who attended the meeting and the organizations they represented were: Willard Phillips, Ed Heupel, Clarence Gall, Rotary; Don Staples, Benton Bloom, Kiwanis; Mrs. Robert Gates, Tri Kappa; Mrs. David Spence, Delta Theta Tau alumnae chapter; Charles Holbrook, Citizens State Bank; Robert Gates, The Farmers Loan & Trust Co.; and Bob Fahl, newspaper.

Democratic Ticket Filled With Filing For Clerk-Treasurer

Merl Plattner, chairman of the Whitley County Democratic Central Committee announced this morning that the local democratic ticket was completed with the filing today of Kenneth J. Fleck as candidate for city clerk-treasurer.

Mr. Fleck was selected for the candidacy at a meeting of the county central committee Tuesday, and his name was filed with the county clerk this morning.

Mr. Fleck is a native of Columbia City, has three children, Mrs. Don Mullett, Washington township; Jan, a student in Morehead State College, Kentucky; and Jack, in the Navy. For the past 13 years he has been employed in the sales office of Boweser, Inc., of Fort Wayne. He was employed at pressman at this newspaper prior to that.

Other Democratic candidates are: Garland Stickler, mayor; and Sherman Kneller, Floyd Ferguson, Carl Killian, Clarence Grable, and Walter (Jake) Adkins council candidates.

Muncie Man Dies From Shots Fired By Investigating Police

MUNCIE, Ind. (UP) —James Bruce, 55, Muncie factory worker, was shot to death Tuesday night by police called to investigate a "love triangle" fight.

Patrolman John McCain and Sgt. Melvin Miller said Bruce "whirled around with a gun in his hand" when they caught up with him on a Muncie street.

Russell Fowlkes, Muncie, said Bruce began shooting at him when Bruce found him at the home of Bruce's estranged wife. Bruce chased Fowlkes down the street and the policemen approached him before he caught up.

The officers said Miller fired once, and McCain four times when Bruce whirled with a revolver after they said, "Bruce, this is the police." He was hit twice.

Bruce died less than two hours later in Ball Memorial Hospital.

Not Much Damage Done By Tuesday Night Storm

Only a minimum of damage has been reported done by the Tuesday night storm.

The Columbia City Police Department said that wind and rain had put out about 12 of the arc lights along Main and Van Bruen streets, but that they were replaced early Wednesday morning.

Officials at the city fire department said that no fires or other damage had been reported there.

The Whitley County REMC reported that two lines were out, leaving about 70 homes without electricity. Officials there said that lights went out about 8 p.m. and were on again about 11:45 p.m.

The government gauge at the newspaper office showed 1.15 inches of rai nafter the storm.

Three 4-H Club Tour Dates Set Within A Week

Beef, Dairy, Swine Electric Clubs

Whitley County 4-H Clubers have three tour dates coming up and a fourth one with no date as yet, states County 4-H Leader Harold Buckenmeyer.

The Whitley County 4-H Beef Club will hold its annual tour Friday, July 8. It starts at Kenneth Sherbans at 8:30 a.m. and will stop at Herbert Richards and Adolph Auers. The tour will end at 11:30 a.m. Dean Hodge, of Purdue, will lead the discussion.

The Whitley County 4-H Dairy Club will make a tour of the Dean Milk Company bulk receiving plant at Rochester on Tuesday July 12. This tour will leave the county agent's office at 9:00 a.m. Mr. Wrend of Dean Milk Co. will be the host.

The Whitley County 4-H Swine Club members will hold their tour July 13. The stops have not been decided. Eric Holm, of Purdue, will be the discussion leader.

The fourth tour will be by the Electric Club. They are planning a tour of the General Electric Company in Fort Wayne. The time of this tour has not been set yet.

On all of these tours, parents are invited to attend and asked to help in transportation. Anyone in the county that is interested in beef or swine is invited to attend these two tours. The -H Clubers have been doing a wonderful job of caring for their animals and they like to show them, Buckenmeyer reports. The tours give a few a chance to do this.

$100,000 Flash Fire At Evansville

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (UP) —A $100,000 flash fire destroyed three cars and a panel truck and damaged 20 other vehicles Tuesday when paint vapors were iginited in a body shop.

Damaged were Lloyd's Motor sales, a Studebaker agency, and the Bill Ohning body shop on the second floor of the two-story brick building.

Curley Farnsle, working in a paint booth where the fire started, suffered burned hands.

The damaged cars included 12 new Studebakers.

In Hospital

Mrs. James Boggs was taken from her home at 210 E. North street to the Whitley County Hospital early Wednesday morning in the J. A. DeMoney and Son ambulance.

Leaves Hospital

Mrs. J. Merlin Hindbaugh and son, Lynn Alan, were released Saturday from Whitley County Hospital and are now at their home in Jefferson township.

Has Surgery

Sidney Gebert, Richland township farmer, has been released from McDonald Hospital, Warsaw, where he submitted to major surgery 10 days ago.

East Swelters In Heat Wave For Entire Week

No Relief In Sight For Next Two Days

By UNITED PRESS

The eastern half of the nation sweltered in a 100-degree heat wave for the seventh straight day today.

A mass of hot, muggy air kept the heat wave simmering from the Dakotas to Maine. Temperatures jumped over the 100-degree mark in the New York area and Pennsylvania Tuesday and threatened to do the same today.

To make matters worse, there was no relief in sight — at least for the next two days.

At least two heat prostration deaths were reported in Michigan and New York City. In Manhattan, Blond actress Sheree North was put under a doctor's care after coming down with heat prostration.

The heat was so bad in Chicago that 126 workers went on a sitdown strike at the Ford assembly plant because some employes had been disciplined for refusing overtime. The strike shut down the whole plant, idling almost 2,000 workers.

Heat Twists Rail

In New York, the heat twisted the third rail on an elevated train line. All city and state employes and some office workers were sent home early to give them a chance to cool off.

Four teen-aged Canadian boys tried to beat the heat by swim-

Three American Turncoats En Route For Hong Kong

By WENDELL MERICK
United Press Staff Correspondent

HONG KONG (UP)—Authoritative information received here today said the three American turncoats who want to return home from Red China are en route south from Peiping by train for Hong Kong.

These sources said the three should reach Canton on Friday and will be handed over to American authorities in Hong Kong at 1 p.m. Saturday (11 p.m. CST Friday).

All preparations have been made here by U.S. authorities to give the three men a cool welcome.

The U.S. consulate here was informed through Peiping diplomatic channels of the intended delivery of the Americans who chose communism after the Korean War and then changed their minds, some time Saturday.

The information, believed to have come from the British and Swedish diplomatic missions in the Communst Chinese capital of Peiping, confrmed the announcement in New Delhi, India, Monday that the Americans would leave Red China July 9th.

The American ex-soldiers are Lewie Gripp William Cowart and Otho Bell. They chose to stay with the Communists after the Korean War instead of being repatriated.

Since then they have been working in Red China. Last month, however, Radio Peiping announced the Americans would be sent out of China at their own request because they could not adapt themselves to life there.

Ford Ruckman Has Fractured Ankle, Tractor Upsets

Ford Ruckman, Richland township farmer, is in the Whitley County Hospital with a fractured right ankle as a result of a tractor upsetting this morning at about 10:00.

Mr. Ruckman and a young boy who helps him, Roger Johnson, were attempting to start a tractor by pulling it with another tractor. The tractor which upset first broke loose from the other tractor and partially rolled into the side ditch along State road 5 just north of the Ruckman farm. As they were attempting to pull the tractor back onto the highway, it overturned. The farmer tried to jump clear of the machine but broke several bones in his ankle in the attempt. The Ruckmans lieve south of Larwill on road 5.

General Motors Plans To Triple Shares Of Stock

Move Reflects New Growth

NEW YORK (UP) — General Motors Corp. made plans today to triple its shares of common stock in a move which reflected new growth and expansion of the nation's largest manufacturing concern.

Plans for the three-for-one stock split were announced Tuesday night shortly after the close of the New York Stock Exchange. The stock soared to a new high of $114 a share before the announcement Tuesday, and rose as high as $121 a share on West Coast exchanges after the announcement.

The split would boost the number of common shares in the automobile manufacturing concern to 450 million, the largest number of shares authorized by any American Company. The firm retains some 60 million of the shares authorized. The remaining 90 million shares are owned by some 500,000 stockholders.

Under the split plan each of these stockholders would receive three shares for each one held as of Aug. 8. Stockholders will vote on the split at a special meeting Sept. 23, in Wilmington, Del. The split shares would be issued about Oct. 10.

The stock split plan comes in a year of high production and financial activity for GM.

The company sold 4,380,430 shares of stock last February to raise 325 million dollars in new capital for expansion. It was the largest financing ever undertaken by an American industrial firm.

Another expansion and modernization program costing 500 million dollars was announced several weeks ago.

Harlow H. Curtice, General Motors president, announced earlier this year he expected 1955 to be the biggest sales and production year in the firm's history.

If Memphis Can Construct Power Plant

Will Study Legal Involvements Before Making Final Decision

By JOHN A. GOLDSMITH
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower said today he would be willing to cancel the controversial Dixon-Yates project if the city of Memphis, Tenn. can go ahead with construction of its own power plant.

Mr. Eisenhower told a news conference that Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. and Budget Director Rowland Hughes are studying the feasibility and possible legal involvements of the Memphis plan before the administration makes a final decision.

Mr. Eisenhower last week ordered that the government's contract with the Dixon-Yates utility combine be re-studied with a view to cancellation if it developed that Memphis is definitely determined to build its own generatng plant.

The President said today he does not expect the new study to be finished before about two weeks. Mr. Eisenhower told reporters, however, that the TVA has already reported there will be no need for additional power production if Memphis goes ahead with its own plant.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed that Brownell had sent FBI agents to Memphis to check on the city's

Dose Of Humidity, Heat, Thundershowers Linger In Indiana

A steady dose of heat, humidity and scattered thundershowers lingered in Indiana today.

Weathermen predicted a repeat of the current pattern—temperatures in the 99s, sticky humidity, and brief thunderstorms occurring helter-skelter about the state.

The outlook for Friday was identical.

The mercury bubbled to 93 Tuesday at Fort Wayne, 92, at South Bend, 91 at Lafayette and 88 at Indianapolis where rain measured .23 inch in 22 hours ending this morning. Rain at South Bend totaled .12 inch Fort Wayne .06.

Forecasters said today's heat would reach 93, Thursday's 95. In between, the coolest prospect was 73.

Eighty-Nine Boys Live At Camp Whitley In Second Week Of Season, Winners Named

Editor's Note: This is the second story dealing with the campers at Camp Whitley. Boys attending camp during its second week this season are featured in this article.

During the second week that Camp Whitley was open this season, 89 boys enjoyed seven days of living there. Of the four teams during that week, the Indians were the champions in all competitive games.

Other boys attending camp that week were: Michael Ruch, Roger Snyder, Randall Striggle, Bobby Stoeckley, Bill Slaymaker, Gary Lee Thompson, Larry Thomas, Dennis White, David Whitton, Johnnie Watson, Brently Zieg, Bradley Zieg, Jimmy Tennant, Roger Elliot, John Easterday, Donald Elbrecht, David Fairweather, Roger Fawley, Paul Green, Rickie Grant, David Hall, Gregory Herreman, Tim Kilty.

Do You Suppose?

Do you suppose that these boys knew Camp Whitley was organized back in 1928 as a private stock company, and that some boys camped there in 1927. At that time it was just a woods with a lake close by. The campers lived in tents, which later had wooden floors in them. Walter Stephenson was the first director of Camp Whitley.

Scientists Can't Explain Garden Hoses Disappearing

CHICAGO (UP)—Chicago scientists threw up their hands today at trying to explain disappearing garden hoses and self-sealing window panes.

At least five garden hoses have taken to burrowing into the ground in California, Minnesota and Michigan.

And at International Falls, Minn. 20 witnesses said they saw lightning split a plate glass window and then seal it up again 30 minutes later.

Scientists at the Armour Research Foundation were questioned about the phenomena. They thought hard, and then announced they couldn't figure them out.

Otmar Tecihmann, associate manager of heat-power research, said the nose-diving hoses could be explained by hydraulics and dynamics, provided the water had been turned on.

But he gave up when informed that some of the hoses were bone dry.

"Just put it down as a green-eyed monster, pulling the hose from beneath the surface of the earth," he said. "That's as good an explanation as any."

Crystallographer John Krc was no more successful with the window pane mystery.

He said it could have happened in one continuous action, with the bolt splitting the window and then fusing it through heat. But the 30-minute time difference made the incident "impossible," he said.

As far as the runaway hoses are concerned, their owners are just as confused as the scientists.

Three hoses took it on the lam in the Downey, Calif., area and were followed by hoses in Duluth, Minn. and Kalamazoo Mich. All but one of the hoses has been cut or broken off leaving them free to burrow where they please.

Roanoke Girl Killed In Auto Accident

HUNTINGTON, Ind. (UP)—Mary Mangus, 17, Roanoke, was killed Tuesday night when a car in which she was riding left a county road at high speed and struck a tree and utility pole north of here.

State police said George H. Ufheil, 20, Huntington, lost control at the creast of a small hill. He was injured slightly.

President Says He Will Make Own Decision

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower today rejected the idea that he would be forced into running for a second term in 1956. He said this is a decision he will have to make himself.

The President smiled when he was told at his news conference that Sen. Ralph Flanders (R-Vt) said in a July speech that Mr. Eisenhower "cannot refuse to run" for a second term.

Asked whether he could refuse, the President said that for himself, he did not believe he had ever said what anyone else had to do.

Then, a bit more seriously, the President said that whether he runs again is a decision he will have to reach for himself. And as an afterthought, he added—sometime.

Flanders made his statement Monday night in Bement, Ill. He said Mr. Eisenhower would have to run again because "he has established leadership in the nation and leadership in the world.

power intentions. This prompted Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn), a leading Dixon-Yates foe, to accuse the administration of "shocking misuse" of the FBI.

At today's news conference Mr. Eisenhower was questioned repeatedly about the role of investment banker Adolph Wenzell of the First Boston Corp. who was a consultant to the Budget Bureau prior to final drafting of the Dixon-Yates contract. Wenzell's corporation subsequently arranged Dixon-Yates financing.

Mr. Eisenhower has consistently taken the stand that Wenzell had nothing to do with actual planning of the Dixon-Yates project.

He asserted again today that he thinks Wenzell's role was proper. He shrugged off a Capitol Hill suggestion that this decision to restudy the Dixon-Yates contract was a political victory for the Democrats and that he was backing down.

Kefauver meanwhile said the administration "degraded" the FBI by ordering its agents to check on plans of Memphis to build a power plant in place of the proposed Dixon-Yates plant.

"This is a shocking misuse of the FBI and in my oinion is clearly outside the jurisdiction of the agency," Kefauver said in a statement.

Rochester Man Killed By Train

ROCHESTER, Ind. (UP)—Franklin Jay Bumbarger, 65, Rochester, was struck and killed by an Erie Railroad train Tuesday night near Leiters Ford.

State Police said the accident was not discovered until the train crew noticed bits of flesh on the outside of the train when it pulled into Huntington. A section foreman then located the body.

188-hp Buick SPECIAL 6-Passenger, 4-Door RIVIERA, Model 43

This 4-Door Beauty is the Newest Hit in Hardtops

YOU certainly ought to come in and see for yourself why this new kind of hardtop is headed for the best-seller list.

It's a Buick Riviera, of course.

Which means the low and rakish look of a Convertible – a solid steel roof overhead – and no center posts in the side window areas to obstruct your view.

But that's only the beginning.

Here you get two extra doors. They open to the rear compartment. So no one in the front has to move when someone gets into or out of the rear.

Here you get massive half-pillars on either side on which the front doors latch and the rear doors hinge. (That's why you see no center posts above the door line.)

Here, too, you get wholly new principles in body design and strength that give the extra safety of rock-firm solidity at the top, sides and bottom.

And here—bless those Buick engineers!—you get a lot more room in the rear compartment.

For the 4-Door Riviera gives you over 9 inches more hiproom and 5 inches more legroom – yet with no increase in wheelbase or over-all car length.

So we repeat—you certainly ought to come in and see this stunning new kind of hardtop.

It's the very last word in beauty, comfort, convenience. It's available in Buick's two lowest-priced Series – the SPECIAL and the CENTURY. And it's all Buick – with Buick power, Buick ride, Buick handling—and the spectacular performance of Buick's Variable Pitch Dynaflow.*

Drop in today—tomorrow at the latest—and learn what Buick's all time record sales year can mean to you in the way of a whopping-big trade-in deal.

Graduating Class Of 1911 To Be Reunited Sunday First Time In Forty-Four Years

Next Sunday at the 4-H Community Center on new road 30 West, members of the 1911 graduating class of Columbia City high school, will be together for the first time since graduation day 44 years ago.

Some months ago, Mrs. John Travelbee, who was Amelia Erdmann when she graduated, got the idea of writing letters to the 40 members of her class. Of the 40 graduates, four have died. They are Roscoe Bush, Henrietta Meyers Ravidin, Lura Cook and Edith Sanders.

Of the 36 people, 20 have notified Mrs. Travelbee that they are expecting to be present, some coming from considerable distance. Five people have said they could not be present. Perhaps the one the fartherest away who has written of his intentions to be present is Homer Jackson, now retired and living at Dunedin, Florida.

Nearly all of those not heard from are those residing in and around Columbia City. The teacher expecting to be present is Herbert Ihrig of Laud. Harold Chapman, a teacher at that time, has written Mrs. Travelbee that he is located at Rockville and is now an invalid. Jesse Knight, another teacher is located at San Diego, Calif. Now 78 years old, Mr. Knight has operated a Audio-Visual Supply House since giving up the teaching profession.

Among members of the class still living in the city are Thomas R. Hood, mayor of Columbia City, and Ralph R. Gates, former governor of Indiana, who has returned to the old home town to practice law.

No speaker has been arranged for, but members of the class will just reminisce and then too, WOWO is sending their broadcasting man over and the program will be on the order of the "Man on the Street."

Don't forget, there is a picnic dinner to be served at noon.

County Probation Officer Speaks Before Methodist Women

Mrs. D. H. Underhill, county probation officer, was the speaker Tuesday evening before the women of Trinity Methodist church, at the general meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the church.

Mrs. Underhill's talk on local problems followed reports given by a number of women who attended the conference held in June at Epworth Forrest. Zoe Ann Stafford and Marieta Miller, who attended Camp Yo-Te-Mi-Ca at Epworth Forrest, also gave interesting reports.

The devotions were conducted by Mrs. William Holden.

Mrs. Robert DeMoney and members of her committee served cake and punch at the close of the program. Decorations on the lovely refreshment table had a patriotic theme.

Presidents Of County Clubs Hold Planning Session Tuesday

Presidents of the Whitley County Home Demonstration Clubs met with Mrs. Martha Cullop, Purdue University, at the County Agent's office, Tuesday. Mrs. Cullop explained the many lines of work offered by the University. The local women selected from the list the projects they considered of greatest value to club members at this time. The planning session was supervised by Mrs. Roy Metzger, county president.

"Basic Dress and Accessories" will be studied in clothing. "Freezer Meals" will be the nutritional topic. "Mental Health For The Family" will be the study in health. "Furnishing Accessories" was selected in home furnishing. Family Security is an alternate selection.

Women who participated in the planning session in addition to the president and the Purdue representative were Mrs. Joe Wilkinson, Mrs. William Snodgrass, Mrs. Harry Jagger, Mrs. Allen Shively, Mrs. Clarence Keiser, Mrs. Cecil Egolf, Mrs. Noel Smith, Mrs. William Ginn and Mrs. Paul Eckert.

D. A. Taylors ,Jr., Leave Today For Home In New Orleans

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Taylor, Jr., of New Orleans, who are accompanied by their two grandsons, Stephen and Michael, left today for their home in the south after a 10-day visit with Mr. Taylor's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Taylor, who reside at Merriam.

Tuesday evening, Mrs. Joe Niebel, 311 East Jefferson street, a sister of Mr. Taylor, entertained with a family dinner party in honor of the visitors.

The Taylors have been on a month's vacation and have been in Minden, Neb., where they were guests of Mrs. Taylor's parents, and at Hastings, Nebr., they attended the wedding of a nephew of Mrs. Taylor.

Mr. Taylor is an electrical engineer with the navy.

straight shows. Tuesday night, this was the question, a three-part one:

The $32,000 Question

"Jesus had 12 disciples. Peter and Matthew were two, and two others both were named James, often distinguished from each other as 'James the Greater' and 'James the Less.'

"Now—for $32,000—give me* the names of the eight additional disiciples.

"Then tell me the work that Peter did to earn a living and the work that Matthew did to each a living.

"Then tell me the name of the father of James the Less.'

Mrs. Kreitzer named eight, in this order: Andrew, Phillip, Bartholomew Matthew Thaddeus Thomas, Simon and Judas Iscariot.

She left out the disciple John who was among the eight additional required, and put in Matthew. The length of the question caused her to forget that Matthew already had been named. Quizzer Hal March told her she only had seven of the eight. She tried again, and again named Matthew. March asked: "Did you say Nathaniel?'

"I did not, Sir," Mrs. Kreitzer March told her to name all the disciples.

That was easy, and the name of John fell into place. Then she breezed through the rest of the question. Peter was a fisherman, Matthew a tax collector, and James the Less was the son of Alphaeus.

Mrs. Kreitzer pressed her left hand above her heart. She smiled, and her brown eyes softened. But she said she didn't believe she'd go to work today.

And at Appleton, Wis., two young prisoners took advantage of the 90-degree heat to make an "impossible" escape from the county jail.

The prisoners were let out of their cells because of the heat and climbed to the roof of the jail. From there they jumped about 10 feet to the branches of a frail poplar tree and shinnied 50 feet to the ground.

Under sheriff Robert Heinritz mopped his brow and said no man in his right mind would have attempted it."

Cold Fronts Retreat

High temperatures in the heat belt Tuesday included 104 degrees at Jersey City, N.J., 101 at Newark N.J., and an even 100 at Williamsport, Pa., Harrisburg, Pa., and Hemstead, N.Y.

The 95 at Chicago and 97 at Boston marked the cities' sixth straight day of 90-plus temperatures. Elsewhere, the mercury went over 90 from Portland, Maine, to southern Wisconsin and from North Dakota into Arizona.

Cold fronts tried to batter thier in cooling off some parts of the Midwest. But for the most part, the cold air merely touched off heavy rainstorms and then retreated, leaving the field clear for the heat.

In the West, meanwhile, it was downright cool.

It didn't seem fair, but Fraser, Colo., reported 41 degrees today and Reno, Nev., had a record July low of 35 degrees Tuesday.

Durocher, Lopez Announce Personnel For 1955 All-Star Game At Milwaukee

NEW YORK (UP)—Leo Durocher and Al Lopez, rival managers for the 1955 All-Star game, were being bombarded by complaints already today, less than 24 hours after announcing their personnel for the annual mid-summer classic at Milwaukee, July 12.

Durocher was under fire on two counts:

1.He by-passed National League batting leader Richie Ashburn of the Phillies.

2.He appeared to be favoring his own Giants pitching staff by also passing up veteran Sal Maglie (9-4), a 38-year-old right-hander who can use a rest.

Lopez, the Cleveland skipper who will manage the American League All-Stars, also was the target of criticism for passing over first baseman Bill Skowron of the Yankees while selecting six of his own Indian players.

Durocher imimediately snapped back at charges that he was giving the "cold shoulder" to Ashburn, who is hitting .342.

"We simply had to have some right-handed hitting to go with all those left-handed hitters picked by the fans," said the annoyed Giant manager.

"I have to start four left-handed hitters — Ted Kluszewski, Eddie Mathews, Duke Snider and Don Mueller — and with Roy Campanella hurt, I might start Smoky Burgess, another left-handed hitter. We're overbalanced with lett-handed hitters. If I picked Ashburn the American League would have us at a disadvantage.'

Durocher said he talked the matter over with National League President Warren Giles and "we felt we had to have some right-handed power on the team to win."

Regarding the charge that he was purposely giving Maglie more rest Durocher wouldn't dignify it with a reply. He did say, however:

"I went along entirely with the consensus of the other managers on the pitchiing staff. I did not pick the pitchers myself."

Pitching Staff

Four right-handed pitchers and three southpaws were named to the N. L. squad. The staff was headed by Don Newcombe, Brooklyn's 14-game winner, and the other three right-handers were Robin Roberts (12-7) of the Phillies, Gene Conley (9-1) of the Braves and Sam Jones (9-9) of the Cubs. The lefthanders chosen were rookie Luis Arroyo 9-3) of the Cardinals, Joe Nuxhall (8-5) of the Redlegs and Harvey Haddix (5-9)of the Cardinals.

Durocher chose Del Crandall of the Braves and Burgess of the Redlegs to back up Campanella, the catcher selected by the fans. He also designated Gene Baker and Randy Jackson of the Cubs, Stan Musial of the Cards, Gil Hodges of the Dodgers and Johnny Logan of the Braves to augment the fans' infield choices of Red Schoendieinst of the Cards, Ernie Banks of the Cubs and Mathews and Kluszewski.

In the outfield, Durocher picked his own Willie Mays, Hank Aaron of the Braves and Frank Thomas of the Pirates. The fans chose Duke Snider of the Dodgers, Del Ennis of the Phils and Mueller.

Named as coaches by Durocher were managers Fred Haney of the Pirates and Mayo Smith of the Phillies. Bob Buhl and Chet Nichols of the Braves were designated batting practice pitchers while Coach Bob Keely, also of the Braves, was named batting practice catcher.

The six Cleveland players Lopez picked were pitchers Early Wynn and Herb Score, infielders Bobby Avila and Al Rosen and outfielders Larry Doby and Al Smith.

Lopez Names Two Yankees

While Lopez skipped Skowron, who is hitting .365, he named two other members of the Yankees, right-handed pitcher Bob Turley (10-7) and left-hander Whitey Ford (10-3). Rounding out the American League pitching staff are two White Sox huriers, right-hander Dick Donovan (9-2) and left-hander Billy Pierce (5-5), southpaw Billy Hoeft (8-3) of the Tigers, and right-handers Frank Sullivan 11-6) of the Red Sox and Jim Wilson (5-8) of the Orioles.

Lopez also chose catcher Sherm Lollar and shortstop Chico Carrasquel of the White Sox, first baseman Vic Power of Kansas City and outfielder Jackie Jensen of the Red Sox.

American Leguers picked by the fans were Mickey Vernon of the Senators, Nellie Fox of the White Sox, Jim Finigan of the Athletics and Harvey Kuenn of the Tigers in the infield; Ted Williams of the Red Sox, Al Kaline of the Tigers and Mickey Mantle of the Yankees in the outfield, and Yogi Berra of the Yankees behind the plate.

Don Gutteridge of the White Sox and Tony Cuccinello of the Indians were named as coaches, while Steve Gromek of Detroit and Don Mossi of Cleveland will pitch batting practice and Coach Bill Lobe of Cleveland will handle them.

Patterson Tangles With McBride Tonight At Madison Square

NEW YORK (UP) — Brooklyn's Floyd Patterson, who has been regarded as a future heavyweight champion by many fistic experts since his amateur days, tangles with his firist Marciano-sized rival tonght when he meets Archie McBride in a TV-radio 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden.

Twenty-year-old Patterson, now ranked as the No. 2 contender in the light-heavyweight division, was In his four appearnaces so far this sally into the heavyweight class.

McBride, a solid but unranked ring workman from Trenton, N.J., was expected to tip the scales at about 185 pounds — or approximately the best fighting weight of heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano the man Patterson's fans figure he may meet someday in a little fight.

But McBride's record little resembles that of unbeaten Marciano. Archie has lost 9 of his 29 pro bouts, has scored only eight knockouts, and has been stopped twice. After losing three straight on decisiions to Hurricane Jackson and Nino Valdes and on a kayo by Billy Smith, he started a "comeback" in his last fight on May 11 by outpointing Bob Satterfield at Chicago.

Patterson, the Olympic middleweight champion of 1952, has twin strings of nine victories and four knockouts going into tonight's bout. In his fur appearances so far this year, he kayoed Willie Troy, Don Grant, Esau Ferdinand and Yvon Durelle.

Bert Whitehurst Under Observation At Detroit Hospital

DETROIT (UP)—Bert Whitehurst, Baltimore heavyweight, was under observation at Detroit Memorial Hospital today after he suffered a convulsion following his defeat by Johnny Summerlin of Detroit.

Whitehurst's handlers said he collapsed from heat prostration and the effects of a severe beating after returning to his dressing room.

Physicians at the hospital said Whitehurst had suffered a brain concussion and heat exhaustion.

Although he suffered severe poundings in the sixth and eighth rounds and had to be helped from the ring, the former sparring mate of heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano remained on his feet during the entir eight rounds of the feature attraction at the Motor City Arena.

He collapsed in his dressing room shortly after the fight and 30 minutes later became hysterical. Handlers strapped him to a stretcher and rushed him to the hospital.

Both fighters showed the effects of the 95-degree heat in the arena but the beating administered by Summerlin rendered Whitehurst almost helpless at the end of the fight.

Both weighed in at 193 pounds. It was Summerlin's seventh straight victory.

A Little Rest Did Miracles For Newcomb, Is Working Even Greater Wonders For Mays

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press Sports Writer

A little rest did miracles for Don Newcombe of the Dodgers and it's working even greater wonders today for amazing Willie Mays of the Giants.

Mays, whose batting average dipped as lcw as .267 last month, has looked like an entirely new ball player since returning to action June 21 after he was benched for the first time in his life because he was "confused."

All told, the young Giant center fielder who was named the most valuable player in the National League for 1954, has slammed out 22 hits in 60 times up and wal-.317 pace and with it, the Giants don't figure to remain in second division much longer.

Myas Hits Two Homers

Willie smashed his 24th and 25th homers of the year while leading the Giants to a lopsided 11-1 triumph over the Pirates Tuesday night. Mays' hitting and Johnny Antonelli s fine four-hit pitching brought back recollections of the Giants supremacy in the league a year ago.

The league-leading Dodgers, who still keep an eye peeled on the Giants, even though the world champions are 7 games back, dropped their first game of the season in Philadelphia by bowing to the Phillies, 5-4.

Robin Roberts batted in three runs in helping himself to his 12th victory but it was Andy Seminick's two-run homer in the eighth inning that spelled the margin of victory. Roberts was nicked for Duke Snider's 28th homer and finally gave way to Jack Meyer in the ninth when Brooklyn put together four hits for its final two runs. Meyer came in, however, and retired Gil Hodges for the final out.

Cincinnati nipped St. Louis, 5-4, in a game marked by a free-for-all by both clubs that was touched off when rival managers Birdie Tebbetts and Harry Walker swapped punches in the ninth inning. Johnny Temple's ninth-inning single drove in the winnging run in the ninth after Ted Kluszewki and Bobby Adams had homered for Cincinnati and Red Schoendienst, Joe Black was the windon had done likewise for St. Louis. Reliever Joe Black was the winner.

The Braves and Cubs were not scheduled.

A's Best Indians

In the only game plaeyd in the American League, Hector Lopez' eighth-inning homer off Early Wynn gave Kansas City a 4-3 victory and knocked Cleveland out of second place.

Shortstop Joe DeMaestri ended Wynn's string of 29 scoreless innings when he opened the game with a homer and the Athletics added another run in the first inning. Homers by Al Smith and Jim Hegan tied the score at 3-all off little Bobby Shantz. Tom Gorman, who relieved Shantz in the eighth, gained his fourth triumph while Wynn suffered his third loss.

Giles Says Fight Between Managers Is 'Unprecedented'

CINCINNATI (UP) — National League President Warren Giles said today a fist fight between Managers Birdie Tebbets of the Cincinnati Redlegs and Harry (The Hat) Walker of the St. Louis Cardinals was "unprecedented."

Giles, a witness to the free-for-all Tuesday night at Crosley Field, said he will be in no hurry to take any action against any of those involved in the scrap.

"I never before heard of two major league managers starting a fight between their teams by being the first to exchange blows,' Giles said. "To the best of my knowledge, their fight was unprecedented."

Giles commended Umpire Jocko Conlan for attempting to keep the game moving before the fight started. He said if he punishes any of the participants in the fight he will inform those men of the acton and they will be free to say how they have been punished.

"There will be no announcement from my office concerning any punishment," the National League chief said.

Giles and 7,321 other spectators saw Tebbetts and Walker swap punches in the ninth inning, then wrestle each other to the dirt around home plate while players of both clubs charged out onto the field.

Tebbetts suffered a slight nose bleed while Walker bore bruises on his face and neck.

The fight occurred only a few moments before Johnny Temple singled home pinch runner Chuck Harmon with the run that gave Cincinnati a 5-4 victory over the Cardinals.

With Temple at bat, two out and Redleg runners on first and second base, St. Louis catcher Bill Sarni called time and went out to the mound to confer with pitcher Paul LaPalme. The two Cardinal players spoke so long that Umpires Conlan and Artie Gore sought to break up the conference. When they failed, Tebbetts came out of the Cincininati dugout and demanded that the Cardinals be made to play ball. Immediately Walker came off the bench and met Tebbetts at home plate. Hot words followed and suddenly the two managers swung at each other.

You can spot this one by the twin tail-pipes. No matter what you drive, you're going to see twin-exhaust Chevrolets pulling away—in traffic, on the toughest hills, on the long straightaways.

. . . Unless you have a "Super Turbo-Fire V8"* of your own. And then you'll know what it's like to pilot the car that sets the pace for everything else—and doesn't pause to read the price tags!

What makes the Super scat? Chevrolet's superb valve-in-head V8, with the shortest stroke in the industry, the most power per pound, and the only 12-volt electrical system in its field—all this plus a four-barrel carburetor and free-breathing twin exhausts.†

Want to sample this silk-lined cyclone? Just give us a call, any day this week, and we'll be proud to show you just how hot a V8 can be.

Farmer And Nurse Rescue Teen-Ager

COVINGTON, Ind. (UP)—A farmer and a former nurse combined forces Tuesday to rescue a teen-age swimmer from certain death when he was pinned under water by a section of bridge railing.

Spring Creek when a truck operated by Ricihard Stanton, Danville, Ill., went out of control and smashed into the bridge. The iron railing landed in the water on Carl Swim 14, Covington.

Alfred Thornsbrough, a farmer working nearby, pulled the railing from Swim's body and carried the unconscious youth onto the creek's bank.

Then Mrs. Clara Crist, Covington, took over. A passerby, she stopped her car when she saw Thornsbrough lift the body from the water. She applied artificial respiration and revived Swim.

The youth was hospitalized in "good" condition with chest head and shoulder injuries. Stanton was not hurt.

Death Of R. Earl Briggs, Well Known Farmer, Is Sudden

Found By His Wife After He Goes To Barn

R. Earl Briggs, 71 Smith township farmer, died unexpectedly of a heart attack at approximately 7:30 this morning at his home one-half mile south of Collins. He had gone to the barn to do the morning's work, and after approximately one-half hour Mrs. Briggs noticed that the sheep were still penned-up in the barn. She ran to the barn lot and discovered that her husband had suffered a fatal heart attack near the bårn door. Although Mr. Briggs was not bedfast, he had been in failing health for the past month and had visited the family physician.

He was born in Union township, south of Coesse, May 10, 1884, a son of Charles A. and Mary E. Miller Briggs. On May 18, 1913, he was united in marriage to Mable Stemen. They started housekeeping in Smith township on the same farm where Mr. Briggs' death occurred, and their entire married life was spent on this farm and the farm adjoining on the south. He was a charter member of the Smith township Farm Bureau, and at the time of his death was serving as a trustee on the board of directors of the Eel River Cemetery Association.

The surviving relatives include his wife, Mable; two sons, James S. Briggs, Columbia City mail-carrier and Robert Earl Briggs, Albeauerque, N. M., eight grandchildren, and one brother, Harry Briggs, Smith township.

The body has been removed to the Smith and Sons' Funeral Home where friends may call after Thursday noon. Definite funeral plans will not be made until the state police are able to locate the James Briggs family now on vacation in southern Indiana, Kentucky, and the Smoky mountains in Tenn. They are traveling by car and trailer.

In order that a request of Mr. Briggs might be carried out, it has been asked that flowers be omitted.

William Walters, South Whitley Man, Dies Early Today

Patient In Local Hospital For 3 Weeks

William Walters, 78, resident of South Whitley for the past 11 years, died Wednesday morning at 1:30 at the Whitley County Hospital where he was a patient three weeks.

Mr. Walters had resided in Whitley county for 35 years. He was born in Wabash county December 9, 1876. His wife the former Florence Ida Bonested die din 1946.

He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Robert King and a son, Ernest Walters, both of South Whitley, also seven grandchildren, and two sisters, Mrs. Hugh Burton, Claypool and Miss Effie Walters of North Manchester.

Mr. Walters had long been a member of the Funk Luthern church.

Friends will be received after 6 o'clock this evening at the Miller Funeral Home in South Whitley. Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Friday at the mortuary.

Viet Nam Troops Kill 247 Rebels

Nam army troops killed 247 Hoa Hao rebels and captured 160 others in a series of "violent battles" in the rugged Seven Mountains area, the army high command announced today.

The high command said that an additional 827 of the rebel warlords' forces deserted to the loyal troops.

A "considerable" number of wounded was taken to military hospitals after the batles, the announcement said. It did not give any government losses or disclose when the action took place.

Segni Announces New Pro-Western Government

Forms Three-Party Cabinet For Italy

ROME, Italy (UP) — Antonio Segni toay gives Italy a new pro-Western coalition government whose life may depend on a tiny center party's support.

Segni announced Tuesday night formation of a three-party cabinet of Christian Democrats, Social Democrats and Liberals. The fourth of the traditional centerist parties, the Republicans, decided not to enter the new government.

The 64-year-old Segni, left-of-center Christian Democrat, is scheduled to present his list of cabinet ministers to President Giovanni Gronchi today. With full acceptance of the list, Segni automatically becomes premier, thus ending the 14-day crisis stemming from the downfall of Premier Mario Scelba.

The Republican Party, smallest of the four-party center coalition of recent Italian governments, decided Tuesday night against accepting any portfolios in the Segni cabinet.

They announced, however, that they will support him in parliament where their five votes in the 590-man Chamber of Deputies are vital. Without the Republicans, the three-party Segni coalition would fall one vote short of majority.

Parliament reconvenes next Tuesday and Segni will go before the Chamber of Deputies then to seek a vote of confidence. If successful, he will ask the Senate for a similar vote later.

Creek Contamination Traced To Leak In Lye Solution Pit

PERU, Ind. (UP)—Contamination of Piek Creek has been traced to a leak in a lye solution pit used by a Sweetser food plant, Miami County conservation officer Earl Money said Tuesday.

A mile-long batch of poisoned water has left "hundreds" of dead fish in its wake authorities said.

One of two girls swimming in the creek Monday was burned. Renee Pond, 13 was treated for an ear injury. Several cases of cattle becoming sick after drinking the contaminated water also were reported.

Almost 70 per cent of National Guardsmen are between 17 and 21 years of age. Less than five per cent are over 35 years old.

Bill May

mittee was called behind closed doors to resume work on the Democratic plan. Democratic leaders have announced they will seek to rush the bill through the House soon after it emerges from committee. But the Senate is not likely to act on it until next year.

The Democratic majority of the House committee, after reversing itself several times during the last two weeks, was reported to have agreed finally at a secret caucus late Tuesday on this three point program for liberalizing Social Security:

1. Lower the benefit age to 62 for women.
2. Lower the benefit age to 50 for permanently and totally disabled workers.
3. Allow physically and mentally incapacitated children of deceased workers to draw survivor benefits beyond the present cut-off age of 18.

The benefit age for men and women now is 65.

Under the new plan working women could retire and draw benefits at 62. The lower benefit age also would apply to widows of workers covered by Social Security and to wives of workers who have retired because they are 65 or over.

An estimated one million women would become eligible for benefits under the new plan, of which possibly 700,000 could be expected to draw benefits immediately.

Senate Approves Geneva Drafts By Vote 77-0

Overhaul Standards For The Handling Of War Prisoners

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate today unanimously approved four international conventions designed to improve the treatment of war victims and prisoners of war. The vote was 77-0.

The conventions, drafted at Geneva, Switzerland, in 1949 overhaul previous international conventions establishing standards for the handling of war prisoners.

For the first time the conventions affords substantially the same protection for civilians as provided for military personnel.

The Foreign Relations Committee unanimously approved the agreements after brief hearings but added one minor reservation. It would permit American firms legally using the Red Cross as a trademark or emblem to continue its use despite limitations of the treaty.

The State Department has urged early Senate ratification of the pacts to help offset Russian propaganda over the Soviet's ratification last year.

In recommending approval, the Foreign Relations Committee said the U.S. has "everything to gain and nothing to lose by being a party to the conventions . . . and by encouraging their most widespread adoption."

A total of 59 nations took part in the 1949 meeting at which the four conventions were drawn up. So far, 48 nations have ratified them.

The Geneva pacts overhaul the former 1929 Geneva prisoner of war agreements and bring them up to date in light of World War II developments. The agreements also are extended to cover other types of war victims as well as military prisoners.

Superstition about the number "13" seems to be on the way out, according to Westinghouse elevator engineers, who report that more than 90 per cent of modern skyscrapers today have 13 floors. Before World War II, however, about 50 per cent of the country's contractors ordered elevator control panels minus the number. Buildings omitting the 13 floor are now usually hotels.

Mace is not a true spice, but is derived from the dried covering of the seed of the nutmeg.

NEW HELP FOR ALLERGY SUFFERERS

Medical science has made a great deal of progress in the last few years in isolating allergy-causing substances—pollens, dusts, foods and others. And with this recognition has come new methods of treatment, ways of avoiding the discomfort of this old plague of mankind. If you or someone in your family seems to have an allergy, consult your doctor. Chances are he can help you quickly. And if he prescribes any of the new discoveries in drugs to aid you, bring his prescription to us for prompt, accurate compounding.

Oil Isn't Responsible For All Good Things

SIDNEY, Neb.—(UP)—The editors of the Sidney Telegraph recently published an open letter to a state senator who had said that, due to rich oil desposits in the area, Sidney residents owned more Cadillac cars than residents of any other Nebraska city.

Admitting that what the senator said about the expensive cars may be true, the editors denied that oil was entirely responsible. The letter read in part:

"We had 'em (the cars) before anyone found oil in western Nebraska. This country is and was a mighty good country long before they found black gold. We tilled the soil properly, conserved moisture and saved our money."

An old Iranian folk tale holds that the world is perched between the horns of a cow, and when the cow becomes tired and shakes her head the earth quakes.

4-H Judging Contest Draws 112 Participants; Winners Listed

One hundred twelve members of Whitley County 4-H Clubs participated in the county judging contest Wednesday at the 4-H Community Center.

Ten girls, two from each of the five senior divisions, will advance to the district judging contest at Wabash July 14.

From a possible 600 points for a perfect entry, Nancy Smith, Thorncreek township, had the highest individual total with 578 points for her first-place judging in the food preparation division.

Others in the senior division in food preparation were Linda Knisely, Columbia township, second, and Carolyn Beck, Washington twp., third. Brenda Reeg, Columbia City, placed first in the junior division, and Sandra Hiscutt, Smith, and Sharon McCoy, Jefferson, were second and third, respectively. There were 23 girls in this division of the contest.

Miss Johnson First

From five entrants in the home improvement judging, Loretta Johnson, Richland, placed first, Myrna Esterline, Jefferson township, second, and Carolyn Gordon, Smith township, third, in the senior division. Kay Paulus, Etna-Troy township, placed first in the junior division.

Myra Hatter, Jefferson township, first; Marlyn Beeching, Union township, and Nancy Wade, Smith township, third, were the results in the senior clothing judging, while Sandra Hilligoss, Washington township, placed first; Judity Fisher, Washington township, second, and Kathy Brennan, Columbia City, was third in the junior division. There were 32 entrants in the clothing judging.

Baking Judging

Forty-two contestants, the highest number in any of the five divisions, participated in the baking judging. Senior division winners were Monica Fleck, Cleveland township, first. Diane Cotterly, Columbia township, second, and Kay Leininger, Columbia township, third, while juniors Hilda Wade, Smith township, Martha Lopshire, Union township, and Marvel Gray, Union township, placed first, second, and third, respectively.

Beverly Mishler, Cleveland town- preservation judging, and Cathy Bockelman, Union township, was second. Joretta Frazier, Jefferson township, placed third. Janice Vogley, Jefferson township, was first in the junior division, and Jane Kreider, Smith township, and Peggy Perry, Richland township, were second and third in that order. There are 10 girls participating in the food preservation division.

Judges for the contest were Mrs. Robert Fry, Mrs. A. L. Palmer, Mrs. Roy Kreider, Miss Roxie Barcus, Miss Marjorie Gillespie, Mrs. Lewis Miller, Mrs. Willard Knisely, Miss Mary Ellen Schuman, and Mrs. Gerald Wallace.

Miss Joan Martin, county girl's leader, said that three Columbia City firms, Blumenthals, Raupfers, and Schraders, lent materials for the contest.

The county demonstration contest will be Friday at the REMC auditorium. Miss Roxie Barcus will have charge of registration, which is scheduled to start at 8:30 a.m.

Mrs. Fred Geiger, of Kimmell, assisted by all local club leaders, will judge this contest.

Lloyd Kneller, Navy Man, Speaks Before Local Rotarians

Lloyd Kneller, Washington township native who has 18 years' navy duty, was speaker at the weekly Rotary meeting Wednesday evening. The Chief Aviation Machinist's Mate has been stationed in Hawaii for the past four years, having left there at the end of May this year. He described volcanoes and showed moving pictures of the eruption of volcanoes there from 1952-1954.

While watching the pictures of the molten lava rolling down the countryside, Mr. Kneller explained that it sometimes flows as fast as 30 miles per hour, reaches a temperature of 2,000 degrees Fahrenheit, and sometimes pours from the volcano in a flow 50 feet deep.

Mr. Kneller is a brother of Mrs. Garland Stickler of this city.

A Chamber of Commerce service certificate was presented to Robert Gates at the meeting last evening by David Walter, Jr., president of the local Chamber of Commerce. The service certificates are new awards and will be presented to persons who have served as presidents of specified service clubs. Gates was president of Rotary last year.

The Rotary Club committee for the sale of the Joint high school stock explained that Rotarians were designated to canvass the southeast section of Columbia City next Wednesday evening.

Lafayette Hill, who became ill at his home on N. Elm street, was taken to the Whitley County hospital in the J. A. DeMoney and Son ambulance. His room number is 154.

Eight Guards Begin Block By Block Search

At Riot-Torn Washington Prison

WALLA WALLA, Wash. UP)(—Warden Lawrence Delmore Jr. asked for volunteers today to begin a shakedown of cell blocks at the Washington State Prison and all but a handful of 30 day-shift guards refused to step forward.

Eight of the 12 volunteer began the shakedown immediately.

Delmore appeared before the guards and explained the terms of the nine-point agreement which ended a 26-hour riot at the prison Wednesday and resulted in the release of nine hostages.

"The main reason we made them the terms so quickly was because time was running out and we weren't going to stand too much on formality," Delmore said. "Nevertheless, we didn't sell out."

Delmore then asked for volunteers to aid in shaking down the cell blocks. Six men stepped forward but the rest adjourned to a nearby room to discuss Delmore's plans for the shakedown.

Earlier, a spokesman for the guards said only a few of the knives and razors carried by rioting prisoners were turned in when they filed back to their cells.

Ice Cream, Cake Supper Held At Thorncreek School

The Thorncreek Township Farm Bureau annual ice cream and cake supper was held Tuesday night at the school house.

Richard Smith gave the Current Events talk on "Rise and Fall of Farm Prices". Mrs. George Herrick led the singing and was accompanied by Shirley Zink. Mrs. Carl Bridegam gave the devotions.

After the business meeting, the Pet & Hobby children joined the Farm Bureau group, and Laura Jean Conrad sang "Have You Talked To The Man Upstairs", accompanied by Karen Conrad playing her accordion.

Ice cream, cake, and coffee were served by Mr. and Mrs. Guy Jagger and Mr. and Mrs. Don Gerdes.

Mr. And Mrs. Logan Of Chicago Parents Of A Daughter

Mr. and Mrs. William Logan, of Chicago the latter the former Grace Ohki, announce the birth of their first child, a daughter. The child has been given the name Tanya Christine and weighed six pounds and five ounces.

Mrs. Logan is leaving Michael Reese hospital, Chicago, today for the new home of the Logans which they have purchased in Des Plaines, Ill. The Logans have formerly resided at 5042 Dorchester Ave., Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Shinzo Ohki of this city are the maternal grandparents. Mrs. Ohki left for Chicago today to make the acquaintance of her new granddaughter.

Indiana Farm Management Tour July 27

To Feature Corn — Hog Operation

Farmers who participate in the Indiana Farm Management Tour, July 27, will have an opportunity to see how Mark Congleton and his son, William, have teamed together to develop one of the best managed and operated corn and hog farms in Indiana, four and a half miles southwest of Frankfort. Their 316-acre Clinton county farm consisting of black, prairie type, highly productive soil will be inspected in the afternoon of the one-day tour, according to A. M. Nichter, farm management association secretary and agricultural economist at Purdue University.

Congleton's farm is an ideal example of what can be done to improve farm income with good management and a high degree of specialization in corn and hogs where possible. It demonstrates the practical use of many labor saving devices to increase labor efficiencies and farm output per man, says Nichter.

Corn is the main crop with more than 60 per cent of the farm planted in corn each year. An average of 93 bushels of corn per acre in 1954 was achieved with the use of heavy fertilization.

Plans are to produce 1,500 hogs this year. This spring, 660 pigs were raised from 8 sows. Part of the pigs were weaned at three weeks of age. Forty-four gilts finished farrowing on the Congleton farm June 14, with an average of nine pigs per litter. These pigs will be weaned when they are three weeks old, and will be seen on the tour. Fall farrowing with 50 additional gilts will begin July 25, two days before the tour.

Specialties on the farm include a large quonset type building used for all farrowing operations, automatic water facilities in all fields and buildings, and two 500-bushel shelled corn self-feeders for winter feeding.

For efficient grain handling, the Congletons use a practically new centrally located grainery with a capacity for 10,000 bushels of ear corn and 8,500 bushels of small grain. Congleton's hogs are fed corn untouched by human hands. Ear corn is delivered to the grainery at harvest time and out of the crib into the truck by push-button methods. Corn is scattered on the ground for the hogs by means of a dump-truck. This method requires about an hour per week.

The state farm management tour will get underway Tuesday evening, July 26, with the annual kick-off dinner at St. Joan of Arc church in Kokomo. Dr. L. S. Hardin, acting head of the agricultural economics department at Purdue, will present the 1955-56 outlook on farming in Indiana at this banquet which is scheduled to start at 7:00 p.m. DST. Farmers should see their county agents for tickets. Arrangements for the banquet and overnight facilities are being made by the Howard county farm management association.

Checkers And Horse Shoes For Old Settlers

Plan Tourney August 11 For Old Timers

Old Settlers will have an opportunity to display their ability to play checkers and pitch horseshoes on Thursday morning, August 11, when tournaments will be sponsored by the Old Settlers Day Association.

Play for each tourney will start at 9 o'clock on Thursday morning. The checker tourney will be held in the Court House lobby near the county clerk's and treasurer's offices. The horseshoe pitching tourney will be held in the parking lot just north of the Presbyterian church, a block north of the Court House. Both tourneys will be open to the public to attend. There is no entry fee for players in either tourney.

A cash prize of $5 will be awarded to each member of the winning two-man horseshoe pitching team, with three dollars divided between the runner-up team and $2 divided between the winners of third place.

The checker tourney winner will receive a cash prize of $7.50 with $5 for winner of second place and $2.50 for third place winner, the Association has announced.

A committee has been appointed by President Dave Spence of the association to conduct the tourneys, composed of Foster W. Riddick, Jesse Depoy, George Fr , Ernest Cotterly, Willis Goble, Woody Jones, Franklin Dillman, and Ira Plummer.

All those who enter the tourney must be 50 years old or older, the committee announces. Experts nominated for the tourney play to date are: checkers John Markwalter; Art Helgersen, Churubusco; David Londt, Columbia City; Luther Shoemaker, Columbia; Vern Kessler, Columbia City; Wesley Tulley, Columbia City; George McConnell; Columbia City; Burton White, Columbia City.

Nominated so far for the horseshoe pitching tourney are: Roy Hosler, Jefferson; Eldon Hosler, Laud; Jesse Ziegler, Churubusco; Charles Johnson, Coesse; Ed Leininger, Union; Jake Kerch, Columbia City; Ernest Ruckman, Union; Harley King, South Whitley; Fred Bennett, Thorncreek.

Columbia Farm Bureau Has Cake, Ice Cream Supper

One hundred twenty-four Columbia Township Farm Bureau members and their families atended the annual ice cream and cake supper Wednesday evening at the school. Those serving were the Jay Crawfords, the Glen Imlers, and the Clifford Deutsches.

"Youth and Safety" was the theme of the month, and that theme was carried out in devotions and safety lesson by Mrs. Leroy Veazey. Mrs. Clarence Eberhard led the group singing.

Jesse DePoy proposed sevearl resolutions which would be beneficial to both rural and urban folks in his "Current Events" talk.

In County Contest

The township chairman, Clarence Eberhard, announced that the Columbia township entries in the county amateur talent contest both placed second. Sandra Heinley sang "Wish I Was" in the adult competition, and Joyce Hull sang "The Lord Is Counting On You" in the Pet & Hobby group competition.

Twenty attended the regular meeting of the B-Tween Club, and 27 Pet & Hobby members paraded their pets or hobbies before the adults. The parade was headed with a little red barn surrounded by farm animals being pulled in a child's wagon.

Rural Youth members were guests at the meeting.

First Child Born To The William Jones

Mr. and Mrs. William Jones, 513 Park street, are the parents of their first child, a daughter. Named Sherry Renee, the baby weighed 7 pounds, 13 ounces at birth Tuesday at the Whitley County hospital.

Rotarians Purchase Joint School Stock

The Columbia City Rotary Club committee for the sale of stock in the Columbia City Joint High School Building Corporation reported the sale of stock at the Wednesday evening meeting. Rotarians attending the meeting purchased $640 of the school stock, at $10 per share.

Heat Makes U. S. Dream Of White Christmas

Weather Touches Off Water Shortages

By UNITED PRESS

A muggy heat wave kept millions of Americans tugging at their shirt collars and dreaming of a white Christmas for the eighth straight day today.

Temperatures slipped a little in the Northeast and Mid-Atlantic states. But they jumped up to 10 degrees in the Western Plains. From New York to the southern Rockies, the story was the same—at least three more days of 90-plus heat and no definite relief in sight.

The continuing heat across the nation touched off water shortages, odd strategems to keep cool, and occasional tragedies.

In Chicago, a merciful employer issued an order that his employes could wear shorts to work. Irving Rossman set the pace by showing up in a natty pair of Bermuda shorts. About 80 of his 400 employes followed suit, including pretty secretaries who sported white tennis shorts and high heeled shoes.

Widespread Summer Storms

But Judge Irwin J. Hasten of Chicago's Women's Court ruled the heat was no excuse for scanty attire. Women were forbidden to appear before him in anything briefer than a skirt.

In New York, James Brown, 35, was injured when a keg of ice slid on him from a refrigerated freight car. Another New York man, trying to escape the heat by sleeping on the roof of a Bowery hotel, was seriously injured when he rolled off and fell 17 floors to the street.

Elsewhere the hot weather created serious water shortages in parts of Michigan and Indiana. At Detroit, where Wednesday's water pumpage was believed to have set a record, a city official said "God help us if we have another day like it."

The heat also crackled with violent summer storms which caused at least one death, flooded roads in Missouri and Iowa, and endangered a loaded street car in New Orleans.

Local Residents Take Teaching Posts

Three local residents have been secured for teaching positions in the city and county schools.

Mrs. Robert Sharpe, 209 South Elm street, will teach science at South Whitley during the 1955-56 school year, according to an announcement made by Harry T. Yoder, County Superintendent of Schools. Mrs. Sharpe was graduated from Morehead College and has taught at Birden, Ill., Anchorage, Ky., Bridgeport, Ill., and at Columbia City High School.

E. E. Glenn, Superintendent of City Schools, said Wednesday that Miss Lois Walter, 510 West Market street, and Mrs. Robert Poffenberger, Brownwood avenue, will teach in the Columbia City Schools this Fall.

Miss Walter will serve as an additional teacher and will instruct mathematics and English. She has taught at Jefferson Center for the past two years.

Mrs. Poffenberger will teach one class, in home economics, each day.

Both will teach in the high school.

To Practice

The Whitley County Home Demonstration chorus announces a practice of the chorus for next Monday at 1:30 p.m. at the REMC Home.

Six Injured In Head-On Crash Near Wolf Lake

Five Occupants Of One Car Injured

Three persons were hospitalized at the Whitley County Hospital and one at the Luckey Hospital, Wolf Lake, following a head-on crash south of Wolf Lake on State road 109 at the Bear Lake road shortly before 6:00 p.m. Wednesday. Two others were treated for minor injuries at the local hospital and released.

State Troopers Edward Anweiler and James Lewinski reported an automobile driven by Donald R. Michael, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Michael of Wolf Lake, crossed into the wrong traffic lane and collided with a northbound car driven by Ezra Lantz, 59, Shipshewana. Five of the injured were riding in the Lantz car and were brought to the hospital in two J. A. DeMoney & Son ambulances.

Lantz, Lloyd, Yoder, 32, of Lagrange; and Erwin Weaver, 4, R 1, Middlebury, are in serious condition at the hospital here. Yoder had not fully regained consciousness this morning, suffering from head and back injuries. Lantz received chest injuries, and Weaver received head injuries but was able to walk about his hospital room. Two other occupants of the Lantz car, Amos Miller, 17, R 1, Goshen, and Anan Miller, 43, same address, were treated and dismissed.

Michael, driver of the southbound car is a patient at the Luckey Hospital with a brain concussion and three fractures of the left arm. His condition is regarded as satisfactory.

Wave Of Severe Thunderstorms Still In State

By UNITED PRESS

A wave of severe thunderstorms which have brought temporary relief daily and killed three persons since the Fourth of July continiued today over Indiana as the state baked in another hot and muggy day.

No end either to the oppressive heat and humidity or the thunder showers was expected before Saturday, and then only the north portion was expected to benefit from cooler air.

A severe storm struck the Linton area late Wednesday. A lightning bolt struck the transmitting tower of WBTO radio station and knocked the station off the air until Friday. A barn was destroyed by fire from a lightning bolt on the Harry Hauser farm and 1.50 inches of rain fell in 25 minutes.

At Richmond, Jack W. Wiley, 48, Midland Mich. was killed by lightning while golfing. He was the third victim of lightning in Indiana this week. Other victims were a golfer at Crown Point and a fisherman at Leiters Ford.

At New Albany three teenagers and a policeman were injured when lightning struck twice in the same place during a storm.

Afternoon and evening thunder showers were predicted for today and Friday over most of Indiana.

High temperatures Wednesday ranged from 92 at Indianapolis and Fort Wayne to 89 at South Bend and Lafayette. Lows early today were 71 at Indianapolis and Lafayette and 70 at South Bend and Fort Wayne. Tonight's lows will be about two degrees warmer.

There was a speck of hope for an end to the searing heat in Saturday's outlook which called for a partly cloudy sky, scattered thundershowers and continued warm and humid south and turning cooler north.

Bids Being Received For Heating Plant

Bids for construction of the proposed heating plant for Columbia City Joint High School and West Ward are being received until 7 p.m. July 26. They should be submitted to the Board of Trustees of Columbia City Joint high school.

The building is to be constructed south of the present high school building, and it is hoped that it will be completed for use in the fall, according to E. E. Glenn, superintendent of city schools.

Henry Fry, of Fort Wayne, is the engineer for the proposed building.

Bill To Boost Minimum Wage Is Approved

By House Labor Committee

By UNITED PRESS

The House Labor Committee approved a bill today to boost the federal minimum wage from 75 cents to $1 an hour.

President Eisenhower said at his news conference Wednesday that he thinks the new minimum should be only 90 cents.

But the House group voted 21-9 to match the boost provided in a bill already passed by the Senate.

The Senate increase would go in effect Jan. 1. But the House committee voted to make the boost payable next March 1.

The measure approved by the House committee would not change the number of persons—about 2 million — affected by the federal wage-hour law. A committee member prediced the measure will go to the House floor by the middle of the month.

Other congressional news:

Foreign aid: The Senate approved the final compromise version of the $3,285,800,000 foreign aid authorization bill. The measure was sent to the House for concurrence before being dispatched to the White House for the President's signature.

Transit: Financier Louis E. Wolfson, board chairman of the strike bound Capital Transit Co., and Sen Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) traded long-distance accusations. Wolfson accused Morse in a telegram from San Francisco of wasting the taxpayers' money by trying to subpena him. He said he would report to a subcommitee headed by Morse on Monday. But Morse said the offer is "not acceptable." He said Wolfson had used "seclusiv eand fugitive" tactics to avoid a subpena.

Final Fireworks Fund Reported, $830

A donation of $10.00 from the Eagles and $1.00 from Harry Yoder brought the final Fourth of July fireworks fund to a total of $830.00.

Shot Down By Red Fighters Off Alaska

Note Delivered In Moscow Today

WASHINGTON (UP) — The United States today accepted Russia's offer to pay half the damages for the Navy patrol plane shot down by Soviet fighters off Alaska June 23.

The offer had been made verbally at San Francisco two weeks ago by Soviet Foreign Minister V.M. Molotow in direct talks with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

This government accepted in a note delivered in Moscow today.

In the note, the United States again insisted that the Navy plane at no time invaded Soviet air territory and that it acted throughout "in a correct and blameless manner."

In accepting Russia's offer, the United States said it was taking into account Soviet expressions of regret and the fact that Russia issued orders to its military authorities to refrain from any future action "of this character."

"...The government of the United States is prepared, for the reasons herein mentioned, to regard the Soviet memorandum as providing an acceptable basis for the disposal of this particular incident."

Seven of the 11 crewmen aboard the Navy plane were injured when the crippled craft crashed and burned on St. Lawrence Island in the Bering Sea after one of its engines had been shot out by the Soviet fighter planes.

The plane did not return the Soviet fire.

The Russian government admitted that the incident could have been the result of "a mistake." But it insisted that the U.S. plane was over Russian waters. It offered, nevertheless, to pay 50 per cent of the damages.

Briggs Family Located In Tennessee, Told Of Earl Briggs's Death

The Tennessee Highway Patrol reported this morning locating the James Briggs family, of this city, and notifying them of the death of Mr. Briggs's father, R. Earl Briggs, on Wednesday morning.

The James Briggs family was vacationing and authorities located them near Gatlinburg, Tennessee late this morning. Mr. Briggs contacted the Smith Funeral Home here shortly before noon, and the funeral arrangements were completed. Rev. Herbert LePage, pastor of the Collins United Brethren Church will officiate at the services in the funeral home at 2:00 p.m. Saturday. Burial will follow in the Eel River cemetery south of Churubusco.

Senator Russell Questions 'Propriety' Of Imposing Compulsory Reserve On Vets

By JOHN W. FINNEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Richard B. Russell sharply questioned today the "propriety or the equity of the administrations plan to impose a compulsory reserve obligation on veterans.

Russell, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, thus took issue with one of the main props of the administration's military reserve program.

The Georgia Democrat raised his challenge to the administration's plan as the committee opened hearings in an attempt to push some reserve plan through the Senate before congressional adjournment.

Three Days Of Hearings

The committee scheduled only three days of hearings, with the goal of reporting out a reserve bill for Senate action in 10 days. Lead-off witnesses on the first day of hearings were representatives of educational, scientific, technical and labor groups. The administration is scheduled to present its case for the reserve plan Monday.

Russell's opening statement was an indciation that the administration's plan, already approved in modified form by the House, may be in for substantial overhauling in the Senate committee.

Under the administration's plan to strengthen the reserves, service men would have a compulsory reserve training obligation following active duty. Under the House approved version, it would be a total of five years of active and reserve duty.

To build up a corps of reservists without previous active duty, the administration also proposed—and the House approved in modified form — that up to 250,000 youths annually be given six months military training followed by 7½ years reserve duty.

Russel Questions Propriety or the equity of imposing the major part of the reserve responsibility on the shoulders of our prior service men — the equity of forcing these men to participate in reserve training activities in addition to the basic liability for mobilization assignment and recall in time of war."

"If the situation facing the nation is so grave that we must force this added burden on those men who have already served," Russell said then "we must completely reorient our planning."

Russell said he would "insist that this obligation be imposed as a new requrement, and not as some thing casually adopted under the guise of 'putting some teeth' into existing law, and implementing an alleged congressional intent that is more fantasy than fact.'

HOW?

Referring to the over 400 dead in traffic accidents in the nation over the holiday of July 4, Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council said:

"This needless traffic toll is a tragic price tag on holiday fun."

Such comment is most apt. In entitling this editorial "How?", we were not echoing an Indian salutation but rather thinking of "How" can such needless traffic toll" be prevented?

Countless editorials have been written in newspapers which have contained pages with the theme "do not be a casualty," "slow down and live" and "the life you save may be your own."

Apparently, the average driver figures, this will or may happen to the other motorist, but I'm too careful, it can't happen to me, yet happen it did to over 400 people. How many people heeded the warnings and pleas and thereby saved their lives no one will ever know.

One factor may perhaps be the apathy with which people seem to regard traffic fatalities.

Headlines screaming "400 Dead in Tornado" would bring instant reaction. Somewhere we read that almost as many were killed on the highway as in the battle of Bunker Hill. If that is true, drivers took more chances than the brave men marching up that hill who knew they might meet death.

No motorist ever anticipates meeting death when he goes for a drive, but it is always possible.

The whole course of thinking reverts to the matter of How?

Preaching in press, TV and radio appears to do no good. A halo of eternal glory certainly would await the person able to solve this dreadful problem.

Appetites Of Motoring Americans Keep Pace With Peregrinations

BOSTON—(UP)— When Americans step on the gas, they step up their appetites.

The American motorist is eating more and more along roads both near his home and in far-off places, reports one of the nation's largest dining chains. And unlike the city commuter, the breakfast order is a hearty one—no quick cup of coffee and doughnut for the traveler.

Because of the modern auto and the vast and growing network of highways and throughways, families don't give a second thought to driving to a favorite spot for a week end, or taking off on two, three or four-week trips. The more people who hit the road, the greater the expanse of food choices.

Dishes once largely regional now have universal appeal except for squash pie. Victor Nelson, spokesman for the Howard Johnson restaurants which last year served more than 250,000,000 persons, said that only a New Englander will order squash pie. Elsewhere, it has to be called "pumpkin."

New England clam chowder, once a fairly localized dish, now is a favorite of travelers from New York to California.

Conversely, fried shrimp has made a hit with New Englanders. A few years ago, it was strictly a Gulf Coast delicacy.

But one thing hasn't changed. Turkey is still traveling America's favorite Sunday meal.

And, as in the horse and buggy days, the traveler tightens up on the purse strings the rest of the week when the favorite foods are frankfurters and beans, chicken pie or veal cutlets. But come Sunday, motorists splurge on turkey or steak.

"Ice cream is the leading dessert," Nelson said. "Vanilla, strawberry and chocolate, in that order, are the favorite flavors."

serve traveling America along the Nearly 400 Johnson restaurants Atlantic Coast and as far west as Texas and Oklahoma. Another 55 will be in operating by July.

Incidentally, the kids account for much of the chain's food sales. So it keeps assorted high chairs, bottle warmers, and strained foods on hand.

What's the favorite meal among the younger set?

"Hamburger, mashed potatoes and ice cream," said Nelson.

The Monroe Doctrine dates from President James Monroe's statement of U.S. rights in the western hemisphere made Dec. 2, 1823.

Last year, Americans spent more than $16,000,000000 on meals eaten outside the home. More working wives and less houshold help are largely responsible.

Hemophilia or a dire tendency to bleed has been mentioned in literature as early as the 2nd century, A.D., and is a disease affecting males only but is carried and transmitted by females who are not affected by it.

You can get three to five times as much return by making silage from oats and other nurse crops and feeding it to wintering beef catle as by selling the grain.

10 Convenient Steps To Beat The Heat

NEW YORK (UP)—How to beat the heat — 10 convenient steps you are invited to ponder.

1. Dress correctly. Shave your head, Wear shorts. Hair holds heat. So do longpants. Remember what Poor Richard said: Shorn pate and nude knees catch coolth from the breeze.

2. Work correctly. Think! But don't make a move. Moving muscles produce heat. Thinking produces nothing.

3. Be calm. Swallow your anger. Temper breeds heat. You'll eventually develop ulcers from bottling up your temper during the summer, but they'll be a warming influence next winter.

4. Be clever. Insult your wife. For the next two days every word she utters will have icicles hanging from it. If you can keep her talking for a solid hour, you can surround yourself with enough cool words to withstand a week of 90-plus temperature.

5. Don't fight it, join it. Spread some heat yourself. Remember when Dizzy Dean and Pepper Martin built a fire at the Cardinal dugout on St. Louis's hottest day and warmed their hands? So, friends, turn on the heat in your house. The neighbors will notice. And the police will find a cooler for you.

6. Be scientific. Profanity turns the air blue. Blue is a cool color. So start swearing, in public. You'll feel the chill around you.

7. Drink properly. Alcohol and sunshine don't mix. Try alcohol and soda or ginger ale.

8. Eat properly. Some foods produce heat. Avoid meat, eggs, cheese, vegetables, fruits, milk, salads, sweets, nuts, fowl and fish. Hire a Chinese cook and have some bird's nest soup.

9. Be resourceful. Hold up an armored car, Nothing beats the heat — and soothes the fevered spirit — like a cool million bucks.

10 Be strong. Don't notice the heat. Pretend it's not there. If you pretend long enough, it'll go

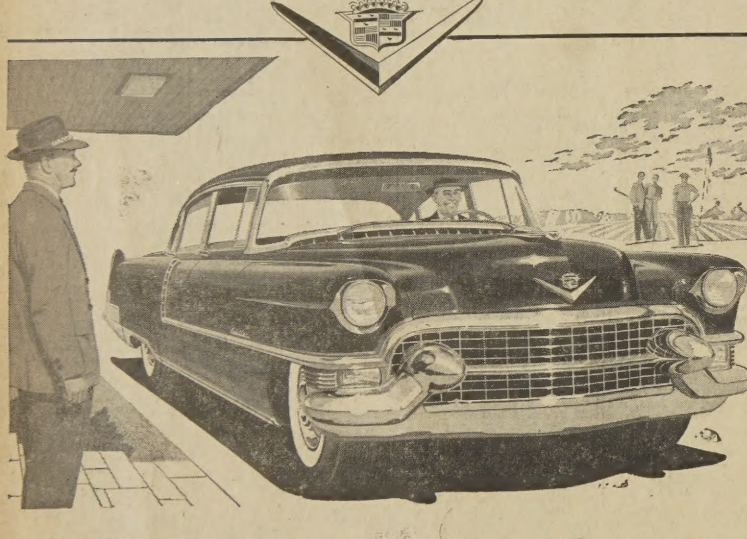
Cadillac



One Thing Men Agree Upon!

It is in the nature of things for men to hold opinions and to argue and dispute.

Football, baseball, politics—guns, golf clubs, breeds in dogs . . . name a best, and you have an argument.

And so it goes through boats and trains—and horses and tennis and makes of planes.

But when the discussion turns to motor cars, you'll seldom get an argument if you name CADILLAC as the car of cars.

That's about as close as men come to universal agreement. And with good reason.

Who could look about him at the various styles in motor cars—and not give the nod to Cadillac for its great dignified silhouette?

Who could take the wheel of this dynamic performer—and not crown it the king of the highway?

Who could relax in its luxurious comfort for a mile or five hundred—and fail to recognize it as the finest riding car on the world's highways?

And who could look back over its illustrious past—or look about him at the people who own it and drive it today—and not acclaim it as the most distinguished car in the whole automotive world?

We feel assured that you, yourself, are aware that Cadillac is the car of cars. But that is but part of the wonderful Cadillac story.

There are economy—and value—and dependability. And there are all the other sound, practical reasons for owning a Cadillac.

Come in and see us. Thirty minutes at the wheel . . . and you'll understand why there's no argument about a Cadillac!

Teen-Agers Charged For Disturbing Grave

KOKOMO, Ind. UP)—Charges of disturbing a grave were on file in Howard Circuit Court today against two teen-agers who dug up a dead man's body and removed a vertebra.

Bond for Gene L. DeCroes, 18, and William Ronald Brunt, 17, was set at $2,000 each.

Authorities said the vandalism discovered last week apparently was part of a club initiation, but the boys denied this.

Flood Hits Iowa Town

Flood waters forced 15 families from their homes in the Webster City, Iowa, area following an eight-inch downpour and a flood crest on the Boone River. Honet, Mo., was hit by a freak wind-hail-rain storm which toppled large trees and blocked a highway with water.

In New Orleans, a lightning bolt set fire to a street car loaded with 30 passengers. Conductor Charles Weson prevented panic by slamming the doors in the face of the onrushing passengers and then making them get out slowly.

High temperatures Wednesday included 102 at Guynon, Okla., the state's top so far this year; 107 at Presidio, Tex.; 91.1 at New York and 90 at Chicago.

Sweltering Americans could meanwhile think about these weather bulletsins from around the world:

Buenos Aires, Argentina, had its first snowfall in 37 years and Mendoza, Argentina, shivered through its lowest temperatures in 22 years —6 degrees below zero.

It was precisely the same temperature in Hell and Paradise. The Norwegian cities of Hell and Paradise had cool 59-degree readings.

And a "heat wave" gripped the North Pole. The temperature was near zero, but the sun was so hot that Soviet scientists in the region went sun-bathing on the ice floes.

Argentine Cardinal Urges Catholics To Heed Peron's Plea

BUENOS AIRES (UP)—Santiago Luis Cardinal Copello, primate of the Roman Catholic Church in Argentina, urged all Catholics today to heed President Juan D. Peron's plea for peace and harmony.

Archbishop ordered that a pastoral be read at all Masses in all Roman Catholic churches Sunday signifying support of Peron's plea. He urged members of the church to intensify their prayers and sacrifices in accordance with church tradition during times of trial.

By orderng the pastrol, the Catholic leader, in effect, called for an end to strained relations between the church and the state. This curch-state friction has resulted in much violence and arrests since it flared into the open last fall.

The plea to watch the archbishop referred was made by Peron in a nationwide radio broadcast Tuesday. The president did not mention the church-state controversy in his address. In calling for a political truuce he confined his remarks to his "enemies."

Copello declared that "peace and harmony among our citizens is our greatest aspiration.

"But these noble longings for union and peace can only be realized if the causes which have created discontent and have divided our citizens are eliminated from among us."

The archbishop reiterated instruuctions issued Dec. 1, 1954, which stated "the faithful should not participate in acts purporting to be of a religious nature if they have not been previously approved by church auuthorities.

Latest Conciliation Move

This move by the Catholics was the latest in the trend towards churchstate conciliation since the bloody but shortlived revolt of the air force and navy June 16.

The government signified intentions of easing the tension when it informed the Vatican this week that two expelled prelates would be permitted to return to Buenos Aires. Their expulsion marked the high point of Peron's battle with the Roman Catholic Church and resulted in the excommunication of the president and all others connected with the incident.

While Peron did not refer to the Catholicis in his radio address Tuesday, he bitterly castigated the authors of the June 16 revolt. He then called for an end to the bickering and rumormongering that has kept his country on edge for months.

Democrats Ask Why FBI Used In Investigation

Of Intentions Of Memphis Officials On Building Plant

By DAYTON MOORE
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—Democrats in Congress today denounced as "a police state Gestapo act . . . an outrage . . . utterly ridiculous . . . terrible" the use of the FBI to investigate the intentions of Memphis officials in the Dixon-Yates controversy.

Senate Democrats demanded a full explanation from Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. as to why he directed the top federal criminal law enforcement agency to find out whether Memphis officials really intend to build a municipal steam power plant.

Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) said he will ask Brownell to appear soon before a Senate special monopoly subcommitee for questioning about "the authority, justification and wisdom of using the FBI to investigate the intentions" of Memphis officials.

The Memphis plant, in effect, would be a substitute for the private Dixon-Yates installation now being built at West Memphis, Ark., to furnish power to the Tennessee Valley Authority. This electricity would replace power supplied the Atomic Energy Commission elsewhere.

President Eisenhower told a news conference Wednesday he would be willing to cancel the controversial Dixon-Yates contract if it is certain that Memphis will build its own plant.

The Democratic senators said Brownell should make his study through the United States attorney in Memphis instead of the FBI.

Even one influential Republican senator said privately that Brownell's use of the FBI at Memphis was "politically unwise."

Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala.), who termed such use of the FBI as "utterly ridiculous," charged that it was nothing new for Brownell to employ the crack law officers "for purely political purposes."

Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn) charged that it was "an outrage that the officials of a city in free America cannot undertake to protect the interests of their city without being subjected to FBI investigation."

"It was never intended by Congress that the FBI be used as a Gestapo or political shock troops," he said.

But in Memphis, Mayor Frank Tobey said the FBI questioning "in no way upset me." He said the agents were "very courteous" and certainly asked nothing beyond certain information that was necessary for Washington officials to determine if we had legal authority to construct the plant and were really sincere in our statements."

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
International Uniform Sunday School Lessons
BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

Background Scripture: Habakkuk. Devotional Reading: Habakkuk 3:2-4, 17-19.

God In Dark Days

Lesson for July 10, 1955

SOMETIMES we envy the serene faith of the prophets of old. If so, it shows we have not read the prophets carefully, for some of them had a faith that was anything but serene. Jeremiah was one of those, Habakkuk was another. Habakkuk lived during the dark days at the end of the time of the little kingdom of Judah. Reading his opening lines, one might think he had been reading our morning papers in 1955. "Why dost thou make me see wrongs and look upon trouble? Destruction and violence are before me; strife and contention arise. So law is slacked and justice never goes forth . . ." Why does God let such things go on?

Dr. Foreman

This Is Hard To Believe

Habakkuk asked the same question; and got an answer from God that the Lord told him he would hardly believe. Not only was the local scene, in Jerusalem and Judea, dark with violence and injustice, but the farther horizon was darker still. Out of the east the newly resurgent Babylonian empire was rising. Now empires seldom rise peacefully. They come to power with the uproar and the agonies of war. Empires arise by crushing smaller kingdoms, and Babylon was no exception. If you had asked any wide-awake Hebrew of Habakkuk's time, "What is the greatest national danger you see threatening your country?," he would probably have said: "The imperial ambitions of Babylon." Most Hebrews would have said that the Babylonians, or Chaldeans as they are often called, were the enemies of God's people. But Habakkuk is told something God says is hard to believe: "I am rousing the Chaldeans." That bitter, hasty, terrible, violent, godless nation, whose only god was their own might,—God was arousing that nation to punish Judah for Judah's sins. What was God going to do about the violence and injustice in Judah? He was going to wipe it out, wipe it off the face of the ground . . . and use the Chaldeans to do it with.

Is The Remedy Worse Than The Disease?

We can see from reading the second part of Habakkuk's first chapter, that he could not understand, at first, how God could do such a thing as arousing the Chaldeans. How can God use devilish men to accomplish divine purposes? Is it conceivable that a God who is the Holy One, who cannot look on wrong,—is it conceivable that such a God would be silent while the ruthless and cruel armies of the invaders were capturing men and treasure, cities and villages, as a fisherman takes everything in his net? Nevertheless it has often been true that God's good purpose has been set forward by men who did not know nor obey him. When Joseph's brothers sold him into Egypt as a slave, they intended no good by it. Their only motives were greed, cruelty, jealousy and revenge. But God brought good out of it. War is a terrible thing; but as Lincoln suggested, it is quite possible to believe that the horrors of a civil war are God's way of punishing a nation for the injustice of slavery. If a nation will not listen to its true prophets and repent, God can use sterner measures.

Faith Endures

Habakkuk, pursuing bravely his questioning of God, comes out at last to two illuminating thoughts which the Lord gave him. (It may be noted in passing that sometimes the questioning mind gets answered when the unquestioning mind does not.) One is that in dark days, when God is not to be seen, the man of faith must wait. "God does not settle all his accounts in October." The answer to life's riddles is not always given immediately. God's signature can be seen at the end, though not always do we recognize his handwriting at first. The other thought was this: The man of faith must not give up his faith. For faith has the power of enduring life. God may use a "bitter and hasty" nation" to punish another sinful one. But God judges all nations Chaldea and Judea alike. Seen in the light of history, we can perceive as a fact what Habakkuk could see only with his inward eye: that the God-defying conquering Chaldean nation would vanish soon without a trace, while the little conquered people of the Hebrews would survive, because in them was the undying seed of faith.

Jewish Foster Father Prefers Jail To Giving Up Child

BOSTON (UP)—A Jewish foster father said today "I am prepared to go to jail" rather than give up a Catholic child he and his wife have reared.

Melvin B. Ellis of Brookline apparently had two weeks to think over his statement. On a motion by Atty. James Zisman, the Massachusetts Supreme Court Wednesday continued a hearing on the legality of an arrest order until July 20. Suupreme Court Justicie Raymond S. Wilkins received informal assuurance that the arrest order would not be carried out.

However, new legal moves appeared likely today. Atty. John F. McAuliffe, counsel for 4yearold Hildy McCoys real mother, said Wednesday night that he would continue activity in this case until the order of the court has been complied with."

McAuliffe and Atty. John Sululivan met with Norfolk Probate Judge James F. Reynolds at his home Wednesday night for more than an hour. It was Reynolds who ordered the Ellises to give up Hildy or "go to jail."

The Ellises had been hiding somewhere in the state since the arrest order was issued last Friday. But Wednesday night Ellis returned to his Brookline home and said "I may stay here."

"I'm not a willing hero or martyr," Ellis said, "but I'll do anything that might help the child. should be the prime concern," Ellis said "the mother has no feeling at all for the child."

The blue-eyed child has beer the pawn in a legal battle for more then two years. The Ellises took custody of Hildy when she was 10 days old.

Mrs. Marjorie McCoy Doherty of Hingham, the natural mother, won cuustody in a decision by Reynolds last fall.

The mother was an unwed nurse in training when Hildy was born. She claimed she didn't know the couple was Jewish when she signed Hildy over for adoption. Mrs. Doherty intends to give the child to a Catholic bureau for adoption by Catholic parents. She refused comment on the case.

A 1951 state law requires foster parents to be of the same religion as the child "whenever practical." During the long legal battle, the Ellises offered to send Hildy to a Catholic school, and raise her in that faith.

In His Legislative Accomplishments Says Senator Knowland

By WARREN DUFFEE
Unitied Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland predicted today that President Eisenhower will wind up "with a very good batting average" in legislative accomplishments before congressional adjournment expected by Aug. 1.

Senate leaders of both parties expect they can meet the Aug. 1 target date despite the absence of stricken Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.).

Knowland and House GOP Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. and the full House and Senate minority leadership again canvassed with Mr. Eisenhower today a long list of legislation the administration would lke passed before adjournment.

The legislative review was similar to Tuesday's White House conference. Knowland said Mr. Eisenhower and the administration have no "must list" of legislation but are vitally interested in a number of blls.

He included on the "important" list Philippine trade extension, highways, miltary manpower reserve, the atomc ship mental health and polio vaccine bills the mutual security appropriation, soldier survivor benefits, mnmum works customs simplification, sugar act extension airport construction, small business extension miltary public work and refugee act amendments.

"I believe a substantial part of the list finally will be enacted," the Californian Republican said.

Indiana Girl Dies Of Mysterious Disease

SPEED Ind. (UP) —Melody Louise Doughty, 4, Speed, died Wednesday from a mysterious disease which doctors believe decreases the size of the brain.

Doctors fear Melody's sister Vicitoria Ann, 5, might be affected by the same disease. She was taken to the same Louisville hospital where Melody died.

Doctors said an autopsy would be needed to identify the disease. Melody became ill about a year ago.

The parents are Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] Douguhty of Speed.

Hell And Paradise Same Temperature

OSLO UP)—Hell and Paradise had practically the same temperature today.

The cities of Hell, near Trondheim, and Paradise, near Bergen, both recorded comfortable readings near 50 degrees.

Richards Admits Orioles Not Much Of Club, Insists Wilson Is One Of Best Pitchers

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press Sports Writer

Paul Richards admits his last-place Baltimore Orioles aren't much of a ball club but he insists he has one of the best pitchers in the league in Jim Wilson, a shopworn veteran who got the "bum's rush" in Milwaukee.

The 33-year-old Wilson doesn't pick on the soft touches either. He has compiled his sparkling 2.50 earned run average chiefly against the hardest hitting clubs in the circuit.

Wilson, who pitched a no-hitter for the Braves last year but was unceremoniously turned loose by them the past spring, limited the league-leading New York Yankees to four scattered singles in shutting them out, 4-0, and handing them their fourth straight setback Wednesday night.

"Outside of the no-hitter I pitched against the Phillies last year, no other game gave me as big a kick as this one," he said, after out-pitching Yankee ace Whitey Ford.

Undismayed by the fact that he is toiling for a tail-ender, Wilson is getting ready to appear in his second All-Star game in as many years, despite his unspectacular-looking record of six victories and eight defeats. He made the National League All-Star team last year and has been chosen to the American League All-Star team by Manager Al Lopez.

"I wasn't fooled by Wilson's won lost record," Lopez said. "I know and so does everyone else in the league that he's a whale of a pitcher."

Wilson, who claims the Braves gave him the "bum's rush" after he won eight games and lost only two for them last season, helped his own cause Wednesday night when he drove in two of the Orioles' runs with a fourth-inning single. Baltimore scored all its runs in the fourth

The defeat was a bitter pill for the Yankees who saw their lead shaved to 4½ games when the second-place Cleveland Indians beat the Kansas City Athletics, 8-4. Boston's red-hot Red Sox licked the Washington Senators, 7-5, for their 11th victory in 12 games while Detroit defeated Chicago, 5-3.

In the National League, the Brooklyn Dodgers won the first game of a twi-night doubleheader, 10-5, but the Pittsburgh Pirates captured the second game, 4-1. St. Louis beat Cincinnatti, 6-4, Milwaukee topped Chicago, 5-1 and the New York Ginats edged the Philadelphia Phillies, 4-2, in a game terminated in the bottom of the sixth inning by rain.

A six-run rally in the eighth inning, during which Ralph Kiner homered, brought the Indians from behind in their game against the Athletics. Herb Score gained his eighth victory although hit for homers by Bill Wilson and Hector Lopez. Score, who was relieved in the eighth inning, struck out five batters, raising his season strikeout total to 131.

Ted Williams played a key role in the Red Sox triumph with a homer, double and a single as Tom Brewer picked up his sixth victory. Mickey Vernon homered for Washington. The game was scheduled to be the opener of a twi-night twin-bill but rain forced postponement of the second game which was re-scheduled for today.

Home runs by Al Kaline and Fred Hatfield helped Ned Garver of the Tigers to his first victory since June 7 even though he was nicked for 12 hits. Virgil Trucks was the loser.

Carl Erskine won the opener for Brooklyn even though he was ked forsucc es isvehrom bsynic nicked for successive homers by Jerry Lynch, Frank Thomas and Dale Long in the sixth inning. vern Law limited the Dodgers to nine hits in leading Pittsburgh to victory in the second game.

Rip Repulski's three-run homer was the deciding margin in the Cards' win over the Redlegs although St. Louis had to employ four pitchers to halt a ninth-inning rally. Larry Jackson was the winner and Jackie Collum the loser.

Gene Conley hurled a three-hitter in beating the Cubs for his 10th victory, Bob Rush suffering the defeat after yielding seven of Milwaukee's 11 hits.

Don Mueller's two-run homer just before rain halted the game was the winning blow for the Giants. Loser Curt Simmons started himself on the road to defeat in the sixth when he threw wildly to third, allowing two runs to cross the plate.

Light Heavyweight Johnson Suspended For Six Months

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UP)—Light heavyweight Harold Johnson, who "blacked out" in a May 6 loss to Julioi Mederos in Philadelphia, today was under a six months suspension for action "against the best interests of boxing."

Charging that Johnson was "not in fit condition' to go throuugh with the Mederos bout because he apparently was drugged, the Pennsylvania state Athletic Commission also directed Wednesday night that the boxer's $4,113 purse be forfeited.

The commission ruled that "by a reason of having had administered to him barbiturate drugs by person or persons unknown," Johnson should never have gone into the ring the night of the fight. Johnson had testified before the commission that he believed an orange given him by an unknown person before the fight may have contained a drug.

The licenses of Johnson's manager, Tommy Louughrey, and his seconds, Louis Gross and Clarence Davidson also were suspended, and the commission revoked the matchmaking permit of Pete Moran.

The commission's action resulted from hearings into the controversial bout in Philadelphia in which testimony was heard for nine days. Uproar after the fight brought a 90-day boxing ban in Pennsylvania by Gov. George M. Leader. A new state boxing code also is being written.

The commission charged all those under suspension with "conduct detrimental to the best interests of boxing" in connectioin with the match, during which Johnson fainted on his ring stool at the end of the second round.

In revoking Moran's matchmaking license, the state commission ruled he violated the boxing code for having "a financial interest in the earnings" of Johnson while operating as a matchmaker. It was pointed out Moran was employed as a matchmaker by Herman Taylor Sports Enterprises, which promoted the Johnson-Mederos bout.

Moran now is under bail for allegedly perjuring himself in conflicting testimony to the commission, which closed its hearings n Philadelphia Juune 7.

Coach Returns To Middlebury High

MIDDLEBURY, Ind. (UP)—Middlebury High School lost its athletic coach last week but got him back again today.

Bob Biddle, Middlebury coach the past seven years, resigned a week ago to take a basketball coaching job at Battle Creek, Mich., Central High School.

Today he announced he resigned the Michigan post and will stay at Middlebury.

Patterson Says He Would Like To Win Both Titles

NEW YORK (UP)—Remarkable young Floyd Patterson, enthused by a knockout victory over his first heavyweight opponent, said today, "I'd like to win both the light heavyweight and heavyweight titles. It would be real nice."

If Wednesday night's kayo over Archie McBride is any criterion, the 20-year-old light heavyweight contender from Brooklyn seems to have a good chance of achieving his double-barreled desire.

Floyd, olympic middleweight champion of 1952, spotted muscular McBride 15½ pounds and knocked hiim out at 1:46 of the seventh round with the third knock down of the fight. Their nationally televised and broadcast bout in Madison Square Garden had been scheduled for 10 rounds.

McBride outweighed him, 186½ pounds to 170 3|4.

Floyd, who registered his 23rd victory in 24 professional bouts, said he would like to fight more heavyweights, "because theyre slower than the boys I've been fighting."

Wednesday night he was like "brown lightning" as he tagged 26-year-old McBride with the third knockout and 10th defeat in his career of 30 fights. He floored Archie witih a left hook to the head for a count of eight near the end of the sixth round and dropped him with a right-left-right to the chin for nine early iin the seventh. Then a right to the jaw felled McBride for the full count.

Sister Team From California Wins Annual Powderpuff Derby, 28,000 Mile Race

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. UP)—A sister team from California today won the ninth annual "Powderpuff Derby."

Mrs. Frances S. Bera of Los Angeles, a flying instructor, and her sister, Edna Bower of Long Beach, won the $800 first prize money for the best time in the 2,800-mile handicap race from Long Beach to Barnes-Westfield Airport here.

The winning plane was a Cessna 180. The handicap is figured on "par speed", or the air speed at 75 per cent of maximum horsepower.

The $500 second prize went to Alice Roberts of Phoenix, Ariz., and her co-pilot, Iris Critchell of Palos Verdes Estates, Calif., flying a Beechcraft Bonanza.

In third place for $400 on corrected time was a Bellanca Cruisair flown by Esther H. Gardner, Waterford, Conn., and co - pilot Clarissa H. Holcomb, of Westfield, Mass.

Fourth place and $200 went to Margaret Calloway of Fort Worth, Tex., and co-pilot Lindy Boyes of Piedmont, Calif., flying a Cessna 140.

Fifth place and $100 was awarded to Marian E. Burke of San Antonio, Tex., flying alone in a Piper Super Cub.

The next three finishers in the cross-county hop that started Saturday and ended for the last finishers this morning were:

Sixth, Olive McCormick of Muncie, Ind., flying alone in a Piper Tri-Pacer.

Seventh, Alice Hammond, Grose Pointe Farms, Mich., and co-pilot Jean Pearson, Grosse Pointe Park, Mich., Cessna 170.

Eighth, Silvia Roth of Chicago and Helen Sailer, Evanston, Ill., co-pilot, Cessna 104A.

Ferris Fain Is Out Of A Job; Coleman To Fill His Spot

DETROIT (UP)—Ferris Fain, 33-year-old veteran of 16 major league seasons, was out of a job today and Joe Coleman, 32, one time teammate of Fain on the Philadelphia Athletics had another chance in baseball.

The torrid-tempered Fain was given his unconditional release by the Detroit Tigers Wednesday and Coleman, aging right hander cut loose by Baltimore last Friday, was signed immediately to fill his spot on the roster.

Tiger management gave Fain's gimpy knee, which has refused to mend, as the official reason for discharge. But behin dthe official reason was the report of a series of heated arguments between the firy first sacker and other players and coaches.

Sports Briefs

NEW YORK (UP)—The Junior Amateur championships scheduled at Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind., Aug. 3-6, drew record entry of 810, it was revealed today by the U.S. Golf Assn. The old record was set last year when 748 golfers entered the tourney.

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UP) — Val Joe Walker, defensive safety man of the Green Bay Packers, apparently has recovered from a knee operation during the winter and will report for summer practice on July 23.

NEW YORK (UP) — Middleweights Danny Giovanelli of Brooklyn and Ray Drake of New York were matched Wednesday for a nationally televised and broadcast 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden on Aug. 2.

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UP) — Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Social Outcast is en route to Inglewood, Calif., today with plans to compete in the $100,000 Hollywood Gold Cup on July 16 and the $100,000 Sunset Handicap on July 23.

How To Behave On Visits To Hospital

CLEVELAND, O. (UP)—Worried by the strain put on both patient and hospital staff by large numbers of visitors, the American Hospital Associations for those who go to the hospital to visit a friend or relative:

1. Look good. The patient likes to have other patients and the nurses admire his friends. Besides, he's tired of looking at white gowns.

2. Be prompt. It's depressing for a bed-ridden person to hear footsteps approach his door—and then go right past it, especially if he knows the visiting hour has arrived.

3. Use common sense in any gift you bring. Make sure the patient will like it, can use it, and that the doctors approve.

4. Don't tell the patient he looks awful. He knows that, and he wouldn't be flat on his back if he were in blooming health.

Bring News

5. If there are more than one of you, sit on the same side of the bed— but not on the bed.

6. Don't smoke. There comes a time in the life of the heaviest tobacco-addict when he doesn't want to smell the stuff, and this may be it.

7. Come in full of news. The patient feels isolated and tidbits of news, especially if they concern him, are most welcome.

8. Don't ask for a detailed report on the accident or sickness. Many persons are quite willing to talk and will do so endlessly. Others would rather say nothing.

9. Don't tell your worries to the patient. He's not in a position to walk away.

10. Skip the belly-shaking humor until the patient is able to enjoy it without straining his stitches.

The association added that the act of visiting is more appreciated than the length of stay, and a visit after returning home is even more welcome.

Captain Announces Australia's Davis Cup Tennis Team

LONDON, England (UP)—Australia's Davis Cup tennis team will be composed of Lew Hoad, Ken Rosewall and Rex Hartwig during the Nortn American Zone eliminations, non-playing Captain Harry Hopman announced Tuesday night before leaving for New York.

The street layout of downtown Detroit is patterned after that of Washington, D. C., with maini arteries radiating like the spokes of wheels from central parks which form "hubs."

After having studied 6,000,000 men and women, a life insurance company announced its finding that "women can get along without men much better than men can get along without women."

NEW HELP FOR ALLERGY SUFFERERS

Medical science has made a great deal of progress in the last few years in isolating allergy-causing substances—pollens, dusts, foods and others. And with this recognition has come new methods of treatment, ways of avoiding the discomfort of this old plague of mankind. If you or someone in your family seems to have an allergy, consult your doctor. Chances are he can help you quickly. And if he prescribes any of the new discoveries in drugs to aid you, bring his prescription to us for prompt, accurate compounding.

Tale Of Sea Terror May Be Only Hoax

Fishing Boat Reported Afire And Sinking

NEW YORK (UP) —A fishing boat with 21 persons aboard was reported afire and sinking in the Atlantic today, but searchers hunted for it with a growing suspicion that the tale of sea terror may have been a radio-phoned hoax.

A Coast Guard spokesman said that "while checking every possibility, we realize there is a very strong possibility that it is a false alarm."

A Navy spokesman said that as far as the Navy could determine "it's a hoax."

The Coast Guard said it had been unable to identify the vessel which called itself the Blue Star. The last "distress" message to a commercial tug which was in two-way conversation with the sender for more than an hour said a submarine had surfaced nearby.

"It looks like a foreign sub," the voice said. "We can't understand what anybody is saying. We'll have to sign off now."

The first call for help was heard shortly after 2:30 a.m. EDT saying the Blue Star had rammed a log, had exploded and was afire. The report said 18 persons had gone overboard without life rafts or life preservers, which it said had been destroyed by fire.

The Navy said a U.S. submarine was about 35 miles from the reported scene of the distress call and had aided in the search. It has seen no signs of the vessel, the Navy said. Two Navy planes also engaged in the search.

A Navy spokesman said even the original distress message was suspicious. Life preservers, he said, do not burn easily.

The Coast Guard dispatched two planes from Floyd Bennett Field, the cutter Gentian from Cape May, N.J., a harbor patrol craft and two small boats from New Jersey ports.

No survivors, wreckage nor bodies were sighted in the choppy seas, but the sea and air search continued in widening circles from the vessel's reported position.

Navy radio technicians believed the distress calls actually came from a shore-based amateur radio transmitter. Efforts were being made to trace the sender.

Princess Sees Superjet Crash

FARNBOROUGH, England (UP) — One of Britain's supersonic Hawker-Hunter jet fighters crashed on takeoff today in full view of Princess Margaret, who was visiting Farnborough to see a display of Britain'js newest and fastest aircraft.

The sleek jet fighter plowed into the earth seconds after roaring off in a mass takeoff with other planes at this experimental, development field.

The princess saw the swept-wing jet fall out of formation and plummet to earth a mile from the end of the runway. The pilot was killed.

Few of the thousands of persons present were aware that the crash had occurred. The announcer on the public address system did not mention it.

But Princess Margaret was standing on the royal dias, overlooking the runway, when the wave of three hunters rocketed into the air, about 100 yards away. She turned to watch as one plane went down and stared at the rising column of smoke.

Then she turned back to watch a tight formation flight of other Hawker-Hunters as the show went on.

G.E. Workers Strike In Protest Against

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (UP)—Members of Local 901 of the CIO International Union of Electrical Workers met today to discuss their grievance against General Eelectric Co. which led to a walkout of 9,500 employes at three plants here.

The strike began at the Taylor GE plant Wednesday and spread to the Winter and Broadway plants in protest to the installation of an "automatic foreman" at a casting press.

The company said the device was installed to show the efficiency of the press and charged the union with breach of contract.

In 1910-1919, six pounds of canned fruits and juices were purchased for every 100 pounds of fresh; in 1950, 33 pounds of canned fruits and juices—plus four pounds of frozen—were purchased for every 100 pounds of fresh.

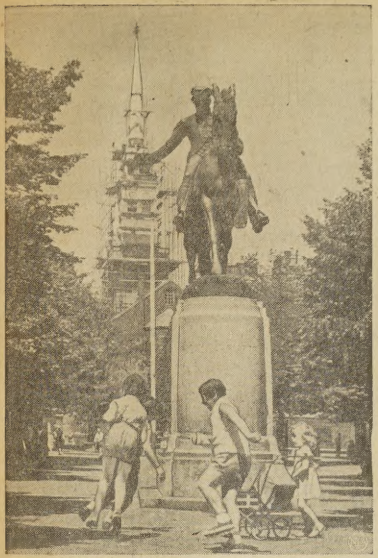
President's Foreign Aid Plea Suffers Big Cut By Committee



BACK TO NORMAL—Boston's North End is back to normal as once again children play in Paul Revere Park under a statue of Paul Revere and the steeple of Old North Church. A glistening new white four-ton spire was put on the church exactly 309 days after the old one toppled to the ground in Hurricane Carol last August.

Son Born Wednesday To The James Boggs

Mr. and Mrs. James Boggs, 210 East North street, are the parents of a son, Dennis Lee, born Wednesday at the Whitley County Hospital. The baby weighed 6 pounds, 9½ ounces.

The couple has one other child. Mabel E. Sevits was the maiden name of Mrs. Boggs.

Mother Owes $3.70 On Book Rental; Jailed

On Charge Of Child Neglect

EVANSVILLE (UP) — Mrs. Charles Evans mother of seven children, was jailed for seven hours Thursday because she owed $3.70 on public school book rentals for one of her youngsters.

Mrs. Evans was arrested on a charge of child neglect under a 1946 Indiana law which defines "failure to provide education" as an act of neglect.

She was jailed because she could not post $100 bond for her release pending a hearing.

Later, before Juvenile Court Judge French Clements she pleaded guilty to the charge but said she failed to pay because she didnt have the money.

Authorities then discovered she had are ceipt for payment of $5 she was accused in the charge of having failed to pay. But they found she owed $3.70 for another child. She settled for $1.95 and was released without fuurther penalty.

School officials said patrons under the book rental system save $12,000 a year by not having to buy school books for their youngsters. They said failure to pay the rentals was a growing problem.

Vanderburgh County School Supt. Elder Eberhart said letters originally were sent to 65 parents asking them to pay up. He said arrest warrants were served on four persons Thursday, but only Mrs. Evans landed in jail.

Prosecutor Paul Wever said the charges were filed as "test" cases. He said all four parents were "financially responsible" and if they were not the township trustee would pay the fees for them.

Wever said he did not believe it will be necessary to "jail any more mothers" to collect the fees.

North Manchester Man Gets 103 Days On Traffic Violations

Otis N. Gray, 33, North Manchester, was sentenced to a total of 103 days at the Indiana State Penal Farm Thursday in City Court when he pleaded guilty to two charges growing out of an accident June 25 on State highway 14.

Gray was arrested by Trooper Wayne Reese of the Indiana State Police after he was reported driving recklessly through South Whitley, and rammed through a fence on a farm along the highway.

The North Manchester man was sentenced to 22 days upon his conviction of driving with a suspended license and failed to pay a $5 fine and court costs of $16.75. He received the other 81 days on the State Farm when he was convicted of reckless driving and was unable to pay a fine of $50.85, including court costs.

At the time of Gray's arrest, he was operating his vehicle under a license suspended for one year after a previous conviction on a drunken driving charge June 14 in Goshen.

Conservation Committee Here Submits Petition

Asks For Full Time Soil Technician

A program and work plan of Soil Conservation for Whitley county was adopted by the newly elected board of supervisors at the county agent's office, Thursday. The board petitioned the Federal Soil Conservation Service to provide a full time technician for carrying out the program. A copy of the program was submitted to the United States Department of Agriculture along with the petition.

"If this program is approved and the petition granted, the District should be able to render technical service by the first of September," states Carl Thomson, president of the Board of Supervisors. "We have asked the service to set-up a local office in Columbia City where farmers can easily contact district supervisors and the technician. We anticipate the assignment of Arthur Flickinger to the district by the state supervisor. Flickinger has been assisting Milford Richman, the farm planner for Noble county during the past two years."

Members of the Board of Supervisors in addition to chairman Thomson, are Lloyd Lawrence, Carl Hess, Ralph Heine and Walter Halt. R. O. Cole, secretary of the State Soil Conservation Committee, assisted the Board in preparing their petition and in adopting memorandums of understanding. County Agent B. V. Widney, Assistant Agent Hubert Reinhold, Johny Craig, District SCS Supervisor, and Arthur Flickinger served in an advisory capacity at the board meeting.

More Hot, Humid Weather, Showers For Next Five Days

By UNITED PRESS

Heavy thundershowers held high temperatures Thursday as low as 82 degrees in Indiana and spilled more than an inch of rain on north central regions.

More hot humid weather and showers are on the menu for the next five days.

Lightning claimed its fourth victim in four days David D. Hines, 19, Marion. He was trying to roll up the windows of his parked car when struck by a lightning bolt. Others have been injured by lightning during severe thunderstorms this week.

Rochester and Logansport were doused with about 1.25 inches of rain during the 24-hour period ending today. Scottsburug and Marion got .95 inch, Indianapolis .87, Wabash .63 Bluffton .58 and Martinsville and South Bend slightly under a half inch.

While Evansville had the high temperature of 90 other cities were cooled oft by the showers to their lowest highs in several days. Souuth Bend had 87 high, Indianapolis and Fort Wayne 85 and Lafayette 82.

U. S. May Ask Russia To Pay $750,000 Damage

For Patrol Plane Destroyed June 23

By DONALD J. GONZALES
United Press Staff CorresPondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States may ask Russia to pay $750000 for the Navy Neptune patrol plane destroyed off Alaska by Soviet jet fighters.

Total damages involved in the June 23 incident could climb much higher when injuries to the plane's 11 crewmen are determined by American officials.

The United States Thursday told Moscow in a note that it will accept an unprecedented Red offer to share damages to the plane and its crew on a 50-50 basis.

But the United States stressed that the Russian pilots were entirely to blame for he attack carried out over the international waters of the Bering Strait which lies between the Soviet Union and Alaska. The American plane the note said was operated in "a correct and blameless manner' and did not even shoot back.

American authorities said the State and Navy departments would get together soon to figure out the bill to be presented to the Russian governmen. They said the $750000 was a possible figure for the plane since Navy Neptuune aircraft are valued at $1500000.

Authorities refused to give any dollar estimate at this time for injuries to the crew. Seven of the 11 were painfully burned and injured in the attack.

One official said some of the men would have to be retired for disability. Then some estimate would have to be made of what limited employment, if any, the airmen might be able to undertake in civilian life. Medical reports, future physical progress and the like also would be taken into account.

President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles have expressed the opinion that the incident was not a part of Soviet policy coming as it did during the United Nations conference at San Francisco.

Thursday's note expressed hope that the Russians will take all measuures to avoid any new incidents. It warned that further incidents would "inevitably have a harmful effect upon the relations of our two nation relations which the United States for its part desires to see improved."

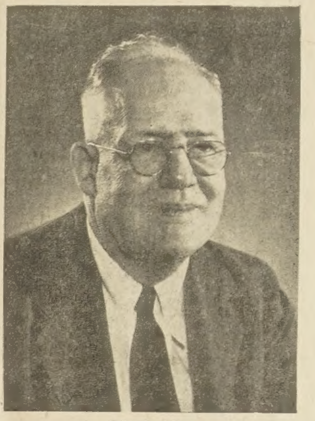
Victims Of Crash Show Improvement

One of the three men hospitalized in the Whitley County Hospital Wednesday afternoon following a head-on collision south of Wolf Lake on State road 109 was dismissed Thursday, and the other two are reported to be improving.

Erwin Weaver, R 1, Middlebury, was dismissed Thursday noon. Lloyd Yoder, Lagrange, who was considered in most serious condition with head injuries, showed improvement this morning and had partially regained consciousness. Ezra Lantz, Shipshewana, driver with whom these men were riding, also is improved today. He suffered fractured ribs and a fractured left wrist.

Donald Michael, of Wolf ake, and driver of the other car, is also in satisfactory condition at the Luckey Hospital.

John Q. Adams Dies Unexpectedly Thursday, Became Ill Wednesday



John Q. Adams

John Q. Adams, editor and publisher of the Columbia City Post and Commercial-Mail, died at 3:50 p.m. Thursday afternoon, at the Memorial Hospital where he had been taken after becoming ill at his home on North Chauncey street about 2 a.m., Wednesday.

An autopsy performed at the DeMoney and Son Funeral Home disclosed a perforated duodenal ulcer. He had never experienced any indications of this sort of trouble and his death came very unexpectedly.

Mr. Adams was a lifelong resident of Columbia City. After graduating from the local high school, he enrolled at the University of Michigan, where he took his A.B. degree in 1916 and two years later graduated from the University of Michigan Law School.

Returning to Columbia City, he joined the staff of the Columbia City Post which had been published by his father, J. W. Adams since 1878. He continued on the newspaper with his brother, James D. Adams, and with Foster W. Riddick, who became editor of the Commercial-Mail when the two papers were merged. In 1951, Mr. Adams bought full control of the newspapers and has continued as editor and publisher up to the time of his death, making a total of seventy-seven years that the Columbia City Post had been published by some member of the Adams family.

Sports Enthusiast

Throughout his life, Mr. Adams was deeply interested in following sports events, and he kept well posted on the accomplishments of his favorite teams. He was also a lover of flowers and was a member of the Michigan, Ohio and New England Gladiolus Societies. He was a diligent reader and had exceptional ability to remember things that he heard or read.

John Quincey Adams was named for his grandfather, who was one of the early settlers in Thorncreek township. The grandfather served as county treasurer from 1856 to 1860. The deceased was a son of John Wilson and Sophie Collins Adams and was born October 13, 1892. He was 62 years, 8 months and 24 days old.

His mother also came from early pioneer settlers in this county. Her grandfather, John Collins, moved his family from Spottsylvania county, Virginia, to Kentucky in the period 1786 to 1790, and in 1806 moved to Wayne county, Indiana. The next move into what is now Cleveland township, Whitley County, took place in 1836.

Survived By Wife

Mr. Adams was united in marriage to Miss Hester C. Little, of Lowell, June 26, 1938. She was domestic science teacher in the school here prior to her marriage. In addition to Mrs. Adams, one brother, James D. Adams, of this city, survives. One brother, Donald C. Adams, was drowned in 1911 while on a vacation trip into northwestern Canada.

Mr. Adams was a member of the University of Michigan Alumni Association and a life member of the Michigan Union, of the First Presbyterian Church and of the Elks Lodge in Columbia City, the Indiana Democratic Editors Association, and the Hoosier State Press Association.

The Columbia City high school Class of 1911, of which Mr. Adams was a member, planned a reunion at the 4-H Community Center Sunday afternoon, and he had made plans to attend the reunion. Members of the class will attend the services in a body.

Friends may call at the J. A. DeMoney and Son Funeral Home after 7:30 p.m. Friday. Services have been set for 3 p.m. Sunday at the funeral home, with the Rev. Robert Crosby, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiating. Interment will be at the Greenhill Cemetery in Columbia City.

Dr. Donald Reid To Become Associate Of Dr. O. F. Lehmberg

Dr. Donald B. Reid, M. D., will become an associate of Dr. Otto F. Lehmberg on July 11.

Dr. Reid was born at Romeo, Michigan, and received his elementary education there. He attended Michigan State University where he received a B.S. degree in chemical engineering in 1938.

Later Dr. Reid was engaged in chemical research and development work in Elkhart until 1949, at which time he entered Indiana University school of medicine in 1954.

He served his internship at Methodist Hospital, Gary for 12 months following graduation from medical school.

Dr. Reid is married and has one son. The family will reside at 118½ East Van Buren street.

Paul Vance Assists In Writing Book, "Magnetic Amplifiers"

Paul Vance of Tri Lakes and an application engineer in the General Purpose Transformer Engineerg Unit of the General Electric Co. plant in Fort Wayne is one of the persons who wrote the book "Magnetic Amplifiers".

This book has been included in the list of the 100 most essential technical books which the technical department of the New York Public Library prepares each year. It is a college textbook by Dr. H. F. Storm and associates and Mr. Vance is among the associates. He wrote Chapter 21 "Core and Coil Assemblies".

Parents Of Son

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hively of Thorncreek township are parents of a son, Kirk Eugene, born Tuesday at Whitley County Hospital.

Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hively of this city, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ewigleben of Fort Wayne are the maternal grandparents.

Mr. Hively is purchasing agent at Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Hively was formerly employed at the Farmers Loan and Trust Company.

Church Bells Will Sound School Drive

Stuart Smith, chairman of the school committee for selling the joint high school stock, reports that the church bells in Columbia City will sound the start of the campaign here Wednesday evening at 7:00.

Rev Robert Crosby, president of the associated churches, and Rev. Lynn Henry will arrange for the bells to ring and notify city residents that canvassers will soon call at their door.

Number Of Employed Over 64 Million

First Time In American History

WASHINGTON (UP)—The number of employed jumped by 1,300,000 in June to reach the 64 million mark for the first time in American history.

The Commerce and Labor departments today attributed the rise to 64,016,000 persons with jobs to another sharp increase in factory jobs as well as seasonal expansions in farms and other industries.

The departments also reported that unemployment rose by 190,000 to 2,679,000 persons, but the increase was one of the smallest in the post-war period for this time of year.

The employment total tops the previous record of 63,700,000 jobs set in August, 1953. But the total of jobless persons was still more than double the 1,200,000 unemployed in August, 1953—the post-war low point.

Increases since August, 1953, in the total civilian labor force — persons holding or looking for jobs — and in the so-called "working age" population were much larger than the net increase in employment.

In June the civilian labor force reached 66,696,000 persons, 1,796,000 higher than in August, 1953. The working age population of persons 14 and older reached 117,318,000, higher by 2,118,000.

The departments said students entering the summer labor market filled most of the additional jobs in June and also raised the total number of unemployed. Continued re-hiring of jobless adult workers, however, held down the rise in the jobless total, they said.

June marked the third straight month in which employment has risen by at least one million. The number of employed has now climbed by four million from the winter low. This is about one million more than normal.

GOP Compulsory Reserve Program Also In Trouble

Russell Favors Voluntary Bonus Incentive Plan

By UNITED PRESS

The House Appropriations Commitee today cut $627,900,000 from the $3,266,641,750 asked by President Eisenhower to finance foreign aid in the fiscal year started July 1.

The committee charged that a last-minute administration rush to commit $951,000,000 in unspent military aid funds piled up from last year's appropriations had created a "chaotic fiscal situation" in the program.

Apparently netled, the committee cut $20,000,000, or 38 per cent, from the $1,225,000,000 sought by the President for arms aid to U.S. allies in the new fiscal year.

The committee approved he aid bill just a day after Congress completed action on a measure authorizing $3,285,000,000 for foreign aid. Mr. Eisenhower signed the authorization measure today.

In addition to arms aid and other cuts, the committee chopped in half the $200,000,000 asked for a special residential fund to be used for Asiatic development.

The House is expected to pass the foreign aid money bill on Monday.

Other congressional news:

Reserves: The administration's compulsory reserve program ran into new trouble in Congress. Sen. Richard B. Russell suggested it be scrapped in favor of a coluntary, bonus-incentive plan.

Russell (D-Ga) offered his rival plan as the Senate Armed Services Commitee which he heads opened a second day of hearings on the reserve problem.

Stifling Heat Wave Blankets The Nation's Eastern Two Thirds For Ninth Straight Day

By UNITED PRESS

A stifling heat wave blanketed the nation's eastern two thirds for the ninth straight day and the weather forecasters said they couldn't do a thing about it.

The vast mass of muggy air battled with an advancing cool front in the West, seting off tornadoes in Minnesota and Nebraska. A child was killed and nine other persons were injured when a twister hit a Marshall, Minn., farm area Thursday night, and another tornado ripped away roofs early today in the Loup City ,Neb., area.

The storms caused some temperature drops, but forecasters said a massive high pressure centered off the South Carolina coast would probably keep most of the East sweltering through the week-end.

Even Strippers Complain

In Newark, N.J., it was so hot that the strip teasers at Minsky's Burlesque started complaining. A young woman went wandering through the streets of Sioux Falls, S.D., in the nude, explaining to police she was Eve looking for Adam.

Tempers heated up with the weather and work seemed less and less attractive. In Detroit, for instance, the muggy weather was blamed for walkouts at the Crysler plant which eventually idled 7,000 men.

The heat also continued to take a toll in lives. A 19-month-old Madison, Wis., girl suffocated when she was trapped in her father's parked car where the sun heated the temperature to 130 degrees. At Pitsburgh, Pa., a woman went to the roof of her home to seek relief and fell 35 feet to her death.

High temperatures Thursday included a sizzling 107 at Presidio, Tex., and 103 at Carlsbad, N.M. Sioux City, Iowa, had 97, and Chicago 94. Chicagoans feared temperatures close to 100 today.

In Minnesota, meanwhile, National Guard troops moved in to prevent looting in the twister-stricken area near Marshall.

The tornado hit about 25 farms, leveling six of them, and caused damage estimated at more than $500,000. Hardest hit was the Marlow Larson farm home, where 2-year-old Ronald was killed and his parents and four brothers and sisters were injured.

The storm front swept on to the twin cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul, drenching them with three inches of rain which cut visibility to less than a foot.

Winds estimated at 71 miles per hour destroyed two hangars and 12 planes at Crystal Airport north of Minneapolis. Several boats on nearby Lake Minnetonka were sunk and trees and power and telephone lines went down inside the cities.

A confirmed tornado hit Loup City and Hancock, Neb., early today. Houses were unroofed, but the sheriff's office said there were no immediate reports of dead or injured.

In newspaper terminology, the numerals "30" denote the completion of a news story........the end, so that linotype operators and others concerned know there is no missing page, but the story is finished.

John Q. Adams lived his entire life near the newspaper. As a youngster he started as a "printer's devil" at the Columbia City Post while his father, J. W. Adams, was publisher. He "threw in type" and did other menial chores which befit the "printer's devil."

Later, after graduation from the University of Michigan, John Q. Adams returned to the newspaper ....reporter, sports writer, city editor, and later publisher, managing editor and business manager.

Practically his only diversion was his hobby of raising flowers. But first, last and always came the newspaper.

The life of John Q. Adams revolved around the Columbia City newspaper. We can think of no better ending than simply "30."

Labor Unrest Continues At G E

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (UP)—Labor unrest continued at General Electric Co. plants today and a second wildcat strike closed at least one of four installations.

The 9,500 workers, members of the CIO International Union of Electrical Workers, voted Thursday to end a one-day walkout blamed on a grievance over an "automatic foreman" at a casting press.

However, Winter Plant workers struck anew Thursday night to protest overtime work by two employes. The membership had decided not to accept overtime work until the original grievance was settled.

"Bitter Sweet" To Be Presented At Franke Theater

"Bitter Sweet", Noel Coward's delightful serio-comic musical, comes to the stage of the Franke Park Open Air Theater for a four-day run, Thursday through Sunday, July 14-17, produced by Festival Music Theater, Inc.

Unlike "Oklahoma", which opened the season, "Bitter Sweet" is not defined as a musical comedy, but is more aptly described as a modern operetta.

Its essential plot concerns the story of a famous, but now aging, prima donna, who discovers that her young niece is face to face with a romantic problem exactly comparable to that faced by the great singer some forty years earlier. In a series of "Flashbacks," the opera star reverts to young girlhood and re-lives portions of her life as a means of helping the niece to make the right decision concerning the man she should marry. As the play concludes, the audience sees Time revert to the present, with the young girl making her decision, with the tired old diva singing the haunting melody, "I'll See You Again," which was the theme song of her entire life.

Playing the opera diva will be Jean Grant Altevogt; Paul Gilbert portrays the young husband who died for love, and Jaymee Griffiths portrays the young niece to whom the story is told.

Other popular songs from "Bitter Sweet" include "Zigeuner," "Ta Ra Ra Boom De Ay", "Tokay" and "Kiss Me."

Mail orders should be addressed to the Festival box office, 411 Standard Bldg., Fort Wayne 2, Ind., telephone A-2582. Stamped, self-addressed envelope should be enclosed.

Baseball Player's Biggest Kick Comes From Getting Even – Next To Getting Paid

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press Sports Writer

Next to getting paid, a ballplayer's biggest kick comes from getting even — especially against the club that traded him away — which explains why Walt Dropo, Dick Donovan and Andy Pafko all enjoyed the same special satisfaction today.

whom were cast off by Detrit, fixed the Tigers but good Thurs-

Dropo and Donovan, both of day in pacing the Chicago White Sox to a 12-1 victory while Pafko, who was dealt away by the Chicago Cubs four years ago, hammered a pinch two-run homer against them to help Milwaukee win, 3-2.

Dropo, traded away by the Tigers only last winter, laced his ex-teammates for a grand-slam homer and two singles driving in five runs. Donovan who didn't impress the Tigers when he was with them during the spring of 1954, certainly impressed them Thursday by hurling a five-hitted for his 10th victory and collecting three hits himself at the plate.

The homer by Pafko went a long way toward movng Milwauukee into second place in the National League. Sam (No Hit) Jones was coasting along with a 2-0 lead until Pafko came off the bench in the seventh inning to hit his homer with Del Crandall on base. Bobby Thomson's single drove in Ed Mathews wit hthe deciding run in the eighth. Bob Buhl pitched a five-hitter for his sixth victory.

In other National League games St. Louis nipped Cincinnati, 9-8 Brooklyn topped Pittsbuurgh 4-3 and New York defeated Philadelphia 8-5.

Indians Four Games Out

The Indians moved to within four games of the American League lead by licking the Athletics 9-1 and the Red Sox beat the Senators 6-5. The Yankees and Orioles were idle.

Outfielder Bill Virdon's seventh inning homer proved to be the deciding run in the Cardinals' victory over the Redlegs althouugh Cincinnati made the game close by storming back to within one run of a tie after trailing by five runs Southpaw Harvey Haddix was the winner although he was chased in the sixth. Ken Boyer and Sam Mele also hit homers.

Billy Loes racked up his ninth victory although the Pirates gave him some anxious moments when they scored two unearned runs in the ninth inning. Junior Gilliam homered off loser Ronne Kline in the second inning and tripled home another Dodger run in the fourth. Preston Ward homered for Pittsburgh.

Limited to one hit by veteran Murry Dickson until the sixth inning the Giants exploded for six runs in that frame to wipe out a five-run deficit and chase the Philadelphia right-hander. Willie Mays slammed two home runs for the Giants his 26th and 27th of the season while Hank Thompson Alvin Dark and Gail Harris hit one each. Richie Ashburn homered for Philadelphia.

Two home ruuns by Larry Doby and one by Al Rosen were the big blows in Cleveland's 12-hit attack on three Kansas City pitchers. The Athletics led 1-0 until the Tribe rallied for three runs in the seventh. Mike Garcia scattered six hits for his fifth victory while rookie southpaw Cessarelli who held the Indians hitless until the fifth suuffered his fifth loss.

Grady Hatton's single with the bases loaded highlighted a three-run rally in the seventh inning that earned the Red Sox their seventh victory in a row and 12th triumph in the last 13 games. Norzauuchin provided Boston's first three runs when he hit his 18th homer with two on off loser Bob Porterfield in the first inning. Relief pitcher Ellis Kinder notched his thirrd win although George Susce rescued him when the Senators scored twice in the ninth. The Red Sox are now only 6½ games off the pace.

ernment pay a $400 bonus to every serviceman who volunteers for three years duty in the combat reserve of the Army or Marine Corps. The administration plan would make a total of five years active and reserve service compulsory on the part of all post-Korean War veterans.

But Russell said "a great public outcry" would result if veterans are forced into the reserve while an increasingly large number of men are performing no military service at all.

AEC: Chairman Clinton P. Anderson (D-N.M.) of the congressional Atomic Energy Committee armed saff investigators with "a batch" of subpenas. The investigators have been questioning Allen Whitfield of Des Moines, who has been nominated to the Atomic Energy Commission. Anderson said the investigators need the subpenas because they received "very little cooperation" in an interview with Whitfield Thursday. The congressional committee has been looking into Whitfield's background since his nomination last April.

National Guard: Maj. Gen. Ellard A. Walsh, president of the National Guard Assn., told senators the guard doesn't want to be included in the compulsory military reserves program.

Vaccine: A House Interstate Commerce subcommitee approved a bill to authorize the federal government to give states enough funds to provide Salk polio vaccine for about 25 per cent of still unvaccinated children.

Dixon-Yates: A Senate monopoly subcommittee summoned Adolphe H. Wenzell for questioning today on his dual role in the Dixon-Yates contract negotiations. The subcommittee already has received evidence and testimony that Wenzell served at the same time as an adviser to both the government and to Dixon-Yates officials on the controversial power plant project.

Public Works: A Senate-House conference committee Thursday agreed on a compromise version of a public works bill appropriating about $1,371,000,000 for rivers and harbors and reclamation projects. It kept most of the items added by the Senate earlier this week, but, in a major cut, dropped 6 million dollars for dredging a 40-foot channel on the Delaware River.

Military Construction: The House gave final approval Thursday to a compromise $2,360,530,300 military construction bill. The compromise measure was $8,68,600 less than passed by the House originally and an increase of $3,213,000 over what the Senate approved. It now goes back to the Senate for final action.

Dodger President Sued For $500,000

NEW YORK (UP) — Brooklyn Dodger President Walter O'Malley was sued for $500000 today for allegedly slanderous remarks about the surgeon who operated on All-Star catcher Roy Campanella.

Dr. Samuel Shenkman said in his complaint that OMalley's remarks had caused his practice to suffer. O'Malley who is an attorney himself replied with a brief statement in which he called the situations "ridiculous."

Dr. Shenkman operated on Campanella's hand last Oct. 20 after a previous operation failed to satisfy Roy. Before suffering a knee injury recently Companella was hitting .355. In 1954 he batted .207.

The dispute came to light when Campanella refused to pay Dr. Shenkman's $9500 bill for the operation.

Taking a Vacation Trip with the Kids?

By Betty Skelton, Dodge Test Driver

If you're vacationing with the kids this summer, you're probably wondering how to keep them happy while they're riding in the car. You often have to serve as referee, troubleshooter, and special police to prevent the little ones from becoming little demons on a long car ride.

Here are my recommendations for avoiding nervous breakdowns on the part of the adults in the car.

Of course, with no children of my own I sound like the confirmed bachelor who tells people how they should bring up their kids. But I know first hand the fortitude above and beyond the call of duty that's required on a trip of this kind. Driving the kids from the polio ward at Tampa Municipal hospital in Florida gave me my chance to work out my tips for trips with the younger generation.

Miss Skelton

No Toys

Don't bother taking toys along. They usually clutter up the car and provide little entertainment for excited youngsters.

Treats like candy, popcorn, and gum, are a help if stored in the glove compartment and doled out with discretion.

To avoid frequent stops for drinks, take along a big thermos of cold water or carbonated drink, along with plenty of paper cups.

There are a lot of good ways to divert their attention from the fact that they are condemned to sit in one place for hours at a stretch.

Little children who haven't traveled much will enjoy having the unusual sights along the road pointed out to them. And they like to play games like the one where each child counts the number of cows on his side of the road, and the one who gets the most cows in a certain time gets a prize.

If a graveyard comes up on his side of the road, the contestant's total is wiped out and he has to begin counting all over again. Horses, since they are scarcer, count two. The winner could get one of the candy bars in the glove compartment for a prize.

School-age children can keep occupied for hours with the alphabet game. Each child watches the signs along his side of the road. Choose up teams if you have more than two children. If there are three children in the car, let one be the referee—you're going to need one, anyway. The point of the game is to see who can find the letters A through Z the fastest. It sounds simple, but gets complicated when they get down to q's and z's.

This Is Recommended

There's an alternative to all this that is especially recommended by couples with very young children.

Start by loading suitcases on the floor of the back seat until they are level with the seat. Then place a crib or youth bed mattress across this area. Add children dressed in pajamas, pillows, and blankets. Start driving about 7 or 8 p.m. Drive for six hours at 50 miles per hour, and by 1 a.m. you'll have gone approximately 300 miles while the children slept.

Of course, there's always the chance you'll have one of those days when nothing works. When you're a mere 20 miles on your way, they'll start asking, "Are we almost there?" This question will be thrown at you every 5 minutes for the rest of the day—each time they come up for air.

One couple of my acquaintance had a nerve-shattering 500 miles of this. After they arrived at their destination, they laughed at the cure it occurred to them they could have used. The cure? Knock-out drops—one to each demon.

(If you have any questions or suggestions about cars and driving problems, Miss Skelton will be happy to receive them. Address her in care of this newspaper.)

LAFAYETTE, — A cement surfaced feeding area joins the large quonset type farrowing building on the Mark and William Congleton farm in Clinton County, 4½ miles southwest of Frankfort. When the cameraman visited the Congletons, Mark, left, and William on tractor, were busy mixing their own cement and constructing the feeding surface. Those on the State Farm Management Tour will have an opportunity to see the completed job at the afternoon stop of the tour, July 27.

Handley To Speak At Muck Crop Day Scheduled July 21

LAFAYETTE, — Lt. Gov. Harold Handley, Indiana commissioner of agriculture, will be one of five speakers at the State Muck Crop Field Day Thursday, July21.

Roscoe Fraser, extension horticulturist at Purdue University, and Arthur Shideler, Starke county agent, program chairmen, have announced that the event will open at 10 a.m. (DST) on the Richard Gumz farm, four miles southwest of North Judson.

Participants will assemble at the potato storage house and will be transported to various plots in which they are interested. The Gumz farm involves several hundred acres of land on which almost every commercial muck crop is grown.

Demonstration plots which will be seen include potato varieties, potato fertilizer trials, corn varieties, corn fertilizer trials, potato irrigation on sand, deep plowing of much as it affects mint and other muck crops, hybrid mints and general farming.

In addition to Handley, four Purdue horticulturists will speak during the afternoon program. N. K. Ellis will discuss "Prospects for New Muck Potato Varieties" and G. F. Warren will speak on "Chemical Weeding of Muck Crops." Arthur Wolcott will explain "Internal Browning of Potatoes" and details of the State Muck Crop Show at Walkerton, October 25-28, will be listed by Fraser.

A fish lunch will be served by the Jonah Club under the supervision of Forrest Higgins, muck crop director from Silver Lake.

CHICAGO (UP)— Louise Suggs of Sea Island, Ga., led women golfers in money earnings today in the latest official tabulation. Miss Suggs has earned $10,458 with Patty Berg of Chicago second at $8,990 and Fay Crocker of Montevideo, Uruguay, third at $8,276.

CHICAGO (UP) — Mrs. Titus Haffa, wife of a wealthy Chicago industrialist, has been identified as the holder of a $100 win ticket on Red Geflen which paid off $1,070 at Arlington Park Wednesday. Mrs. Haffa, who bet on Red Geflen because "I like girl horses," received a check for the amount at ceremonies Thursday.

BOSTON (UP)—The Massachusetts Boxing Commission has placed lightweight champion Wallace (Bud) Smith of Orange, N.J., and former champion Jimmy Carter of New York on the unavailable list. They were to have met on June 29. Eye cuts were the reasons for the commission's action.

LONDON (UP) — Nina Martynenko of Russia was reported by a Tass broadcast Thursday to have set a world record for the women's pentathlon at Leningrad when she scored 4,977 points.

TORONTO (UP)—Lineman Gil Mains said Thursday he will continue to play for the Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football eague despite a three-year, $50,000 offer from the Detroit Lions of the National Football League.

Farm Management Tour Includes Corn Farm Near Delphi

LAFAYETTE— A Carroll county farmer, Ralph Sullivan, and his son, Robert, who live three miles southeast of Delphi, have organized their farm business in recent years to maximize the use of their resources, according to economists. It their reorganization, the cropping program has been changed to include a high percentage of corn and no small grain. The Sullivans now grow about 190 acres of corn on their 220 tillable acres each year. Their average corn yields have been 85 bushesl per acre. This year they have 215 acres in corn.

Farmers who attend the annual State Farm Management Tour, Wednesday morning, July 27, will be impressed with how the Sullivans have reorganized their business to take advantage of the most modern technology in crop and livestock production.

With specially designed equipment, 72-acres of the corn land are planted in 60-inch rows and the remaining 143-acres are planted in 40-inch rows. Also, with specially designed equipment, a mixture of orchard grass, ladino and alfalfa was seeded between the 60-inch rows, June 20 to 30. Their crop rotation is set-up for five years in corn to one year in meadow.

What do Sullivan and his son do with the 17,000 bushels of corn they annually produce? To this question they have two answers. Twelve hundred feeder pigs are purchased and fed each year — 900 each spring and '00 each fall. Also, three broods of broilers, totaling 22,500, are produced annually.

Search For Penny Costs Man $600

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UP) — Thomas W. Eurton's search for a penny cost him $600.

Eurton told police that when he made a 35-cent purchase Thursday, the clerk asked if he had a penny for state sales' tax.

He said he opened his billfold, then left it on the store counter. When he returned for it, the billfold, containing $600, was gone.

Cotton Report

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Agriculture Department today reported farmers had 17,096,000 acres of cotton in cultivatio nJuly 1. This was 1 per cent less than last year.

The department is forbidden by law to make a cotton production estimate until August. But if yields averaged 300 pounds per acre, farmers would harvest a 10,257,600 bale crop this year on that acreage.

Last year farmers produced 13,679,000 bales from 19,791,000 acres in cultivation July 1, 1954.

ISRAELI RULE

JERUSALEM — (UP) — Something not required for a cabinet minister in Israel is demanded of the lowest buck private in its army. A soldier is the only person on the government payroll who must be legally married if his wife is to qualify for pension after his death. The regulation for all other persons drawing government pay says "or woman generally regarded as his wife."

Geiger Rites Held Wednesday

Memorial services were held at the J. A. DeMoney and Son Funeral Home Wednesday for Willis Geiger.

The Rev. Volie Pyles, pastor of the Ormas Baptist Church, officiated at the services and also at the comittal service which followed in the Thorn cemetery. Mrs. Betty Klopfenstein sang "Going Home," "Safe In The Arms of Jesus" and "Beyond The Sunset" and her organ accompaniment was played by Mrs. Freeman Goodyear who also played the organ prelude and postlude. Pall bearers were Jay Winebrenner, Fay Winebrenner, Otto Bosche, J. D. Geiger, Garl Dyer and Franklin Nicholson.

Word Received Of Harold Whicker Death

Mrs. Harry Shinineman West Park street recently received word that her step-brother Harold Whicker, formerly of Columbia City died at the Oakland Naval Hospital, Oakland, California.

He had undergone a heart operation at the hospital.

Services and burial were at Anacorts Wash., north of Seattle.

Mrs. Kreitzer Will Be Reading Her Bible Often

By JOHN LANGDON
United Press Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UP)—Mrs. Catherine Kreitzer, a Pennsylvania grandmother with a $64,000 decision, will be reading her Bible often before she makes up her mind.

She sat at an oval, oil-cloth covered table in the big, comfortable kitchen in her Possum Hollow home Thursday night and opened her Bible at random for a photographer. Then she laughed and read from proverbs 23:5:

"Wilt thou set thine eyes upon that which is not? For riches certainly make themselves wings like an eagle that flieth toward heaven."

"I couldn't turn to that by chance again in 10 years," she said.

The Big Risk

But she wouldn't say whether the ancient scriptural admonition might reflect her own thoughts on the decision she must make by next Tuesday night — whether to take the $32,000 her Bible knowledge has won her thus far in a quiz show, or risk it in a try for $64,000.

"I haven't given any thought to what I'll do," she insisted. "I'll tell Hal March (master of ceremonies on "The $6,000 Question' television show) next Tuesday."

Mrs. Kreitzer said in the event she decided to try the $64,000 question, she would not ask her 82-year-old father, Joseph Bucher, also a Bible scholar, to serve as her expert adviser. She is entitled to an adviser on the big question.

"I wouldn't ask father because he won't go to New York," she said.

Mrs. Kreitzer's husband, Joseph, also remained discreetly out of the circle of his wife's limelight during the visit to their eight acre Camp Hill RD 1 farm.

Fair To Navy

The 54-year-old mother of six sons who have nine children fingered a pile of letters and telegrams and explained that "I just don't let myself think about the decision — it wouldn't be fair, to the Navy.

"They pay me a salary to type bills of lading at the Mechanicsburg supply depot, and I'll do my deciding on my own time."

The telephone rang, and Mrs. Kreitzer commented:

"I thought the bell would be worn out by now."

She said she had received scores of letters, wires and phone calls from "all over the country—people I don't even know.

"Most of them are congratulatory," she said, "and many are of a religious nature, but it's curious—I haven't had any from ministers."

Catcher Campanella Will Not Play In All-Star Game

BROOKLYN (UP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers removed all lingering doubt today when they announced that catcher Roy Campanella will not play in the All-Star game at Milwaukee next Tuesday.

Campanella's knee was examined by doctors Thursday and the physicians said he needed another week of rest. The Dodger catcher said he hoped to be back in action late next week.

First Murmurs Of Battle Are Sounding For 1956 Democratic Presidential Nomination

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—The first murmurs of battle for the 1956 Democratic presidential nomination are sounding in the news about Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois and Gov. Averell Harriman of New York.

Stevenson let it be known in late May that he was of a mind to make a fight for renomination next year. This was revealed in a New York Times story which did not quote Stevenson but which obviously was based on aathentic information.

The nub of it was that Stevenson hoped to obtain the support of the conservative Southern elements of the party, but would fight them, if necessary. Harriman meanwhile, was deferring to Stevenson's claim to another shot at the White House. The New Yorker acknowledged his own strategic political position but said he was for Stevenson.

That's the way it was until last weekend when Tammany Boss Carmine DeSapio said in a "Meet The Press" television interview that the New York delegation to next year's Democratic national convention would be for Harriman.

DeSapio guided Harriman to the governorship and remains closed by as secretary of state in the Harriman cabinet. Furthermore DeSapio is cleaning up Tammany Hall to make it again a powerful political weapon.

Prendergast Pluugs Harriman

His pledge of the New York delegation was followed this week by a plug for Harriman by Michael H. Prendergast, newly elected Democratic state chairman in New York. Harriman's reaction simply was to say he was honored by the suggestion but that he still was for Stevenson.

To make it short, Harriman is in the hands of his friends—ambitious friends. Neither Harriman nor his backers will do anything soon to bruise Stevenson's feelings. But the atmosphere of amateur ping pong cannot long prevail in the tough game of presidential politics. Stevenson is expected to announce in the early autumn his availability for renomination. Harriman and company may be expected to lay back to measure the Stevenson strength.

If there is a general rally, outside the South, to Stevenson's banner, Harriman will get a courtesy vote from the New Yorkers at the Democratic convention and that's about all. But if local leaders around the country hesitate, DeSapio would be expected to go to bat with a big pre-convention campaign for his man.

In all of that there is no comfort for conservative Democrats. Thousands of them bolted Stevenson in 1952. Harriman was closer to the New Deal and Fair Deal than Stevenson ever was. Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan would not be much of an improvement from the conservative standpoint.

Kefauver Compromise Candidate

Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee might be a compromise candidate, but it would be over the dead body of Harry S. Truman and others. Under those circumstances, there is a whisper around this town that Speaker Sam Rayburn couuld be the 1956 Democratic dark horse. Mr. Sam is 73 years old which is an enormous handicap. But he's hale and hearty if looks and appetite count for anything. After 42 years in the House and in the midst of a sixth term as speaker, Rayburn is the senior member of the Congress. He is a popular party figure.

The other standout Democrat if the party seeks a strong and popuular man is Gov. Frank J. Lausch of Ohio, now serving a fifth term. He is 59 years old. Lausche is a Catholic and it is nearly 30 years since the Democrats defied tradition to nominate a member of that church for president.

Catholic Alfred Emmanueul Smit of New York lost to Herbert Hoov-er of California in 1928. A great many traditions and prejudices have gone over the dam since that election. Either Rayburn or Lausche could look mighty good to Democrats assembled in 1956 if they became convinced that the nomination of a left wing leader would split the party again.

Turncoats May Be Barred From United States

If They Worked For Red China

By WENDELL S. MERICK
United Press Staff Correspondent

HONG KONG (UP)—Three former American soldiers who chose Communism over democracy and then changed their minds may be barred from the United States if they worked for the Red Chinese government, informed sources said today.

The three are expected to reach this British colony outside the 'Bamboo Curtain" at 1 p.m. (1 a.m. EDT) Saturday. They are Lewis Grigg, William Cowart and Otho Bell.

Sources said the men will receive a cool reception when they cross the narrow bridge which links British territory with the Communist mainland.

Will Be Questioned

British police will meet them at the border and escort them to customs headquarters here. S. M. Backe, head of the consulate section of the U.S. consulate general, is then expected to question them on their activities during the months they spent in Red China.

The three were among a small group of Americans captured by the Communists during the Korean War who refused repatriation.

Sources said the men may have forfeited American citizenship by their work in Red China. In that event, they said, the U.S. consulate general will be relieved of any responsibility for their future.

If their return home is approved the men will be warned they face possible prosecution by American courts.

Face British Deportation

The sources said that in the event the men refuse to return to the United States under such circumstances, or the U.S. consulate rejects them, they face deportation from this British colony.

Authoritative sources said the three men are due to arrive in Canton today from Peiping. Radio Peiping announced last month that the men would be sent out at their own request because they could not adapt themselves to life in Communist-dominated China.

Two weeks ago, the Reds claimed the Americans were acting up in Peiping and had been placed under the supervision of security police.

They are expected to arrive at the China-Hong Kong border aboard the train from Canton, the usual exit route from the Red mainland.

Former Al Capone Gangster Dies On Golf Course

CHICAGO (UP) — Anthony (Tough Tony) Capezio, once a suspect in the famed St. Valentine's Day massacre, met a peaceful death on a country club golf course yesterday.

Capezio was once suspected of being one of the hoodlums who cut down seven members of the Bugs Moran gang in a Chicago garage on Valentine's Day in 1929.

He was a top lieutenant of gang lord Al Capone and for 30 years was usually called in for questioning on underworld murders.

But Capezio wound up his career at the age of 53 like any suburban businessman. He was playing the fourth hole on the White Pines Country Club course near suburban Bensenville when he died of a heart attack.

Six swarthy men rushed to the country club along with the fire department inhalator squad and stood about as futile efforts were made to revive Capezio.

The men didn't give their names, but they tried to take possession of Capezio's car. Instead, it was held for the dead man's wife and daughter, residents of suburban River Forest.

"Tough Tony" was the second Capone lieutenant to die amidst genteel surroundings in recent months. Another gangland figure, Louis (Little New York) Campagna, was stricken with a heart atack while fishing from a yacht in Florida waters. His lavish funeral in Chicago recalled memories of the heyday of Al Capone.

President To Spend Weekend At Farm

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower planned to fly to Gettysburg, Pa., this afternoon for a weekend at his farm.

The President expects to return to Washington late Sunday or early Monday. Mrs. Eisenhower has been at the farm since June 26.

The weekend will be Mr. Eisenhower's last at Gettysburg before he flies to Europe for the Big Four conference at Geneva starting July 18.

Empty Safe

HOUSTON, Tex. (UP) — Police said today that the burglar who broke into the Sunniland Furniture Company Thursday night and battered open a safe must have felt awfully foolish.

It was a stock safe on display and, of course was empty.

Shown checking wardrobe accessories are Sue Rose Bollinger, Shirley Nix, Carol Worden, Marlyn Beeching, and Nancy Kay Carper.

Improving the looks of a lamp by selecting the proper shade is one of the things learned by 4-H Club members in the home improvement division. Shown here are Mrs. Ed Willey, Kay Paulus, Nancy Schafer, Carolyn Gordon, Myrna Esterline, and Loretta Johnson.

4-H Leaders served as judges for the contest, and are shown tabulating results. The contest was in the 4-H Community Center in Columbia City.

Marlyn Beeching Wins First In County Demonstration Contest

The Whitley County 4-H Demonstration Contest was held Friday at the REMC Building, and four girls of the senior division were named by Mrs. Fred Geiger, judge from Ligonier, to compete in the district contests at Wabash. The general demonstrations will be held at the Honeywell Center at Wabash July 14, and the special demonstrations will be held there on July 15.

Marlyn Beeching won first place with her demonstration, "Perfection of Preparation," and will represent Whitley county in the district contest July 1. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Beeching, Union township. Second place, and the alternate to the district, is Darlene Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Walker, Smith township. The second place demonstration was, "Ceramics."

Special Demonstrations

Nancy Wade will represent this county at the district with a special demonstration, "Dairy Milk Drinks". She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Wade, Smith township.

Nancy Smith's special demonstration in "Baking" also earned her the right to compete in the district. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Smith, Thorncreek township.

Sharon Western, or Etna-Troy township, will also give her special demonstration on "Raw Vegetables" at Wabash. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Western.

Other girls competing in the senior division of the local demonstration contest were: Judy Montz, Washington township; Beverly Mishler and Nancy Shank, Cleveland; Susan Smith, Thorncreek; Rosan Ness and Carol Worden, Columbia; Amanda Stoner, Richland; and Joretta Frazier and Sylvia Dygert, Jefferson.

Junior Division

The girls in the junior division gave their demonstrations in the morning, and the first place winners were named. However, they will not advance to the district

Police Investigate Missing Merchandise At Marathon Station

City Police and state detectives are investigating the disappearance Friday night or Saturday morning of merchandise valued at $215.49 from Glen's Marathon Service Station, 401 West Van Buren street.

Indications were that someone had entered the station store sometime during the period when it was closed and stole the equipment. The point of entrance of the unidentified person or persons entering the store was not located.

However, a check of stock revealed the items missing. The theft was discovered when Glen Howenstine, operator of the station, opened up at 7 a.m. Saturday. He became suspicious when he saw an empty cigarette lighter display carton on the floor of the station.

The missing items include two auutomobile tires, one valued at $35 and the other at $26, and exhaust extensions valued at $21.90, plus other general merchandise.

Franklin Hatfield In Company Of Hoosier Recruits

GREATLAKES, Ill. (FHTNC) — Indiana is the latest addition to the list of states joining in the Navy's new recruiting system. Companies 321 and 322 are composed entirely of "Hoosiers."

Among them is Franklin Hatfield, seaman recruit, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe E. Hatfield of R 1, Columbia City.

The men started their nine-week training period June 2.

Under the new system, the men will remain together throughout recruit training. This system aids new men in adjusting from civilian to Navy life.

Contract Let For New Blue River Bridge

Liberty Firm Submits Low Bid Of $19,000; Work To Begin Soon

The contract for construction of a new county bridge over Blue River near the Columbia township school was awarded to the Kahl and Mahon Construction Company of Liberty Friday.

Bids for the new structure, designated as Blue River Bridge No. 1, were accepted in the office of the county auditor. The Liberty company submitted the low bid of $19,000. Five other companies also submitted bids.

The contract also requires that the old bridge now located at the spot be removed to the site of Cleveland township bridge 27 crossing over Spring Creek near South

Spring Creek bridge was destroyed last October when struck by a truck. The county has instituted a damage suit to collect $6,000 to pay for the bridge.

The county rejected all bids as too high on the installation of the old Blue River bridge on the Spring Creek site and construction of new abutments there. The lowest bid received for the job was $10,000, whereas Asher Gray, county engineer, had advised the county council that the work could be done for about $6,000.

The county hopes to interest local firms in installing the bridge. If no local firms bid low enough, the council will have to appropriate additional funds.

In accepting the contract for the new Blue River Bridge, the Liberty firm stated that it expected to begin work sometime next week. Weather permitting, the bridge would be completed in about 60 days. This would be about two weeks after classes begin at Columbia township school on September 6. School buses would be routed over State highway 9 to the school until the bridge is finished.

According to Raymond Eloph, county auditor, no local firms submitted bids on construction of the bridges.

2 Cars Sustain $250 Damages In Collision On Chauncey Street

Two cars received minor damage in a collision at about 3:10 p.m. Friday on Chauncey street just south of Van Buren street.

The accident occurred when June Joan Shively, 26, of R 4, backed from a parking space into the path of another automobile southbound on Chauncey street and being driven by Wilma Maurine McWhirt 33, of R 5, Marion.

About $100 estimated damage was caused to the rear fender tail light and trunk lid of the Shively car. An estimated $150 damage was caused to the right front fender and headlight and chrome of the McWhirt vehicle.

The Shively woman told city police that she did not see the McWhirt car approaching.

Psychiatrists Will Question 'Eerie' Suspect

Found Praying At The Grave Of Slain Girl

MIAMI (UP) — Police turned over to psychiatrists for questioning today an "eerie" suspect with "piercing, sunken eyes" who was found praying at the grave of a 7-year old victim of a sex fiend.

After gaunt, stammering Robert Brown, 31, was slated for the mental examination, police Friday night disproved his alibi that he was working as a bus boy the night little Judith Ann Roberts was kidnaped and slain.

Brown, who said he changed his name legally from "Raphael Machalich" because "I never had any luck," was arrested while praying in Mt. Nebo Cemetery Friday one year after the child's strangled body was found.

Judith Ann, blue-eyed daughter of a Baltimore attorney, was spirited from a living room couch while visiting her grandparents the night of July 6, 1954. Police said she was sexually attacked, strangled with a cord, and left dead at a lonely bayfront spot.

Detective Charles Sapp said Brown, found praying and copying the tombstone inscription, was

City Schools Fill 1955-56 Teaching Roster

Hendrickson And Lahr To Take Posts Here

With the securing of a high school speech teacher and a fifth grade teacher for West Ward School, the teaching roster for Columbia City schools is complete. This announcement was made today by E. E. Glenn, Superinendent of City Schools.

Horace W. Hendrickson will teach speech at Columbia City Joint High School in the fall. He received his bachelor's degree from Eastern Kentucky State Teachers College, and was graduated from Xavier University with the masters degree.

Hendrickson has taught at Mount Healthy High School in Cincinnati, Ohio, for the past 11 years. Prior to that he taught at Lancaster High School, Lancaster, Ky. During that time he instructed speech, dramatics, and English.

Cleatus Lahr, of Huntington, has been employed to teach the fifth grade at West Ward School. He attended Ball State Teachers College, Manchester College, and was graduated from Huntington College with the bachelor's degree.

Lahr has previously taught at Clear Creek and Huntington township schools in Huntington county.

According to Glenn, a complete list of teachers and their positions will be announced as soon as all positions have been assigned.

Humid Weather May Bow Out Of Northern Indiana

By UNITED PRESS

Hot humid weather was expected to bow out of northern Indiana Sunday, after a stand of more than a week, with high temperatures in the low 80s. Buut no relief was in sight for the rest of Hoosierland.

Meanwhile, the state will be partly cloudy, hot and humid today and tonight. The lower two-thirds will remain the same Sunday.

Highs today will range from 90 north to 95 south. Lows tonight will range from 65 to 75.

Thundershowers poured down .71 inch at Evansville, .55 at Rochester and .33 at South Bend Friday. Columbus got more than 1.50 inches in less than an hour. Highs ranged from 96 at Evansville to 90 at South Bend and Fort Wayne.

Lows early today ranged from 70 at Indianapolis to 75 at Evansville.

The outlook for Monday called for moderate temperatures in the north and warm and humid in the south.

The latest reported were VFW Post 5582, $5.00, George Miller, $3.00 and Lawrence Geissler, $2.00.

New Freedom Bid In Mill For Lobaugh

Serving Life Term For Murder

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. (UP)—A new bid for freedom was in the mill today for Ralph Lobaugh, 38, serving a life term in Indiana State Prison for the murder of three Fort Wayne women.

Lobaugh filed a writ of habeas corpus in circuit court at LaPorte it was learned Friday.

In a statement in October, 1947, Lobaugh confessed slaying Mrs. Dorothea Howard, Wilhelmina Haaga, and Anna Kuzeff. He was sentenced to die in the electric chair, but he won a commutation to life imprisonment in May, 1951 after former Gov. Henry Schricker granted him 11 reprieves.

The writ claimed Lobaugh made his confession under the influence of narcotics. Drugs were easily available to prisoners in Allen County jail at the time, he charged.

The petition also claimed Robert R. Bulber, Fort Wayne, Lobaugh's attorney at the time used "duress of mind" to force the confession.

Included was a statement from C. H. Fletcher of a fraud detection and prevention bureau in Chicago that "in my opinion Lobaugh did not murder" the women.

Franklin Click, who also confessed a part in the slayings, was executed in 1951 for the murder of another girl.

LaPorte Circuit Judge John J. Davie said he would wait until the Indiana attorney general is notified before deciding whether to grant a hearing on the writ.

Similar court action last December failed when a LaPorte judge ruled he had no jurisdiction.

Over Inch Of Rainfall During Short Cloudburst

Black rain clouds came down from the northeast at about 3:30 p.m. Friday, bringing one of the heaviest rains the area has experienced for a long while.

A short-lived high wind accompanied the rain and there were several trees blown down thoughout the county. No serious storm damage was reported, however.

One limb blown from a tree blocked traffic over East Van Buren street for several hours. The limb fell directly across the street just east of Whitley street. It was later removed by men from the State Highway Department.

Altogether 1.30 inches of rain fell within approximately one-half hour. At one time the skies were so black and the rain so heavy that vision was limited to about 50 yards.

Yesterday's rain was the fifth consecutive day of rainfall since July 4th. This month has already had 2.5 inches. During July, 1954, a total of 4.76 inches fell throughou tthe month.

Three From City Attend Journalism Institute July 10-23

Mike Platner, Bobbie Jean McKinney, and Sandra Metzger, all of Columbia City, are among the 265 high school pupils who will attend the ninth annual Indiana University High School Journalism Institute July 10—23.

The pupils will study all phases of high school publications under a staff of high school publications directors and members of the I.U. Department of Journalism faculty. The institute is directed by Miss Gretchen A. Kemp, associate professor of journalism.

The institute members will publish one edition of The Indiana Daily Student, campus newspaper, and will see productions of the I.U. Opera Workshop and the Brown County Playhouse. The two-week session will be concluded by the annual awards banquet.

Mike is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence A. Platner; Bobbie Jean is the daughter of Mrs. Marshall Wolfe, and Sandra is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phil O. Metzger.

Eugene C. Ness Gets Discharge From Marines

Eugene C. Ness, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ness of Richland township, was discharged July 2 from the U.S. Marine Corps.

His three-year term of duty included service in Korea and Formosa. He had the rank of sergeant.

He plans to farm with his father.

Blistering Heat Wave Goes Into Its 10th Day

Glimmer Of Relief Appears For Midwest

By UNITED PRESS

The blistering heat wave which has wilted the eastern two-thirds of the nation went into its 10h straight day today.

A glimmer of relief appeared in the Midwest where a cool front pushed eastward.

The weatherman cautioned that the front was not of the strong variety and might fizzle out.

The front settled in Illinois today after touching off squalls and storms as it pushed into the heated air.

The forecaster said the main benefit would probably be a lowering of humidity. Temperatures would still be in the 70s or 80s in the Midwest, they said, instead of the 90s.

In Chicago, the mercury climbed to 98, breaking the all-time high for July 9th and marking the Windy City's ninth straight day of above-90 temperatures.

At Grand Rapids, Mich., a sudden rainfall snapped the hot lead sheaths of telephone cables and knocked out 700 phones.

At Marion, Ind., a lightning bolt killed David D. Hines, 19 as he tried to roll up the windows of his car against a heavy rain.

Wisconsin counted 27 drownings in the last eight days.

A storm picked on the Janulewicz family near Loup City Neb. It ripped the roof off the home of Floyd A. Janulewicz in the town and then smashed a barn and a machine shed on a farm owned by Floyd's brother, Joe, two miles away.

The hot weather has resulted in walkouuts that have halted production at all Chrysler Corp. auto and truck plants in Detroit.

Early golfers at the Briargate Country Club in the Chicago suburb of Deerfield today got at least an appearance of winter from a sudden hail storm that coated the greens with white blankets up to almost two inches in depth, and speckled the fairways with white. But the temperature changed little, and a warm rain followed the hail storm to wash away all graces.

Had Won 8 Reprives From Electric Chair

For Holdup Slaying Of Messenger

SING SING PRISON, N.Y. (UP) —Three men who won eight reprives from the electric chair die tonight for the holdup slaying of a messenger employed by Reader's Digest.

The trio, known as the "Reader's Digest Killers," made a ninth attempt to avoid execution Friday but lost their appeal.

Warden Wilfred L. Denno said the executions will begin at 11 p.m. EDT.

Only an unlikely reprieve from Acting Gov. George DeLuca could save the men, Harry Stein, 56; Nathan Wissner, 49, and Calman Cooper, 47. De Luca said Friday night he had not been approahced by attorneys for the men but noted that Gov. Averell Harriman once before denied commutations of sentence for the men.

The men were sentenced to die for the April 3, 1950, slaying of the Reader's Digest messenger Andrew Petrini, 30 in a $4,900 payroll robbery near Chappaqua, N.Y.

Long Death-House Stay

Stein, Wissner and Cooper, all of New York, evaded the chair for four and one-half years, making their stay in the Sing Sing Death House the longest there in about 50 years.

But two associate justices of the Supreme Court, Hugo Black and Felix Frankfurter, decided Friday their time was up when an appeal for a further stay of execution was made.

Attorneys for the doomed men apparently gave up hope after being told of the refusal of Black and Frankfurter to stay the sentence.

"We both have come to the conclusion that the remedies of the defendants have been exhausted," the attorneys said.

Prison officials said the three, all of whom have long criminal records, received calmly the news that the Supreme Court had rejected their final attempt to keep out of the electric chair. Denno said the men merely nodded at the news and said quietly, "Thank you."

Coerced Into Confession

In their appeal to the justices, the men claimed they had new evidence that they were coerced into confessing the murder.

The convicted killers' residence in the Death House was the longest in the grim prison wing since Albert T. Patrick spent 4 years, 7 months and 15 days there around the turn of the century before his sentenced was commuted.

The Reader's Digest killers went to Sing Sing Dec. 26, 1950 and where put in the death house Feb. 11, 1951.

Celts Named Team Champion During Third Week At Camp Whitley, 88 Boys Attend

The third week of camping at Camp Whitley ended Sunday, and for the 88 boys there it was a week of fun and education.

A ping pong tourney was added to the special events for this week, but swimming took most of the campers' time as the water is now warm. During the second week of camp, Superintendent Edward Glenn, County Superintendent Harry Yoder, School Board President Bill Thomson, and Trustees Jay Crawford and Arthur Hilligoss visited the camp and ate lunch with the boys.

The Celts were the team champions of the week, having compiled the most points in the varied team contests. Members of the champion Celts were: Michael Sposeep, Michael Gribben, Arthur Marshall, Mike Reardon, Tom Reed, David Hartman, Jack F. DePew, Steve Yarian, John H. Vice, John Shanahan, Ken Stine, Tommy Mertz, Dennis Burnworth, Robert Havens, Duane Snyder, Fred E. Royer, Gary Robbins, Gary Metzger, Bill Lawler, Bob Leonard, Ralph Nelson, Robert Allen, Ralph E. Overfield.

Constant Observation Of Combine Proven A Saver Of Grain

LAFAYETTE, — Combining is more profitable when the operator is constantly observing and adjusting for different crop conditions, advises C. L. Hill, extension agricultural engineer at Purdue University.

Greatest losses from combines are observed behind those whose operators are not aware that mechanical adjustments are needed.

A leaky elevator or leaks in other parts of a machine, if unnoticed, can lose as much grain as one hundred pounds of fertilizer per acre can increase the yield, Hill declared. Cutterbar, straw rack and shoe loses which are exceptionally high, often go unnoticed for several days of harvesting.

Many Indiana combine operators increase "bushels in the bin" and prevent time consuming breakdowns by setting up a schedule to make checks on the machine's effiency, and operating condition. The most common schedule is to do preventive maintenance and lubrication while stopped for loading from combine to truck.

Losses from the machine and corrective steps to reduce those losses should be watched for when the combine is in operation, according to Hill. The operator should control the forward speed and height of cutting to feed the amount of material into the combine to correspond with its adjustment losses are kept low at the cutterbar by having the knife in good shape and the reel feeding the cut material onto the elevator evenly.

Cylinder speed should be reduced to where there is a minimum of breakage or chopping done on the straw, yet almost all of the grain is out of the head. This is the best insurance that rack and shoe losses will be kept low.

Since an overspeeded rack will carry over a big per cent of the yield, a revolution counter should be used to see that the straw rack speed is at the range recommended by the manufacturer.

Per cent of trash in the grain tank should be watched as well as the tailings return. Adjustments of sieve openings and wind direction boards are made to get maximum cleaning and separation of trash and grain.

To obtain the best results the operator must be constantly on his toes since the combine is one of the more complex farm machines. Additional information regarding operations may be obtained by writing to the office of agricultural publications at Purdue for the leaflet "Harvesting With Combines."

Thousands Of U.S. Servicemen Stationed At Lonely Outposts Get Big Boosts In Morale

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. (UP)—, Thousands of U.S. servicemen stationed at lonely military outposts are getting a big boost in morale these days by means of low-power television stations manufactured here and sold for as little as $35,000.

The stations are sold in "package" complete with everything except the electrical power which operates them. The packages include maintenance tools and every nut and bolt necessary to put stations in operation and maintain them for six months.

The manufacturer is the Dage Television Division of Thompson Products, Inc. Dage, headed by general manager James L. Lahey, not only is making the stations for the Armed Forces Television Network—which has 60,000 viewers at four out-posts—but also is trying to get the Federal Communications Commission to approve such installations for cities of less than 50,000.

"Morale" TV stations for the armed forces were an experiment begun in 1953 by the Strategic Air Command under the direction of Gen. Curtis LeMay. The first station was installed at Limestone, Maine, at Loring Air Force Base. It was made with RCA equipment.

Models Available

After that, the Department of Defense, Office of Armed Forces Information and Education, was given the responsibility of procuring equipment for additional stations. Lajes Field, Azores Islands, was chosen as the next location for a station, and Dage people worked with the Military Air Transport Group in compiling a list of equipment necessary for a low-cost, low power station.

When they had perfected such a station, they found they had a "package" which could be sold in three "styles" ranging in price up to about $52,000, complete with everything except the transmission tower. With the $34,000 station, you can broadcast film and network programs only. With a $6,000 station, you get one studio camera for "live" programming, The $52,000 "package" includes two cameras.

The Azores installation was made last October. In February, Dage sent another station to Iceland, and in April a third to Thule, Greenland. Others are being made for Dharhan and Saudi Arabia, and others are in the planning stage for Greenland, Okinawa, Bermuda, Puerto Rico and other points.

When Dage gets a station ready to go, the armed forces send for the men who will operate it at the place where it is to be installed. The enlisted personnel are sent to Dage's plant, where they go through a training course in operation with plant engineers and armed service experts as teachers.

Fly It to Site

Then the station is boxed and trucked to the nearest airport where a big cargo plane picks it up, along with the uniformed men who will operate it, and flies it to its destination. Within a few weeks, a Dage station goes on the air.

Its transmitter has only 200 watts peak visual power and 100 watts FM aural power. Thus, under normal conditions it has the effect of being a "closed circuit" sending station in that good reception is available only a few miles from the transmission point.

But that's just what the armed forces want—a station broadcasting FROM a military installation TO the oft-times lonely men stationed there who are far away from home and family.

"Its morale effects have become obvious almost instantly," a military spokesman commented. "At bases with TV outlets, cases of AWOL and serious incidents (such as accidents and fights) have decreased markedly, and cooperation with the chaplain has increased."

A breakdown of what goes into the Dage "package" looks like the annual inventory of a tool factory. It includes up to more than $7,000 worth of spare parts and tubes and a long list of miscellaneous accessory equipment.

Moved From Beech Grove

Lahey, an energetic young executive whose plant moved from Beech Grove, Ind., last year, believes the compact short-range station is the answer to the cry for more TV stations domestically.

"There can be no question," the firm said in a brief filed with the FCC last February, "but that the failure to take such a large percentage of the channels provided for in the Table of Assignments is due not to any lack of interest in or demand for television service but to the excessive costs of station construction and operation under current conditions in the smaller communities of the country."

"As will be shown, low power can bring about a substantial reduction in costs, both of construction and operation, and this can be accomplished without discarding the principle of independent station operation."

Dage believes also that colleges and universities which have television courses could expand their operations to include broadcasting if low-power Tv is authorized.

But the greatest benefactor thus far of the "package" stations are the servicemen.

"Live" talent from the outposts perform for their soldier or airmen buddies, giving the programs a localized flavor that makes a hit with the enlisted men.

Notice To Taxpayers

TO: The Taxpayers of Washington Township, Whitley County, Indiana.

You are hereby notified that at a meeting of the Trustee and Advisory Board of Washington Township, Whitley County, Indiana, held on the 24th day of May, 1955, a resolution was adopted providing for a plan whereby an accumulative fund be provided for the erection of a new school building and facilities for Washington School Township, by adopting a special tax levy of thirty-five (35) cents per hundred dollars on the assessed valuation of said township. Said tax levy to be for each year for a period of six (6) years by virtue of Chapter 57 of the Acts of the 84th General Assembly of the State of Indiana, approved February 27th, 1945.

A public hearing will be held at 7:00 o'clock P.M. C.S.T., on the 9th day of June, 1955, in the office of the Trustee of Washington Township, Whitley County, Indiana, for consideration of the proposed plan and special tax levy. All persons interested or effected by said proposed plan and tax levy will be heard at said time and place.

Dated this 25th day of May, 1955.

Assassination Of Newsman Points Up Serious Situation

By CHARLES M McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

The assassination of a French newspaper publisher in Morocco has brought into the open a new and dangerous aspect of the situation in French North Africa.

Publisher Jacques Lemaigre-Dubreuil was killed by a machine gunner recently as he came out of an office building in Casablanca.

Lemaigre-Dubreuil was not murdered by native terrorists, as so many frenchmen have been in Morocco, Tunisia and Algeria.

There seems to be no doubt that he was shot by a fellow Frenchman, an agent of those French settlers who are fighting to the bitter end against increased home rule for France's North Arican possessions.

Lemaigre-Dubreuil was one of the Frenchmen in North Africa who favor home rule.

A Serious View

These Frenchmen say that the natives must be given the greatest possible measure of self-government if Morocco, Tunisia and Algeria are not to go the way of Indochina.

Lemaigre-Dubreuil, who only recently had become the principal owner of the Casablanca newspaper Maroc-Presse, had received a number of threatening letters. Other Frenchmen who favor home rule have received similar letters.

The French government has taken an exceedingly serious view of Lemaigre-Dubreuil's assassination.

Some people in Paris hold that, in the long run, the most serious struggle in Morocco at least will not be that between the French and the natives but between Frenchmen themselves.

As soon as the news of Lemaigre - Dubreuil's murder reached Paris, the government sent Roger Wybot, chief of the French secret service, to take charge of the investigation into it.

Two Organized Groups

Wybot was ordered to investigate the French police force in Morocco as well as the murder itself.

There have been strong complaints, some of them by officials, that while Moroccan terrorists are punished drastically by French courts, French counter-terrorists who kill Moroccans escape punishment.

French Premier Edgar Faure presided Tuesday night at a cabinet meeting in Paris to consider the counter-terror situation.

There are two organized French groups in Morocco. "Presence Francaise" (French Presence) represents the anti-home rule settlers. "Conscience Francaise" (French Conscience) represents those elements who believe that home rule is essential.

The French government now believes that the anti-home rulers, or some group of them, have organized a definite terrorist group and that the machine gunner who ambushed Lemaigre-Dubreuil was a member of it.

Eisenhowers Leave For Geneva Friday

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower, accompanied by Mrs. Eisenhower, will leave for the Big Four meeting in Geneva next Friday night.

They will arrive in Geneva at 2 p.m. CST Saturday after a refueling stop in Iceland the White House announced today.

The President, according to tentative plans, will leave here next Friday at 8:30 p.m. CST in the Columbine III, the White House Super Constellation.

He also will be accompanied by a press and Secret Service plane. The chief executive plans to land the next day Juuly 16, at the U.S. Air Force base in Keflavik, Iceland, where he will remain for about two hours before flying on to Geneva.

The White House said it is conceivable that weather conditions next weekend might force the Columbine to take another route with a fuel stop in the Azores.

Reflectorized Plates Cost Is Too High

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) —Indiana officials today abandoned plans to reflectorize license plates next year because of high costs.

They said a plate covered with reflectorizing paint would cost up to 15 cents extra for the special paint.

Next year's full-size plates will carry a "drive safely" message.

Is Your Husband's Driving Costing Your Wardrobe?

By Betty Skelton, Dodge Test Driver

The way your husband drives his car to and from work may be costing you the price of seven extra hats each year — moderately priced ones, of course. Or maybe a dozen pairs of nylons could be yours for the price of the fuel the man in your family pours out of his car unnecessarily. Believe it or not, it's so!

If you could teach the head of your household to tread lightly on the accelerator and quit trying to beat his fellow car-drivers to the next stop sign, he'd save enough on gasoline to benefit your ready-to-wear department considerably! Streaking away from the stop lights downs the gallons faster than Davy Crockett downed Indians.

Miss Skelton

Besides, what's the hurry? So he gets away real fast and zooms down the street. He only comes up to the next corner with a screech of brakes as the light turns red. And with what results? Wear and tear on his tires, and a good bit of fuel lost—simply for the satisfaction of beating the next car on the getaway! Silly, isn't it?

Fumes Are Costly

And maddening, too, when you realize what you could have for all those gallons of gasoline lost in exhaust fumes! Save a gallon of gas a week, and you'll have enough for 39 pairs of socks for the kids next year. Or if you'd rather, treat yourself to a new dress.

If the tires squeal when the head of your family creeps around a corner, he might be able to save some dough by having more air put in them. He'll get less resistance to the road and more for his gas dollar when the tire pressure is kept fairly high.

If you and the man around your house are starting out on an all-day trip on the road, you'll pocket at least $5 if you can persuade him to cruise at 50 instead of 70. It'll be safer, too.

Sometimes it's hard to resist the temptation to floorboard the gas pedal, but three or four thousand pounds of automobile racing at 70 miles per is not only expensive, it's deadly!

It's Not Easy!

If you want to impress your husband (or some other member of your family) with the new hats, hose, etc., he can give you by watching the way he handles the gas pedal, remember—it isn't going to be easy.

Tell him you're going to teach him how to drive correctly, and the reaction will probably be, "You're going to teach me to drive properly?" (This despite the fact that he may have smacked into three telephone poles, two safety zones, and one milk wagon in the past few years, while you haven't so much as scratched the paint job with your fingernails.)

The moral of this is that you will get a negative reaction to any positive approach on the subject. Make it subtle. You know how to handle these matters with your better half better than I do.

If nothing else works, you have one ace up your sleeve. If he doesn't want to help keep the gas money from being "real gone" in order to get you those new hats or another new dress, you can always agree to let him use the money saved for that fishing equipment or new set of golf clubs he wants.

That ought to do it!

(If you have any questions or suggestions about cars and driving problems, Miss Skelton will be happy to receive them. Address her in care of this newspaper.)

Wastebasket Clue Sought By Police

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—Seen anything of a battleship gray fiber wastebasket lying around in a field?

If so, contact the Indiana State Police. If they can find that wastebasket they may get a good lead on the three bandits who got $13,390 in a holdup at a Henryville bank last week.

The wastebasket was picked up in the bank by one of the bandits and used to carry out the loot, which included 15,000 dimes and at least 120 silver dollars.

According to Lt. James Osborne, acting head of the investigation division of State Police headquarters here, a lead on the missing basket and the second car used by the bandits in their getaway might provide the tip to break the case.

Osborne asked used car dealers to report any trade-in deals involving a shiny black Plymouth or Dodge, 1942 or 1947 model, probably with Ohio license plates.

The three men sought include a six-footer with an "Italian" appearance wearing long-sleeved shirt which may be to hide tattoos; a short stocky companion who may be the leader of the gang, and a well-dressed six-footer, 40 to 45 years old, with "very black straight hair slicked back."

The slick-haired man didn't participate in the robbery at the Henryville branch of the New Washington State Bank last Friday afternoon. But, Osborne said, he drove the getaway car.

Osborne believed the men wasted no time disposing of the getaway car, probably trading it in for a new car financed with the bank loot.

He also believed the men threw away the wastebasket along a road or abandoned it in a tourist camp.

The trail of the bandits ended within a couple of miles of Henryville, where a car stolen in Jeffersonville was abandoned.

If the wastebasket were found 50 miles away, at least police would know what direction the bandits took in their flight.

Powell And Allyson Are Starting Most Ticklish Project

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Hollywood Writer

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Dick Powell and June Allyson are starting one of Hollywood's most ticklish projects: The re-make of that favorite screen classic, "It Happened One Night."

The Powells, as further denial of those recent separation rumors, are working together for the first time in their 10-year marriage.

The ex-crooner is producing and directing a musical version of the old picture, with June taking Claudette Colbert's role and Jack Lemmon in the old Clark Gable part.

Powell admits he'll have the fans of the 1934 version to answer to.

"If my picture's good they'll say I had a good picture to copy to begin with," he said. "If it's bad, they'll say, 'What's that idiot trying to prove?' "

The two most famous scenes of "It Happened One Night"—when Miss Colbert hitched a ride from Gable, and when they hung a "Walls of Jericho" blanket between their beds—will be kept in the musical version. Tunesmith Johnny Mercer is composing songs for those scenes.

But producer-director Powell is altering the story in other ways.

"In the original the heroine's rich father was a New York banker. That's kind of tired now. In my movie he's a cattle and oil man from Houston, Tex.," he explained.

"Then the bus ride in the old picture was from Miami to New York. But that scenery's been filmed before. I scouted locations in the South—took an actual bus ride—and our camera will show the route from Miami to Houston."

Some movie-makers try to cover up re-makes. But Powell bravely says he'd like "to spend all my life re-making those good old movies."

"They have a new audience today," he said.

"I ran 'It Happened One Night' the other day and it's great. Except acting styles have changed. Claudette was so coy and Gable talked as if he had glue in his teeth."

Powell's office in Columbia Studio is lined with candid photographs he's shot of his wife, a hobby that seems like a postman's walking holiday for both. The actor turned director has wanted "to work with my wife for some time."

"I was going to take the Gable part," he said as we inspected the still gallery. "But we decided it would be hard to separate 10 years of personal publicity about our marriage and try to be a romantic team."

Box Cars Roll Quicker With Lower Numbers

By ALFRED LEECH
United Press StaffCorrespondent

CHICAGO (UP) — The Chicago and North Western Railway has saved itself a lot of headaches and money by starting all over at No. 1 in numbering its new box cars.

Most of the railroad's rolling stock today bears five and six-digit numbers, the result of accumulation through the years.

So when the road ordered 625 new box cars a couple of years ago, President Paul Feucht specified that they be numbered from 1 to 625.

The use of fewer digits might seem a trivial matter. But consider this:

In a single month, the number of each car is written, typewritten, telegraphed, teletyled, recorded, tabulated and even televised hundreds of times.

The more digits, the greater chance for error and delay.

Like other roads, the North Western has so many thousands of cars on the move it has numerical nightmares. All the car numbers laid end to end probably would short circuit an electronic brain.

Each day the road must keep tabs on about 60,000 freight cars, including its own and those on loan from other railroads. Accurate records must be kept for many reasons, including the "per diem" factor.

It seems one road must pay another $2.40 per day for the use of a freight car on loan. And some cars seem to spend more time on other roads than on their own.

For example, the North Western's car No. 1, delivered by the manufacturer in October, 1953, left the North Western's system Aug. 4, 1954, and had not returned by March 21, 1955.

To keep track of such meanderings requires an accounting department with a battery of electronic tabulators consuming about 1,700,000 punch cards per month.

The hub of the North Western's freight service is the huge proviso yards, handling 6,000 to 7,000 or more cars per day.

A separate accounting setup at the yards records the flow, using newly installed business machines which have replaced the old hand ledger system.

But even so, railroad officials will admit it's possible to lose a freight car now and then.

'Atomic Age' Laboratory Done At Purdue

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UP)—Purdue University recently began a 2-day program marking completion of a $4,000,000 chemistry laboratory with the latest provisions for the atomic age.

The huge building, containing three million cubic feet of space, is one of the largest in the world devoted to the teaching of chemistry.

It is known as the Dr. Richard B. Wetherill Chemistry Laboratory, in memory of a Lafayette physician whose gift partially financed the structure.

The dedication program was timed to follow immediately a four-day national symposium on organic chemistry of the American Chemical Society on the Purdue campus, which 1,000 chemists attended.

Speeches and conducted tours through the building will mark today's and Friday's programs.

A unique radiochemistry laboratory in the basement of the building is lined with a plastic material which can be stripped off, destroyed and replaced within 2 hours in the event it is contaminated with radio-activity.

There is a special filtering system in an air conditioning plant which prevents radioactive particles from escaping to the outside, and a decontamination room.

Despite the precautions and equipment for the atomic age, the pre-atomic age has not been forgotten.

To guard against destruction by "old-fashioned" explosions, the building's room devoted to explosives is lined with armor plate one-half inch thick.

The building has 160,000 square feet of useable floor space. It's four stories tall and has an attic and basement.

Dr. Willard Libby of the Atomic Energy Commission originally was scheduled as a main speaker for the dedication but cancelled out.

A Nobel prize winner, Dr. Linus Pauling of the California Institute of Technology, will speak, also Dr. John C. Warner, president-elect of the American Chemical Society, and Dr. Max Tishler, vice president of Merck & Co.

Women Reverse 'Do-It-Yourself' Trend

By Betty Skelton, Dodge Test Driver

The hand that rocks the cradle is spending more time guiding the steering wheel these days! And those feminine hands are responsible for mechanical improvements that might never have developed if "do-it-yourself-loving" men did all the driving.

Were it not for the women, our cars today might well be coming in packaged kits that men could spend many happy hours assembling. The mechanically-inclined male delights in purchasing everything from boats to hi-fi record players packaged in do-it-yourself kits.

Miss Skelton

Typical is the man who buys a toy airplane "for his son." Does he go to a store to buy one? NO! He goes to a hobby shop, purchases a model airplane kit with hundreds of little pieces, and he enjoys every complicated minute of the hours required to assemble it.

Buys Package

But when she wants a cake for dinner, does a typical modern girl bother assembling sugar, salt, baking powder, etc.? No indeed; she buys her cake in a packaged mix—if she doesn't get it from a counter at the super-market.

The feminine trend toward the simple, uncomplicated way of doing things hurried improvements like the self-starter. Being tinkerers at heart, men never really objected to the crank-type starter. They rather enjoyed the mechanical operation of getting the engine to turn over. However, when the ladies, bless their hearts, took to the road, self-starters became standard equipment on cars.

Modern girls aren't mechanically trained or inclined. They don't want to spend time and energy on the mechanical operation of equipment. They want to push a button and let an automatic device dry the washing or scrub the dishes.

Consequently, today's 20 million feminine motorists may well take most of the credit for today's mechanical marvels that simplify driving a car.

Mechanical servants wait upon her from the moment she enters her car.

If she can't reach the foot pedals, a button at her fingertips sets into motion an automatic device that brings the car seat forward. Another button raises the seat to the proper level for her.

A simple motion starts the engine. The touch of a toe-tip to the accelerator puts an automatic transmission to work shifting gears.

Power Does the Work

When the feminine motorist approaches the first traffic light, a light touch of her dainty toe starts giant power brakes working. Effortless power steering takes the work out of parking and turning corners.

A tap of a button at her side, and the girl in the driver's seat can automatically raise or lower any window in the car. Another flick of her fingertip tunes in soft music on the car radio.

The adage that women's place is in the home is only partially true these days. And it's probably a good thing, too. Without the women starting to go places, the car might never [illegible] been popularized in the first place.

Who knows, maybe the first horseless carriage was invented simply because women didn't want to be bothered with hitching up Old Dobbin to the shay!

(If you have any questions or suggestions about cars and driving problems, Miss Skelton will be happy to receive them. Address her in care of this newspaper.)

STRANGE FRUIT—Two orange trees have been growing some 3000 feet underground in the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mine at Kellogg, Idaho. The larger tree is four feet high. Miner Herman Meier, shown examining it, discovered the trees growing from the rocky floor. As soon as they were strong enough they were transplanted to boxes of earth. Meier carries plant food down to them every day.

Customs Officials Report Imports

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—Customs officials Friday reported a total volume of $5,642,220 in imports at the Indiana port here for the fiscal year ending last month, a drop of more than one million dollars from the preceding year.

Eugene Okon, assistant collector of customs here, said the principal reasons for the drop were more liberal gift allowances and a decrease in liquor imports.

Until recently, gifts over $1 value were subject to duty, but the limit was changed to $10 Okon said.

The main reason for the drop in imports, he said, was the decrease in liquor imports, particularly from Canada, Europe liquor imports increased.

The drop in import volume was year's $7,119,085 volume.

Forgetful Guests Leave 'Everything' In Hotel Rooms

By ROBERT V. HUDSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) — Sometimes hotel guests leave false teeth behind in their rooms when they check out. Sometimes they leave real teeth.

They also leave chicks, toupees, pajamas, razor cords, diamonds, pocket books, money, suitcases, shoes and watches.

As Charles Watson, Marot Hotel manager, explained it:

"They leave everything."

Miss Mary Delaney, housekeeper at the Sheraton-Lincoln Hotel, once found six baby chicks on an outside window sill. A woman guest accidentally left them there during a visit to the state fair.

False teeth comparatively often are left behind, but Miss Delaney once found a real tooth.

Maids also have found razors, food, slippers and nightshirts.

Don't Seek Owners

The hotels keep careful records of the findings. The article is held from six months to indefinitely while the hotel management waits for the forgetful guest to claim it.

Generally, the hotel does not track down the guest. If management writes or telephones a man to notify him he left something, it might lead to trouble.

"Maybe the man shouldn't have been there at that time," Watson said.

Or the item might have been overlooked at first by the maid. It might have belonged to a previous guest, explained Bryan Carr, Claypool Hotel manager.

Carr estimated that about 25 per cent of the forgetful guests claim their belongings. Officials of other hotels said a majority of guests, particularly convention goers, claim their valuables.

A major problem is convincing guests they didn't leave articles when they insist they did. A man insisted to Carr that he left an old fashioned collar box in his hotel room. It couldn't be found, and Carr bet the guest $10 he left it at home. The guest mailed Carr a $10 check.

Sometimes losing and finding gets complicated. A former guest told Claypool officials he left an overcoat in his room. But Carr discovered the guest who next occupied the room took the overcoat.

Two weeks later, as the hotel was about to pay the first guest $100, the second registered again at the hotel. When guest No. 2 left he forgot his overcoat.

It belonged to guest No. 1.

Slugging Ernie Banks Is Making Wrigley Field Fans Forget Hitters Wilson And Sauer

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press Sports Writer

Slugging Ernie Banks of the Cubs, with a brand new home run record under his belt, is making Wrigley Field fans forget all about such other long ball hitting heroes as Hack Wilson and Hank Sauer.

The slender, 24-year-old Banks set a National League record for home runs by a shortstop when he blasted his 22nd and 23rd of the season Friday night to help the Cubs beat the Cardinals for the 11th time in 14 games this year, 6-4, in 11 innings.

Banks, who some Chicago officials say will be "as good a ballplayer, if not better, than Willie Mays some day," broke the old record of 22 homers set by Pittsburgh shortstop Glenn Wright in 1930. The feat is especially remarkable in that Banks still has practically half the season to add to his total.

Banks' second homer of the game came in the 11th after keystone partner Gene Baker had walked. The blow gave Harry Perkowski, fourth Chicago pitcher, his first victory of the campaign. Jim King and Sauer also homered for the Cubs while Stan Musial did likewise for the Cards.

Braves Sweep Doubleheader

In other National League games the Braves swept a twi-night twinbill from the Redlegs, 4-2 and 5-3, the Pirates beat the Phillies in a suspended game of May 29th, 11-5, but lost, 5-1, in a regularly scheduled contest, while the Dodgers defeated the Giants, 12-8.

Cleveland defeated Chicago, 1-0, in the American League, Detroit topped Kansas City, 11-8, in 11 innings, Baltimore halted Boston, 9-2, and New York defeated Washington, 3-0, in a game limited to six innings by rain.

Southpaw Warren Spahn scattered eight Cincinnati hits in the opener which was decided by Ed Mathews' 22nd homer with one on in the sixth inning, while Lew Burdete annexed the nightcap for the Braves with the aid of homers by Hank Aaron and Bobby Thomson. Gus Bell homered for the Redlegs.

In resuming their suspended game in the seventh inning, the Pirates scored three more runs while the Phils collected two. Max Surkont, who started the game on May 29th, finished it Friday night and was credited with his seventh victory. Surkont also started the regular nine-inning game afterward but was charged with the loss as Hern Wehmeier hurled a six-hitter to make his life - time record against Pittsburgh, 21-7.

The Dodgers wiped out a six-run deficit in beating the Giants and dropping them 17½ games behind the pace. Don Zimmer, Don Hoak and Gil Hodges each smashed homers for Brooklyn, Zimmer leading the Dodger attack with four hits and scoring what proved to be the winning run in the eighth with a display of heads-up baserunning. Alvin Dark and Hank Thompson homered for the losers.

Lemon Wins 12th

Bob Lemon became the first American League pitcher to win 12 games by beating the White Sox although he needed relief from Ray Narleski after working eight innings in 96-degree heat. Loser Billy Pierce gave up the only run of the game in the first inning on Al Smith's single, a sacrifice and a double by Al Rosen down the right field line.

Earl Torgeson's three-run homer in the 11th inning off Johnny Sain helped the Tigers to their victory after they had blown three leads. It marked Torgeson's second homer of the game and gave him a total of six runs batted in for the contest. Frank House, Al Kaline and Charlie Maxwell also homered for Detroit while Jim Finigan connected for Kansas City.

Baltimore snapped Boston's seven-game winning streak as Dave Philley drove in three of the Orioles' runs with a homer, double and a single. Gus Triandos also homered for Baltimore. Reliever Harry Dorish was the winner and Frank Sullivan, an All-Star game pitching candidate, the loser.

Rain came to the aid of the Yankees after the Senators had scored a run in the seventh inning and knocked out Byrne. But the game was called and the score reverted back to the sixth inning, so the Yankee southpaw was credited with a three-hit shutout. Yogi Berra drove in two of the winners' runs with an infield out and a sacrifice fly.

Fearless Fraley's Facts And Figures

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP) — Fearless Fraley's facts and figures:

Ed Furgol arrives home Sunday from his bitter trip to the British Open and he should be met with a brass band and a red carpet for voicing the opinions that so many American golfers have fearfully delivered "off the record" after their British invasions.

Furgol was extremely outspoken about poor treatment at the hands of the sacrosanct Royal and Ancient at St. Andrews. So much so that the U.S. Golf Association, still striving for its old school tie, has indicated that if the R & A takes any punitive action it possibly might follow suit.

The Hagen Myth

There is a myth that Walter Hagen broke the clubhouse ban at St. Andrews. This isn't so. If Hagen hadn't been a pal of the Duke of Windsor, then the Prince of Wales, he'd never have been permitted in the clubhouse. He went in as the Prince's personal guest.

All in all, the British give American competitors a bum deal. So, too, do the galleries. As Claude Harmon explains:

"I was playing in the British Open and hit what felt like a good shot to the green on a short hole with a blind green. There wasn't a sound."

Harmon walked up to the green, banked by the silent gallery, and his ball was three inches to the side of the cup. Harmon looked at the gallery and, in a loud voice, commented caustically:

"I must have pulled it a little."

— And isn't it about time the USGA stood on its own feet and supported our guys instead of condemning them even before they hear their side of the story?

Since 20-year-old Floyd Patterson bounced Archie McBride the big question seems to be whether he will grow into a heavyweight challenger. Actually, the former Olympic champion doesn't have to grow too much.

Patterson Still Growing

Patterson, sill growing, scaled a trim 171 when he stopped McBride — a man who is confident he can whip Archie Moore, heavyweight King Rocky Marciano's next foe. And Bob Fitzsimmons weighed only 167 when he won the heavyweight title..

Happy birthday: Sunday, Jake La Motta 34; Monday, Bobo Olson 27, Cecil Isbell 40, Tony Lavelli 29 and Milt Stock 62; Tuesday, Glen Dobbs 33 and Paul Runyan 47; Wednesday, Mickey Walker 5; Thursday, Claude Harmon 39 and A. B. (Happy) Chandler 57; Friday, Bruce Edwards 32...

Two race followers recently were discussing the great Man O'War when one asked:

"Who was Man O'War by?"

The other scratched his head and replied:

"I ain't sure, but any time I saw him run he was mostly by himself."

Thomson Credits Win To Rest, Not To Practice

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (UP) —Grinning, good - looking Peter Thomson of Australia today credited "plenty of rest," not practice, for his successful defense of the British Open golf championship.

The curly-haired, 25-year old Thomson, who set a tournament record score for the ancient St. Andrews course by winning the event with a 281 Friday, said he might not have done so well had he engaged in daily practice rounds before the tourney as so many of the other competitors did.

"I played the course last autumn and got to know it very well," he explained. "Consequently, when 'i came to St. Andrews a week ago, I got in as much rest as possible."

The contingent of U.S. players, all of whom were out practicing while Thomson was resting, didn't fare nearly as well as he did.

The five American survivors in Friday's final two rounds wound up far back in field of players and the majority of them were so fed up with the condition of the course that they vowed never to return to play in any future British Opens.

Ed Furgol, the Clayton, Mo., pro who won the U.S. Open in 1954, made the best showing of any American but his total of 292 only tied him for 19th place.

Not Going Back

"I'm not coming back," he said after finishing Friday. "There are too many good tournaments in the United States. The British title is not worth spending all that money."

Joe Conrad, the 25-year-old Air Force lieutenant from San Antonio Tex., earned some consolation for the U.S. forces by winning the medal for the lowest amateur. His 23 tied him for 22nd place in the overall standings, however.

Veteran Byron Nelson, the 43-year-old Texan recently returned to the golf wars, had a 72-hole total of 26 and Johnny Bulla of Pittsburgh soared to an 80 in the final round to finish with 298. The only other U.S. player who survived Thursday's cut in the original field of 94 was amateur Jimmy McHale of Wynnewood, Pa. He posted a 295.

Thomson put together steady rounds of 70 and 72 Friday to finish with the second lowest score in British Open history. His total was only two strokes higher than the record 279 shot by Bobby Locke of South Africa at Troon, Scotland, in 1950. No one in British Open history, however bettered Thomson's score during the 17 tournaments that were held here on St. Andrews' bunker-lined course.

Shares Win Streak

Thomson's triumph made him the fifth golfer since the turn of the century to win the crown two years running. Bobby Jones won it in 1926-27 and Walter Hagen the following two years. James Braid of England won in 1905 and again in 1906 while Locke captured the crown in 1949 and 1950.

Thomson won last year's title at Southport, England, with a score of 283.

His closest competitor for this year's title, which earned him 1,000 pounds sterling ($2,800) first prize money, was 42-year-old John Fallon of England, who was two strokes back with 283. Frank Jowle of England, who won the 36-hole qualifying medal, was third with 284 while Locke, a three-time winner of the tournament, finished fourth with 285.

Questions Regarding Hoosier Fishing Licenses Answered

Many inquiries have recently been received by the Indiana Department of Conservation regarding certain rules, regulations and laws concerning fishing licenses in Indiana.

It is unlawful to fish without license, except children under 18 years of age. Owners or tenants of farm land and their families living with them are exempt when fishing on their particular farm.

Of course a license is not necessary to fish in private ponds, quarries, gravel pits, etc., which have no inlet or outlet, however ,it would be embarrassing to be caught away from the pond or off the private property with fish and fishing equipment.

When fishing the Ohio river from the Indiana shore, an Indiana licence is required, however, if fishing from a boat, a Kentucky license is necessary.

Along the Wabash where it forms the boundry between Indiana and Illinois, a license from either state will be recognized. When fishing from an Indiana shore or pier on Lake Michigan an Indiana license is necessary.

Unlike many states, Indiana's non-resident fishing license costs little more than a resident license. A season non-resident license is only $3 while a fourteen day non-resident license may be bought for $2.

A woman can get a resident license for fishing Indiana waters for $1.

Girls Softball Tourney Scheduled

A local girls' softball tournament will be played here beginning July 18, according to Shirley Fahl, playground instructor. The tourney will continue with one game each night until the champion is decided. All games will begin promptly at 6:30.

Six girls' teams have been playing during this season, and the standings are as follows:

Lakers	8	0
Star	9	3
Eagles	7	3
Cardinals	3	7
Larwill	1	7
Daisies	0	10

In order to be eligible for tourney play, each team must have Seven players. Any girl who wants to play and is not on a team should contact Miss Fahl, phone 543-W, by Wednesday and be put on a team.

23,971 Jobless Claims Filed In State

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—The Indiana Employment Security Division released today figures showing 23,971 claims for jobless compensation were filed last week.

About 3,890 were from persons newly unemployed and the rest from those out of work a week or more.

The weekly figures have been running only about one-third of the volume this time last year, according to Director William C. Stalnaker.

Stalnaker added they probably will rise seasonally in the next few weeks as industrial plants close for vacations.

Flash Camera Tip

Ordinary flashlight cells are seldom suitable for flash guns. Photo flash batteries are made especially to deliver high amperage required by flash bulbs.

'Salmo-Super' Gives Angling New Twist

HAMBURG, Germany (UP) — Two inventors here have figured out a way to take all the fun out of fishing. It's an electronic fishing pole, about the most diabolic invention to come out of Germany since the V1 rocket.

You stick your pole into the water and press a button. All fish within a 10-foot radius stop in their tracks and swing around like compass needles pointing at the tip of your pole. All you have to do then is reach in with a net or your bare hands and pick them out.

Sportsmen already are shouting that there ought to be a law against it, and there probably will be.

But the inventors don't care. Herbert Preglow and Conradin Kreutzer said they didn't have lazy anglers in mind when they devised the "Salmo-Super," which is what they have christened their shocking brainchild.

"It's the same as if a hunter would go after deer with a machinegun," Preglow admitted. "Nevertheless, the Salmo-Super for the first time in history allows controlled fish-breeding and fish-farming."

The Salmo-Super, already patented in 12 countries, consists of an automobile battery, a vibrator and rectifier, two cables and a rod and copper blanket.

The blanket is thrown into a lake or river and forms a negative pole for the electric current. The rod is the positive end, or anode. When the current is turned on, the fish are atracted to the rod and their muscles are lamed by the electricity. They roll over on their sides and stay that way until the current is turned off.

Do-It-Yourself Task Enormous In Chicago Hotel

CHICAGO (UP)—Mrs. Margery Bellows is one of the world's businest housekeepers. Right now she's redecorating 1,000 rooms.

Mrs. Bellows, a buxom, brunette mother of two children is proprietor of the Shoreland, Chicago's fourth largest hotel.

She supervises all purchases and maintenance, runs the huge laundry in the basement, handles sales promotion and greets most of her guests personally.

"The personal touch is sadly lacking in most hotels," she said. "But when you try to provide it, you find yourself putting in 12 to 14 hours a day."

She and her husband bought the lakefront hotel about a year ago and found it needed a major face lifting. But instead of calling in an interior decorator, Mrs. Bellows decided to put her own deft color sense to work.

Bought For A Song

She's made the top floor of the 13-story hotel her personal attic, where she has stored lamps and other odds and ends, and bolt after bolt of material for bedspreads and draperies.

She took a key from a big ring and unlocked the double-barred door to a virtual treasure house of yard goods.

"Most of this I picked up for a song," she said, waving in the direction of a long table piled with bolts of rich material.

From another table she picked up a lamp.

"This would cost you $100 retail," she said. "I got it for $26. There was a small lamp company going out of business and I bought them out."

Most of the yard goods she bought from large houses that specialize in supplying interior decorators.

"I watch for thier sales and buy up odds and ends," she said. "Here's some material you'd pay $13 a yard for. I got it for $3 a yard."

Bride Wanted Pink

Next stop in the guided tour was the upholstery shop, where two men were refurnihing chairs with some of the bargain material.

"I've got a pretty good idea just where I'm going to put each chair," Mrs. Bellows said. "You've got to plan each room so the furniture will fit the color scheme."

She's already redone the grand ball room, several meeting rooms and the restaurant.

The ball room is a good illustration of her conception of service.

"I'd planned to paint it blue and white," she said. "But there was a big wedding scheduled, and the bride wanted pink, to match her color scheme.

"We didn't want a pink ballroom but we compromised and made it peach and white."

M'Lord Wanted To Perform TV Commercials

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Hollywood Writer

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—A pretty blonde singer came up today with an inspiration to improve American TV commercials—she wants to hire an English nobleman to deliver the pitch.

Vicki Benet seriously announced she will audition English lords and sirs for her new filmed musical TV show when she visit London on a singing tour next week.

"I can't stand some of the pressure methods used by American announcers on commercials," she said. "The so-called 'hard sell' actually is an anti-sell that defeats its purpose.

Will Add Dignity

"I want a true lord, a personable man who speaks well. He must come from a good family, be listed in Burke's Peerage and appear cultured. He'll act as master-of-ceremonies and do the commercials for my new show."

Vicki revealed this plan to give tone to American TV as she packed her bags in her luxurious apartment. The producer of her program, Jack Elliot of Benell Productions, paced after her to confirm he wants the English nobleman to "give prestige to her show." He admits he was impressed by the bearded Englishman who poses for gin-and-tonic ads in the American press.

"It's a different type of program, created for the discriminating, and we think he will add dignity," he said.

"The average American is impressed with an English accent and title and the savoir faire that goes with it.

"We're not going to make a fool out of this chap," he added. "We also produce filmed commercials for various companies and if he will do those he can earn $1,000 a week."

Opened A Tea Shop

Paris-born Vicki, who began her career only two years ago here in night clubs, will conduct the auditions for her titled announcer during her engagement at the Savoy Hotel in London.

"I'm told some nobility have opened their homes to tourists and one duchess is running a tea shop on her terrace, so I don't think it will be hard to find some one interested in TV," the shapely singer said.

How an English nobleman might do as an American TV pitchman was demonstrated last week on Steve Allen's "Tonight" show on NBC-TV. Peter Lawford played the role in striped trousers and tails for a skit. He softly called the audience "dear friends" and apologized for the intrusion. He also apologized for the sponsor. He wound up, in fact, suggesting that perhaps the product wasn't so good after all.

THREAT OF ARREST LIFTED—A ruling by the Massachusetts Supreme Court has lifted temporarily the threat of arrest from Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Ellis, Brookline, Mass., who are fighting to keep their 4-year-old foster daughter, Hildy. The Ellises are Jewish and Hildy was the child of an unwed Catholic mother. Under a state law barring interfaith adoptions, the couple were ordered to give up the girl they had raised since she was 10 days old. The Ellises and Hildy are shown before the court battle.

Here's How

by selling more goods to more people

MAKES YOUR JOB MORE SECURE

No matter what your job today, it depends on "good business." And someone has said that in the American business system, nothing can be accomplished until "something is sold."

You know the truth of this. Falling sales mean pay cuts, layoffs, fear. Increased sales mean better pay, promotions, more security in every job for every man.

Advertising is the low-cost, efficient way to sell goods. Advertising is the spark plug of business. So advertising, by selling goods, makes your job, your home, your income more secure!

Other Ways Advertising Helps You:

1. Brings you better goods for less money.
2. Makes shopping more pleasant and easier.
3. Has given us the world's highest standard of living.

Death Claims Mrs. Clara Jean Krider After Long Illness

First Become Ill In 1948

Mrs. Clara Jean Krider, 23, died at 4:20 this morning at the Whitley County Hospital where she has been a patient since February 23. Mrs. Krider first became ill in the summer of 1948, and in October of 1952 entered the hospital at the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., where the diagnosis of the local physicians was verified. It had been determined that she was suffering from a rare malady, Wilson's Disease.

While at Rochester she submitted to major surgery and recovered sufficiently to return to her home. On January 15 of this year she re-entered the Whitley County Hospital, and on the following day was rushed by ambulance and by plane from the Smith Airport, Fort Wayne, to Rochester, Minn., where major surgery was performed a second time to stop hemorrages. She returned to the local hospital February 23 where she has since been a patient.

Mrs. Krider was born in Jefferson township, October 14, 1931, a daughter of Henry and Joy Mosher Schrader. After graduating with the class of 1949 from the Jefferson Center high school, she was united in marriage on November 9, 1951, to Raymond Krider. They resided almost a year on North Main street, in Columbia City, and later moved to Jefferson township where they have since made their home. She was a member of the Oak Grove Church of God and the Mission Circle of the church.

The surviving relatives include her husband, Raymond; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schrader, Jefferson township; one sister Mrs. Merlin Hively, Thorncreek township; one brother, Delmor Eldon Schrader, at home; the paternal grandmother, Mrs. Nina Schrader, Jefferson twonship; the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Delmor Mosher, Brainerd, Minn., and the great-grandfather, Charles Reese, of Columbia township.

The body has been removed, to the Smith and Sons Funeral Home where friends may call after 7:30 o'clock this evening. At noon Monday, it will be taken to the Compton Oak Grove Church of God to lie in state until the hour of the service. The Rev. Hubert Miller, church pastor, will officiate at the rites to be held at 2 o'clock. Burial will be in the Compton Cemetery.

Besson Rites Held Thursday Morning

Prayer services were held at the J. A. DeMoney and Son Funeral Home Thursday morning followed by memorial services at the St. Church for Mrs. Mary Frances Besson.

The Rev. John J. Frawley officiated at the church services and the Rev. J. E. Larson, of the St. Joseph Catholic Church in Fort Wayne, officiated at the committal services which followed in the Catholic Cemetery in Fort Wayne.

Pallbearers were Thomas G. Piat, Robert Stanley, Harry Heintzelman, Thomas C. Piatt, Paul Shaw and Richard Vodde.

Release 300,000 Doses Of Salk Vaccine Friday

First Cleared Since June 6

WASHINGTON (UP)—The government released 300,000 doses of Salk polio vaccine Friday for immediate use in the nation's nearly-stalled mass inoculation program.

The shots, made by Wyeth Laboratories, were the first cleared by the Public Health Service since June 6 when a little more than one million shots made by the Eli Lilly Co. were approved.

Today's action means a total of 1,837,000 doses of vaccine have been released under rigid new safety standards put into effect May 26.

All told, about 10,837,000 shots have been released by the Health Service since the mass polio inoculation program began on April 12.

In addition to releasing the 300,000 shots today, the Health Service announced two major moves to insure continued safety of the vaccine and to improve it. The moves:

1. Assignment of six scientists to the vaccine manufacturers to "facilitate more rapid exchange of information" between government and industry scientists and to "strengthen the expanded research program" of government and industry.

2. Announcement of a tentative research program "aimed at discovering new knowledge immediately applicable to the further improvement of production and testing of poliomyelitis vaccine."

Three Former American Soldiers Who Want To Go Home Will Arrive At Border Tonight

By WENDELL S. MERICK
United Press Staff CorresPondent

HONG KONG (UP)—The British charge d'affaires in Peiping has been informed by the Chinese Red Cross that the three former American soldiers who want to go home now will arrive at the border at 1 p.m. Sunday (11 p.m. CST Saturday), the Hong Kong government announced.

The three men originally were scheduled to arrive here today. But the Communist Chinese announced that their release had been postponed because the men had not rceeived transit visas from the Hong Kong authorities.

British authorities moved quickly to puncture any possibility of the Reds making propaganda of the situation and sent formal assurances to Peiping that the three would be admitted to his British colony.

Tonight, an official announcement reported:

"The Hong Kong government has been informed by the British charge daffaires in Peiping that the Chinese Red Cross has stated that three Americans will arrive at the Sino-British border at 1300-1400 hours July 10."

Radio Peiping announced the postponement in a world wide broadcast in English Morse code at 3 a.m. (3 p.m. EDT Friday). The train on which the three men were expected to travel here from Canton usually arrives at the border at 1:20 p.m. (1:20 a.m. EDT).

GIs Granted Admission

This morning, the Kong Kong government held a special meeting to discuss the situation. Later, it issued an annoucement saying that the British charge d'affaires in Peiping "has been authorized to inform the Chinese Red Cross the three former members of the American armed forces...will be admitted to Hong Kong."

The three are William A. Cowart, 22, Dalton, Ga.; Otho G. Bell, 24, Olympia, Wash.; and Lewis W. Griggs, 23, Jacksonville, Tex. They were among 21 American soldiers captured by the Communists during the Korean War who refused repatriation.

"Formal authorization had not been previously given because of the necessity of consultation with authorities in London and Washington," the Hong Kong government announcement said.

The announcement did ot elaborate nor explain whether such "formal authorization" would clarify the situation and speed the release of the three men who have decided to risk prison in the United States to remaining in Red China.

The British Red Cross reported it received a cable from the Chinese Red Cross saying the men would not arrive in Hong Kong as scheduled today because they had not received the transit visas.

Waiting In Canton

The Chinese Red Cross said it would advise the British Red Cross when the men would be released. The three men were reported waiting in Canton, about 70 miles from here.

A Hong Kong government spokesman explained that the British embassy in Peiping had refused to issue visas to Hong Kong which would have permitted the men to go through the colony to the destination of their choice. At least one, Cowart, was reported at one time as stating a preference for Japan.

The spokesman said that this type of visa could not be granted because the men did not have valid travel documents. He said the British offered only conditional entry to Hong Kong inasmuch as the U.S. government had doubts about the exact status of the citizenship of the three dishonorably discharged soldiers.

Behind-Scene Notes From The Capitol

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer

WASHINGTON (UP)—Backstairs at the White House:

A recent guest, and President Eisenhower probably did not know it, was Gary Cooper.

Mr. Eisenhower was away on a recent Sunday and Cooper spent most of the day striding dramatically up and down West Executive Avenue while making scenes for his new movie about Billy Mitchel, the pioneer of the Air Force.

Several key Secret Service agents missing from Washington. They're in Europe making advance arrangements for Mr. Eisenhower's atendance at the Big Four meeting in Geneva.

Not only key men from Washington have been sent abroad, but some agents from other cities who had extensive World War II and postwar experience with European law enforcement problems.

Meantime, back at the White House the small staff that will accompany the President to Switzerland is nursing a collection of sore arms due to inoculations for the trip.

Tourists going to Europe require little more than a recent smallpox vaccination to get back into this country. But the White House conference personnel are receiving the full schedule of shots given troops going abroad.

The President was interrupted in a New England speech recently by the loud mooing of a heifer he was about to receive as a gift.

The crowd roared with delight because the previous speaker, Sen. Styles Bridges (R-NH) seemed quite nettled when he was interrupted by the same creature and in the same bovine manner.

The President joined in the laughter.

"You see," he said. "I think that is fine. After all, it is New Hampshire talking."

Interesting items from "The Great American Heritage" Bela Kornitzer's new book (Farrar, Straus and Cudahy) on the five Eisenhower brothers:

Four of the five brothers, including the President have given up smoking. Earl of La Grange, Ill., and Charleroi, Pa., is the remaining smoker.

The President's mother and father permitted no whiskey in their house except one small botle for medicinal purposes. And this bottle, according o Earl, lasted at least 20 years.

Arthur, the Kansas City, Mo., banker, told Kornitzer, "I think I'm probably the only brother that doesn't belong to a church. That doesn't mean that I haven't got mother's religion in my soul."

Washington's Oddities Brought To Attention

WASHINGTON (UP)—Some odd things about Washington.

For one thing, some 2,000 rented dress suits, dinner coats, and cutaways are in constant circulation in the capital.

This business is better in the winter. But in the summer, some senators and congressmen, who are not used to dressing for an evening out, rent the summer suits. A white coat, black pants, and a soft shirt with studs, and shoes and even a phony carnation for the buttonhole if necessary. The price per coat, shoes or collar runs for whatever the traffic will bear. A coat, may be $5 for the evening, returned in the morning. A whole suit double that price. With the flower pitched in if you return it in the morning with coat, pants, and studs.

Time was around town when three outfits rented evening dresses for government gals, and also the ladies of Congress.

No Takers So Far

All three went out of business. It seems that the gals would run down to the rent people, try on the pretty gowns, and run home and think it over. A lot of them had been trained in the needle; thread and sewing-machine business, and many of them went straight to a dry goods store, bought a bolt of frilly stuff and showed up at a party with a duplicate of whatever looked good at the rental.

Back to the men—one of the renters has in stock, for instance, pink shorties, like they wear in Britain, with Navy blue coats to match and flashy sport shirts. All for $13.50 for a weekend. There have been no congressional takers on this deal so far.

I got a lot of other information from Eleanor Early. The lovely Eleanor is an old hand at research on such business in the capital and other cities.

One of Eleanor's favorite stories is one about the Folger Shakesperean Library, located near the Supreme Court and Library of Congress. There rest the corsets of Elizabeth 1.

Grow To Voting Age

Miss Early dug up the fact that Henry Clay Folger, who founded the library, learned that the corsets of the queen who served during Shakespeare's time were on sale at auction.

Folger dispatched a cable call, made a bid and before he knew it, he had a bunch of rare corsets on his hands.

And for a long time, they were right out in the open. As of now, though, they are underground — down in the basement of the library with other relics.

Every year the capital entertains some half million kids. All of them frisky, but someday to grow to voting age. There is pressure from the hill to be nice to all the young. They have pillow fights in hotels. That is a nuisance to the hotels. The Willard Hotel, for one, has started using foam pillows. The same hotel has started to weld room numbers on the doors. Some kids bring along their own screw drivers to take home a souvenir if room numbers aren't welded on.

HELD DUAL ROLE—Adolphe H. Wenzell, left, Boston investment banker, and his attorney, Arthur Dean, turn over documents as Wenzell appeared to be quizzed by the Senate Monopoly subcommittee in Washington on his dual role in the Dixon-Yates contract negotiations. The subcommittee has already received evidence that Wenzell advised Dixon-Yates at the same time he was serving as a Budget Bureau consultant on the matter.

Custom Officials

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) —While perspiring with fellow Hoosiers, customs officials here are receiving imports for Christmas business.

Thousands of dollars worth of wool sweaters, Christmas toys and tree ornaments came here while the mercury rested in the 90s. More are expected, Assistant customs Collector Eugene Okon said.

One Indianapolis department store received sweaters valued at more than $17,000 wholesale from Switzerland and Scotland.

For immediate use, Okon said as he loosened his tie and rolled up his sleeves," "we've even got electrical heating tapes from England for a Terre Haute outfit."

Behavior Control May Cause More Fear Than Ease

NEW YORK (UP)—In seeking to give comfort to unscientific people who are aghast over the possibilities in scientific "behavior control," Prof. B. F. Skinner of Harvard may have scared them even more than the ywere.

"We are entering the age of the chemical control of human behavior," he said, and then predicted the development of pills which will make fearless heroes of any and all soldiers whether or not they wish to be heroic.

"Our government would probably not hesitate to use a drug which taken by servicemen before combat, would eliminate all signs of fear, thus depriving the individual of the protective reflexes which man has acquired through a long process of evolution," he said in a lecture at the New York Academy of Sciences.

Whether we like it or not, he continued, "in the not-too-distant future, the motivational and emotional conditions of normal daily life will probably be maintained in any desired state through the use of drugs."

But as long as there have been men, there have been controls over their behavior — for instance the control exercised by "the bully,' or "cajolery, seduction, incitement, and the various forms of what biographers call 'influence.' "

Produce "Counter-Controls"

However, controls have always produced "counter-controls" until now when the controls are becoming more and more subtle, he said that people interested in the continued "freedom" of man—within those limits in which it is possible for him to be free — would be better advised to encourage the scientific "analysis of controlling practices" instead of befogging "our understanding of the need for counter-control."

He described three methods of behavior control:

(1) "Emotional conditioning." Example: "Advertising which shows a product being used by or otherwise associated with pretty girls or admired public figures. The controllee is not likely to revolt against such control, and he may carry the resulting prejudices contentedly to his grave."

(2) "Motivational control." Example: "The deliberate design of art and literate (as in movies and 'comics') to appeal to people with sadistic tendencies is easily detected, but the subtlte design of an automobile so that riding in it is in some measure a sexual experience is not so easily spotted. Neither practice may meet any objection from the people so controlled."

A Classical Pattern

(3) "Positive reinforcement." Here "wages, bribes, and tips suggest a classical pattern." But "better ways of using reinforcement in shaping up new behavior and in maintaining the condition called interest, or enthusiasm, have been recently discovered. The reinforcing effect of personal attention and affection is coming to be better understood."

He said it was easy but also useless "to object to the control of human behavior by applying the slogans of democracy." People who do so forget that the democratic revolution freed men "from autocratic rulers employing techniques based upon force or the threat of force.

"It does not follow that men were thus freed of all control, and it is precisely the other forms of control which we must now learn to contain."

asked if he was observing the anniversary of her death. Brown promptly corrected the officers, saying that Judith Ann died on July 6, Sapp said.

In broken, and frequently cryptic phrases, Sapp said, Brown denied killing the child, and said he was working at the Riviera Country Club at nearby Coral Gables, but club records showed it was his night off from his job as dishwasher.

Sapp described Brown, now an odd-jobs man who travels by bicycle, as "an eerie character with piercing, sunken eyes— emaciated." He said Brown's neat, well furnished room contained stacks of horror comic books, diaries and sheets of paper scribbled with phrases:

"Juvenile — harm — the avenger — Judy — rape — suffer — crime — teacher — principal — punishment."

"A perfect crime is impossible."

Sapp said Brown also appeared to have a "mania" for rope. He said investigators were trying to match one of the many specimens of rope, cord and twine in the room with a piece of Ventian blind cord used to strangle Judith Ann.

He said one rope found was tied in a square knot— the kind used in Judith Ann's noose.

Brown admitted knowing Judith Ann from having followed newspaper accounts of her death and the investigation but denied having watched her home, police said. Sapp said newspaper clippings about Judith Ann were found in his room.

Brown's arrest resulted from a tip that he was asking the location of Judith Ann's grave.

Russell Will Push Military Reserve Plan

Despite Opposition By Secretary Wilson

By UNITED PRESS

Chairman Richard B. Russell of the Senate Armed Services Committee said today he would not be deterred from pushing his voluntary military reserve plan despite opposition by Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson.

Under Russell's proposal, veterans would not be forced to participate in the reserves. But they would be given a $400 bonus for voluteering for three years in the combat reserve of the Army and Marine Corps.

In a letter to Russell, Wilson urged the committee to accept the administration plan of making reserve service compulsory for all servicemen. He said the compulsory provision is necessary to insure a "hard core" of experienced trained personnel needed for the reserves.

But Russell said, "I think I have got the best plan." He said his mind is not closed on his plan and that he may withdraw it if defense officials can show that it would "cause a breakdown or be destructive of the reserve."

The House already has adopted in modified form the administration plan which requires a toatl of five years active and reserve duty for all serviecmen.

Other congressional news:

Dixon-Yates: A special Senate monopoly subcommitte eprepared to make public a report prepared by investment banker Adolphe B. Wenzell on the Tenessee Valley Authority while he was a government consultant. Democrats said it would show that Wenzell helped formulate President Eisenhower's public power policy. The report suggester a Dixon-Yates-like arrangement for supplementing TVA power production which the administration later adopted. Democrats have charged that at the same time Wenzell was advising the government, he was also advising the group behind the Dixon-Yates project.

Highways: Rep. Tom Steed (D-Okla) predicted the House Public Works Committee will approve a multi-billio ndollar highway program to be financed in part by a penny hike in the gasoline tax and increased taxes on truck fuel and tires ,and trucks, buses and trailers. A nine-man subcommittee recommended the tax plan Friday as a substitute for President Eisenhower's proposal to finance the highway program through bonds.

Defense Production: Sen. Homer E. Capehart, ranking Republican on the Senate Banking Committee, said he will get the administration's views this weekend on a proposal to limit the authority of government "dollar-a-year" men. He wants to find out wether the proposal will hurt the defense production program. If so, he hay try to strike the limitation from a pending Senate bill to extend the Defense Production Act for two years. The proposal would forbid "dollar-a-year" men to hold major policy or administrative posts except in time of war or national emergency.

White: Rep. F. Edward Hebert (D-La) defended Brig. Gen. W. W. White's right to draw pay from an oil company fo rwhich he formerly worked. White is staff director of petroleum logistics in the Defense Department. He told a House subcommittee Friday he is drawning money from Esso Export Corp. Hebert said this is perfectly legal.

Delegates: A House judiciary subcommittee has voted to permit former presidents to serve as non-voting "delegates" to the Senate. Ex-Presidents would have all privileges on the floor but could not vote.

Barry: The House Un-American Activities Committee will question Walter Barry of New York City next Wednesday about his alleged Communist activities. Last December, the committee described Barry, former associate editor of the March of Labor, as "an identified member of the Communist Party."

Argentine Government Takes Over Damaged Roman Catholic Church

BUENOS AIRES (UP) — The Argentine government today over the protests of churuchmen, took possession of two Roman Catholic churches damaged in the June 6 revolutuion and said they would be rebuilt and protected by the state as national shrines.

The government move was the latest in a 48-hour resurgence of tension between the government and church auuthorities.

Government officials said today that leaders of Sunday's anti-government Catholic riot in Plaza de Mayo will be charged and tried for violation of state security.

Some 60 persons were arrested in Sunday's outbreak which followed 11 oclock mass.

Police used fire hoses, clubs and chemicals mixed with water and a brown dye to break up the demonstrators who massed in front of Government House shouting anti-government and anti-Peron slogans.

Churches seized today were San Francisco and Santo Domingo.

Catholic sources predicted that two others, Our Lady of Mercy and St. Ignatius, also would be taken over by the government.

All four were damaged by fire which President Juan D. Peron charged were set by Communists taking advantage of the situation arising from the revolt.

A wild demonstration by Roman Catholics Sunday was the first outburst since the bloody June 16 revolution of navy and air force officers. It brought the state-church rift back into the open after a period of comparative quiet.

The Roman Catholic hierarchy was reported to have condemned the uprising in the Plaza de Mayo. Santiago Luis Cardinal Copello, archbishop of Buenos Aires, expressed disapproval.

2-Year-Old Iowa Girl Disappears From Bedroom

While Parents Watch Television

SIOUX CVITY, Iowa (UP) A 2-year-old girl disappeared from her bedroom while her parents watched television in another room Sunday night. Police said today she apparently was kidnaped.

The child, a little blue-eyed blonde, in Donna Sue Davis, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Davis. The father is a railroad clerk. He said the youngster was clothed in pink pajamas.

Neighbors reported a man had been seen loitering in the neighborhood a short time before the girl disappeared. The only description of him was that he was wearing a white T-shirt and khaki trousers.

Police said a neighbor of the Davis family had called police at 9:37 p.m. to report he had spotted a man in an alley "with stolen goods. But before police arrived, the man eluded the neighbor. The call to police from the Davis parents was clocked at 10:06 p.m. Davis said no notes had been received and no attempt made to contact him or his wife.

Pierceton Native Dies Sunday In Washington D.C.

Guy Mason, 74, native of Pierceton, soldier, lawyer, newspaper man and commissioner of District of Columbia from 1941 to 1954, died Sunday of a heart ailment at his home, 4545 Connecticut Ave., Washington D.C.

He enlisted for Spanish American War duty and after re-enlistment spent two years in the Phillipines. He went to Washington D. C. in 1904 and attended school nights and was reporter on the Washington Post and later the New York World. He later practiced law until his appointment as commissioner of the District of Columbia in 1941.

Mr. Mason married Louise U. Burges, who survives with a daughter, Mrs. Humphrey Hartnsberger and two grandchildren.

Tentative funeral plans are for Thursday with burial in Arlington cemetery.

Turncoats Head Home To Face Consequences Rather Than Continue To Live In Red "Hell"

HONG KONG (UP)—Three turncoat American ex - GIs headed home today to face the consequences of their actions rather than continue to live under the "hell" of Communism.

The trio came out of Communist China Sunday and were scheduled to sail for the United States aboard the liner President Cleveland at midnight (11 a.m. EDT). They are due in San Francisco July 29.

The three who came back to the free world saying that "death is better than Communism" were William A. Cowart, 22, of Dalton, Ga.; Lewis W. Griggs, 22, of Jacksonville, Tex.; and Otho G. Bell, 24, of Hillsboro, Miss.

All were former soldiers dishonorably discharged from the U.S. Army when they embraced Communism and refused repatriation at Panmunjom after having been taken prisoner by the Reds in the Korean War.

They had worked for a time on a state farm and then in an agricultural implements factory in Red China before changing their minds about Communism and asking to be returned to their own country.

When they crossed the border into Hong Kong Sunday they seemed happy and cheerful. They were "prohibitive immigrants" until it had been determined by the U.S. consulate that they had not given up their American citizenship.

Third Class Passage

The American consulate paid for their passage and hotel room here, but the three turncoats signed promissory notes to repay the money when they could. Their accommodations aboard ship were third class.

During a press conference Sunday night the three gave what they claimed were their reasons for refusing repatriation. All claimed they were disappointed at what they found in Red China.

Cowart said it would "take several volumes" to tell what happened in Communist China. When asked why he had decided to stay in Red China, he replied: "A child decided not to come home; a man decided to go home."

He said he had "never accepted

Fined For Speeding In Motor Boat

Richard G. Pribbernow, Fort Wayne, was fined $10 and costs, amounting to $25, this morning in city court after being arrested July 3 for operating a motor boat on Shriner Lake over 10 miles per hour.

State conservation officers made the arrest and charged the man with exceeding the speed limit.

Dedicate United States Air Force Academy

Turn Dream Into Reality

DENVER (UP)—Top Air Force officials turn their fondest dream into reality today when they dedicate the United States Air Force Academy at 7 p.m. EDT.

Gen. Nathan Twining, Air Force chief of staff, and Air Secretary Harold Talbott will dedicate the new academy at its interim site on Lowry Air Force Base here. Then, the first class of 306-hand-picked cadets will be sworn in by Col. Robert Stillwell, commandant of cadets, while planes of the Strategic Air Command and the crack Air Force "Thunderbirds" perform an aerial salute.

Twining, who arrived here Sunday with his wife and Gen. Carl Spaatz, ret., emphasized that the academy would not improve the caliber of Air Force officer material. "Its already good" he said, "But the academy will give them more specialized training."

He said the recent Soviet display of airpower over Moscow "didnt frighten the United States, but it showed Russian plane production was farther ahead than we realized."

Talbott was accompanied by Maj. Gen. Ralph Royce, ret., when he arrived Sunday. Royce commanded the first squadron of U.S. planes in France during World War I.

Included also among the early arrivals was Mrs. Henry H. Arnold, widow of General (Hap) Arnold, considered the father of the modern U.S. Air Force.

In addition, attaches from 47 foreign countries and many Air Force and other dignitaries were to be on hand for the dedication.

The temporary site consisting of 60 buildings at a cost of one million dollars, will be used until 1957 when the 126 million dollar permanent site north of Colorado Springs will be ready.

8 New Home Permits Issued In 1½ Months

Commissioner Approves 12 Other Structures Since His Appointment

New home construction in Columbia City continues to grow as indicated by the type of building permits issued in the month and one-half since the appointment of a commissioner.

Of the twenty permits issued during that period, eight have been for erection of new homes, according to Richard Holden, city building commissioner.

Six of the permits for new dwellings were issued in the past two weeks. They were to J. Dean Hart, owner of the Columbia City Motel, U. S. 30 west, for building of a home and additional motel units; Harold C. Murphy, 104 Hilltop Drive, for building a new house at 103 Hilltop; and four new homes to be built on two acres south of Old U.S. 30 purchased from Charles Thomson, by Ronald E. Krider, 302 East Jefferson street, Alvin E. Durfey, 316 West Market street, Walter R. Wineland, Cromwell, and Douglas H. McGehe, 304 North Main street.

The latter four will be prefabricated homes built by Wineland. Five of the eight permits for homes have been for the prefabricated type. The fifth such home was recently built for George Woodring on East Van Buren street.

Other permits issued by the commissioner the last two weeks were to Berlin Foster, 401 East Jackson street, for enclosing a porch an dDewey W. Gowdy, 404 North Elm street, for a new garage.

The total of other types of permits issued in the month and one-half period was new garages 5, structural alterations, such as the addition of new bedrooms, porches, etc. 5, new fronts for business establishments 2, and drive-in eating establishment 1. Fifteen of the permits issued thus far have been for building or alteration of structures within the city limits while five were for the two-mile jurisdictional area, Holden said.

Two County 4-H Members Attending Conservation Camp

Two Whitley county 4-H'ers will attend the 20th Annual State 4-H Conservation Camp near Versailles this week, Harold Buckenmeyer, assistant county agent here, reported today.

Jon Pontizus and Hugo Martz, both of Thorncreek township, were selected by Mr. Buckenmeyer on the basis of their outstanding work in 4-H conservation to attend the camp. The sons of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pontizus and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Martz left this morning for the camp, which will be held at 4-H Conservation Camp at Hassmer Hill near Versailles. Mr. Pontzius drove the boys to Versailles.

While attending the camp the boys will study soils, forestry, entomology, and wild life. Three Purdue professors will lecture on forestry, soils, and entomology, and the camp director will be in charge of the wild life discussions.

Glen Sears, Noble county soil conservationist, is the assistant camp director. The local boys are among 116 boys from 63 Indiana counties at the camp. They will return Friday.

Army, Air Force Search For Pilot

FRANKFURT, Germany (UP)—The U.S. Army and Air Force put 600 men, four helicopters and a communications plane into an intensive search for an American jet pilot missing since two Sabre Jets collided in flight today.

The two 12th Air Force planes collided at about 25,000 feet at 3:20 a.m. First Lt. James R. Matthews, of Springfield, Colo. parachuted to safety. The wreckage of the second plane was found south of here, but the pilot was not in it.

Fire In Truck Causes No Serious Damage Saturday Evening

Serious fire damage was prevented to a pick-up truck Saturday evening when a fire in the vehicle's carburetor was brought under control.

The flash fire occurred when the owner of the truck from Anderson poured gasoline into the carbuetor to prime it. The vehicle had run out of gas on State Highway 9, just north of North street, and the Anderson man had gone to the Trimmer Service Station to purchase the gas. The fire occurred about 9 p.m.

City firemen were called to the scene to prevent the fire from spreading.

Indiana Youth Kills Father With Shotgun

Climax Of Two-Day Quarrel

JEFFERSONVILLE Ind. (UP)—James Henry McMahel, 17 Jeffersonville, killed his father with a shotgun blast at their home Sunday as the climax of a two-day quarrel, authorities said today.

Clark County Sheriff James Plaskett, quoted the McMahel youth as saying he fired as his father advanced toward him with a rock in his hand. McMahel said his father had been drinking heavily.

James Franklin McMahel, 42, was killed outright by a shot in the chest, Plaskett said. His son was held in Clark County Jail pending a coroners inquest this week. No charges were filed.

Mrs. Irma McMahel confirmed her son's story.

Plaskett said the youth told authorities his father became enraged Saturday when the boy was painting a cabin cruiser in the yard of their home just outside the city limits.

McMahel said his father entered the house and began quarrelling with Mrs. McMahel. The youth Mrs. McMahel, and her 3-year-old child went to the nearby home of her sister, Mrs. Elva Knowland.

Plaskett reported the youth telephoned home that night after a date. McMahel asked his mother if he should come home and she said yes.

The youth told Plaskett that before going to bed he put a shotgun and three shells near his bed. His mother awakened him shortly after 9 a.m. Sunday and said, "Daddy is having another fit," the youth said.

The McMahel youth took his shotgun and shells to the car. He and his mother tried to drive away but the elder McMahel stood in front of the car with a rock in his hand, Plaskett said.

Mrs. McMahel and her son got out of the car and the father threw rocks at them, McMahel related. When the father advanced toward them, the youth fired, he said.

Selective Service Act To Be Tested

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. (UP) —A Vermont mother, accused of advising youths to dodge the draft, went on trial in U.S. District Court today, determined to make a test case of the Selective Service Act.

Federal Judge Ernest A. Gibson presided at the trial of Mrs. Lucille S. Miller, 44, mother of three children, who claims peacetime military conscription is unconstitutional.

Mrs. Miller and her nusband Manuel 46, held off federal marshals who wanted to remove Mrs. Miller to a mental hospital last May. Tear gas was used to rout the rifle-slinging Millers from their Bethel home in which they had barricaded themselves for 12 hours. She later was declared sane and capable of defending herself against the draft charge.

The Robert Gibsons Parents Of Daughter

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gibson, of R 5, are the parents of a second daughter, Cheryl Louise, born Saturday at the Whitley County Hospital.

Mrs. Gibson is the former Gloria Watson.

Iowa Farmers, Newsmen Gather In Washington

U. S. Officials Will Brief Them On Protocol

WASHINGTON (UP) — Four Iowa farmers and the newsmen who first suggested they exchange visits with Russian farmers gathered in Washington today with the rest of the 12-man delegation that will take a close look at Soviet agriculture.

But before the unofficial American delegation leaves this couuntry for Moscow, U.S. officials will brief them in Washington today and Tuesday with a whirlwind schedule of conferences and talks on protocol.

The group includes Lauren K. Soth, editorial page editor of the Des Moines Register and Tribune, and writer of the original editorial that set off the idea for exchange delegations.

Soth had said he wrote the article after he learned Russian party leaders were publicly bemoaning the agricultural situation in the USSR.

"I figured the logical answer would be to propose that they come here and see how "the experts do it in Iowa," Soth said.

His editorial also suggested this country send observers to Russia. The 14-man Russian delegation is due to arrive here July 17 for a 13-day visit of Iowa.

Ralph Olsen, Ellsworth, Iowa said he estimates the trip will cost him $3,000 out of his own pocket but added "it will be worth it.

Olsen 54, who farms 980 acres and specializes in feeding an average of 600 to 800 cattle and hogs a year, said hes cuurious to see how modern Russian agriculture is.

"I don't know how much they will let us see, he said, "but I hope it may be a start toward better understanding between our two countries.

Olsen is chairman of the Iowa Institute of Co-operators, a group that promises co-ops through education, and is on the advisory board of deans at Iowa State College where he was graduated in 1923.

The group leaves Washington for New York at 12 noon CST Tuesday to board a plane for London that will arrive Wednesday noon. In London the group has a one-day stopover before climbing aboard a Pan American Airways plane for Helsinki, Finland. At noon Friday the delegation takes off in a Aeroslot Airlines plane for Moscow, where it arrives at 7:35 p.m. CST Friday.

Harry Cramer Looking For Owner Of 7 Stray Sheep At His Farm

Harry Cramer, R 3, is looking for the owner of seven sheep which wandered onto his farm last week.

Cramer said the animals' owner can claim them by paying for the damage done to his corn and wheat fields.

He said three of the animals arrived about Tuesday of last week. About Friday, several others wandered into his fields. He chased about twenty of them away, but seven of them have remained and he penned them up.

Sheriff Galen Adair has attempted to find the owner of the sheep. However, no one in the vicinity of the Cramer farm is missing any of the animals.

As near as he could tell "the lost sheep" are three ewes and four lambs.

Cramer's farm is located on the Loon Lake road north of Columbia City.

The Whitley County Fox Hunters Association will meet at the clubhouse at 8:00 p.m. Tuesday.

Jack Binkleys Are Parents Of Daughter Born Sunday Morning

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Binkley of Seymour, Mo., became parents of their first child, a daughter born Sunday morning at St. John's hospital in Springfield, Mo. The child has been given the name Angie Sue.

She weighed seven pounds and 12 ounces. Mr. Binkley is a sergeant in the Army Air Corps and is stationed at Fordland Air Base, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Binkley of this city.

The mother is the former Carole Gregg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Randall Gregg of North Oak street, who will leave Saturday for Seymour to spend two weeks.

Russell's Bonus Incentive Plan Gains Support

Would Replace Compulsory Training Of Reserve Program

By UNITED PRESS

A proposal to replace the compulsory training provisions of the administration's military reserve program with a voluntary, bonus-incentive plan gained support today in the armed services committee.

The plan was proposed by Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga) chairman of the committee.

Sen. Francis Case (R-SD) and Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss), committee members, both endorsed the Russell plan as a fairer way to build up the reserves.

Assistant Defense Secretary Carter L. Burges, who has been in charge of drafting and pushing the reserve plan through Congress, headed a platoon of defense officials called to testify before the committee.

They will explain the case for a strengthened reserve plan and the Defense Departments position on the Russell proposal. Burges expresed doubt over the weekend that the Russell proposal would insure that the reserves get the type and numbers of trained men they need.

Russell's plan calls for a $400 bonus to every discharged serviceman who volunteers for three years of training in the combat reserves of the Army and Marine Corps.

The administration plan, approved in modified form by the House, would compel servicemen to participate in the reserves following completion of active duty.

Hundreds Of Halt And Lame Come To Cover Selves With Dirt From Radioactive Pond

COMANCHE, Tex. (UP) — The halt and the lame came by the hundreds today to the ranch of Jesse F. Reese to cover themselves, at a cost of more than a dollar an hour, with dirt from a mildly radio-active pond he has.

Reese, 52, a farmer, is making $200 or $300 a day from sick persons who hope to get some benefit from dust the Atomic Energy Commission won't bother with. He lives 12 miles from Comanche at the end of a dusty, mesquite-covered road called "Uranium Avenue."

The sign was put up, he said, by Mrs. Fred Hall, a neighbor, who got tired of visitors asking her where his farm is. Reese now has three buildings on his 260 - acre ranch where persons with arthritis, rheumatism, spasmatic colon, headaches, sinus and cancer sit from morning until late at night.

Their feet are covered with dust by an attendant. They can bury their hands in a box of dust in their lap. For those with neck and head ailments, there are socks full of dust which they can drape around their necks or across their skulls.

Reese will not say that this will help them at all.

Sign A Statement

In fact, before he will let them sit down, he makes them sign a statement that they are visiting his ranch voluntarily, that they assume full responsibility for the "treatment," that nobody has asked them to come to the farm and nobody has promised them that they will be helped by the dust.

Nevertheless, people flocked to Reese's place and the number is growing every day. He charges each visitor $2 for burying his hands and feet an hour-and-a-half. He said experts have advised him that this is about as long as the visitors should cover their hands and feet with the dust.

Reese estimates 5,000 or 6,000 persons have visited the ranch since one day in 1953 when a man from Washington state knocked at his door and asked whether he could sit in his pond.

According to Reese, uranium hunters flew over his place in a plane three or four years ago and noted some radioactivity.

"I found out about it," he said, "and got me a geiger counter. It worked a little. I had had phlebitis —a big open sore on my leg—for 15 years," he said.

Completely Well Now

"I noticed it was getting better. It's completely well now. I don't know what cured it anymore than the man in the moon, but I had been on crutches part of the time and in bed part of the time."

Reese said he didn't start to charge until about half of the total number who have visited the ranch had paid him a call. After he started charging for the privilege, his business continued to grow.

"If business continues to increase, he said, "I'll increase my facilities. What we want to do with it (the money) is build a boy's ranch. The Lord gave it to us and we're going to give it back to him," he said.

Four Deaths In Hoosierland Due To Drowning

Two Hammond Teachers Killed In Auto Accident

By UNITED PRESS

Indiana's weekend traffic fatality toll climbed to at least seven today with the unexpected death of a 17-year-old boy four hours after a wreck in which he apparently was not hurt critically.

John Richard McCampbell, Marshall, died in Culver Hospital at Crawfordsville this morning. State Police said he lost control or dozed Sunday night while drivinng on Ind. 34 near Crawfordsville. Physicians believed his life was in no danger, but he died in the early morning hours.

Besides the traffic deaths, four persons drowned in Hoosierland. Mark P. Anderson, 52, professor at the Purdue University Extension Center in Hammond and his wife, Esther, 48, a teacher in the Hammond city school system were killed Sunday night in a three-car collision. Two were injured when a car driven by Gary Cortier 22, Hammond, caused the wreck by running a stop sign, State Police said.

Jhon Contadeluci, 24, Fort Wayne, was killed Sunday when the car in which he rode left Ind. 427 at the north edge of Fort Wayne struck two utility poles and turned over several times. Robert Golden, 20, Fort Wayne, was arrested on a reckless driving charge. He and Jerry A. Miller 20, Huntertown, were hospitalized with injuries.

James M. Durham, 54 Zionsville was killed when a car and Condemnation And Sympathy Await Three Turncoat GIs

By UNITED PRESS

Sympathy—and some condemnation—from their families and neighbors today awaited three turncoat GIs.

The general attitude was best summed up by Elbert Bell, father of turncoat Otho Bell, who said his son should be "given a fair chance but added:

"If the Communistic tendencies still are part of his life, then the government should step in and do something.

The government is considering stiff legal action against the former Korean War prisoners who stepped to freedom.

The GIs, William A. Cowart, 22, Dalton, Ga. Lawis W. Griggs, 22, Neches, Tex. and Bell, 24, Hillsboro, Miss., told newsmen they were willing to go to jail to pay for their mistakes."

But their greatest trial may be the reaction of the families and friends they grew up with.

Some rallied to their sides when the news of their release was announced.

In Dalton, Cowart was promised his old job back by J.F. Calloway Jr., part owner of the garment plant where he worked before he quit high school.

In Olympia, Wash., where she has lived since Bell became a prisoner Mrs. Jewell Bell anxiously awaited her husbands return.

"I still love him," Mrs. Bell said.

In Jacksonville, Tex., Griggs' mother, widowed since he became a prisoner, said the family farm is waiting unplowed for him to work.

On the other side, the commander of the Mississippi American Legion called on members to turn their backs on Bell.

Bell made his bed, said Commander Woodley Carr. "Let him sleep in it.

Scientists Warn H-Bomb War Might End Human Race

By KENNETH MILLER
United Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON (UP)—Albert Einstein, who helped father the atomic bomb, posthumously joined seven renowned scientists today in warning the world to renounce war or die.

"The best authorities are unanimous in saying that a war with H-bombs might quite possibly put an end to the human race," the appeal said.

"It is feared that if many H-bombs are used there will be universal death . . . the men who know are most gloomy.

"Here, then, is the problem which we present to you, stark and dreadful, the inescapable: Shall we put an end to the human race: Or shall mankind renounce war?"

Lord Bertrand Russell, who said Einstein and the six other signatory scientists joined him in agreeing something "dramatic" had to be done to jolt the world into realizing the danger, released the statement at a news conference with more than 100 newsmen at London's Caxton Hall today.

Government Heads Receive Copies

Simultaneously Russell announced copies had been sent to the heads of government of the United States, Soviet Russia, Britain, France, Canada and Communist China with an invitation to those leaders to make a "public expression" on it.

Prohibition of nuclear weapons will bring only "illusory" security to mankind, the statement said. "Whatever agreement not to use H-bombs had been reached in time of peace, they would no longer be considered binding in time of war."

The human race stands "in imminent danger of perishing agonizingly" unless the governments of the world "find peaceful means for the settlement of all matters of dispute between them."

Agnes, The Female Alligator, Fails To Attract "Creature"

PONTIAC, Mich. (UP) — The failure of Agnes, a female alligator to attract a creature from two nearby lakes today convinced shoreline residents the creature was no ordinary alligator.

Agnes spent a lonely night with her master along the moonlit shores of Lower Long and Island lakes Sunday night with the job of enticing the creature, described as a seven-foot alligator, from its hiding place.

Her owner, Tuffy Truesdell a Sarnia, Ont., alligator wrestler said he hoped Agnes' charms might lure the creature to a spot where he could grapple with it. But the creature stayed out of sight.

Nobody blamed Agnes for her failure. Others had failed before her.

Ever since 5-year-old Danny Singleton first spotted the creature about a month ago all efforts to capture it have failed.

Danny came about as close as anyone that first morning when he loaded his cork gun and fired out the kitchen window of his familys Lower Long Lake home.

His mother, Mrs. William Singleton, first laughed when Danny told her he had just shot an alligator but she changed her tune when she spotted the creature herself.

Since then the creature has been spotted by several persons. All agree it looks like an alligator even if it isnt one.

Woman Charged With Murder Of Two Young Sons

Gary Mother Says She Couldn't Give Them Proper Care

GARY, Ind. (UP) — Murder charges were prepared today against Mrs. Eloise Gillard, 21, who told police she strangled her two young sons because she "couldn't give them proper care.

Police said Sunday the womna led them to a secluded spot on Gary's west edge and showed them the bodies of her boys, James, 6, and Ernest 4 lying in a weed patch. Strips of cloth were still knotted about their necks.

Police quoted Mrs. Gillard as saying she drove the boys to the spot Saturday talked to them about the improper food, clothing and attention they were getting and told them she was "going to do something about it."

She said she put the boys in the back seat, strangled them, and left their bodies along the road, police reported.

Mrs. Gillard said she returned home after driving arouund aimlessly for a while. She told her husband and he called police.

She was expected to appear in Lake Criminal Court today to answer a murder charge.

Obey God's Laws

Lesson for July 17, 1955

LAWS are of various kinds. Some laws are arbitrary, some are made by the nature of things, or rather express the nature of things. To take an example of an arbitrary law: What is the fine, where you live, for exceeding the speed limit or for parking in the wrong place? Let's say it is ten dollars for going too fast, and three for illegal parking. If the alderman, or whoever it was that made the law, should decide next Tuesday to change those fines to fifteen and four dollars, respectively, they would have a right to do it. There is nothing in the nature of things that makes parking on the north side of Main Street wrong, and nothing that makes three dollars the exact amount to charge the offender, practical though it may be.

Dr. Foreman

Some Laws Cannot Be Broken

There are other laws which are not on the statute books but are much more rigid, and rigidly enforced, than regulations about parking or school attendance. We some times call these laws of nature; but they are really laws of God. There is no law printed in a book anywhere that says that if a person neglects the care of his teeth he will get a toothache; but that is a law nevertheless. It is, so to speak, written into the physical constitution of every man. There is a higher sort of law still, called Moral Law, which is likewise rooted in the nature of things. Examples of moral laws: To every man belongs his due; whatever a man soweth, that shall he also reap; hate and you will be hated, love and you will be loved. Such laws can be disregarded; they are disregarded every day; but they cannot be broken. They are not at all like arbitrary laws. There is a ghost town where parking spaces can still be seen marked on the pavement. But you can leave your car there now for a month and never get a ticket. The town government has just folded up and gone away. But God never folds up nor goes away. There is a corner in a city where once a left turn was permitted; now it is against the law. The traffic department changed its mind. But God does not change his mind.

How Nations Break Laws

Now, every nation, every community, every club or organization of people, has the right to make up its own constitution and by-laws, its rules, ordinances, regulations, laws and statues. And it has the right to change these. Most nations, however, do not like to admit that there are laws which bind them. They do not like to feel that there are unchanging and unchangeable laws which govern them and all nations. Nevertheless there are such laws, laws of God; and nations have been broken for trying to break them. Consider the case of the country of Judah. Prophets had been warning that country, its leaders and its people, for years, that disobedience would bring disaster. Ezekiel, whose book makes fascinating though often puzzling reading, did make one thing quite plain: that Judah's sins had reached the breaking-point, that God's axe would fall, that Jerusalem would be destroyed. Scarcely any one believed him. But when Jerusalem actually and finally fell, then "they knew that a prophet had been among them."

Crime and Punishment

What were some of the divine laws, rooted in the nature of things, which Judah as a nation had been breaking? We can name the two most important: Love and Justice. The nation lived by hate, fear, distrust and selfishness. As a nation, they hated other nations. They tried to build a little iron curtain around themselves. They would not trust other nations and they would not keep treaties they had made themselves. They let down their moral standards to the point where the typical Judah-ite (to judge from the pictures the prophets paint) was loose in his relations with women, undependable and dishonest in his business dealings, irreligious even in his "religious" acts, irresponsible in his civic duties . . . you can fill out the discouraging list from the pages of Ezekiel, or other prophets. You cannot build a good country with bad citizens, that is another law that cannot be broken, though Judah tried hard enough to break it. When disaster finally struck, the citizens were astonished; but God's prophets were not.

Ike Moves From Faint Hope To Confidence That Something Solid Will Come At Geneva

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower has moved far in three months from faint hope to cautious confidence that something solid will come of next week's Geneva meeting at the summit.

As recently as mid-spring, Mr. Eisenhower opposed the meeting. Then Prime Minister Winston Churchill was pressing for it again with a British general election coming up. The only crackling issue British Socialists could raise against Churchill's Conservatives was a demand that the Big Four heads of state meet quickly in search of peace.

The French government was under like popular pressure for a spectacular international effort to ease Western Europe's dread of atomic war.

Former President Truman got his fill of summit conferences at Potsdam as the war in the West ended in 1955. Thereafter he cheerfully offered to meet the late Josef Stalin anytime the Communist boss would come to Washington. Mr. Eisenhower was less severe.

Wanted Deeds, Not Words

He always said he was willing to go anywhere anytime in search of peace. But in March and early April, the President thought the time had not come. He wanted deeds, not words, in proof of Russian good faith. On March 23, in response to Churchill's urgings, the President said there was no more than "faint hope" that something valuable would come of a meeting with the new men in charge of the Kremlin.

At the most, Mr. Eisenhower was thinking then in terms of a meeting of foreign ministers which might lead in time to the meeting of the heads of state which Churchill so much desired. The British in mid-April called their election for May 26.

By May 10, Mr. Eisenhower had been convinced, and the British-American-French invitation went forward to Moscow proposing a Big Four meeting at the summit.

"There nas been a growing sentiment throughout the world that some good might come from such a conference," Mr. Eisenhower told his news conference the next day. "Such a meeting would probably result in at least some clarification of the air."

Faint Praise At Best

That was faint praise, at best. There is nothing in that language to show that the President agreed with world sentiment that the Big Four should now meet. On the contrary, Mr. Eisenhower made it fair to believe he agreed to the meeting more to appease Western European public sentiment than for any other reason.

That was especially true of the British public. Announcement of the Big Four invitation destroyed any hope the British Socialists may have had of turning the Conservatives out. The President would not weep if his legitimate policy decisions helped his old friend, Sir Winston Churchill and tripped up a political party commited to Socialism, an "ism" for which Mr. Eisenhower does not care.

That's how the United States got into the act. The situation has changed. Mr. Eisenhower is optimistic. Now he says "there obviously has been some change" in the Kremlin's attitude which could "have a fine effect on the entire situation."

Chances Are Better

Recently he said: "I personally believe from what I learned in San Francisco, (at the United Nations anniversary) and through my talks, that the chances were better than I thought they were three months ago."

That is a long way from the "faint hope" of last March. Not all of the State Department experts go along with the President. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles seemed to be more hopeful than the President was last March, and now to see a somewhat less rosy situation than the one visioned by his boss.

The President and his party take off next Friday for Geneva to learn the hard and only way what the intentions of the Soviet Union really are. Perhaps in the back of the President's mind is the awesome thought that here lies a chance to rise even higher than in his wartime crusade in Europe.

Hoosiers Get Reprieve From Heat, Humidity

By UNITED PRESS

Hoosier got relief today from days of high humidity and searing heat. Forecasters dished up generally fair and pleasant weather for Indiana today, tonight and Tuesday.

The reprieve from nearly 10 days of temperatures in the high 90s and thundershowers which sent the humidity skyrocketing came with a cool front Saturday, the Weather Bureau said.

Cooler air is moving from western Canada across the Midwest to the southeast, but maximum sunhine through the clear skies will keep the mercury ranging from 85 north to 90 south at high points today. Highs will be about the same Tuesday, except for a two-degree warm-up in the north.

The Weather Bureau said it expected the front to have passed by Wednesday night or Thursday with a resulting increase in humidity. The outlook for Wednesday was partly cloudy and continued warm.

Before the cool air dropped the mercury Satuurday with thundershowers up to an inch in some places, the high hit 97 at Evansville. So far this year, Fort Wayne has had the warmest high in the state with 101 the Fourth of July.

Indianapolis registered the high Sunday with 92. South Bend was coolest with 87.

Lows tonight will range from 65 to 70. Lows early today ranged from 63 at South Bend and Fort Wayne to 74 at Evansville.

Around The World: Around The Clock!

NEW YORK (UP) —Police held a 63-year-old man without bail today and charged him with strangling his "nagging 56-year-old bride to death while she screamed for help in a telephone call to his sister.

Monte J. Samuels was arraigned Sunday before Felony Court Magistrate Edward Chapman.

Police said Samuels became enraged when his wife, Mary, ordered him to leave their apartment. Samuels, who had been married once before, became her third husband last January.

Police charged that Samuels, a power press operator, choked his wife to death as she telephoned his sister in Brooklyn and screamed for help.

ABOARD THE S.S. BRAZIL (UP) — Frances Cardinal Spellman, en route by ship to the 36th International Eucharistic Congress in Rio De Janeiro, celebrated Mass in the crews quarters Sunday.

The Cardinal talked with each man, inquired about his home and family, and then distributed medals bearing the Cardinals coat of arms. He invited all the men to attend the congress beginning next Saturday.

WASHINGTON (UP) — Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore) said he would introduuce a bill today to give women in government service the same benefits as men.

In a prepared statement, Morse said "there is a curious inequality (between men and women) in the Civil Service Retirement Act."

He said the surviving children of male government employes are entitled to receive annuity payments based upon the government srvice of their deceased parent. But, he said, there are no such benefits based upon the surviving children of female government employes.

"This inequality in law was brought to my attention, Morse said, "by a woman who is employed in the federal government in Portland, Ore."

Seven Democrats and one Republican, all members of the Senate Committee on Post Office and Civil Service, joined with Morse in co-sponsoring the legislation.

NEW YORK (UP) —The National Association of Manufacturers suggested today that employers use "bold a ndingenious' action to provide steadier work and pay for industrial employes rather than the "so-called guaranteed annual wage."

A booklet issued today by the NAM lists more than 100 "resultful ideas and practical techniques" as a guide for eliminating the "sharp peaks and valleys of employment that have traditionally been considered normal in business operations."

NAM President Henry G. Riter III said the booklet called "Toward Steadier Work and Pay," reflects managements profound concern over the desire of employes for regular work and pay.

Riter said the MAMs educational program was started before unions launched their campaign for the "so-called guaranteed annual wage."

Among the successful techniques for providing steady pay, Riter said, are product diversification, altered production schedules and more scientific marketing methods.

CAIRO Egypt (UP) — Police reported today that 64 French Foreign Legionnaires deserted ship in the Suez Canal. They were en route to Morocco from Indochina.

This was the second such desertion. Last week 71 legionnaires left a troop ship from St. Valery.

SANTIAGO, Chile (UP) —Negotiations for new contracts for railway, postal and telegraph workers were to begin today under a threat of more stoppages if the workers demands are not met.

The workers agreed during the weekend to end their nine-day strike when the government promised to accept most of their wage demands. Some 60,000 government employes were involved. President Carlos Ibanez insisted the workers return to work before formal negotiations began.

LONDON (UP) —A husky-voiced English songstress denied reports today of a romance with Aly Khan ex-husband of actress Rita Hayworth.

Tilda Lee, 25, back in London from a Paris singing engagement, admitted Aly insisted she sing "C'est Magnifique" six times at a Paris party. But she said there is "positively no romance."

Glamour, says Webster, is "magic; a spell or charm." That beauty magic is just what every female aims for when dressing up for a date with her favorite beau. With femininity as the keynote, she plans her ensemble to be eye-catching and lovely.

IT'S A DATE

Clothes for dance dates should have an ethereal gracefulness about them. Tulle, net, lace, marquisette and organdy are among the suitable fabrics for waltz-time dresses. Tiny evening bags of velvet, moiré and lamé, in matching tones; slippers or sandals in satin, dyed to match the gown, or in gold or silver kid for contrast, are appropriate accessories. As a wrap, the stole has been stealing the show for evening wear as well as for afternoon frocks. Flowing stoles express glamour, so naturally they are perfect for evening apparel. And you can easily make one for yourself! Just make a date with your crochet hook and a hairpin lace-staple and see.

DO-IT-YOURSELF WITH HAIRPIN LACE

Fashion is at your fingertips when you're making hairpin lace. The lace, worked in delicate strips, is a stylish example of the do-it-yourself trend. Thread is looped around a hairpin lace staple and caught in the center with a crochet hook to make each dainty stitch. The prettiest of wardrobe accessories can be fashioned in this way.

HAIRPIN LACE STOLE

This romantic, scalloped-edge stole is a stunning example of the loveliness of hairpin lace. In silver and white, a new metallic and cotton thread combination, this shoulder charmer will add sheer magic to dance dresses and prom gowns. At 21 x 69 inches, it effects a graceful drape. Full instructions for making the starry stole may be obtained from the Needlework Department of this paper. Simply send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for Leaflet No. 114.23.

Class Of 1911 Holds First Reunion Sunday Afternoon, 29 Members Renew Friendships

The Class of 1911 of Columbia City high school held its first reunion Sunday afternoon at the 4-H Community Center. Of the original 40 members, 29 attended. Five of the class members are deceased. They are Roscoe Bush, Lura Cook, Henrietta Meyer Ravdin, Edith Sanders, and John Q. Adams. Mark Rhoads, now Indianauolis attorney, read the dinner prayer, which was sent and requested by Rev. Grover Chapman, associate pastor of Travis Park Methodist church, San Antonio, Texas.

The picnic dinner attested the fact that the Class of 1911 not only provided its share of politicians, ministers, teachers, and business people, but a lot of super cooks. A tray of Florida fruit sent by Mrs. Daisy Smith Kurtz was enjoyed by all.

Name cards, tied with class colors of royal purple and old gold proved convenient in several cases where Father Time changed appearances slightly. Keller Beeson, of the Purdue agriculture department, was voted "the most changed in 44 years".

Mrs. Amelia L. Travelbee was in charge of the afternoon program and business meeting. The class voted to hold reunions every two years hereafter and re-elected this year's officers, Thos. H. Hood and Mrs. Travelbee.

From Longest Distance

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Jackson, of Dunedin, Florida, came the longest distance and were presented the novelty prize of an ash tray (the kind made of a new tire). Letters from absent members were read and addresses taken to renew many old friendships.

Herbert Ihrig, of Laud, who was the only teacher present, gave an enjoyable talk, recalling many humorous incidences. Each of the members then responded with a few words of experiences after 14 years. Mrs. Grossman, who has been caring for her sister, Mrs. Ihrig was a guest.

Two other teachers of this class who could not attend but who sent letters were Harold Chapman, Rockville, Indiana, and Jesse D. Knight, San Diego, California.

Those attending from a distance were: Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Clay and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Clay, of Detroit; Mark Rhoads, Indianapolis; Mr. and Mrs. Perl Lawrence, Spencerville; Mr. and Mrs. Homer Jackson, Dunedin, Florida; Mrs. Lele Miner, Bowling Green, Ohio; Keller Beeson, Lafayette.

Others present were: Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Grant, South Whitley; Herbert Ihrig, Laud; and from this city were Hazel Allen, Mr. and Mrs. George Windle, Mrs. Hessie Hively, Mrs. Rhua Osborn, Ralph Gates, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. H. Hood, Heber Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Boggs, and Mrs. John Travelbee.

The class extended its tribute to John Q. Adams, editor of the newspaper, who had helped plan this reunion but died Thursday afternoon. In respect for his memory, the class members attended the funeral services Sunday afternoon in a body. All extend their deepest sympathy to his wife, Hester Adams, for the loss which she and our community have sustained.

Submitted by Amelia Travelbee, Class secretary.

Conference May Settle Fate Of Dixon-Yates Contract

WASHINGTON (UP) — Mayor Frank Tobey of Memphis, Tenn., scheduled a conference today with Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. that may settle the fate of the Dixon-Yates power contract.

President Eisenhower who has ordered a restudy of the controversial contract has said he will cancel it if the city of Memphis can and will build its own power plant.

"The meeting with the attorney general is an attempt to get it all settled once and for all," Tobey said.

He held out hope that he and his power board chairman, Maj. Thomas H. Allen who flew here with him, will convince Washington officials of the practicability of their plans.

Tobey said it was possible that he might accompany Brownell to the White House to see President Eisenhower after his conference with Brownell.

Meanwhile, Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D-N.M.) said the congressional Atomic Energy Committee will move back into the dispute Wednesday if the power contract has not been canceled by then. Anderson is chairman of the committee.

Radford Warns Of Complete Review On Reserve Plans

I 1247UP89 July 11 tb1005a ....

WASHINGTON (UP) — Adm. Arthur W. Radford warned senators today that if President Eisenhower's compulsory reserve plan is not approved "there will have to be a complete review and reorientation of our defense plans."

Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, was joined by Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson and Assistant Defense Secretary Carter L. Burgess in urging the Senate Armed Services Committee to approve th eadministrations reserve proposal. It already has passed in modified form in the House.

The defense leaders laid particular stress on the necessity for compulsory reserve training to assure that the reserves get the particular kind of skilled, trained personnel they need.

Their emphasis was aimed at blocking a proposal by Chairman Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) to replace the compulsory features of the administration plan with a voluntary, bonus - incentive approach.

Blind Man Has Lush, Attractive Vegetable Garden

BRAZIL Ind. (UP) — Harry Pullen has a vegetable garden as lush and attractive as the gardens of any of his neighbors, despite the fact he never has seen it.

Pullen has been blind for 24 years. But he set out his own plants in neat, straight rows, cultivated them and harvested them.

His cabbages weighed up to 12 pounds. Tomatoes tipped the scales at up to 3 pounds. Twenty-three of his biggest onions filled a bushel basket.

Friends wondered how he could tell a vegetable from a weed while cultivating his garden.

"Identifying the plants is the easiest part of my work, Pullen said. "One soon gets the feel of his job."

Pullen says keeping the soil loose is a secret of garden success. He does it by adding sand each year.

Newspapers Still Favorite Medium Of The Advertisers

NEW YORK (UP)—Despite network television's "phenomenal" growth, newspapers are still the favorite medium of 100 top national advertisers, Tide Magazine said today.

Tide analyzed the ad budgets of the 100 leading advertisers in an effort to determine just how TV's meteoric rise has affected other media.

In 1950 newspapers accounted for 39.3 per cent of all the money spent for national advertising by these companies. In 1954 their share had slipped to 31.4 par cent

Television, which accounted for only 5.1 per cent of the top advertisers' budget in 1950, was a strong second last year with 30.3 per cent.

Hardest hit by TV's big rise was its cousin, radio. Between 1950 and 1954 radio's share of the total dwindled from 25.2 to 12.1 per cent. Magazines showed the least change, their share easing from 30.4 per cent in 1950 to 26.2 per cent last year.

Anderson Resigns As U. S. Deputy Defense Secretary

247k55kUP90 JJuly 11 kw10a ....

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower today accepted "with the greatest reluctance the resignation of Robert B. Anderson as deputy defense secretary.

The White House said Anderson will step down about Aug. 15 and that the President probably will name his successor before Congress adjourns.

Murray Snyder, assitant White House press secretary, declined to say, however whether Mr. Eisenhower has already made a choice. Rueben Robertson Jr., president of Champion Paper and Fibre Co. Hamilton, Ohio, said he had been offered and "is seriously considering the post of deputuy defense secretary. But some problems involving company affairs still must be worked out, he said.

Andersons decision to resign was disclosed recently by Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson. It was made official today when the White House made public an exchange of letters between the President and Anderson.

Stevenson Expected To Leave Hospital

LAKE FOREST, Ill. (UP)—Adlai Stevenson, former Illinois governor and 1952 Democratic presidential candidate, was expected to leave Lake Forest Hospital today.

Stevenson entered the hospital Thursday for treatment of bronchial pneumonia, hospital officials said. His condition never was serious, they said.

Stevenson planned to rest at his Libertyville, Ill., farm for a week or 10 days after leaving the hospital.

Here's How
ADVERTISING
by selling more goods to more people
MAKES YOUR JOB
MORE SECURE

NO matter what your job today, it depends on "good business." And someone has said that in the American business system, nothing can be accomplished until "something is sold."

You know the truth of this. Falling sales mean pay cuts, layoffs, fear. Increased sales mean better pay, promotions, more security in every job for every man.

Advertising is the low-cost, efficient way to sell goods. Advertising is the spark plug of business. So advertising, by selling goods, makes your job, your home, your income more secure!

Other Ways
Advertising Helps You:
1. Brings you better goods for less money.
2. Makes shopping more pleasant and easier.
3. Has given us the world's highest standard of living.

American League All-Stars May Lack Punch Of Rivals; Don't Be Surprised At Slugfest

By FRED DOWN
United Press Sports Writer

The American League All-Stars are supposed to lack the punch of their National League rivals but dont be surprised u Ted Williams, Mickey Mantle & Co., turn Tuesday's 22nd mid-summer classic into a slugfest.

Williams, Mantle, shortstop Harvey Kuenn and third-baseman Jim Finigan all demonstrated in Sunday's games that they're swinging hot bats with a combined showing of 6 home runs and 13 runs batted in. All told, the quartet produced 11 hits in 27 at bats for a .407 mark. With them showing the way, the A.L.'s eight starters came up with a .354 average.

The National League's seven certain starters and one likely starter, meanwhile, produced only one home run and four runs batted in Sunday's games although they combined for a .292 average. Ted Kluszewski accounted for the homer, No. 29 for the Cincinnati slug[illegible], and Red Schoendienst, Ernie Banks and Duke Snider drove in one run each.

Williams who'll carry a .393 average into his 11th All-Star game, clouted his 12th homer of the year to help the Boston Red Sox defeat the Baltimore Orioles, 10-7. The blow sent the Red Sox off to a 3-0 lead in the first inning but they had rto rally for five uuns in the eighth frame to score their 14th victory in 16 games and 29th in 36 games since June 3 when they were 10 games below the .500-mark. Today they're firmly entrenched in fourth place and only two games behind the second-game Cleveland Indians.

Yankees, Senators Split

Mantle the A.L.'s starting center-fielder, unufurled three homers and drove in a total of fouur runs as the New York Yankees split a doubleheader with the Washington Senators. Mantle hit two off southpaw Dean Stone in the opener although the Yankees lost, 6-4, and then blasted No. 21 of the season as New York took the nightcap 8-3.

Keunn hit a homer ana drove in three runs and Ray Boone hammered in five runs to spark the Detroit Tigers to a 10-1 triumph after the Kansas City A's won their opener, 9-5. Kuenn had four hits in nine at-bats and drove in four runs during the doubleheader while Jim Finigan sparked the A's with three hits, including a homer, and knocked in two runs.

Virgil Trucks and Sandy Consuegra combined in a five-hitter to give the Chicago White Sox a 4-2 triumph after the Indians won the opener, 5-2. All-Star rookie Herb Score suffered the second - game loss for Cleveland although Bob Nieman's two-run homer off Mike Garcia actually produced the winning runs. In the opener Art Houteman gained credit for his sixth win with relief help from Don Mossi and Ray Narleski.

In the National League, All-Star pitchers Gene Conley and rookie Luis Arroyo came through handsomely to score their 11th and 10th wins respectively.

Braves Extend Win Streak

Conley struck ouut six batters an yielded eight hits as the Milwaukee Braves ran their winning streak to six games with a 7-4 decision over the Redlegs. Cincinnati bounced back, however, to win the second game, 7-6 on Wally Post's two-ruun ninth inning homer and leave the Braves 11½ games out of first place despite a 17-7 pace since June 16.

Arroyo scored his 10th victory against three loss with a workrmanlik even-hitter that gave the St. Louius Cardinals a 7-2 triumph over the Chicago Cubs. The Cardinals backed him with an 11-hit attack that included a homer by Stan Musial and three hits by Schoendienst.

Willie Mays singled through Brooklyn's drawn-in infield to cap a two-run ninth-inning rally that gave the New York Giants a 3-2 decision over the Dodgers. Paul Giel gained credit for his second major league win as the Dodgers suffered their seventh loss in 13 games.

Curt Simmons pitched a six-hitter as the Philadelphia Phillies triumphed 4-1, but the Pittsburgh Pirates came back to win the nightcap, 3-1, as Vernon Law tossed a six-hitter for his sixth win.

Anthony-Johnson 10-Rounder Tonight

Anthony, former national amateur middleweight champion, is favored at 3-1 over his fellow New Yorker.

Although Anthony has had but 26 professional fights, he unquestionably would now be ranked among contenders for the 175-pound crown if his stamina and ruggedness matched his wallop. But the stream-lined young Negro has appeared somewhat fragile.

He was stopped three times for his only defeats. But 18 of his 23 victories were by knockouts.

Meanwhile tough Johnson was stopped but once in 41 fights. Paddy Young turned the trick i nthe fifth round in Broklyn on Jan. 24. In his other two bouts this year, Johnson lost a decision to Willie Pastrano and was held to a draw by Billy McNeece.

Ball Player Dies When Hit In Right Temple By Baseball

ORLEANS Ind. (UP) — Barry Hodson, 19, Orleans, was killed in a baseball game Sunday when a ball struck him on the head as he ran from first to second base.

Hodson, member of the Orleans Merchants amateur team, died almost instantly. The ball was thrown by the opposing New Albany shortstop in a double-play attempt at Patton Field.

The accident occurred in the first inning before a crowd of spectators watching from bleachers. The game was cancelled.

Hodson, son of team manager Orville Hodson, was a 1954 graduate of Orleans High School and star basketball player.

Dr. Phillip Hodgin said he died of a blow to the right temple.

Lot Of Guys Quick To Cry 'Misquote,' But Not Ed Furgol

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP) —There are a lot of guys in sports who are quick to scream "misquote" when they speak out or turn and stir up a verbal hornets nest, but Ed Furgol is not one of them.

Furgol is the gamecock from St. Louis who set an ultra - modern long-shot precedent in the 1954 U.S. Open, which Jack Fleck followed in 1955. His feat was evidence, if needed that the handicapped Furgol is a real scrapper.

So when Ed says that his remarks were "misinterpreted," and he was the victim of "mistaken identity," during the recent British Open fracas, you have to go along with him.

Arriving home by plane from Scotland Sunday Ed was naturally disturbed. It was worthy of him that he did not blow his stack, but simply admitted to saying the things he did say and quietly tried to state his case.

Personally, the one which hurt him most was that he had been identified has having angrily brushed away a youngster seeking an autograph. One American player did do that, Ed admitted, as well as put an angry knock on hallowed St. Andrews where the British event was played.

"Apparently becauuse of unfamiliarity with American players, this inadvertently was attributed to me," Furgol explained before taking another plane for St. Louis, one which, incidentally sprung a gas leak over Pittsburgh and drew a tense welcoming committee of fire engines.

"It was a case of mistaken identity" Furgol claimed. "I've never pushed away anyone seeking an autograph because I feel it is an honor. I stood for a half-hour at a time signing them, and then would have been glad to sign more."

There were several things he admitted saying, namely that St. Andrews needed a "cleaning and pressing" and that the famed "Hell's Bunker should be "used to bury the ancients and leave the royals alone.' They were said, he asserted, in jest.

"There were bad spots on the course because of no rain and much play," Ed explained. "Several times, too I moved tiny bits of debris from the vicinity of the ball, which explains my joking reference to the need for a cleaning and pressing.

"But I was not knocking the course," he added. "Like any golfer who fails to win, I might have been mad but it was at myself and not at anyone else. Everyone treated me fine and I do hope to go back sometime."

Furgol, a man who has conquered more than his share of trouble without complaint, tipically went to bat for guys like me. In Britain the press is treated too often like ditch-diggers at a debutante's ball, and no cracks, please. At St. Andrews, as example newspapermen are barred from the clubhouse and portions of the course.

"I still don't understand why they treat the press as they do" Ed said. "I did say that, after all, it is the press and the players who make the tournament for them. I considered that forthright and constructive criticism, and I'll say it all over again.'

Players from our congenial, easy-going sphere find playing golf in Britain vastly different and tempers often flare. They did this time, too, but Furgol contends it wan pinned on the wrong guy.

Racer Killed On Italian Track

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy — (UP) —Quick action by bystanders in hauling a burning racing car off the course with their bare hands apparently prevented Sundays racing tragedy here, which took the life of driver Piero Valenzano, from claiming other lives.

Valenzano, 31-year - old Italian driver, had covered only four kilometers in the "Golden Cup" Dolomites auto classic when he missed a curve and crashed.

Valenzano's 2000 cc Maserati overturned on the road and he was thrown out. His chest was crushed and he was killed instantly. Seconds later, flames shot up from the car and a stream of burning gasoline flowed out and enveloped Valenzano's body.

At this point, several onlookers ran onto the track and pushed the car off their their hands. As they did, another racing car whizzed by and just missed them. The driver was Valenzano's brother Gino.

Ralph Dupas Meets DeMarco Tonight

NEW ORLEANS (UP) — Ralph Dupas, the speedy 20-year-old top ranked lightweight contender who has his eyes mostly on the championship, meets former champion Paddy DeMarco in a scheduled 10 rounder at Muncipal Auditorium tonight.

tI is Dupas' last attempt in avenging his only 6 losses in 65 professional starts.

DeMarco, before he became champion, took a split decision from the local "native dancer" here Jan. 1, 1954. That was Dupas' first 10 round fight and he claimed he started too slow to make sure he could go the distance.

Dupas was a 3-1 favorite today over DeMarco, the 28-year - old toughie who got the title "Brooklyn Billygoat" for his strong, rugged, crowding type of fighting.

Since losing to DeMarco, Dupas has lost only one fight, to Frankie Ryff last September. He avenged that loss in a bloody duel here in May. DeMarco has had only five fights since taking Dupas, including title matches in which he won the crown from Jimmy Carter and then lost it back.

Jerry Hoyt Dies Today Of Injuries Sustained Sunday

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (UP)—Jerry Hoyt, 26, Indianapolis who won the pole position in the 1955 Memorial Day 500-mile race at Indianapolis died today of brain injuries sustained in a race Sunday.

Hoyt's car crashed in the second lap of the Midwest Big Car National Championship here. The driver was taken to a hospital in critical condition with head and arm injuries.

The car skidded into a rail on the far turn of Oklahoma City's new half-mile fairground track and landed on top of a fence.

Hoyt, who was married only two weeks ago to the former Diane Baker of Indianapolis, was driving a car as a team-mate of Bob Sweikert, winner of this years 500-mile race.

Sweikert was running first and Hoyt second in a heat when the accident happened. Sweikert went on and won the heat but refused to start in the mai nfeature. Instead, he went to the hospital along with Hoyt's bride, who was in the grandstands sitting beside Mrs. Sweikert when the accident happened.

Hoyt had been racing since he was 18. He started in the midgets and moved into big cars in 1949. Two years ago, he ranked ninth in the Midwest sprint standings and was seventh last year.

He never finished in the money in four 500-mile races.

Hoyt, a tall, handsome, boyish looking speed demon was among the favorites to win the Indianapolis race only six weeks ago. But his car developed trouble early in the race and Hoyt was the third to drop out.

Howard Rushmore Found Safe After Three-Day Search

CHICAGO (UP)—Howard Rushmore former film editor of the Communist Daily Worker and now editor of Confidential Magazine, has been found safe in Butte, Mont. after missing for three days from his hotel room here.

Rushmore, who left the party in the 1930s and has since testified for congressional committees, reportedly was seeking an alleged Communist leader. But the man he was reputedly seeking said he was in New York, Rushmore's home, all the time.

Chicago police began looking for Rushmore after he kept an appointment and failed to return to his swank hotel here Thursday. An anonymous telephone call started a query to Butte where Rushmore was found registered in a hotel as "H. Roberts.'

Sources at Butte said Ruushmore made the trip to contact a man identified as William Lazarovich, alias William Lawrence, who was reported to be Communist Party leader. In New York, however, William Lazar said he was the man Rushmore sought.

"It is a simple fact that I live quite normally in Manhattan and any green cub reporter would not have the slightest difficulty in locating me if he honestly wanted to do so."

Cattle Backrubber Easy To Construct Of Farm Materials

LAFAYETTE —A homemade "backrubber" which is inexpensive and easy to build will permit cattle to protect themselves against hornflies and other external parasites, says Henry Mayo, animal husbandryman at Purdue University.

These "backrubbers" may be constructed from the materials on the farm and should be placed in shade if possible near watering places, mineral salt stations or any area where the cattle loaf.

According to Mayo, the "backrubber" may be built by setting two posts in the ground 14 to 20 feet apart. A chain is then fastened four feet high at each post and permitted to sag to within 2 inches of the ground in the center. The chain is then wrapped with burlap sacks and tied with binder twine or wire.

The two posts should be reinforced by brace wire which is attached at the post and to the ground. The brace wire should also be wrapped with burlap and treated to permit the cows to rub their necks, legs and other parts of the body.

The burlap sacks should be saturated every two or four days with five per cent DDT in oil, or for dairy cattle, five per cent methoxychlor in oil. These sprays should be purchased as 25 per cent emulsion concentrates and diluted to five per cent by adding four parts of fuel oil. A five gallon solution should thus be composed on one gallon of 25 per cent emulsion and four gallons of fuel oil. The sacks should be kept saturated at all times during the fly season.

There is not enough profit in the cattle business to afford to feed external parasites, Mayo declared.

Market Hogs Need Cool Environment

LAFAYETTE, —Hot weather is rough on hogs unless steps are taken to keep them cool, both on the farm and on the way to market, according to Dr. F. A. Hall, extension veterinarian at Purdue University.

Hogs are temperate animals and water, fresh air and a cool place to lie down. Since hogs have been bred to reach market weight in a limited length of time, it is the owner's responsibility to help them overcome unnatural handicaps such as excessive heat.

The hog was once a good forager, being lean of limb and fleet on foot. He was no stranger to the cool, dark recesses of the country's forest and his footsteps beat a path to the nearest water hole.

But this is no longer true. Today, feed awaits the hog in well filled self-feeders. But fresh water and a clean place to lie down in the shade are just as vital as the feed supply.

Hogs need first class accommodations when it comes time to go to market. A non-skid bedding, such as sand, should be provided. However, if sand is used, it should be wet down frequently in hot weather. Ventilation is needed since all market hogs have a small lung capacity for their weight. An occassional sprinkling with cool water is also good insurance for a safe arrival.

As one farmer once said, a hog with a wet belly is a live hog.

Barrows And Gilts Lower; Cattle Are Generally Higher

CHICAGO (UP) — Weekly livestock:

Hogs: Barrows and gilts unevenly 50-1.50 lower, mostly on weights under 240 lbs. Sows 25-1.00 lower. After a modest improvement Tuesday, the market suffered its sharpest two-day decline since last September. On late rounds the top 18.85, with a package of mostly U.S. No. 1 hogs at 228 lbs. at 19.00, earlier in week top sparingly paid 21.00. Local wholesale fresh pork prices moderately improved from last week.

Cattle: Slaughter steer generally 1.00 higher than last week's close, 1.00-1.50 higher than early last week, the first general upturn steer prices more than two months. Heifers mostly 50-75 higher, cows steady to 25 lower, bulls steady to 25 higher, vealers 1.00-2.00 higher. Eight loads prime 1,000-1430 lb. fed steers and yearlings 25.25-26.00, the latter highest since June 13; early bulk choice and prime steers 22.50-24.50, late bulk 23.00-25.00, load prime 1430 lb. steers 25.50 but most prime 1375-1450 lb. weights 24.00-25.00. Four loads prime 1075-1175 lb. fed heifers 24.40, high choice and prime heifers and mixed yearlings 23.50-24.00. Good and choice vealers 19.00-24.00, few prime also 24.00. Good to low choice yearling stock steers 19.00-21.75.

Sheep and Lambs: Spring lambs mainly 50 higher, old crop lambs, yearlings, slaughter sheep mainly steady. Wholesale prices dressed lamb late in week at Chicago 1.00 higher, in New York spring lamb 3.00-5.00 over a week ago. Good to prime native spring lambs mostly 21.00-24.00, although in final session package prime lambs 24.25, highest in more than two weeks. Most utility to low-good lambs 16.00-20.00. Sales of good and choice mixed old crop lambs and yearlings of 96-105 lbs. with No. 1 pelts 16.50-18.00, mainly 17.50 and above.

Memorial Rites Tuesday For Etna-Troy Township Farmer

Death Comes To Alton I. Gerkin After Long Illness

Alton I. Gerkin, 51, Etna-Troy township farmer, died at 12:45 Saturday afternoon at his home two miles west of Etna. He had been in failing health for the past two years and returned home on June 26 after submitting to surgery at the St. Joseph's Hospital in Fort Wayne.

He was born December 26, 1903, on the same farm where he spent his entire life, a son of Ambrose and Cora Orcutt Gerkin. On August 30, 1930, he was united in marriage to the former Josephine Dahm, of Pierceton. They started housekeeping on the Gerkin homestead west of Etna. Throughout his life, Mr. Gerkin always took an active part in the affairs of his community. He was a member of the Farm Bureau, the Farmer's Union, a director of the Larwill Feed Mills, and was also a member of Columbia City Eagles Lodge.

The surviving relatives include his wife, Josephine Gerkin; one son, Thomas Gerkin, at home; one daughter, Doris Kay, at home; three brothers, Hilbert S. Gerkin Fort Worth, Texas, Willard L. Gerkin, Columbia City and Ernest H. Gerkin, South Bend; two sisters, Miss Anna Ruth Gerkin, Fort Wayne and Mrs. Audra Mathias, of Larwill. In addition to his parents, he has been preceded in death by a brother, Mirl J. Gerkin.

The body has been removed to the Smith and Sons Funeral Home where friends may call. The Rev. Albert Rider, former pastor of the Etna Methodist Church, and now of Wawauka, will officiate at the funeral services to be held Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock at the funeral home. Commital services and burial will be i nthe Catholic cemetery here.

Memorial Services Held Today For Harmon Keifer

Stricken With Paralysis Two Weeks Ago

Funeral services were held at 2 p.m. today for Harmon Keifer, 78, a resident of South Whitley practically a lifetime. Memorial rites were held at the Miller Funeral Home, the Rev. Marshall Chambers of the Evangelical United Brethren church of which Mr. Keifer was a member, officiating. Burial was made in the South Whitley cemetery.

Mr. Keifer was born in Adams county August 26, 1876, the son of Jacob and Susan Schinbeckler Keifer. His wife, the former Gertrude Heneline, died in 1952. Surviving are a foster son, Dale Heneline, Fort Wayne; two brothers, William Keifer, South Whitley and Henry Keifer, Burkett; and four sisters, Mesdames Arthur Allen, Russell Lancaster, Emma Wolfe, near Columbia City, and Firmer Keller, South Whitley.

He was a member of the Evangelical United Brethren church at South Whitley and the Modern Woodman lodge.

Memorial Rites Tuesday For Miss Edna R. Stump

Former South Whitley Resident Dies In Michigan

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m. at the Miller Funeral Home at South Whitley for Miss Edna R. Stump, 64, native of South Whitley and a daughter of the late Elais and Elizabeth Behney Stump.

Miss Stump was a bookkeeper and for 30 years was located at South Bend. She located at Kalamazoo, Mich., a year ago where death occurred Saturday in Fairmont hospital. Death was due to carcinoma.

She was a member of the First Christian church in South Bend. Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Gladys Hill, Kalamazoo, Mich., and Mrs. Cora Stanley, South Bend, and one brother, Ray Stump, Harvey, Ill.

Committal services will be held in the South Whitley cemetery.

Memorial Rites Are Held For Earl Briggs

Funeral services for R. Earl Briggs, Smith township farmer, were held Saturday afternoon at the Smith and Sons Funeral Home with the Rev. Herbert LePage, pastor of the Collins Evangelical United Brethren Church, officiating. Mrs. Helen Slagle Aker played an organ prelude and postlude as the musical portion of the service.

Neighbors and friends of the Briggs family who served as the pallbearers were Clem Greer, Paul Rhoads, Kendall Secrist, Frank Deutsch, Lewis Geiger, and Lyman Crabill. Committal services and burial followed the funeral home rites in the Eel River Cemetery south of Churubusco.

Memorial Rites Held For John Q. Adams

Memorial services were held at 3 p.m. Sunday at the J. A. DeMoney and Son Funeral Home for John Q. Adams.

The Rev. Robert W. Crosby, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiated at the rites and also at the committal service which followed in the Masonic cemetery. Mrs. Helen Slagle Aker played the prelude and postlude on the funeral home organ.

Pallbearers were Paul Martin, Robert Fahl, Lee Buechler, Walter Hillsman, Gerald Little, Richard Little, Verle Little, and Glen Miller.

Dr. Elmer Leininger, 68, Dies Monday At Rochester Hospital

Former Resident Buys Farm At Culver, There Following Son's Funeral

Relatives here have received word of the death of Dr. Elmer C. Leininger, Sr., 68, Chicago, at 4:30 a.m. Monday at a hospital in Rochester.

Dr. Leininger became ill Sunday night and death was caused by a heart ailment.

He had recently purchased a farm at Culver and was there following the burial of his son, Elmer C., Jr., who died June 29. Relatives say that he had planned retirement on the farm.

Dr. Leininger was a cousin of George Leininger, of 315 West Spencer street, and an uncle of Mrs. Homer Pulley, city, and of George Leininger, Churubusco.

Dr. Leininger was born October 15, 1886, at Etna Green in Kosciusko county. He was married October 14, 1914, to Myrtle Eddington Leininger, who survives. He attended school here but became a physician and began practice in Chicago.

Other survivors include two sons, John G. and William H., and one daughter, Eleanor, all of Chicago; a brother, Clarence D., city; and a sister, Irene Schultz, of McHenry, Ill.

His parents were the late Jules B. and Harriet M. Leininger of this city.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Argentina

President Juan D. Peron had asked for peace and harmony in a nationwide radio speech July 5. There had been signs of attempted conciliation by both church and state in the past week.

Sunday's riot and Saturday's orderly procession at the naval club produced the most tension since the eve of Perons "political truce speech." At that time the capital was aroused by rumors that the president was going to resign.

Instead of resigning, however, Peron called for a truuce with his "enemies" and asked for peace and harmony in the country divided since last fall by the state-church controversy. He did not mention the controversy in his address.

The Roman Catholic Chuurch supported Peron's plea for harmony and ordered a pastoral letter on the subject read in all churuches Sunday.

It was just after a Mass at the Metropolitan Cathedral on Plaza de Mayo that Sundays demonstration began. A large group of Catholics started shouting anti - government slogans.

Before long, at least 1,000 persons had joined the demonstration and it turned into a riot. Police and firemen required tear gas, clubs and fire hoses to restore order.

The demonstrators chanted "Work and Liberty" and "Catholic Argentina." They shouted "The terror has Ended," and "Long Live Olivieri," referring to Rear Admiral Anibal Olivieri, one of the leaders of the June 16 revolt.

Six persons were arrested and were charged with threatening the security or the state, police said. Five policemen were reported wounded.

Contract Talks Open At Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Preliminary contract talks opened here today between the Aluminum Co. of America and the CIO United Steelworkers, representing 15,000 members in 10 Alcoa plants throughout the nation.

The union was expected to demand a 15-cent hourly wage increase, similar to that negotiated recently with the steel industry. Formal talks may begin Tuesday.

The AFL Aluminum Workers Union, representing 10,000 Alcoa employes, opens negotiations on Thursday.

The USW is limited by contract to wage demands only. Last year's negotiations netted the USW a five cent hourly wage boost and an additional three cents in wage inequity adjustments.

Chief USW negotiator will be Howard Hague acting vice president.

Spectacular Fire In San Francisco Injures 17 Persons

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—A spectacular four-alarm fire in the heart of San Franciscos North Beach district destroyed the Italian Village night club and the three-story Entella Hotel early today.

Seventeen persons were injured, 13 of them firemen. Most of them were overcome by smoke and exhaustion. A preliminary search of the building, which contained the night club and hotel, failed to turn up any fatalities. Fire Chief George Kelly estimated the damage at $250,000.

Elks Open Business Session Of 91st Grand Lodge Today

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks opened business sessions of its 91st grand lodge today with the election of officers, and financial reports.

John L. Walker, Roanoke, Va., was the only announced candidate for the office of Grand Exalted Ruler now held by William J. Jernick, of Nutley, N.J.

Jernick opened the national convention Sunday with a report that the order, first organized in 1868, had a record of 1,165,000 members during the past year.

King Fez Reigns In Chicago Today

CHICAGO UP—King Fez reigns in Chicago today.

The Shriners—90,000 of them and their families—are in town for the opening session of their five-day annual convention.

The tassel-topped fun-makers arrived in force during the weekend.

The Masonic meeting, attended by representatives from every state, Canada, Mexico, Hawaii, and the Canal Zone got underway Sunday with an informal religious service in the loop.

Then advance contingents broke the city's relative Sunday calm by parading to hotel headquarters. The convention's two big parades are scheduled for Tuesday and Thursday.

Highligts of the meeting will be a mammoth "Shrinerama" pageant in Soldier Field Wednesday night. It will have a $10,000 fireworks display, a 1,000-piece band, drill teams, circus acts and other events.

Former President Harry S. Truman arrived from his Iindepend ence Mo., home and promised to take part in the six-hour parade Tuesday.

The Shrine also hopes to present the first public meeting of former heavyweight champions Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney on the site of their famous "long count" bout 28 years ago.

Communism" and added that all had experiences which proved that the free world was better than Communism.

"We would welcome Hitler back rather than have Communism," he said.

He said he stayed with the Reds because of his fear of "political persecution."

Commenting on his experiences under the Peiping regime, Cowart said that "the places in China which the world does not see can only be described as hell."

"Just A Poor Fool"

Griggs said he was "just a poor fool" for having refused repatriation in the first place. He said he now was "facing reality" and was "proud to be an American—I am going back to my country.'

Bell, whose wife is in Olympia, Wash., said the people of China "hate Communism," but they also "hate Chiang Kai-shek."

They were among 23 American prisoners of war who originally elected to stay in Red China rather than return to the United States. Two, Edward S. Dickenson, of Crackers Neck, Va., and Claude J. Batchelor, of Kermit, Tex., returned to U.S. custody last year and were tried and convicted of collaboration with the enemy. Batchelor was sentenced to 20 years imprisonment, Dickenson to 10 years.

Red China announced in June that another of the original 23, Rufus O. Douglas, of San Angelo, Tex., had died of a "rheumatic heart disorder with complications."

Mrs. Krietzer Has No Intention Of Letting Big Jackpot Change Pleasant Flow Of Life

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UP) —Win or lose, Mrs. Catherine Krietzer has no intention of letting the largest jackpot in television history change the even, pleasant flow of her life.

The 54-year-old Camp Hill grandmother laughed heartily when asked whether she would quit her job as a clerk-typist at the Mechanicsburg Naval Support Depot should she try for and win a $64,000 cash bonanza on a nationwide television show Tuesday night.

"The Navy was good enough for me when I needed something," she said. "If I should get something now, it will still be good enough."

Even if she tries and loses, she has no intention of learning to drive the new Cadillac convertible which would be her consolation prize.

"I have never driven and I'm not going to start at my age," she said.

When Mrs. Kreitzer, who has six sons and nine grandchildren, arrives in New York Tuesday she'll have her own cheering section.

"There are at least 14 persons planning to go up with me—we may have to take over Central Park," she said. But she smilingly declined to identify who would accompany her on the trip.

With the same good humor she said that she will not make her decision on whether she will accept the $32,000 she has already won or risk it on a "double-or-new car" basis until she walks out on the stage Tuesday night.

She said she has been reading the Bible regularly and will depend on it for guidance in her big decision.

"But then, I have always turned to it for guidance," Mrs. Kreitzer said. "And it has never failed me."

"Of course, I read other religious books," she continued. "But the Bible is the book — the biggest influence in my life."

Mrs. Kreitzer appeared a little worried about the decision which means a small fortune despite a deluge of advice — by mail, telegram and phone.

"Yesterday there were 106 letters and the phone never stopped ringing."

Her husband, Joseph, a carpenter, volunteered the information that reporters have been visiting their frame farm house in Possum Hollow day and night.

"Last night they were still here as late as 10:30," he said.

His wife appeared more concerned about the disruption of normal things by the national publicity she has received.

"The poor mailman is dragged down," she said. "Such a bundle as he has to deliver here every day since I've been going to New York. And the way that phone rings."

For the most part, however, she has kept her life on the same even keel. For one thing—the fact that $21,000 of the $32,000 additional she could win would go for taxes will have no effect on her decision.

"Uncle Sam must get his share —that's only right," she said.

And she has made no attempt to do any additional studying or research on her specialty — the Scriptures.

"Where could you possibly start cramming for something like that," she said.

With one exception, Mrs. Kreitzer was willing to answer freely without hesitiation. When she was asked whether she would have a Bible expert accompany her if and when she enters the glass-enclosed soundproof booth Tuesday, she answered:

"I have absolutely no comment to make on that."

President Starts Busy Work Week

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower started a busy work week today in preparation for his Friday night departure for the Big Four meeting in Geneva, Switzerland.

Mr. Eisenhower, fresh from a weekend of golf and rest at his Gettysburg, Pa., farm, returned to the capital Sunday night by automobile. He was accompanied by his son, Maj. John Eisenhower, the major's wife, and Mrs. Elivera Doud, mother of the President's wife.

The First Lady remained at the farm, along with the three Eisenhower grandchildren, Dwight David II, Barbara Anne, and Susan.

Mrs. Eisenhower will accompany the President to Geneva when he departs Friday night after delivering a nationwide television-radio address.

The Chief Executive gave his 7-year-old grandson a lesson in war Sunday. He took David on a personally-conducted tour of the historic Civil War battlefield near his farm.

Mr. Eisenhower stopped several times to explain to his young grandson events of the bloody battle that marked the high tide of the Confederacy.

Earlier, the President and the other men of the family attended communion services at the historic Gettysburg Presbyterian Church where Abraham Lincoln once worshipped. The women did not attend.

The Rev. Clyde R. Brown, during the services, prayed that Mr. Eisenhower always have the "knowledge that our hopes and prayers go with him."

Large crowds lined the streets in front of the church for a glimpse of the President.

Honored As Hoosier Authors Of Year

BLOOMINGTON Ind. (UP)—Jeanette Covert Nolan, Joseph Hayes and Elmer Davis were honored as "Hoosier Authors of the Year" Sunday at a luncheon at Indiana University.

Mrs. Nolan, Indianapolis, won a citation for the best childrens book puublished in 1954 "George Rogers Clark, Soldier and Hero" (Messner).

Hayes won the fiction award for "The Deperate Hours" (Random House).

Davis was honored for "But We Were Born Free" (Bobbs-Merrill), in the non-fiction classification.

Business Inventories Rise During May

WASHINGTON (UP)—Business inventories rose in May but still were slightly less than in May, 1954, the Commerce Departmnet reported. After adjustment for seasonal influences, total inventories rose by 600 million dollars in book value to $78,300,000,000 at the end of May.

Soviet Churchmen Want Billy Graham To Visit Russia

LONDON (UP)—Soviet churchmen announced today that they want American Evangelist Billy Graham to visit Russia.

They said they also hope for a visit by the Archbishop of Canterbury.

The unofficial invitation to Graham to carry his "Crusade for Christ" behind the Iron Curtain came from a delegation of Soviet churchmen now touring Britain.

Graham has said repeatedly that he would carry his evangelistic camapign into the Communist world, if invited to do so.

The head of Russia's Baptists said:

"It is quite possible" that a Baptist delegation en route here for this week's World Baptist Congress "will bring a formal invitation to Dr. Billy Graham to visit our country (Russia)."

And the Metropolitan of Minsk said:

"We would be happy if the head of the Anglican Church (the Archbishop of Canterbury) himself visited our country."

Old Settlers Day Card Pays Tribute To Mrs. Mary Weber, 99, Of Columbia City

The 1955 Old Settlers Day postcard, now being placed in the various business houses in Columbia City, bears a splendid likeness of perhaps its oldest old settler, Mrs. Mary Weber of 104 North Oak street now a resident of the rest home at South Whitley.

The likeness of the well-known woman was penned by Rob McNagny, former circuit court judge, who for 42 years has made the drawings sent out each year to friends far and near.

Last year Mrs. Weber observed her 99th birthday when her daughter, Mrs. Ruth Weber Miller came from Washington D. C. to be with her mother. On her birthday she remarked that she might go to Columbia City on Old Settlers Day if the weather wasn't too hot. In the picture, Mrs. Weber is on the telephone.

It was in May, 80 years ago that Mrs. Weber, the former Mary E. Myers, native of Whitley county, married the late Dr. William Weber, a practicing physician in Columbia City for 25 years. He was born in Germany, but came to the United States when a year old.

They were married by the late Rev. A. J. Douglas, pioneer teacher and minister, at that time pastor of Grace Lutheran church of which Mrs. Weber's family was prominently identified, and always has been through the years.

They were the parents of eight children, six of whom survive. They are Ed and Ross Weber of Salt Lake City, and Lloyd Weber of New Mexico, and Mrs. Ruth Miller, Mrs. Jessie Kitt and Mrs. Mary Armstrong, all of Washington D.C.

Ike Withdraws Nomination Of Allen Whitfield

To Atomic Energy Commission; Ends Long Controversy

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower today formally withdrew Allen Whitfield's nomination to the Atomic Energry Commission.

He took the action in a message to the Senate ending a controrversy that had centered around the Des Moines, Ia., attorney since his nomination April 1. The Congressional Atomic Energy committee had been investigating Whitfield's legal activities.

Whitfield asked the President to withdraw his nomination Friday. He said he did not want to involve the AEC in what he described as a "political contrversy." He also said the House-Senate committee was asking him to reveal confidential dealings with his law clients.

Mr. Eisenhower replied briefly Monday. His letter was made public by the White House. It said: "Your decision was a difficult one and I realize it was reached only after much thought. Your respect for the ethics of your profession merits admiration. I am acceding to your request with regret.'

Announces Date Of 4-H Speech Contest

Harold Buckenmeyer, county 4-H leader, announces the date of a 4—H public speaking contest for boys and girls who were 14 years old by January 1, 1955 and who will have completed three years in 4—H, including this year's project.

The contest will be held July 26, and is a nationally sponsored contest which offers trips to the club congress for winners at the State Fair. Mr. Buckenmeyer urges all eligible 4—H members to contact him for more details as soon as possible. A copy of the speech must be in the county agent's office at least one week before the contest.

U. S. Air Force Academy Cadets Begin Course

For Leadership In Future Air Age

DENVER (UP)—History's first 306 U.S. Air Force Academy cadets, began today the four-year course designed to educate them for leadership of a future air age.

The nation's third military academy opened its interim site on Lowry Air Force Base Monday. Actual classroom work will not begin until Sept. 15.

This class and the next one will train at the Lowry site, but the permanent, 126 million dollar ultra-modern academy north of Colorado Springs will be ready for the 1957 class.

Spectacular aerial displays of Air Force might featured the dedication Monday.

Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Nathan Twining told the cadets, who were sworn in earlier in the day, that "the eyes of the world will be upon you from this day on."

Air Force Secretary Harold Talbott, who read a congratulatory message from Mr. Eisenhower, told the class that the "iron realities of the atomic era" demanded that the Air Force "be ready at any instant to execute crucial tasks."

U. S. Delegation To Tour Soviet Farm Areas

No Americans Have Seen In This Generation

By BERNARD BRENNER
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — A 12-member American farm delegation scheduled to visit Russia will tour Soviet farm areas that "no Americans have seen in this generation," an Iowa farmer said today.

Ralph A. Olsen, Ellsworth, Iowa a member of the delegation, said Soviet authorities had not yet released detailed plans for the American group's month-long tour of Soviet farm areas. "but we've been told we'll go as far as 1,800 miles east of Moscow and about 2,500 miles south," he said.

Will Tour Siberia

That would take the group into Siberia and into areas of corn, cotton, and wheat production, Olsen said. Tentative plans call for trips to Soviet farms in areas so remote they have not been visited by any Americans of this generation, he added.

Although the itinerary has not been released, an informed source reported that the tour will start with a three-day visit in Moscow July 15. From there the group will proceed southward to Kharkov, site of a tractor factory, and then to Dnepropetrovsk where a

Perfect Weather For Hoosier Guardsmen

CAMP GRAYLING, Mich. (UP)—"Perfect weather" greeted Indiana's National Guard 38th Infantry Division today as it launched full-scale summer training.

The Hoosiers guardsmen arrived Sunday and early Monday for two weeks of maneuvers, the fifth summer they have been held at Grayling.

Temperatures reached no higher than the high 70s Monday for the opening activity. The skies were clear all day.

Army Officers Unhappy Over General's Order

To Keep Their Korean Girl Friends Out Of Army Clubs

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—Hundreds of U.S. Army officers were unhappy today over a three-star general's order to keep their Korean girl friends out of Army clubs.

Thousands of enlisted men feared they were next in line for a similar ban.

The verbal order was handed down in a staff meeting several days ago by Lt. Gen. John H. Collier, the Army's top commander in Korea.

Collier told his officers they had until the end of the month to stop bringing their Korean girls into Army clubs. In fact, he discouraged officers from being seen at all with Korean girls.

The order by Collier — who slapped a similar ban on fraternization when he was U.S. commander in Stuttgart, Germany — was not very popular.

However, when an Army spokesman was asked about the ban, he replied that "it is simply the general's wish to eliminate an undesirable situation."

Further, the spokesman said, Collier "is just trying to have the officers set an example."

But Brig. Gen. Mercer Walter head of the U.S. Army's Korean Civil Assistance Command, said his officers could continue to bring their girls into KCAC clubs, where business is booming along.

About the only officers in favor of Collier's ban were chaplains.

"It doesnt look good," one said. "to see our top officers—married men even colonels—going around openly with these women."

"Collier is absolutely right," another chaplain said. "After all, most of these women who come to the clubs are just out-and-out prostitutes."

It was generally believed that as soon as the ban takes full effect, Collier will tell his officers to start enforcing the same restriction on enlisted men.

"The enlisted men cry so much about the difference in privileges" one major said, "that you couldn't very well tell them first to stop having girls."

Indiana State Fair Premium List Set

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—The Indiana State Fair premium list was set at $25,800 today for the 1955 fair Aug. 31-Sept. 9.

The fair's board said premiums were boosted $7,000 so Indiana can keep its rating as the top fair in the nation.

The prizes include $38,014 in 4-H divisions.

One Of Biggest Manhunts In History Of Midwest For Brutal Sex-slayer Of 2-Year-Old Iowa Girl

SIOUX CITY, Iowa (UP) — One of the biggest manhunts in the history of the Midwest formed today to find the brutal sex-slayer of 2-year-old Donna Sue Davis.

A general police alert was sounded throughout mid-continent, the FBI actively entered the case and thousands of volunteers, armed with a description of the killer, joined in the search.

Meanwhile, police here planned a roundup of all known sex deviates after being informed by police Chief James O'Keefe that the child "definitely had been raped."

The blonde, curly-haired tot, who was kidnaped from her crib Sunday night while her parents watched television, was found beaten to death late Monday at the edge of a muddy cornfield.

Strips of her pink pajama tops were wound around her neck. Otherwise, she was unclothed. The pajama tops were the same Donna was wearing when her mother tucked her into bed with the words:

"Three to get ready and four to go—to bed."

Police said Donna had been sexually attacked, then beaten to death by blows on the head. An autopsy showed she had suffered a skull fracture, a broken jaw and abrasions on her body.

The blue-eyed girl, described by neighbors as "a living doll," was killed about an hour after she was abducted, police said. Her body apparently was hurled from an automobile into the gravel ditch where it was found.

Police said the slaying was the work of a "sex degenerate." They held one suspect, but officials indicated that so far he had not been conected directly with the crime. They declined to identify him or furnish any other details.

The bottom of Donna's pajamas, her rubber panties and a diaper were discovered about a half-mile down the gravel road which borders the farm of Ernest Oehlerking across the Missouri River near South Sioux City, Neb.

Meanwhile, his wife and her sister-in-law, Mrs. William Oehlerking—accompanied by their seven daughters, aged one to 13—set out along the gravel road in a car in an effort to find the body.

About a half-mile down the road, the children spotted the body and screamed in horror. One of the children said Donna was stretched out beside stalks of corn "like she was sleeping."

Donna disappeared from her crib while her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Davis, watched a television program.

Davis, 39, is a clerk for the Chicago and North Western Railroad.

Davis said he got tired of watching TV and went into the bedroom. His wife went into the kitchen and then into the other bedroom to How About Toothpaste Trip To The Moon?

NEW YORK (UP)— Americans will use enough toothpaste this year to make a dentifrice ribbon that would stretch to the moon four times.

According to estimates of the Collapsible Tube Manufacturers Council, about half of the billion collapsible metal tuubes which wil be used this year in the United States will go for toothpastes. The council figures some 91,000 miles of dentifrices will be squeezed out of these tubes. The rest of the industry's output will be used for a wide variety of products ranging from adhesives to wood fillers.

Conference To Cost United States $285,000

WASHINGTON (UP) — Next week's Big Four conference at Geneva will set the United States back $285,000.

Harold G. Kissick, director of the State Department's Office of International Conferences, gave the estimate in recent testimony just made public by a House appropriations subcommittee.

He said it includes travel expenses and the cost of maintaining and feeding the 234 persons expected to accompany the President.

Egypt And India Bring Policies Into Sharp Focus

On Eve Of Big Four Geneva Conference

CAIRO, Egypt (UP)—Egyptian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser and Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, leading exponents of East-West co-existence, report today on their long talks about the international situationn.

A commuique on their three conferences Monday was scheduled for simultaneous release here and in New Delhi, India.

Informed sources said the joint statement, coming on the eve of the Big Four Geneva conference, would be of important character. They said it had to be drafted carefully by the two statesmen who have deliberately stressed the similarity of their political ideology and their social and economic principles.

The talks, lasting seven hours in all, brought the Afro-Asian leaders theories on neutralism into sharper focus, the sources said. It was believed the statement discussed a possible third element of neutralism in the cold war between East and West.

The meetings were believed to have touched on the appeal for world peace sounded at the Afro-Asian confrence at Bandung, Indonensia last April. Nasser and Nehru were leading spokesmen at the conference.

Observers said the two men were gratified that the Afro-Asian call for peace was echoing throughout the world on the eve of the historic Geneva conference.

In this connection, authoritative sources said, Nehru acquainted Nasser with the results of his current "co-existence" tour, with emphasis on the views of Russian leaders and the possibilities of easing the cold war.

Nehru's Cairo visit was the last leg of his tour which took him to Russia, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Austria Yugoslavia Italy and Britain. The Indian leader left for home at 2 a.m. EDT.

Two Runaway Boys Caught In County; Got Tired, Hungry

Sheriff Galen Adair and Deputy Cal Watkins Monday apprehended two boys who had run away from the Fort Wayne State School and rode into the county on a railroad box car.

The two boys, both 15, told the county officers that they had escaped from the school Sunday night and jumped onto the train box car in Fort Wayne. One said that he was from Peru and the other from Logansport, and they were evidently trying to get home.

However, one got tired and the other hungry, they said, and they decided to get off the train at Raber. The sheriff caught up with them when Mark Mowrey, of Jefferson township, noticed one of the youngsters resting under a tree at State highway 14 and Raber Road about 3 p.m.

Mowrey notified the sheriff, who picked up the boy. After conversation with the boy and contact with the school, the sheriff learned of the other runaway youth.

After much searching, he was located on the Nickel Plate Railroad tracks about midway between Briggs and Peabody. It was determined that he was the hungry youth and that he had started walking to his home at Logansport.

Both boys were returned to the school.

County Scouts Attend Camp At 'Big Island'

Four Troops, One Explorer Post Attend

Four Whitley county Boy Scout troops returned Sunday after a week at Big Island on Sylvan Lake at Rome City.

The troops represented at Big Island were Troop 80 and 82 of Columbia City, Larwill Troop 86 and South Whitley Troop 85.

There were 11 troops at Big Island during the week. Troop 80 of this city was one of three chosen as Honor Patrol.

Robert Meyer, scoutmaster, accompanied troop 80 and won a swimming merit badge. Jim Brennan became a member of the "Order of the Arrow" honor camping society and also won merit badges in swimming, canoeing and nature.

Members of troop 80 who won a camping strip were Jerry Sharper, Allen Burnham, Johnny Travelbee, Donald Lipke, Denver Watson, Douglas Mundt and Steve Meyer. Other members of troop 80 at Big Island were Bruce Foss and Walter Faulkner.

Members of troop 82 at Rome City were Steve Hile, Kent Weeks, Richard Robbins, Hunter Zeigler, Gene Groves, Mike Bir, Steve Dimmick, Leon Wysong and Gary Hensel.

Larwill

Eight members of Troop 86 from Larwill were accompanied to Big Island by the assistant scoutmaster, Robert Leffel, due to the illness of Scoutmaster Richard Leutz. The Scouts attending were: Eddie Meyers, patrol leader; Dick Walker, Paul Boggs, Bill Leffel, Doyle Nichols, Tom Metzger, Brian Zumbrun, and Fred Gawthrop.

South Whitley

There were 11 Boy Scouts from Troop 85 and six Explorer Scouts from Post 2085 of South Whitley that attended the week's camp. Ralph Evans, scoutmaster, spent the week with the boys, and the Explorer adviser. Robert Block was there until Tuesday. Six of the South Whitley Scouts advanced one rank, they received 23 merit badges, and eight awards in skill crafts.

County Woman Seeks $1,175 For Damages To Car In Collision

A complaint was filed in Whitley county circuit court June 28 by Lesta Shoemakerf of R. 6 against Richard A. Goble also of R. 6, for damages of $1,175.50 which she claimed was caused to her automobile in its collision with defendant's vehicle.

According to the complaint, the accident occurred August 2, 1954 at the junction of State highways 102 and 9. Plaintiff's son, Eldon Shoemaker, was driving her automobile north on 9 while Goble was driving his car on 102, it is claimed.

The plaintiff charges that the defendant failed to stop for the sign at the intersection. She charges Gobel with three counts of carelessness and claims that her automobile was damaged in the amount of $1,175.50.

The case is set for hearing July 20.

4 Year Old 'Drives' Car; Damage $1,800

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UP)—When 4-year-old Terrance McCully was left in his father's car at a gas station Sunday he started the vehicle in reverse gear, backed into three gas pumps, knocking down two of them and starting a fire which caused $1,800 damage to car and pumps.

Terrance was pulled from the car unhurt.

President Galen Wilkerson conducted the business meeting, after which ice cream and cake were served. The serving committee included Mr. and Mrs. John Mathias, Mr. and Mrs. Ozro Burnsworth, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Spaw. There were 96 present.

Near-Record Harvest Seen For 1955 Season

Despite Controls, Freezes, Droughts, Hordes Of Insects

WASHINGTON (UP) — A near-record crop production is in prospect for the 1955 harvest season.

Despite acreage controls, unseasonaly freezes, searing drought, and the usual horde of crop-destroying insects the nation's farms are expected to harvest the largest crop since 1948.

The Agriculture Department's crop reporting board, in its first overall look at 1955 prospects, Monday forecast a corn crop of 3,450,000000 busnels second only to the 3,605,000,000 bushel crop of 1948. Such an outturn would be 16 per cent more than last year's crop and 12 per cent above the 10-year average.

The wheat crop, beset by drought in the southern Great Plains, acreage controls, and a lower parity support rate, was estimated at 860,000000 bushels. This is 15,000,000 bushels above the June 1 forecast but 11 per cent smaller than the 1954 crop of 970,000,000 bushels. The all-wheat crop includes 663,000,000 bushels of winter wheat and 197,000,000 bushels of spring wheat. Despite a lower-than-average crop, there will be no danger of a wheat shortage. The government has enough wheat in storage which, added to the prospective crop, will give the nation a two-year supply.

Whacks Budget Heavily At Last Session

List Main Items As Approved

By FRANK ELEAZER
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—The House Appropriations Committee, wielding its economy axe for the last time this session, today denied funds for the proposed Air Force Academy, President Eisenhower's atomic peace ship, and free distribution of polio vaccine.

It whacked heavily into the President's budget requests for expansion and improvement of atomic plants, for making civil defense evacuation plans for 29 big target cities, and for U.S. participation in international trade fairs as a counter to Communist propaganda.

The committee, meeting for what probably was its last session this year, took the actions in reporting to the House a supplemental appropriation bill totalling $1,648,876,128 for a scattering of agencies and functions for which the President had sought extra funds totallin $1,927,785,868.

Cuts Mount Up

This cut of $278,909,740—about 14.5 per cent—was to be piled atop claimed committee reductions totalling about $2185,000,000 in earlier appropriations this year, although some of the previous cuts had been restored by House or Senate.

Main items in the bill as approved included:

$1,402,329,000 for military construction projects (not including the Air Academy) for which the administration had asked $1,480,000,000;

$138,577,000—a cut of $156,123,000—for plant expansion and stepped up research by the Atomic Energy Commission;

$865,000 for civil defense, against the $16,050,000 requested.

The rejection of funds to start building the $12,600,000 new Air Academy, at Colorado Springs, Colo. came amid mounting criticism of the ultra modern design recently published by the Air Force as its plan for the new service school.

Talbott Explains Plan

Air Force Secretary Harold E. Talbott told the appropriations group this design was not final. So the committee denied his request for $79,000,000 in construction funds, and told him not to

Mother, Twin Sons Doing Fine At Hospital After Front-Lawn Delivery At Hinen Home

Mrs. David Hasty, Liberty Mills Road, and twin sons, Carl and Mark, are reported doing very well at Saint Joseph's hospital, Fort Wayne, where they were rushed early Sunday morning after the father delivered the boys on the lawn of the home of the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hinen, Jefferson township.

The unusual site of delivery of the twins was "chosen" in this manner:

The couple were on their way to the hospital after Mrs. Hasty had awakened about 4 o'clock Sunday morning. Since they had no telephone, they decided to stop enroute to the hospital at her parent's home to contact the physician.

Arriving at the Hinen home about a mile from their own home, the young couple started inside. As she approached the porch, Mrs. Hasty found that she could go no further. The first son was born at 4:20 a.m. by automobile headlights on the Hinen's front lawn. The father calmly assisted. The second son was born shortly afterwards, with Mrs. Hinen, who was awakened by the noise from the "delivery room", assisting.

Mrs. Hinen, herself the mother of ten children, confided that she was nervous.

Wrapped in warm blankets, the boys weighing 5 pounds, 3 ounces, and 6 pounds, 5 ounces, and their mother were rushed to Saint Josephs Hospital. All three were given thorough medical check-ups and are reported little worse for their experience.

The proud father, who had no previous mid-wifery experience, also came through the ordeal with no ill effects.

The Hastys are the parents of two other boys, Michael David, 2½, and Andrew Allen, 1½, both born in a hospital with professional assistance.

After the ordeal, Mrs. Hasty said that she suspected that she might have twins. But, she didn't expect a front-lawn delivery.

Warm, Moist Air Expected Thursday For Hoosierland

By UNITED PRESS

A mass of cool dry air hanging over Hoosierland is expected to be replaced by warm moist air about Thursday the Weather Bureau said today.

Indiana's temperatures will begin near normal and gradually warm up. The average will be two to five degrees above normal, the five-day outlook said.

Normal maximums are 88 north to 92 south. Normal minimums are 63 north to 67 south.

No precipitation was expected during the period, but an increase in humidity was slated with the rise in temperature.

Hoosiers basked in the warm sun and dry cool air of a front passing from Western Canada Monday. The sun, shining through clear skies, kept the highs ranging from 90 at Evansville to 85 at Lafayette.

The same was expected today and a two-degree warm-up was expected in the central and south Wednesday.

Lows early today dipped to 60, the coolest this month, at South Bend and Fort Wayne. A 67 at Evansville was the warmest low. Lows ranging from 64 to 70 were on tap for tonight.

Plaintiffs Settle Suit Against Geiger Estate For $850

Judge Lowell Pefley approved the dismissal with prejudice of one claim and awarded the plaintiff $850 in another claim in a suit against the Benjamin F. Geiger estate in Whitley County circuit court Monday.

The plaintiffs, Charles N. and Hester Ansley, were seeking $5,000 in a claim against the estate for injuries alleged to have been caused to their daughter, Katherine, in an automobile accident August 9, 1952 on State highway 205. The daughter was a passenger in a vehicle which was involved in a collision with an automobile driven by the deceased man.

The Ansleys had charged that the Geiger car had crossed the center line and that he was guilty of five counts of negligence contributing to the accident.

In the decision, the court ruled that the estate had paid $1,329.99 for the injured girl's medical and hospital bills and that only $850 was due.

Administrator Named For Walters Estate

Letters of administration for the estate of William H. Walters, who died July 6, 1955, were issued in Whitley County circuit court Monday to Ernest Walters, son of the decedent, of South Whitley.

The only other heir named to the estate is Barbara King, a daughter, also of South Whitley.

The administrator's bond was set at $11,000. The sureties are Barbara King and Donald Brown.

Policeman Calls For Some Help

WASHINGTON (UP)—A policeman who had no trouble subduing five robbery suspects Sunday called on fellow officers Monday to help him fend off a red-haired woman.

The woman, Miss Pearl Gainous whacked the officer on the head and shoulders with an umbrella when he grasped her arm to push her out of the path of an oncoming car. She was charged with jaywalking and disorderly conduct.

Backstairs At The White House

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer

WASHINGTON (UP) — Backstairs at the White House:

It escaped public notice at the time, but when the President and Mrs. Eisenhower recently celebrated their 39th wedding anniversary at their Gettysburg farm, they included among their guests some White House employes who rarely are invited above stairs.

The 150 guests included the gardener, Robert Redmond, and his staff of groundskeepers, the housekeepers, the electricians and the carpentry shop staff.

These people may be "little" in rank as far as protocol is concerned, but their daily jobs are quite vital to the happiness and efficiency of a President and his family.

The ranking staff members gave the Eisenhowers a small setee for one of the upstairs rooms of the house. But the lawn-cutters, the carpenters and electricians chipped in for a large, handsome silver platter.

To show his gratitude and to play the role of a gracious host, the President took all of his hired hands on a personally conducted tour of the first floor of the Gettysburg house. Then, there was a thoroughly explained trip over the farm, with the President pointing with pride to his cows and sows, his sheep and ducks and his fishing pond.

Moving spirit behind the presentation of the silver tray was Howell Crim, the chief usher at the White House. He was happier than any of the guests that the household and grounds employes received some share of social recognition from the President and his wife.

The hired help liked the affair, too. It probably was the only chance for most of them to get inside the Gettysburg house. The electricians particularly admired the new electric eye guard system set up around the home. And the gardening staff gave a professional eye to the new shrubs and trees planted during the late winter and early spring.

Customer Unaware Stickup In Progress

NEW YORK (UP)—Mrs. Gertrude Davies told jeweler Borris Rubinstein to go ahead and wait on two men in his shop Monday while she looked over some earrings.

Rubinstein sadly walked back to the two men and finished the stickup that had been in progress when Mrs. Davies walked in. The two men made off with five rings. The woman didn't know what was going on until the men left.

Businessman Sues Hotel; Charges They Forgot To Call Him

NEW YORK (UP)—A Milwaukee businessman is suing the famous Waldorf-Astoria Hotel for $500,000, charging a hotel telephone operator forgot to awaken him for a big buusiness deal but that call girls rapped on his door "day and night."

The suit, by Frederick G. Osborne Jr. came to light in Supreme Court Monday when the hotel asked for an amended complaint with more details.

Osborne, who heads a manuufacturing firm in Milwaukee, said he stayed at the Waldorf from April 7 to May 20. He said he gave "specific instructions" to be awakened at 9 a.m. on the morning of May 6 but slept through without being disturbed.

This caused him, he charged, to miss an appointment "which would have enabled me to realize a considerable profit."

On the other hand, Osborne charged, when he wanted to sleep during his stay he was "repeatedly disturbed by the solicitations by women, both during day and night, for the purposes on their part of prostitution.'

He said he would have "this matter' referred to the district attorney.

Officials of the hotel declined to comment on the allegations until they see a more detailed charge.

A hearing on the hotel's request of an amended complaint was set for July 21.

Shriners Parade On Michigan Avenue

CHICAGO (UP) — A jackass patrol from Nebraska and seven camels from Madison, Wis., were in the 10-mile-long line of march today for the Shriners' seven-hour parade down Michigan Avenue.

The parade, with 25,000 marchers representing every state in the union, Canada, Mexico, Hawaii, and the Canal Zone was the first public event for the week-long conclave of the Ancient Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

Seventy brass bands, 60 oriental bands, several bagpipe bands, 600 horses; 50 groups of chanters, 30 floats, 23 mounted patrols, the jackass patrol and the camels from the Zor Temple at Madison were in the lineup.

Former President Harry S. Truman; Imperial Potentate Frank S. Land, Kansas City, Mo.; Illinois Gov. William G. Stratton; Chicago Mayor Richard Daley; and past imperial potentates including movie comedian Harold Lloyd were on the reviewing stand.

Fast Time Question Still Undecided For South Bend

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UP)—A showdown on year-around Eastern Standard Time vs. a combination of "fast" and "slow" time for South Bend was still at least two weeks away today.

The South Bend Common Council held a puublic meeting Monday to decide whether to continue the permanent EST adopted Nov. 28. But it adjourned to investigate the pros and cons further.

Mayor John Scott's suggestion was to adopt EST only for April-through-October, returning to CST for the winter months. Main argument in favor of that plan at the meeting was that under "fast" time children must go to school in darkness during the winter.

The council postponed the showdown until July 25 to investigate the possibility of revising class schedules to meet the school problem, and of conducting a referendum on the matter in the fall elections.

Attorney George Beamer said children could avoid the winter darkness if the school board would agree to change the school starting time.

National League Slight Favorite To Win Today's Game

MILWAUKEE (UP) — The ational League's slugger-studded team was a slight favorite at 11-10 to win today's 22nd annual major-league All-Star game against an American League team banking heavily on pitching strength.

Righthander Robin Roberts (13-7) of the Philadelphia Phillies was scheduled to start for the Nationals in the fans' "dream game" before a wildly enthusiastic capacity crowd of about 45500, with southpaw Billy Pierce (5-6) of the Chicago White Sox starting for the American Leaguue.

The game was scheduled to begin at 2 p.m. CST with "very good" weather predicted. It was to be nationally televised (NBC) and broadcast (Mutual).

Home run power was the overriding reason why the Nationals, who trail in the annual summer classic, 13 games to 8, were favored to win for the fifth time in the last six games. The NL presented a starting lineup built around belting beauties Ted Kluszewski of Cincinnati the major-league homer leader with 29, Duke Snider of the Brooklyn Dodgers, runner-up with 28, and Ed Mathew of the host Milwaukee 22.

The starting time of today's game was set back a half-hour because of the funeral in Chicago earlier today of Arch Ward sports editor of the Chicago Tribune, who founded this game in 1933. Ward died Saturday at the age of 58.

Many notables of the game attended Wards funeral and the delay was to enable them to make the journey from Chicago to Milwaukee — approximately 100 miles.

Although the National League team boasted greater slugging power with 279 homers to only 180 for the American Leaguers, the AL batsmen had a collective .299 batting average to .289 for the NL hitters.

The NL starting lineup contained one change from that voted by the fans. Roy Campanella of the Dogers, who drew more votes than any other player, was unable to catch becauuse of an injured knee and was replaced in the starting array by Del Crandall of Milwaukee.

Mule To Come Out Of Retirement For Fort Wayne Races

The mule, which is playing second fiddle these days to the farm tractor, will come out of retirement this week when harness racing makes an infrequent visit to the area at the Fort Wayne Speedway.

The stubborn former beast of the farm can be seen in sulky races each of the four nights of the harness events Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Various area persons will serve as drivers of the mules.

Mule racing is popular at other fairs throughout the Midwest, but this is the first time it has been scheduled in the area.

Filling the major part of the program will be a field of 67 horses which have been entered from stables throughout Indiana, Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky.

The harness races have been arranged by Fort Wayne harness officials and members of the Southeastern Fair Association. A large crowd is expected to watch the pacers and trotters do their stuff.

Annual Convention Of Delta Theta Tau In Fort Wayne On July 13 To 16 Inclusive

Mrs. Donald Sullivan will go to Fort Wayne Wednesday to attend the national convention of Delta Theta Tau National Sorority, Inc. meeting there.

Gamma, the chapter at Fort Wayne, is calling this conclave "Kekionga Konfab," after the old Indian name of their village before General Anthony Wayne established the fort "where three rivers meet" following his victory over Chief Little Turtle of the Miami Indians in 1794. The hostesses plan to entertain 600 guests with social functions recalling the colorful history of Fort Wayne, among them a "Chief Little Turtle Pow-Wow", a "Johnny Appleseed Luncheon," a "Feast of the Deer Moon," and a "Mad Anthony Whirl."

On Saturday Beta Upsilon chapter will initiate eight local women into the sorority as they present the model initiation service at the meeting. The initiates are Mrs. Charles Lowe, Mrs. Paul Murphy, Mrs. Jim Biddle, Mrs. Gordon Washington, Mrs. Donald Johnson, Miss Charlotte Fahl, Miss Marietta Miller and Miss Darlene Smith. Members of the ritual team are Mrs. Douglas Clapp, Mrs. Garland Stickler, Miss Sally Myer, Mrs. James Rohrbach, Mrs. Richard Feist, Mrs. Robert Sharpe, Mrs. Robert Boyer, Mrs. Eugene Byer, Mrs. Roger Plew, and Mrs. Joseph Myers. Singing in the trio at the convention are the Misses Joan Heinley, June Jones and Shirley Gruver. The pianist for the initiation is Mrs. Carl Sederland.

Delta Theta Tau, a philanthropic sorority founded in 1903 at Muncie, has 196 active chapters and 89 alumnae associations throughout the United States. Membership is almost 15,000. At last years national convention, these local chapters spent a total of $112,95.88 for various charities. This year an even greater amount will be reported. Each chapter has its own philanthropy such as aid to hospitals, schools, children's homes and other related projects.

During the past year Beta Upsilon chapter sponsored the Mother's March on Polio, provided organization and workers for the Salk vaccination program distributed Civil Defense posters, provided baskets for needy families at Christmas and Easter, and are at the present time preparing for a drive for funds for the Indiana Association for Mental Health. Members of the sorority also assisted in the retarded children's school that was started here.

The sorority nationally supports the Delta Theta Tau Nursing Service at Pippapass, Kentucky, and provided funds for the remodeling of a 28-bed section, known as the Delta Theta Tau Wing, to the Magnetic Springs Polio Foundation, Magnetic Springs, Ohio.

Twenty-eight years ago the Delta Theta Tau Community School at Brinkley, Kentucky, was founded by the sorority. Today the third generation of children are attending this school, a model institution for that part of the Kentucky mountains.

Mrs. Graham Roland, San Diego, California, is the nationa, president and will preside at the business meeting. Mrs. Lowell Grant, immediate past national president, and who is at present a member of the board of trustees, will also attend the convention. Mrs. Martin Nelson, president, and Mrs. Robert Sharpe of the local chapter will attend all sessions of the convention and other members will be present at some of the functions.

Class Of 1949 Holds Reunion At Long Lake Richland Township

Hobby And Craft Planning Trip To Chicago In September

The Hobby and Craft club was entertained Monday by Mrs. Louis Rosselot, former Tri Lakes resident now living near Leo. A picnic dinner was served on the sun porch of the Rosselot home.

Fourteen persons attended the picnic meeting including two guests, Mrs. Paul Rudolph of this city and Mrs. Bessie Welsh of Tri Lakes. Members responded to roll call with sewing hints. The devotions were conducted by Mrs. Wayne Gaylord.

Plans were made by the club for a trip to Chicago on September 12. Bingo formed the entertainment. Mrs. Rudolph was awarded the door prize.

Miss Kay Williams Becomes The Fifth Mrs. Clark Gable

MINDEN, Nev. (UP) — A new "queen" reigned over Hollywood today — blonde actress Kay Williams.

Miss Williams became the fifth wife of Clark Gable, the graying, he-man actor known as "the king," in a spur of the moment ceremony performed by a justice of the peace here Monday.

After the brief ceremony the newlyweds left for a honeymoon at an undisclosed destination, possibly Gable's secluded cabin on the Nevada side of Lake Tahoe.

The marriage climaxed 13 years of friendship between the 54-year-old Gable and Miss Williams, 37, whose battles in court and otherwise with her former husband, millionaire playboy Adolph Spreckels II made Hollywood history.

Gable and Miss Williams always insisted they had no intentions of marrying. However, anonymous tipsters had telephoned news agencies in the last two weeks that they might be wed soon.

They got their marriage license only minutes before appearing before Justice of the Peace Walter Fischer. They were accompanied by Mrs. Elizabeth Williams Nesser of Los Angeles and Mr. and Mrs. Albert S. Menasco of St. Helena, Calif.

Mrs. Nesser was matron of honor and Menasco was the best man.

Gable has a cabin at Lake Tahoe, where he often spends weekends hunting and fishing in the early summer. He established residence there three years ago to obtain a divorce from his fourth wife, Lady Sylvia Ashley.

Gable and Miss Williams made headlines in 1951 when Spreckels testified in a pre-divorce trial hearing that she told him she had been intimate with Gable. Miss Williams denied the accusation.

Gable's previous wives were drama coach Josephine Dillon, Reah Langham, actress Carole Lombard, who was killed in a 1941 plane crash and Lady Ashley, whom he married in 1949 and divorced in 1952 after reportedly settling $150,000 on her.

Miss Williams, originally from Erie, Pa. was married briefly in 1942 to Argentine sportsman Martin de Alzaga Unzue. In 1945 she married Spreckels and divorced him seven years later. During a series of stormy court battles she accused him of beating her, chopping down her door and using abusive language.

In August, 1953, Spreckels beat her so severely with a shoe that she had to go to a hospital. He spent 30 days in jail for assault.

She won custdoy of their two children, Joan, 4½, and Adolph III 6 during the divorce.

Russian Drama Critic Heads For Shakespeare Festival

WASHINGTON (UP) — A Russian drama critic headed for a Shakespeare festival in Stamford, Conn. today through the "very pink of courtesy" (Romeo and Juliet) of the State Department.

Connecticut is off limits to Soviet citizens. But the Russian Embassy Saturday asked the State Department to "break the bitter bread of banishment" (Richard II) and allow Efevgeni V. Litoshko to cover the event.

The department agreed to do so —"no act of common passage, but a strain of rareness" (Cymbeline). But "lest too light winning make the prize light' (Tempest), it waited until late Monday to approve the trip.

Not wanting to "give dalliance to much reign' (Tempest), it gave him permission to stay for only "several" days.

In a note, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles told Russia he hopes it would relax its travel restrictions for Americans in similar circumstances.

Officer - Sgt. Friday, Driver - Davy Crockett

LOS ANGELES (UP) — "I'm Sergeant Friday," said the police officer to the motorist he pulled over to the curb. "And I'm Davy Crockett," said the driver.

After "geting the facts," police Sgt. Lester Friday handed a ticket for running a red light to Davey W. Crockett, 20, of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Kreitzer, The Bib le Quiz Whiz Who May Go For $64,000 Tonig ht, Can Be Stumped

By H. D. QUIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP)—Mrs. Catherine Kreitzer, the Bible quiz whiz who may go for $64,000 tonight, can be stumped.

I did it without even trying. The innocent question that she couldn't answer proves that — although she has surmounted some memory ticklers — she can trip over a familiar quotation (that is, one that starts out by being familiar).

It was during an interview. Mrs. Kreitzer, a grandmother with quick brown eyes and with a tiny bit of gray creeping into her hair just above her forehead, said she hadn't any idea what she'd do with the prize money she may get on the TV quiz show "$64,000 question.'

"Were not bad off financially," she said, and indicated she was not overly interested in the prize money.

"A good name is rather to be desired than great riches," I said, quoting (I thought accurately) from the Bible.

"You mean, '...rather to be chosen than great riches,' " she said, correcting my quotation.

"What is the rest of that proverb something about 'silver and gold,' isn't it?" I asked, idly curious rather than trying to test her.

Says She Doesn't Know

Mrs. Kreitzer frowned in thought for a moment and then said she didn't know. A check of the Bible later showed that the complete sentence (Proverbs 22:1) goes: "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches, and loving favor rather tha nsilver and gold."

Her inability to complete the proverb shows her armor of learning can be pierced by a type of question that's somewhat common of quiz shows.

Mrs. Kreitzer, who has been exposed to the Bible since she was five, tries to read from it each day. She has won $32,000 by answering nine questions about the Bible during three sessions of the show. Tonight she will say whether she will take the $32,000 or risk losing it by trying for the 10th, $64,000 question.

Missing the question would bring her only a consolation prize of a Cadillac convertible. She and her husband James, who live with one of their six grown sons on their eight-acre farm one mile south of Harrisburg, Pa., already have a 1952 Ford and an International truck. They grow peaches, pears, plums apricots and have two acres in corn.

Not A Church Member

Mrs. Kreitzer is not a church member. Her mother who is dead, and her 82-year-old father, Joseph Bucher, belonged to the Church of God she said. Asked about a report that she belonged to the United Brethren denomination, she said, rather sternly:

"My nam eis on no church roll You can say that I did belong to the United Brethren—period."

Mrs. Kreitzer, 54, explained why she got a job as typist five years ago at the Mechanisburg, Pa. naval supply depot:

"The kids all grew up. I'd get up in the morning and get the house cleaned in a couple of hours —and just sit there. So I went out and got me a job. I didn't have to."

She makes about $3,000 a year. Her husband makes about $3,500 as a carpenter. If she should decide to keep the $32,000, their year's income would be around $38500. If they filed a joint return, their tax would be about $12,500, according to accountants.

If she wins the $64000 their income would be $75500 and their joint federal tax would be about $31,700.

If they wanted to give to charity the full 20 per cent allowed on the federal income tax return, they could cut their tax to about $8,600 on the lesser income and to $23,116 on the greater.

Attend "School Sessions"

The farm delegation attended "school sessions" Monday with officials of the Agriculture and State departments. After a news conference they will fly to New York and leave for Russia, via Finland, from New York's Idlewild Airport.

cnA xeah eeldnge gation of So-

An exchange delegation of Soviet farm officials is scheduled to arrive at New York July 16 for a 30 to 35 day tour of American farm areas

The American group is unofficial. Its members, selected by three farm leaders from private life, were picked as "representatives of American agriculture" and will pay their own expenses of $2,500 to $3,000 apiece, officials said.

Chairman of the group is Dr W. V. Lambert, dean of the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture. Another member is Lauren K. Soth, editorial writer of the Des Moines (Iowa) Register and Tribune, whose editorial suggesting the exchange of farm visits led to the tours.

check on the other children, Mary, 11, and Timothy 7.

"I walked into the room where Donna was and saw that she was not in her rcrib" Davis said.

He said he thought she had gone into the next bedroom to sleep "with the other kids." Then he asked his wife, "is Donna sleeping with the other kids?"

"My wife let out a scream and then I reached my hand around and saw that the screen was missing."

Davis said he heard no noise beween the time Donna was put in her bed — about 9:30 — and the time he entered the room, about a half hour later. He called police at 10:06.

Police said anyone taking the girl from her crib would have had to enter the room. The window is about four feet off the ground and the crib is another four feet from the window. The Davises live on the first floor of a modest, two-story duplex.

One police officer, angered by the crime, said, "it's terrible when you can't place a child in bed and go watch TV or listen to the radio."

Sewer Obstruction Is "Live" Shell

CAMDEN, N.J. (UP)—Plumber Bill Whalen nearly fainted Monday when he got a better look at an obstruction he removed from a sewer Monday with a heavy iron bar.

The obstruction was a "live" 75 millimeter artillery shell. Army officials took it to nearby Ft. Dix to detonate it.

Durocher Plans 'Push Button' Game; Lopez Will Stick With His Starters If They Go Good

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP)—Leo Durocher planned a "push button" game and Al Lopez said he would "stick with his starters if they're going good" in the major league 22nd All-Star game today.

"We want to win this game," Lopez said. "No, it's not for revenge but just that we think it's an important game. We definitely don't consider it just an exhibition game."

Manager Lopez of the Cleveland Indians, said he had been asked frequently if he was out for revenge for last year's four-straight World Series defeat by Durocher and his New York Giants. He denied this was a factor in his desire for an American League win over the National League.

"With the kind of squad we've got all I have to do is push a button just like Joe McCarthy used to do,' Durocher said. "We've got a team on the bench just as strong as the one on the field."

Lopez did not think lightly of his American League team, either. "We have a fine ball club," he said. "I'd like to have it."

Durocher said he would set Stan Musial in the National League lineup as soon as possible after the starters have played their required three innings. He said he had no particular plans for Willie Mays but would move Duke Snider to right field when he puts Mays in. Billy Pierce of Chicago was named to start for the American League pitcher, and Robin Roberts of Philadelphia got the National League nod.

Lopez said he probably would follow with his own Early Wynn and then maybe Whitey Ford of

"If we're going good I may not to three innings except for extra innings.

New York. Pitchers are limited make a substitution," Lopez said. "We may make some defensive changes but I'm not concerned with getting everyone in the ball game. We're out to win this game."

Neither manager would predict the outcome other than the stock phrase "I've got a good ball club."

Musial will appear in his 12th All-Star game, more than any other player in history. Roberts matches the major league record of five starts set by Lefty Gomez of the American League and broke his own National League record set last year.

The game was rated almost even although the National League once was a 7-5 favorite.

The National has won four of the last five compared to the American 13-8 record in the series and an 11-9 victory at Cleveland last year.

No starting pitcher has won this midsummer classic, founded by the late Arch Ward of the Chicago Tribune, since 1896 when Bob Feller turned the trick over National League starter Claude Passau. The game serves as a solemn memorial to Ward, who instigated the first All-Star game in 1933 and was buried a few hours before game time today. He died Saturday at the age of 58.

About 45,500 fans, most of them from Milwaukee, were expected to attend.

Another estimated 60 million were expected to watch or listen on NBC television, Mutual radio and Armed Services radio plus several foreign broadcasts at p.m. EDT game time.

The weather forecast was "very good," fair with temperatures near 80 and a 15 mile an hour in-blowing wind.

Ralph Dupas Ready For Title Fight If Manager Approves

NEW ORLEANS (UP)— Young Ralph Dupas said today he was ready for a title fight if his manager approved but that he didn't want to fight Paddy DeMarco anymore because he didn't like tactics the "Brooklyn Billygoat" used.

Dupas, the 20-year old top-ranked lightweight contender, battered Demarco through nearly all the 10 rounds of their second encounter Monday night to take a unanimous decision.

DeMarco disagreed with the officials and said, "I think I won the fight. In fact, I was never surer of winning any fight in my life."

Dupas' manager, Whitey Esneault said "We'd like to go for the championship but we can't do it until Ralph is 21 or unless they approved mixed fight sin New Orleans."

Although there is no law against Negroes and whites fighting here, the Louisiana Boxing Commission recently refused to allow such to be staged.

Dupas' age keeps him from fighting a 15-round title fight most anywhere else but New Orleans, his home town.

"There's no percentage in me fighting DeMarco, because you can get hurt fighting him, his rough stuff and elbows," Dupas said. "He was much easier this time and I knew I had him after the third round. I had his style figured out."

DeMarco handed Dupas a split loss in their previous meeting here in January 1954. The win Monday night for Dupas avenged all his 6 losses in 66 professional fights. DeMarco the seventh ranked contender, called 140 pounds to Dupas' 138½. Judge Lucien Joubert scored the fight for Dupas, 5-3-2, Judge Phil Gaffney gave it to Duupas 7-2-1 and Referee Francis Kercheval 4-3-3. The United Press scored it 7-1-2.

U. S. Golf Association Announces Set-up For National Amateur

NEW YORK (UP)—The U.S. Golf Association announced today 31 qualifying sections, six fewer than last year, have been set up for the National Amateur championship to be played at Richmond, Va., Sept. 12-17.

The qualifying will take place Aug. 30 except at Seattle, Wash., where the qualifying round will be played Aug. 23.

A qualifying round has been added at Montgomery, Ala. Rounds played last year at Lincoln Neb.; Albuquerque, N.M.; Albany, N. Y.; Portland, Ore.; Lubbock, Tex.; Milwaukee, Wis.; and Salt Lake City, Utah, have been eliminated. The number of sections has been reduced in an effort to consolidate the smaller ones.

A field of 200, composed of qualifiers and entrants exempt from sectional qualifying, will contest the championship proper at the James River course of the Country Club of Virginia. The championship will be at match play.

Entries are open to male amateur golfers with handicaps not exceeding four strokes. For the first time, handicaps must be computed according to the USGA handicap system for men. Residents of the U.S. must be members of USGA member clubs. Entries must be in the USGA office at 40 East 38th Street, New York, 16, N.Y., by 5 p.m., Aug. 12.

Sonny Puleo Wins From Rough Manzo

NEW YORK (UP) — Anthony (Sonny) Puleo, young Brooklyn lightwight who won a substitute television fight at St. Nicholas Arena Monday night, was offered another bout there today with featherweight contender Carmelo Costa.

Promoter Tex Sullivan said, "I'd like to match Puleo and Costa next month if I can."

Smart direction from his corner helped 23-year-old Sonny win a unanimous 10-round decision over rough Libby Manzo of Elmhurst, N.Y., Monday night. Manzo's head long aggressiveness won the first two rounds. Then Sonny's handlers told him to straighten up Libby with a "lifting" attack of uppercuts and hooks to the head. He followed directions admirably.

Puleo, in his 15th professional fight, weighed 136¼ pounds; Manzo, 134 for his 27th bout. Manzo, 25, was penalized the 10th round for butting, and he was warned several other times. He was groggy in the 5th and 10th rounds but there were no knockdowns.

Ohio State Lineman Signs With Colts

BALTIMORE (UP)—Bob Myers, a standout lineman at Ohio State University, finally has been signed to a professional football contract by the Baltimore Colts. The Colts bid for him at two different draft meetings before establishing their rights to his services. Myers, 23, stands 6-feet-5 and weighs 270 pounds.

Perfect Weather For All-Star Game

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP) — Perfect weather was forecast for the major league All-Star game today.

The temperature was expected to be near 80 with fair weather. A wind of about 15 miles an hour was anticipated to blow from the east toward home plate.

No game has been postponed in the 22-year series. However, one game was curtailed by weather. It was called after five innings by rain in 1952 at Philadelphia.

Sports Leaders And President Discuss Competitive Sports

WASHINGTON (UP)—The White House said today consideration is being given to the formation of a committee to interest youngsters in competitive sports — the subject discussed by President Eisenhower Monday at his meeting with 32 leaders from the sports world.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon was suggested as the coordinator of such an effort, but Nixon, who was present at the luncheon, said no formal plans were drawn up.

Mr. Eisenhower, a baseball and football player in his college days at West Point and now the nation's best-known amateur golfer, told his guests that something should be done to promote greater interest in competitive athletics, both as an aid to the nation's general health and as a weapon against juvenile delinquency.

The President said he found statistics on the physical condition of young Americans "more alarming than I thought."

The luncheon guests appeared enthusiastic about the President's idea and Jack Fleck, who recently scored a major surprise by winning the U.S. Open golf championship, commented, "You can easily see the importance of this thing, since so many athletes from youth programs become leaders in the military and also in civilian life."

Tony Trabert, who recently won the Wimbledon tennis championship in England, said the aim of the drive should be "not to make big stars, but to help little kids coming up."

Nixon also addressed the luncheon and suggested that athletic programs of schools be reviewed to see whether more children could participate. Along the same lines, Dr. Hans Draus of New York University said that lack of physical fitness could lead to heart trouble, mental illness, and other problems.

Archie Moore, light-heavyweight boxing champion, also spoke briefly and the glib boxer so impressed Mr. Eisenhower that the President suggested Moore "ought to be elected to Congress."

Some Of Things You May Expect At All-Star Game

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—They'll play the All-Star game today and these are some of the things you can expect to see:

First of all, a full house. It is a matter of municipal pride that Milwaukee will have them hanging from the rafters as a sign that the city has come of major league age. (Even if its ball club hasn't, as of the moment.)

The surest bet of the day is that Willie Mays will at some point during the game lose his hat while running for a fly ball. (If he doesn't, it's a real upset.)

Musial Rides Bench

When the umpire hollers "play ball" you can wager safely that Stan Musial will feel silly siting on the bench. (Do you know a man more deserving of All - Star status?)

One of the day's most spectacular catches will be a one-handed, bare-handed, over-the-head grab by a kid in the stands. (Everybody else around him will be waving at the TV camera.)

Ted Williams will hit a home run. (He usually does, and why should this be any exceptions?)

A doctor in the house will receive an emergency summons over the public address system just as the winning run reaches third base. (The patient's dire question will be: "Did you say two of the white pills and one of the red, or two of the red and one of the white pills?)

One of the players will be racked up and handicap his team for the rest of the pennant race. (Dizzy Dean will tell you that you can get hurt in this one, against a power-packed field, much worse than you can in an ordinary ball game.)

One gent trying to duck a foul ball will catch it squarely on the eye. (Tomorrow all of the fellows at the office will ask him "what does the other guy look like?"

Feller Still Fastest

If Herb Score and Bob Turley both get into the game, one of the most interesting items should be a poll of the hitters as to which of them appeared to be the fastest. (And the prospects are that veteran hitters still would put their dough on the old Bob Feller.)

The ladies, bless 'em, will be on hand dressed as if it was the Easter parade. (Instead of the baseball Hit Parade.)

Red Schoendienst of the Cardinals still will be one of the best players on the field. (And one of the most unappreciated.)

One guy in the assemblage will break up with his doll on the theory that anybody as dumb as she is about baseball couldn't properly raise youngsters. (So she can cook?)

And, when the dust settles, the headlines will say:

"National League beats American League in All-Star game, 5 to 4."

Moisture Of Wheat Sold Monday Is Higher Than One Week Ago

The Farmers Elevator Co. of South Whitley reported to this newspaper Monday its first purchase of wheat this summer.

Due to the recent rainy weather, the moisture content of this wheat was higher than some which was combined on July 4. The lowest moisture report on July 4 was 12.1 per cent harvested by Carl Auer. The first grain received by the elevator Monday tested 14.2, from the Everett Jenkins farm, and the second load, from the Earl Stensil farm, tested 16 per cent. Both loads had test weights of 58 pounds per bushel.

Ordinarily, the area around South Whitley produces the first combined wheat, due to the more sandy condition of the soil, but this year was an exception.

Report Comes From George Washington

SAN PEDRO, Calif. (UP) — Coast Guardsmen were hesitant to doubt the veracity of a radioed report from a boatman that a flying saucer had zipped over his craft in the Santa Catalina channel.

The report came from George Washington.

Young Hoosier Brothers Drown In Guarded Pool

WINCHESTER, Ind. (UP)—Two young brothers drowned Monday night under mysterious circumstances in a guarded swimming pool.

They were Duane Mack, 10, and his brother, Lowell, 8, sons of the Ross Macks of near Lynn.

Their bodies were found lying near each other in nine feet of water in the deep end of Goodrich Park pool, shortly after their father had caled to them from outside the pool enclosure that it was time to go home.

Despite the fact a lifeguard was on duty and 25 or 30 children were in the pool at the time, nobody saw the boys go under. A small boy wearing a swimming mask saw one body and divers discovered the second when they recovered the first.

Dr. Harvey White, Randolph County coroner, said there was no sign of a struggle or any indication that one of the lads had hurt himself diving and the other had tried to rescue him.

Firemen and volunteers administered artificial respiration and the boys were taken to Randolph County Hospital where doctors made chest incisions and massaged their hearts. But the efforts were fruitless.

Indiana Hopes For Operation Of Seaport Within Four Years

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—Governro Craig said today Indiana hopes to have a Lake Michigan seaport open and in operatio nin four years.

Craig made the statement at a news conference called upon his return from a fishing trip to Canada and just before his departure for Camp Grayling, Mich., wherer he will review troops of the Indiana National Guard's 38th Infantry Division.

The governor said the state is going ahead with an investigation of how it might build the seaport with private funds and pay the money back with a bond issue. He said the port will be a public utility just like a railroad or a power plant and will always belong to the state.

Crraig also said he was concerned about the justice of peace situation in the light of reports that some justices have sent defendants to jail in violation of their powers. Justices of the peace should be on a salary basis, he said, and not dependent on fees from convictions.

The governor also said:

He will call a juvenile delinquency conference in September with speakers from out of the state and a goal of "educating local communities to meet these problems with the best approved methods."

Rites Held Tuesday For Alton I. Gerkin

Funeral services for Alton I. Gerkin, Etna-Troy township farmer, were held Tuesday morning at the Smith and Sons Funeral Home with the Rev. Albert Rider, former pastor of the Etna Methodist Church and now of Wawauka, officiating. Mrs. Helen Slagle Aker played a prelude and postlude on the organ as the musical portion of the service.

The pall bearers were Glen Witmer, Cleon Klingaman, Byron Miller, Leigh Waugh, William Snodgrass, and Harlan Ulrich. Committal services and burial followed the funeral home rites in the Catholic Cemetery.

Church Rites Held For Mrs. Krider

Funeral services for Mrs. Clara Jean Krider of Jefferson township were held Monday afternoon at the Oak Grove Church of God with the pastor, the Rev. Hubert Miller, and the Rev. Marion R. Shroyer officiating. Fred Smith sang three hymns, "Good Night and Good Morning," "Beyond The Sunset" and "Trees." His accompaniment, the prelude and postlude to the service were played on the church piano by Mrs. Helen Slagle Aker.

Members of the Bethany Sunday School Class attended the services in a group and served as the flower-bearers and pallbearers. Those who served as the active pallbearers were Robert Maggert, David Oliver, Norman Gordon, Mathiew Henney, Lester Worrick, and Edward Fenker. Committal services and burial followed the church rites in the Compton cemetery.

Scott Smith, 65, Big Lake, Dies; Was Ill For Eight Years

Memorial Rites To Be Thursday Afternoon

Scott Smith, 65, a resident at Big Lake for the pasty twenty-three years, died at his home at 10:50 Monday evening. He had been bedfast for only eight days, but had been in failing health for eight years following a heart attack.

He was a native of Washington township and was born December 24, 1889, a son of Withington and Ellen Montaven Smith. On November 15, 1924 he was united in marriage to Cecelia Shilts. They started housekeeping in Columbia City where Mr. Smith was an employe of the old Menefee Foundry. When the foundry closed, he moved to Big Lake where he worked at the carpenter trade. Eight years ago he was forced to retire when his health failed.

The surviving relatives, in addition to his wife Cecelia Smith, are two sons, Paul E. Smith and Gail A. Smith, both of Big ake and two grandchildren.

The body has been removed to the Smith and Sons Funeral Home where friends may call after 7 o'clock this evening. The Rev. Marion R. Shroyer will officiate at the funeral rites to be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the funeral home. Committal services and burial will follow the funeral home rites in the South Park Cemetery.

Services Thursday For Dr. Leininger

Services for Dr. Elmer Leininger, Sr., who died early Sunday morning at a Rochester hospital, will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday at the Easterday Funeral Home, Culver.

Dr. Leininger, a Chicago physician, was the son of the late Jules B. and Harriet M. Leininger of this city, and he had several relatives in this area.

Mrs. Olive Hurd Dies Monday Night At Nursing Home

Funeral Rites Thursday Afternoon

Mrs. Olive Gennetta Hurd, 90, died at 11:30 Monday evening at the Farris Nursing Home where she had been a patient since October 195. She had been in failing health for the past three years and bedfast for that period.

She was born July 31, 1864, in Allen county, a daughter of Jackson and Sarah Kauffman Ihrig. In the year 1881 she came with her parents to Whitley county and on November 8, 1883, was united in marriage to James K. Hurd by the Rev. Edward Miller. Mr. Hurd preceded her in death in 1926. Mrs. Hurd has been a member of the First Church of God since 1898

The surviving relatives include one son, Chauncey Hurd, of South Whitley; one daughter, Mrs. Vera Gardner, Kalamazoo, Mich.; one brother, Spencer J. Ihrig, Grand Rapids, Mich.; fourteen grandchildren; thirty-five great-grandchildren; and two great-great-grandchildren. In addition to her husband, she has been preceded in death by a son, Orland, and four brothers.

The body has been removed to the Smith and Sons Funeral Home where friends may call after 7 o'clock this evening. The Rev. Alvin S. Link, pastor of the First Church of God, will officiate at the funeral rites to be held Thursday afternoon at 3:30 at the funeral home. Commital services and etery.

Eisenhower Promises Frequent Progress Reports On Big Four

By RAYMOND LAHR
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower promised Republican and Democratic leaders of Congress today that he will make "frequent progress reports" on the Big Four summit conference at Geneva next week.

The White House announced that the President also told a group of 25 legislative leaders at a White House conference that he will give them "an appraisal of the accomplishments of the Big Four meeting when it is over.

The lawmakers conferred with Mr. Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles for nearly two hours on plans for the momentous conference opening in Geneva Monday.

The leaders reported general unanimity of views at the meeting. House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr., (Mass.) said everyone was "hopeful that some good will come out of the conference."

All Endorse Statement

Speaker Sam Rayburn (Tex.) told newsmen that everyone present unanimously subscribed to a brief White House statement summarizing the meeting and disclosing the President's pledge to make frequent reports on the Geneva talks.

The statement said the President and Dulles outlined the issues the United States expects to arise at the Big Four meeting, "the attitudes in which the U.S. delegation will approach the meeting," and the international developments of the past few months "bearing on the matters expected to be considered at the conference." No details were given.

After the briefing, the White House said, "there was a full and free question and answer period." said no sharp differences of view were expressed.

"The leaders were assured by the President," the White House said, "of frequent progress reports during the duration of the conference and of an appraisal of its accomplishment at its conclusion."

Reports Not Public

Murray Snyder, acting White House press secretary, said progress will be cabled to the congressional leaders from Geneva and will give the impressions and views of both the President and Secretary of State. He said they will be for the information of the leaders and will not be made public at the time of receipt.

Snyder said the general appraisal provided the congressmen at the conclusion of the conference also probably will not be made public. But he said he feels sure there will be a public accounting to the American people in some form or another.

Snyder declined to reveal the views outlined by the President at the bipartisan congressional meeting. He was asked whether the bipartisan resolution expressing hope that the Soviet satellites might some day be free, introduced Monday in the senate, had come up at the meeting.

In reply, Snyder said "there was no discussion of any specific legislation." He said by this he meant to include resolutions.

Chairman Walter F. George (D-Ga.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee told reporters, in advance of the White House meeting, that he is "very hopeful" the Big Four talks will improve chances for world peace.

Court Rules Sheppard Had A Fair Trial

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UP)—The Court of Appeals ruled today that Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard received a fair trial and should serve his life sentence for the bludgeon-murder of his wife, Marilyn.

The ruling came in a 6-page decision, and was on the first half of the appeal filed by Sheppard's attorneys asking for a new trial.

The three-judge court, in today's action, turned down the appeal based on alleged judicial errors during the 10-week trial.

The second appeal, which still has not been acted upon, is based on "newly - discovered evidence" that the defense claims points to someone else's guilt.

The three-judge court is expected to rule on the second motion later this month. If it rejects that motion, the 31-year-old osteopath would be taken to Ohio Penitentiary to start serving his life sentence.

Longer Rail Sections Result In Savings

LONGER RAIL SECTIONS 14 pt.

CHICAGO —(UP)— Railroads can save up to $300 per mile in track maintenance with use of the 78-foot rail as compared with standard 39-foot rail, it was reported at the annual meeting of the American Railway Engineering.

Savings spring mainly from the 50 per cent reduction in the number of troublesome rail joints that automatically accompanies replacement of 39-foot rail with sections of double length.

The barrier to large-scale expansion in the uuse of 78-fot rail, it rails, more than one million tons of which are bought and used by railroads annually.

Effort To Break Negro Vote Away From FDR Allegiance Begins To Make Political News

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — The mighty Republican effort to break the Negro vote away from allegiance to the memory of FDR is beginning to make some significant political news.

Stakes are big and both sides know it. Gov. Averell Harriman of New York is among those Democrats who are determined the Republicans shall not succeed. Witness his appointment last week of a Negro to the state court.

Justice Harold A. Stevens became the first member of his race to reach that high bench. President Eisenhower topped that notable first this week by adding a Negro to his official White House family.

Everett Frederick Morrow of New Jersey was sworn Monday as an administrative officer in the President's executive office. That is the top drawer of White House service where no Negro has lodged before, not even in Roosevelt and Truman administrations, during both of which the equal rights issue was kept going at forced draft.

Presidential Campaign Adviser

Morrow came to the White House from the office of Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks. He was an adviser in Mr. Eisenhower's 1952 presidential campaign and, doubtless, will be a widely circulated speaker in the campaign of 1956. What Morrow will tell Negro voters next year will be about what he said Monday on taking the oath of office:

"This singular occasion offers eloquent testimony to the complete sincerity and faith of President Eisenhower's belief in the right of any loyal American in this land to rise as far as his ability, character and ambition will carry him."

That's good campaign stuff, just as it is. The Democratic counter-offensive to the Republican raid is hampered, of course, by those Southern partymen and women who resist the current trend toward racial equality. Mr. Eisenhower may be just as much of an equal rights man as, for example, Adlai E. Stevenson. But the President wouldn't lose much by it in an election whereas Stevenson would in some areas.

The Eisenhower administration is not making one spectacular appointment and stopping there. The office of register of the Treasury usually went to a Republican Negro between 1881 and 1913. That trend ended with the Democratic Wilson administration and was not resumed until September, 1953, when Mr. Eisenhower named a Negro to the post, Louis B. Toomer of Atlanta, Ga.

The play for the Negro vote is real and in earnest. Vice President Richard M. Nixon recently broke an engagement to address a Negro group in Atlantic City. He outlined a four point program of objectives for Negroes:

1. Equality of employment opportunity.
2. Better housing for Negroes.
3. Removal of the last, small vestige of racial discrimination in the District of Columbia.
4. Completion of the school integration program.

The Negro has come into his own, politically. You must go back more than 50 years to match the significance of Morrow's addition to the White House official family. On Oct. 18, 1901, President Theodore Roosevelt had for a lunch guest Booker T. Washington, the great Negro educator. Historian Mark Sullivan called it "the most talked-of lunch eaten in the United States."

The urgency of the inter-party contest for the political affections of Negro voters is not difficult to understand. There are many of them. For example, the 1950 Negro population of California was 462,000; Illinois, 645,000; Indiana, 174,000; Michigan 442,000; New Jersey 318,000; New York 918,000; Ohio 513,000; and Pennsylvania 638,000.

House Bill

spend $15,000,000 apropriated earlier until plans are finally agreed on.

It suggested that he consult the government's fine arts commission before making up his mind.

The committee also expressed concern over the "seeming centralization of military activities" in the Colorardo Springs area, which already has the Army's Camp Carson and the Air Defense command. It "suggested...that a further study be made of this area with special reference" to the availability of adequate water supplies.

The committee turned down a request for $12,650,000 to build the hull of Mr. Eisenhower's proposed peace ship and for $21,000000 to build the atomic reactor to drive it. It pointed out that legislation to authorize this ship has not been approved by Congress.

AEC Has Funds

In chopping funds sought for other atomic construction the committee pointed out that AEC has $101,000,000 of unspent funds on hand. With this, and the $138,577,000 which it recommended in new money the committee said the agency will have enough to get by.

Among specific atomic projects cut or denied was a proposed new hospital at Oak Ridge, Tenn. The committee said keeping the old one would be cheaper and it allowed $5,000 to put it in shape.

In the polio field the committee approved in full Mr. Eisenhower's request for $300,000 in extra enforcement money to ward off a possible black market in vaccine. It okayed without reduction $4,500,000 for grants to states to plan vaccination programs. It allowed in full $400,000 to build a new monkey house at the National Institutes of Health, to facilitate vaccine safety tests.

But the $30,000,000 sought by the President to furnish free vaccine to those who cant afford it was denied, on the ground no authorizing legislation has been passed.

The committee allowed only $4,000,000 of the $50000 sought by the Prersident to finance U.S. participation in trade fairs over the world. It said a similar sum alprroperly administered," in that some of it has been spent on "very questionable prorjects."

Farmer Aid Inadequate

The commitee allowed $30,000,000 requested to step up the administration's program of aid for small farmers. But it denounced the sum and the program as inadequate, and renewed a running feud between the committee's Democratic majority and Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson over farm philosophy generally.

"Perhaps the only thing left for the Department of Agriculture to recommend is that the low-income farmer get a job in town," said the committee in its report. "and that is largely what (it has) recommended in support of funds provided in the accompanying bill."

The committee allowed $1,000,000, as requested to cover expenses of the Big Four summit meeting and subsequent sessions of foreign ministers and negotiating groups.

The committee denied $17,100,000 sought by the Justice Department to build a new maximum security prison, somewhere in mid-country, to replace Alcatraz. The location considered was downstate Illinois.

Other congressional news:

Conference: Twenty - six congressional leaders from both parties and Vice President Richard M. Nixon conferred with Mr. Eisenhower and Dulles today on the forthcoming Big Four conference

Satellites: Sen Joseph B. McCarthy (R-Wis) introduced a resolution Monday calling for withdrawal of diplomatic recognition from Communist satellites in Eastern Europe and giving recognition instead to governments-in-exile of those countries. The resolution was a rival to Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland's milder proposal also introduced Monday, proclaiming hope for eventual independence of the satellites.

Dixon-Yates: A special Senate monopoly subcommittee continued its hearings today on the Dixon-Yates contract despite Mr. Eisenhower's order that it be cancelled. Chairman Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) said the investigation would "go right on" until the subcommittee can "get to the bottom" of how the contract was conceived and negotiated.

Reserves: Chairman Richard B. Russell (D-Ga) of the Senate Armed Services Committee took strong issue with Monday's testimony on the military reserve controversy by Adm. Arthur E. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Radford said if the Defense Department could not get from Congress a compulsory reserve plan as recommended by the administration, it would rather have no new reserve legislation at all. Russell retorted that "the higher brass are always demanding exactly what they want, but they never seem to refuse what they get." Russell is pushing a voluntary reserve plan under which any veteran volunteering for Army and National Guard duty in the combat reserve would be paid a bonus.

Highways: The House Public Works Committee called Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey today to give the administration's view about hiking taxes on highway users to finance expanded highway construction. Two Republican committee members, Reps. George A. Dondero (Mich) and Russell V Mack (Wash), said Humphrey would agree to the plan. Under the plan a 32 billion dollar federal contribution to the road-building program would be financed by higher taxes on gasoline, truck fuel and tires and trucks, buses and trailers.

Men Now Getting Housemaid's Knee

NEW YORK—(UP)— Now, husbands are getting housemaid's knee.

Mrs. Madge Ferredy, who heads the consumer research division for a vacuum cleaner company, reports that husbands are assuming more of the home cleaning task. Mrs. Ferredy says he receive approximately 200 letters a day, answers to a cleaning questionnaire which goes out with every new cleaner.

"We're getting more and more letters from the men," she said. "Sometimes they ask our advice, sometimes they tell how they've simplified a cleaning job, or how they think we should make our next vacuum."

"The idea that cleaning is beneath the man of the house is an old-fashioned one," she concluded.

Mrs. Hobby Resigns As Secretary Of Health, Education And Welfare

WASHINGTON (UP) — Mrs. Oveta Cu,p Hobby resigned today as secretary of health, education, and welfare.

President Eisenhower selected Marion B. Folsom undersecretary of treasury, to be her successor.

Mr. Eisenhower accepted the Texas-born-and-bred Mrs. Hobby's resignation in an extraordinary public ceremony at the White House before a crowded room of reporters and photographers.

As Mrs. Hobby stood by, the President paraphrased Secretary of Treasury George M. Humphrey and bade an admittedly sad farewell to Mrs. Hobby by dubbing her "the best man in the Cabinet."

Folsom, 61-year-old former executive in the Eastman Kodak Co. at Rochester, N.Y., will be formally nominated later in the day.

Mrs. Hobby's departure from the Cabinet has been expected for some time. The administration has sought to depress the idea voiced particularly in Democratic circles, that her departure would be due to her handling of the Salk polio vaccine program.

Mr. Eisenhower has praised her publicly for a "magnificent" job in handling the vaccine program. He said she is being forced to leave government service because of the illness of her husband W.P. Hobby of Houston, Tex., former governor of Texas.

Mrs. Hobby, second woman Cabinet member in the nation's history issued a statement expressing "regret" and "a deep sense of sadness" in leaving government service.

But she said she leaves with the knowledge that "this government is being guided by men and women of high principle who are capable, dedicated and selfless with their time and energy."

She lauded President Eisenhower's "strength, vision and leadership." She also praised her Cabinet colleagues and the men and women in her department as "public servants of a high order."

Mrs. Hobbys resignation was announced under blazing movie floodlights in the White House conference room just outside the

To Ship Nearly Million Shots Of Salk Vaccine

Eli Lilly Awaits Shipping Orders

NEW YORK (UP)—Shipment of nearly one million shots of Salk polio vaccine will begin today to states where second-round inoculations are under way or scheduled, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis announced.

First shipments were expected to go to Texas, Oklahoma, West Virginia and Missouri.

The vaccine involved is about 224,000 cubic centimeters of Wyeth Laboratories vaccine released by the Public Health Service last week and 720,000 ccs. of Eli Lilly vaccine released Tuesday. A cubic centimeter is enough for one dose.

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—Eli Lilly & Co. awaited orders today for shipping 720,000 newly-released Salk polio shots for inoculation of first and second grade children.

The Public Health Service in Washington announced the release Tuesday and said all the vaccine will go to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis for its free shot program. The foundation now must tell Lilly where to ship the vaccine.

A PHS spokesman said the vaccine, in production when testing standards were tightened in May, meets the new standards.

It was the latest batch released since the government adopted new stricter tests last May 26. It raised to 2,588,000 the number of shots released since the tests were tightened.

A Lilly spokesman said the vaccine is ready for shipment.

Second Child Born To The Karl Toons

The second child, a daughter, was born Tuesday to Mr. and Mrs. Karl Toon, R 4. The baby, Tonya Lee, weighed 5 pounds 7¼ ounces at birth at the Whitley County Hospital.

Mrs. Toon is the former June Willey. The couple has one other child, a boy.

Plane Crashes, Kills At Least 11 Crewmen

Early Today In California

MERCED, Calif. (UP)—An Air Force refueling plane crashed 17 miles north of Merced today, killing at least 11 crewmen, the California highway patrol reported.

The highway patrol said the plane crashed about 6:45 a.m. PDT.

Highway patrol headquarters in Sacramento said its Merced office reported it had dispatched three cars to the scene. The Merced office said several fire trucks arrived to attempt to quell the flames and, when rescue crews were able to approach the wreckage, 11 bodies were recoverd.

Castl Air Force Base officers said the plane crashed about 2 miles from the field only a few minutes after taking off on a routine refueling flight.

They said it is believed a fire on board the craft caused the crash. The plane exploded on impact and was demolished by fire.

An Air Force spokesman in Washington said the plane was from the Strategic Air Command and carried a crew of nine men.

Arraign Young Factory Worker For Murder

Of His Niece And Sister-In-Law

JJAMESTOWN N.Y. (UP) A young factory worker who described himself as a "damn maniac" was arraigned on two first degree murder charges today in the sex slaying of his sister-in-law and her 19-months-old daughter.

Joseph Reade Jr., 26, confessed Tuesday night that he murdered Mrs. Beverly Reade, 26, and her daughter, Cheryl Lynn after criminally assaulting both in his brother's four-room apartment here. He was ordered to Gowanda State Hospital for mental tests.

"I want to pray and everything. . ." Reade said in his confession. "Inwardly I feel that I want to be the best Christian in the world and outwardly I'm a damn maniac. And I can't control the outward part and I don't know why. . ."

The killer's brother Francis, 23, found the savagely-beaten bodies of his wife and daughter Tuesday morning when he returned home from his nightshift job at an arts metal concern. He found the front door swinging open and the two victims sprawled on a blood-spattered bed.

Mrs. Reade, clad only in a thin rumpled blouse, lay with a pillow over her face. The child lay alongside its mother. Bloodstains were on the floor, walls and in a nearby bathroom.

Second Daughter Born To The Klingensteins

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Klingenstein, now of Lawton, Okla., are the parents of a second daughter, Susan, born Thursday and weighing 5 pounds 8 ounces.

Mrs. Klingenstein is the former Sharon Lowe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. V. Lowe of near Columbia City.

Mrs. Kreitzer Turns To Prayer For Guidance, Didn't Try For $64,000 Bible Quiz Question

By H. D. QUIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP)—Mrs. Catherine E. Kreitzer turned to prayer for guidance on whether to keep $32,000 won answering Bible questions on a television quiz, or risk losing it in trying to double it on a final question.

"I prayed for guidance twice, a few days ago," she said, "and the answer seemed to me to be — take the $32000 and quit."

Tuesday night she did just that. Early today she drove with her husband, James, 55, a carpenter to their farm home in Possum Hollow near Harrisburg Pa. James Kreitzer had the check for $32,000 in his inside coat pocket, and it will be deposited in the Lemoyne, Pa. Trust Co.

Deposit Money In Bank

Mrs. Kreitzer 54, a grandmother who became nationally famous in answering questions about the Bible on the CBS show "The $64,000 Question," had won the largest ash prize in radio-television history, according to the network.

What will she do with the money? "Put it away against the time my husband and I aren't able to work," she said. We arent going out on any wild spending spree. Weve never lived that way and we don't intend to start now."

Mrs. Kreitzer, who is something of a Pennsylvania pixie in her own way, stood the television audience on its ear for about three seconds when she made it appear she would plunge for the $64,000.

She had said before the program that she was having "a lotta fun." When Master of Ceremonies Hal March asked her if she had made up her mind whether to go for $64,000, she said, "I have sir."

Warehouse Destroyed In Evansville Fire

EVANSVILLE (UP) A warehouse containing raw materials owned by the Faultless Caster Co. was destroyed in a $150000 two-alarm fire Tuesday night.

Firemen saved the Stremming Lumber Co., located near the warehouse, but not without some damage.

Clouds of acrid smoke handicapped firemen as they fought the blaze in a building covered with sheet metal.

Police Find Good Prints Of Kidnap-Slayer

Provide First "Big Break"

By THOMAS MCNALLY
United Press Staff Correspondent

SIOUX CITY, Iowa (UP) — Several "good" fingerprints of the rape-slayer of 2-year-old Donna Sue Davis have been found in the bedroom from which she was abducted, police said today.

Optimistic police officials said the prints, found on a cedar chest, Donna's crib and the frame window through which the killer escaped, provide the first "big break" in the case.

They said the prints probably will give positive identification of the murderer.

Meanwhile, the FBI issued a nationwide arrest order for the sex degenerate who snatched Donna from her crib while her parents watched television Sunday night and left her ravaged body at the edge of a muddy cornfield near South Sioux City, Neb., where it was found late Monday.

The blonde, curly-haired child was laid to rest today by four child pallbearers.

The pallbearers, all boys, were from the classroom of Donna's sister, Mary, 11, at St. Boniface Roman Catholic School, where funeral services were held at 9 a.m. CDT. A large crowd attended.

Donna was buried in a white lambskin casket lined with ivory crepe. A red bathrobe, bonnet and white gloves covered the abrasions on her tiny body. The casket was closed at the request of the child's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Davis.

No mass was said for Donna, because she wasn't confirmed. Burial was at Calvary Cemetery.

Meanwhile, local police continued their roundup and questioning of known sex deviates. They issued a "John Doe" warrant, which allows them to arrest anyone who fits the description of the killer anywhere in the world.

Six persons have been arrested so far, but four have been released and the other two are not considered likely suspects.

Police worked on the theory that the murderer was still in the city and that he is familiar with the area. They reasoned that during the kidnaping, he used a desolate road generally used only by local farmers.

4-H Dairy Club Members Visit Bulk Milk Plant

Thirty members of the Whitley County 4-H Dairy Club motored to Rochester Tuesday to see the new Dean Milk Company bulk receiving plant. This receiving plant started operation in December of 1954. This plant handles only bulk milk, and no cans are received. The group also stopped at the United States Fish Culture Station, located in Rochester. Here they saw the spawning ponds for bass and blue gills, how they are trapped and stored preparatory to stocking in ponds, lakes and streams.

Transportation was furnished by Mrs. John Mathias, Mrs. Chester Perry, Mr. and Mrs. James Eiler, Fred Martz, Hugh Reinhold, and Harold Buckenmeyer.

Officials Say Sentences Not Tough Enough

In Some Cases; Levied By Foreign Countries On American GIs

WASHINGTON (UP) — U.S. military commanders have complained that sentences imposed by foreign countries on GIs convicted of non-military crimes overseas haven't been tough enough in some cases, it was disclosed today.

The disclosure came in a State Department report as the House Foreign Affairs Committee opened hearings (at 10:30 a.m. EDT) in an investigation of the jailing of U.S. troops abroad.

Rep. Frank T. Bow (R-Ohio) has charged that GIs are being thrown into foreign "dungeons" for severe sentences without the protection of their constitutional rights. He has introduced a resolution calling for President Eisenhower to renegotiate or denounce the so-called status of forces treaties under which U.S. servicemen overseas are subject to the jurisdiction of foreign courts.

The United States has such agreements with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries and several others, including Japan, Ethiopia, Korea, Libya and Saudi-Arabia.

Asst. Secretary of State Thruston B. Morton, in a written report to the committee in opposition to the Bow resolution, said the "United States commanders sometimes complain that the sentences imposed by foreign countries are too lenient."

The administration, it was learned, has gathered details of some gruesome rape and murder cases in which GIs have been convicted abroad. But it was not known whether they would be aired.

Bow, scheduled as first witness, said "treaties denying American servicemen their constitutional rights when overseas are a tragic abdication of national sovereignty that should be repudiated at the earliest possible date."

He said 58 GIs now are in foreign jails.

"These 58 servicemen, deprived of their constitutional rights, sentenced and convicted under foreign laws, are now confined virtually incommunicado in filthy, unheated foreign prisons without proper food or medical care," he said. "They are martyrs to internationalism."

Morton wrote the committee, however, that without the treaties GIs would be "entirely" subject to foreign courts. He said the treaties reserve the right for the United States to try U.S. servicemen for crimes committed in connection with duty. But he was not clear exactly where the line is drawn.

Scott Jones Injured In 18-Foot Fall Tuesday

Scott Jones, local roofing contractor, was injured about 3 p.m. Tuesday. He was working on the roof at the Oren Clark residence on North Chauncey street, when he fell from a ladder. He fell about 18 feet.

He was taken to the Whitley County Hospital in the Hollingsworth ambulance. Results from an X-ray examination were not disclosed.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Ross Parents Of Daughter

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Ross, R 5, are the parents of a daughter, Jere Lynn, born today at the Whitley County Hospital. The baby weighed 7 pounds 1½ ounces at birth.

Dulles Seeks Allied Unity On Problems

In Advance Of Geneva Meeting

WASHINGTON (UP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles flies to Paris today to seek Allied unity on Germany, disarmament and other controversial East - West problems in advance of next week's top-level Big Four meeting at Geneva.

Dulles will confer in Paris with British Foreign Secretary Harold MacMillan, French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay, and representatives of the 15-nation North Atlantic Treaty Organization—which Russia wants to wreck.

The secretary of state planned to make a farewell statement on his hopes for forthcoming European talks before his afternoon departure.

Dulles discussed their plans for the Big Four conference with congressional leaders of both parties Tuesday.

One of those attending the conference said Mr. Eisenhower and Dulles made these points:

1. The United States will not try for "substantive solutions" to existing problems but rather will seek "new approaches" to those problems and try to inject a "new spirit" into the attacks on those problems.

2. This country will not agree to discuss Asian problems without representatives of those countries being present.

3. From the ouset, the United States will stress its desire for reunification of Germany.

4. It will seek a limitation of armaments but will insist on adequate inspection machinery because, as Dulles was reported to have put it, "nothing can be taken on faith."

5. The U.S. delegation will reiterate the U.S. position that free elections should be held in Communist satellite countries, but Mr. Eisenhower and Dulles do not know whether anything can be accomplished along this line.

6. It was believed that Russia would press for a relaxation of restrictions on trade between the free world and the Communist countries.

7. Dulles indicated a belief that some U.S. allies might propose dividing the world along current lines — splitting the free and Communist blocs — for perhaps half a century. But he said the United States could not agree to any such proposition.

Town Marshal Dies In Struggle With Burglars

NEW HARMONY, Ind. (UP)—A town marshal died today in a struggle with two Illinois brothers he caught in a tavern break-in. The brothers were captured at a ferry landing as they fled the scene after a gun battle with a state policeman.

Marshal Ralph Fisher, 45, died outright as he tried to arrest the men he caught in the Mount Tavern.

Authorities, however, were uncertain whether he was killed by a blow on the head with his own gun during the struggle with the brothers or died of overexertion while fighting them.

An autopsy was scheduled for later today to determine the cause of death.

Lowell Edward Atchison, 27, and his brother, Norman 31 Mt. Vernon Ill. were arrested and jailed less than two hours after the incident. Police said they confessed robbing the tavern and struggling with the marshal.

There will be a meeting of the Whitley County 4-H Electric Club Tuesday at 8:00 p.m. in the REMC. Demonstrations will be by Karlene Ray, Joe Kreider, Earl Nierman, David Phillips, Hubert Vanderford and Richard Vanderford. All members should have their projects in mind. This information is needed for the county agent's office.

Council Awards Contract For City Hall Roof

Work To Begin Before July 31, Cost $3,120 Discuss Zoning Plan

The Columbia City City Council awarded the contract for repairing of the City Hall roof to C. Miller and Sons, Fort Wayne, for $3,120 at its meeting Tuesday night.

Only one other bid was submitted, that by Emmet Bowey, for the Airbestos Insulating and Roofing Company, also of Fort Wayne. The latter company's bid for he work was $3550, but the contract went to the low bidding firm.

The notice for bids, which opened Tuesday, specified that the repair of the roof was to begin before the end of the month. The repair will include replacing the present roof, which leaks in many spots, with complete new material. The company given the contract is the same which roofed the American Legion Home.

In other business, the council had a lengthy discussion of problems which have come up in the office of Richard Holden, building commissioner, while enforcing the building and zoning ordinance.

To Enforce Ordinance

In outlining some of the problems, Holden told the council that the major difficulty has been in the application and issuance of permits for single family dwellings in Residential District A. Several of the applications have been for construction on lots smaller than allowed under the ordinance.

The ordinance provides that lots must have at least 7200 square feet of space unless they were already in single family ownership at the time of passage of the ordinance. The lot must also be a minimum of 60 feet in width.

Holden pointed out that many of the lots are less than the minimum, both in area and in width. The council agreed that permits should not be issued for construction on undersized lots unless the property was platted before the ordinance was passed. However, all other alteration or addition on the lot must conform to the ordinance.

It was decided at the meeting to investigate the possibility of publishing a condensed edition of the Entire City To Be Canvassed This Evening

Hopeful Everyone Will Support Drive

At 7:00 p.m. today, church bells in Columbia City will ring signalling the start of the city-wide drive for the sale of stock in the Columbia City Joint High School Building Corporation, and the 140 canvassers who will be covering the city will begin a door-to-door march. The drive officials and members of the four local organizations who will be calling at city homes tonight are highly optimistic that a sale of at least one $10 share of stock will be sold at each home.

The money from the sale of this stock will be used to defray incidental, preliminary expenses of getting the large high school building program here in motion. The money from the sale of the $10 shares will be used to pay architect fees, legal fees, costs of forming the corporation, and a multitude of similar expenses.

Stock Redeemable

This stock is non-interest bearing but will be redeemable at the end of 20 years. The stock is not subject to any state intangible stamp. It has been pointed out previously that this sale of stock to local people is chiefly a good will effort. A successful drive will indicate the community is in favor of and backing this Joint High School. It will be necessary to sell bonds to larger financial institutions to obtain the amount of money to construct the school buildings. If officials of these financial organizations know that the whole community is in favor of the bond issue, they will be inclined to loan their money at a lower interest. If everybody buys a $10 share of stock, the list of purchasers will naturally be longer that if only a few people bought greater amounts of stock. So, the $10 shares.

idea is for many people to buy the

All of the participating townships, except Union, have their drives in progress at present. Union township will begin its sale of shares this weekend.

President Will Fight For Speedy Passage Of His Highway, School, Housing Programs

By UNITED PRESS

Republican legislative leaders said today President Eisenhower will fight for passage of several measures, now apparently bogged down, before Congress adjourns.

The President discussed his legislative program with House and Senate GOP leaders at a White House conference.

House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr., and Sen. Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass.) said the administration will fight for passage of the President s highway, school, and housing programs.

Saltonstall said Mr. Eisenhower also is "very anxious" to get an adequate military reserve bill passed at this session. The President also put in another plug for his atomic peace ship. He called for action lest Russia launch a nuclear powered vessel first.

Martin thought it possible that action could be completed this month on the programs mentioned by the President.

There is a fair chance," Martin said, "that we might adjourn Aug. 1. The Democratic leadership says we can, and if we can, we want to. Meantime we're going to press for desirable legislation between now and then."

Other congressional news:

Peace Ship: The House Merchant Marine Committee abandoned President Eisenhower's atomic peace ship and called instead for construction of the world's first commercially-feasible atom-powered merchant vessel. This would be a specially designed hull with a specially designed atom power plant. The ship asked by the President would be an existing type powered by an existing atom engine model. Congressional critics said the Presidents ap- would contribute nothing to atomic "art." One of them Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-N.Y.), introduced a bill, separate from the Merchant Marine group's, calling for a peace ship considerably different from the President's original proposal. There was no assurance either of the new measures would clear Congress before adjournment.

Deborah Kerr Ends Road Show After 731 Performances

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Hollywood Writer

HOLYWOOD (UP) — Deborah Kerr finished her long run in the play, "Tea and Sympathy," with the hope she's forever rid of the American notion that British women are "prissy."

The red-haired actress ended the road show here of her Broadway hit drama after 731 performances.

It was a triu phna hmo-em

It was a triumphant homecoming for the star, who left Hollywood two years ago even before her sensational bathing suit scene in "From Here to Eternity" was released and turned her into a glamour queen.

Now she's beginning a new life in the movies — changed, she believes, by her portrayal of the daring woman in "Tea and Sympathy" and the sensual army wife in "Eternity."

To Virgin Islands

"I'm not changed one iota," she said firmly. "But the attitude toward me in Hollywood has definitely changed. They used to think I was a bit prissy!

"You have two strikes against you in America if you're from England. They automatically endow you with a tiara.

"And if you're French — ! You're a madame or a courtesan."

The actress sat for an interview in the Paramount studio hair-dressing department while a hair expert dyed her red locks blonde for her return to movies in "The Proud and The Profane." The film, co - starring William Holden, takes her on location to the Virgin Islands—for another bathing suit love scene.

"But not quite as drastic as the one in 'Eternity'," she added.

After the Paramount film she returns to Hollywood for the 20th Century-Fox version of the stage musical, "The King and I," "and if they make it in Siam I'll quit—I haven't been home for so long," she said. Next on her agenda will be a censored film of "Tea and Sympathy" at MGM, where Deborah used to do "Aunt Mable" parts before her career change.

Business of Success

MGM brass and scores of celebrities turned out to give her more curtain calls on her stage opening night here than she received in New York.

"I was scared out of my life here at first," she said. "You're opening to the trade and they can be a cold audience. But after it was received that way, I couldn't move the next day, I was so emotionally strung up.

"Yes," she reflected, "if you wait long enough, everything works out. This show business is a business of success. If you're successful, you're well regarded."

Forestry Division Wants Waste Land In Southern Indiana

Landowners in 12 southern Indiana counties are now being given the opportunity to assist the Conservation Department's forestry program and at the same time to sell land which is unprofitable for farming.

The forestry division is in the market for several thousand acres of wooded and waste land to add to their existing state forests. The division is especially interested in obtaining lands bordering present state forests in the collowing counties: Brown, Clark, Dubois, Harrison, Jackson, Washington, Martin, Monroe, Morgan, Owen, Putnam, and Pike.

Studebaker Workers In Favor Of Strike

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UP) — A union official said today Studebaker workers here voted 82 per cent in favor of a strike against the Studebaker-Packard Corp. because 1,700 employes were laid off.

Neil Moorlag, financial secretary of Local 5, UAW-CIO, said about 10,000 were eligible to vote and of the 7,010 ballots cast 82 per cent favored a strike if necessary.

The vote authorizes a strike against South Bend's Studebaker Division at the discretion of the union's executive committee.

The company reduced the work force to about 8,000, saying it was necessary because of a change in production methods designed to improve Studebaker's competitive position.

An international union official branded the action a violation of the contract.

2 Men Held On Grand Larceny Charges To Be Tried Tuesday

The suit in Whitley County circuit court charging James L. Gibson and Samuel Wells with grand larceny has been set for jury trial at 1:30 p.m. July 19.

Both men entered pleas of not guilty in court Monday to the charge of stealing equipment from American Tractor Company, Churubusco, prior to June 24, 1955.

In the affidavit, signed by Jack Clayton of the company, the two men are charged with stealing from the tractor firm pieces of equipment valued at a total of $350. The items include two hydraulic pumps, each valued at $50; three control valves valued at $50 each; and two hydraulic lift cylinder assemblies each valued at $50.

Both Gibson and Wells were placed in the custody of the county sheriff, since they were unable to provide bond of $2000 each.

Their attorney is Charles Z. Bond.

Hoosiers Enjoy Hot Sun And Cool Air

By UNITED PRESS

Hoosiers enjoyed the fourth consecutive day of a mixture of hot sun and cool air today, and at least one more day of the same was on tap.

The Weather Bureau expected highs ranging from 85 north to 89 south today in Indiana. Just a one-degree warm-up in the south was slated for Thursday.

Skies were clear Tuesday as highs ranged from 85 at Fort Wayne to 90 at Evansville.

Lows early today dropped to comfortable temperatures ranging from 70 at Evansville to 59 at Fort Wayne, the coolest state reading this month. Tonight's lows will range from 65 to 70.

The outlook for Friday was fair and warmer. A mass of cool air from Canada was expected to have passed across the state, followed by warmer moist air.

Bunch Of Cranes Are Whooping It Up

OTTAWA (UP)—A bunch of the cranes were whooping it up in the remote muskeg flats of Wood Buffalo Park today. They were celebrating four blessed events which may bring their flock back from the brink of extinction.

Wildlife and bird conservationists of North America heard their biggest news in decades when W.W. Muir, chief of the Canadian Wildlife Service, announced two separate nesting pairs of whooping cranes with two young ones in each had been found. There were only 21 of the big, graceful white cranes known to be left in the world before the discovery.

Lafayette Hill Dies This Morning In Local Hospital

Had Been Ill Since Last Fall

Lafayette Hill, almost 80 years old, died at 7:45 a.m. today at the Whitley County Hospital where he was admitted last Saturday. He had been in failing health since last fall and he was a hospital patient a number of times.

He was a native of Noble county and was born July 31, 1875 to George and Elizabeth Rhoads Hill. On October 7, 1901, Mr. Hill married Jennie E. Fry and the couple went to housekeeping in Thorncreek township and later moved to Cromwell. Thirty-seven years ago Mr. Hill located in Columbia City.

Mrs. Hill died December 26, 1923. The following children survive: George Hill, address unknown; Raymond Hill of near Pierceton; Earl L. Hill of near Columbia City; Cletus Q. Hill, Bakersfield, Calif., Phyllis Hill, Fort Wayne and Paul V. Hill of near Warsaw, also two daughters, Mrs. Tacy Baker, Ormas; Mrs. Tony D. Licata, Columbia City. Also surviving are one brother, Adam Hill, Wolf Lake, and a sister, Mrs. Clementine Swany, VanWert, Ohio. One son, one brother and two sisters are deceased.

Funeral arrangements await word from the son in California.

Governor Visits Camp Grayling

CAMP GRAYLING, Mich. (UP) —Governor Craig came to Camp Grayling today for a five-day visit with about 9,000 men of the Infantry Division.

Craig served overseas as a lieutenant-colonel in World War II. He is a past national commander of the American Legion.

The governor left for Grayling from his Indianapolis Statehouse office Tuesday night. He planned to mingle with the troops and participate in some of the weapons tests and firing on the ranges alongside privates and officers.

Craig's son, John, an Indiana University student, accompanied him on the inspection trip. The governor and other state officials will review the division Saturday.

Along With The Kids Will Be Bob Awaiting The Circus At Anderson

Along with the kids eagerly awaiting the arrival of Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus trains at Anderson next Monday, will be Bob Raupfer of Columbia City and compositor on the Elkhart newspaper.

Unlike the Anderson people, Raupfer's circus day won't end Monday night, but will continue throughout the entire week because he will travel along with the circus as the guest of Frank McCloaky, general manager of the circus.

Each summer since 1946, Bob has spent one week of his vacation with the "Greatest Show on Earth" and its 1200 employees. He spent the other part of this summer's vacation in Europe.

While Raupfer is with the "Big Show" next week, the circus will show in the following cities, Anderson and Logansport, and Danville, Peoria, Champaign and Chicago, Ill.

Armstrong Says Adams Wanted Hearing Recess

WASHINGTON (UP)—Chairman J. Sinclair Armstrong testified today that a Securities & Exchange Commission hearing on Dixon-Yates financing was recessed for three days last month at the request of Sherman Adams, assistant to President Eisenhower.

Armstrong told a special Senate Monopoly subcommittee that Adams called him on June 11 asking for the recess.

Tuesday Armstrong had refused to say whether the White House intervened in the SEC hearings on the controversial public power project which now has been cancelled by Mr. Eisenhower's order.

Today, the SEC chairman said that the recess was desired by government attorneys to determine whether they wanted to intervene to object to testimony by two officials of the First Boston Corp., of New York, the Dixon-Yates financial agent.

One of the bank officials, Vice President Adolphe H. Wenzell, had been scheduled to testify June 13 at the SEC hearing.

Armstrong said the commission decided at a meeting early on June 13 to grant Adams' request and adjourn the hearings. The hearing then was recessed abruptly without public explanation.

Subcommittee Chairman Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) noted Tuesday that Wenzell had been scheduled to testify before the SEC on the same day that the House began debating an appropriation for a controversial transmission line linking the proposed Dixon-Yates plant with the TVA system.

Kefauver charged that the administration wanted the SEC hearing recessed so Wenzell's part in the deal would not become known until after the House had acted upon the transmission line request.

Stuart Smith has served as chairman in organizing the city-wide campaign, and he urges you to let the school use $10 dollars of your money for 20 years.

Council

zoning ordinance for public distribution, with possible advertising being used to defray the expense.

Sell Two Turbines

The council also discussed the necessity for the eventual surveying and planning of the circular thoroughfare around the radical area one mile from the county courthouse. The council concluded that such plans would have to be discussed with the Columbia township trustee.

The council voted unanimously to hire an engineer to make a study of the City Hall buildings with a view to installing a steam heat plant. It is planned to provide for an estimated cost of the plant in next year's budget, which will be considered soon.

The council announced the sale of the two steam turbines, which are no longer needed at the Water and Light Plant. The two turbines were sold for a total of $83,300, one to an Oregon lumber company and the other to a Philadelphia lumber company, which will use the equipment in the Phillipine Islands. The turbines had been appraised at a total of $69,000. With Archer and Baldwin, the agents for the sale, getting $8,300 for heir 10 per cent commission, the city will retain $75,000 from the sale.

The money has been placed in the civil city light plant fund and is planned to be used to retire a part of some $58,000 in bonds still owed on the power plant. It has been estimated that the city can save about $11,000 on the 1947 bond issue or $12,39.17 on the 1949 issue by using the money to retire the bonds.

The council also received some complaints on sewer difficulties and on parking and instructed Herb Kneller, street commissioner, and Lee Gross, chief of police, to investigate the matters.

The council will hold a special private session next Tuesday to discuss the budget and other matters.

Kreitzer

He asked the decision. Mrs. Kreitzer looked pleased. People had been pestering her by phone for a week from as far as Los Angeles (she even got mail from Formosa), about what she was going to do. Now it was her turn to drag out her answer. She rocked back on her heels.

"Well," she said, "when I went on the show I was very confident."

She said she had been confident on the $8,000 question, the $16,000 question the $32000 question — and she detailed the answers she had given — and then she said:

"And I'm a little confident that I can answer the $64000 question."

Audience Yells WOW!

"WOW! yelled the studio audience, and broke into wild applause.

Mrs. Kreitzer let them finish, and then added: "But I am balancing this confidence with a quotation, from Ephesians 4:5, which is, 'Let your moderation be known unto all men.'

"So ... I'm going to let my moderation be known and accept the $32000."

The whole speech was carried off with a showman's timing. Ed Sullivan lost no time in calling her after the show to appear on his TV variety show next Sunday. She said she thought she'd accept.

Mrs. Kreitzer in declining to go further made a Bible error. Her quotation was from Philippians 4:5, not Ephesians. She corrected herself backstage after the show. When reporters asked when she had decided to take $32,000, she sighed and said:

"I'll tell you I had my mind made up a couple of days ago, fellows." She said she expected to pay about $12,000 in federal taxes. According to accountants that will be about right for a joint return with her husband.

President

change Commission recessed a Dixon-Yates financing hearing for three days last month at the request of Sherman Adams assistant to the President. Armstrong refused to give that information Tuesday. In giving it today, he said he was advised to do so by Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) contends the recess was asked by the White House because a controversial witness, Adolphe H. Wenzell, otherwise would have been testifying at a time when the House was debating an appropriation for the since-canceled Dixon-Yates power project.

Newspapermen: Melvin Barnett of the New York Times and David Gordon of the New York Daily News told Senate investigators they have not been Communists for many years. But they refused to talk about Communist connections in the days when both worked for the now - defunct Brooklyn (N.Y.) Eagle. Charles S. Lewis of Radio-TV station WCAX at Burlington, Vt., testified he was a Communist Party member for several months in 1937 when he worked on the Eagle.

GIs: The House Foreign Affairs Committee demanded information on secret agreements under which GIs can be jailed by foreign countries for off-duty crimes overseas. The demand was made after Rep. Frank T. Bow (R-Ohio.) said some of the agreements—under which American troops abroad are subject to jurisdiction of foreign courts —have been kept secret.

–Foreign Affairs: The Senate Foreign Relations Committe approved two resolutions expressing opposition to colonialism and imperialism and vicing hope satellite nations may soon be free. The vote was 14-0. It defeated, 13-0, a resolution by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) calling on the United States to break off diplomatic relations with the Communist governments of Albania, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary Poland and Romania.

Social Security: House GOP Leader Martin conceded the House will pass a Democratic bill to liberalize Social Security benefits and raise Social Security taxes.

Hobby

Presidents office. Mr. Eisenhower, looking quite grave, escorted Mrs. Hobby into the room. She was chic in a small flowered coolie hat with a coat - dress costume in beige brocade.

As the President settled down in a big armchair, he turned to Mrs. Hobby and said "Oveta, this is a sad day."

He recalled their first meeting in 1942 in London when Mrs. Hobby was head of the Women's Army Corps.

He went on to praise her for having devoted her talents in the Cabinet to the benefit of the country "most effectively."

Mrs. Hobby later told reporters that she informed the President in January that she would have to leave the government. Asked whether the polio vaccine controversy—which did not begin until months later — "forced" her out, she said, "nothing could be further from the truth."

Ten Years After End Of War, Prisoner Issue Snarls Russian Relations In Asia And Europe

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

Ten years after the end of World War II, the war prisoner issue is still snarling Russia's relations with countries in both Asia and Europe.

The prisoner issue could become a major obstacle to the conclusion of the peace treaty now being negotiated by Russia and Japan in London.

It could also prevent the establishment of normal relations between Russia and West Germany, for which the Kremlin made a bid when it invited West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer to Moscow.

It is possible, too, if not probable, that the general question of prisoners will come up during the Big Four conference in Geneva. It may not come up during the first or "summit" phase which President Eisenhower is to attend. More likely, it would crop up during the second phase, in which the Big Four foreign ministers are to negotiate on specific questions.

The Russians undoubtedly are aware of this, and undoubtedly they hope fervently that by some chance the fate of the prisoners will be ignored.

Can Show Sincerity

But if the men in the Kremlin really are sincere in their expressed desire to reduce world tensions, they could make a fine start by releasing some of the foreign victims they hold in slave labor camps.

Japanese government records list 1,452 Japanese war prisoners known to be alive in Soviet prison camps, about 1,000 held in the island of Sakhalin off the Siberian coast and 10,090 who were known to be alive in prison camps as late as 1950.

Austrians recently released by Russia estimated that between 5000 and 6,000 Japanese including diplomats as well as military men are still held in camp sand prisons situated in places all the way from Moscow to the Pacific Ocean.

The details of West German Chancellor Adenauer's negotiations with the Russians remain to be fixed. It is still not certain, by the way, whether he will accept the Kremlin's invitation to visit Moscow or will insist that the meeting he held somewhere else —say in Berlin.

Asks For Clarification

A recent dispatch from Bonn, the West German capital, said that Adenauer wants several points in Russian-German relations clarified. Point No. 1, the dispatch said, is whether Russia will agree to release all German prisoners.

German official sources estimate that more than 20,000 Germans, soldiers and civilians, are still held in prison camps in Russia and its satellites.

Austrians whom the Russians have released tell of many German generals and other senior officers held in special camps in the Moscow area. Thousands more are held in other camps.

Adenauer is not the man to leave this issue unsettled when he talks to the Russians.

Sad Story Of The Fate Of Oscar

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. — (UP)— Howard Kimball, a sixth grade student at the Emerson School here, wrote a composition for class about the sad fate of his pet, Oscar.

"Oscar was a very naughty and stubborn chicken," Howard wrote. "He would do nothing that we told him to do. It seemed that he was always under foot. At times like this Dad insisted that we get rid of him."

"Of course, Dad was the worst one when it came to doing things he wasn't supposed to do. During our evening meal, when Oscar was supposed to be eating out of his own dish, Dad would slip a few nibbles underneath the table.

"With all these memories, I certainly hated to part with Oscar. But the day came when we had to move to an apartment and we couldn't take Oscar with us. The Sunday before we left, Mother prepared a lovely chicken dinner. You can imagine who the chichen was!

"As we sat down to eat I got all choked up inside and couldn't eat a thing. Finally, Dad said, "Remove Oscar, please."

Britain's H-bomb On Way To Completion

LONDON (UP)—Britain's hydrogen bomb is "on the way to completion" and will be test-exploded at sea, the Daily Mail said today. Science writer Wilson Broadbent said the time and place of the explosion are a carefully guarded secret.

U. S. Sergeant Released Today By Czech Reds

Held Since June 5, Will Return To Unit

WAIDHAUS, Germany (UP) — Communist Czechoslovakia today released Sgt. Walter S. Winters of Philadelphia who crossed the Iron Curtain frontier more than a month ago while taking pictures of the border area.

U.S. Army sources said Winters was turned back to American control at this West German border village at 12:05 p.m. today.

He had been held by the Czech Communists since June 5 when Red guards seized him and escorted him away after he had wandered across the frontier into Communist territory.

Army authorities said Winters will be returned to his unit, the 175th Signal Battalion stationed at Thionville, France.

Winters fell into Communist hands while trying for "a good shot of the frontier area with his camera. Ignoring warning signs, he entered the 500-foot-wide "no man's land" separating Communist Czechoslovakia and West Germany.

Liner On Typhoon Fringe; Ex-GI Turncoats Seasick

ABOARD THE PRESIDENT CLEVELAND AT SEA (UP) — Three ex-GI turncoats became miserably seasick today when their ocean liner ran into the fringe of a typhoon 160 miles south of Okinawa.

While the SS President Cleveland pitched and tossed in a choppy sea, the turncoats lay whitefaced and silent in their third-class dormitory bunks.

The three — William A. Cowart, 22, Dalton, Ga. Lewis W. Griggs 22 Jacksonville Tex. and Otho G. Bell 24, Olympia Wash. — are on their way to San Francisco.

They spent 19 months in Red China after refusing repatriation at the Panmunjom prisoner of war exchange. Finally they decided they would rather come home to an uncertain future than live under Communism.

Since leaving Hong Kong they have spent their time quietly aboard ship. They appear bored. Occasionally, they have taken an occasional drink in the third-class lounge, but most of the time they have just lain in their bunks.

Other passengers have often seen Griggs alone on deck, apparently praying.

The three have only the clothing they are wearing with them — open shirts, slacks, shoes and windbreakers.

Cowart said Tuesday that the Chinese people are beginning "passive resistance" to the Communist regime.

"When I first went into China, people actively participated in the mandatory Communist meetings," he said. "They are silent today and waiting. This passive resistance is everywhere."

He claimed the Chinese people are looking to America for liberation.

He said an attack by an American Army battalion on a Chinese disintegration of the Red-held mainland.

Delegation Leaves On Goodwill Tour Of Soviet Farms

NEW YORK (UP)—A delegation of 13 American agricultural experts left New York Tuesday night for a goodwill inspection tour of farms in the Soviet Union.

The farmers, agricultural college men and government officials promised to keep "open minds and unplugged ears" during their visit. A similar delegation from Russia will tour the Midwest United States farm belt at almost the same time.

Radio Moscow said Tuesday night the Russian tour had left for the United States. The Russians are expected to arrive in Washington Saturday or Sunday.

The Americans were scheduled to lahd in London today.

Bill To Curb Double Voting

RIO DE JANEIRO (UP)—The Senate approved an electoral reform bill Tuesday designed to curb double-voting and other irregularities at the polls.

A feature of the bill is the so-called "dirty finger" clause. It requires that each voter, when balloting, dip his index finger in ink that leaves a stain for at least 12 hours. Anyone with an ink-stained finger will be barred from voting.

Poorly Adjusted Combines Can Lose 4 Per Cent Of Crop

LAFAYETTE — Ripe fields of wheat represent a lot of potential income to the farm owner. To assure the greatest returns from these fields, farmers should make certain their combines are adjusted and operating properly before the harvest begins.

Every bushel of grain lost or damaged in harvesting reduces the income from the crop. And Purdue University agricultural engineers say grain can be lost at threshing, separating and cleaning. Even with the best combine adjustment, losses in clean crops of wheat, oats, barley and rye may be as great as four per cent of the total yield.

Farmers can keep grain losses to a minimum if general harvesting recommendations are followed. C. L. Hill, Purdue agricultural engineer, says it is important that burned out bearings be replaced and all moving parts be lubricated in order to eliminate accumulated dirt, water and rust. Hill adds that farmers should set the cylinder to proper concave clearance for the first crop to be cut. Hacksaw blades piled on top of each other to the desired depth make one of the best ways to set this clearance.

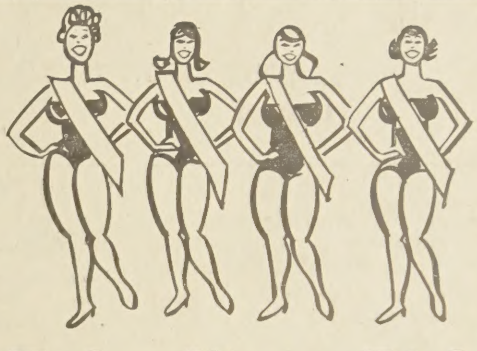
Wheat is not a difficult crop to harvest under normal conditions. But operation of the combine at recommended speed and adjustments of the cylinder-concave spacing and cylinder speed can help farmers to save valuable grain.

No Driver's License

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UP) — Willie James Richardson, 16, told police why he led them for a 75-mile chase before he finally smashed into a house with the car he was driving.

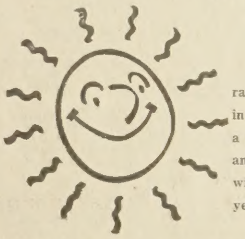
"I didn't have a driver's license" he said.

Judge John B. Scott sentenced the boy to 120 days at hard labor.



Take Your Pick

• A lot full of beauties! —— Every car priced to sell! ——
Finance Terms for everyone! —— Late Models guaranteed

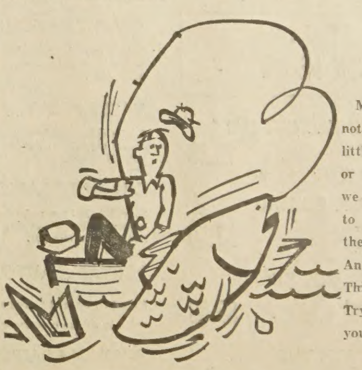


CHEVROLETS

A wide selection from 47's to 54's. Prices range from $195.00 on up with a wide selection in the $300-$400 down payment group. We have a real nice Convertible Coupe in good condition and plenty of eye appeal. You can't go wrong with Chevrolet — America's best seller for more years than I can remember.

CADILLACS & BUICKS

Our selection is equally good in the higher price line — How would you like a '54 Buick Super Convertible at $1500 savings. We have it and it's a 'creampuff' — Or maybe a low mileage '53 Cadillac Convertible would hit the spot — By the way don't miss our '51 Cadillac Sedan — It's real sharp.



FISHING CARS

Maybe you don't fish — but why not buy a good second car for the little woman to do her shopping or take the kids to school? And we have them — a lot of good '47's to '50's that you can buy worth the money — Some as low as $150. And we can even get down lower. This is the group we want to move. Try us — make an offer — If you're close — We'll go —

Visit the "Big Lot" tonight. Every car on display is priced to represent it's true value. We've sold a slug of used cars this year——but we still have a bunch to move. Buy the super market way on ——

Powerful Soviet Lineup Shows Russia Is Ready For Business

City Had $369,713 Receipts First Six Months, $318,790 In Expenses

The city had receipts of $369,713.11 from various sources in the first six months of 1955, according to a semi-annual report on receipts and expenditures by Franklin Dillman, city clerk.

The receipts compared with expenses of $318,790.03 for the same period ending June 30, 1955.

The city had an over-all balance of $266,939.70 at the beginning of the year. Added to the difference in receipts and expenditures from January 1 to June 30, 1955, this makes the present balance in all funds $317,862.78.

By far the largest expense was the $159,518.79 for electricity. The fund had receipts of $201,411.06, which means a profit of $41,882.27.

Steam Heat Loss

With total receipts of $12,004.23 and total expenditures of $21,185.13 for steam heat, the city had a deficit in that department of $9,180.90 for the first six months of the year. The city already had an overdrawn balance of $11,190.54 carried over from losses on steam heat in previous years. Counting receipts and expenditures, this brings the total deficit for the heating plant to $20,371.44.

In the funds without expenditures for the six-month period, we find $2,664.72 for development of Morsches Park carried over from the first of the year balance; $39.07 received in the sewer fund, which with the previous balance, makes the present amount $335.33; $5,000 added to the water construction fund to bring that amount to $32,963.20; and $51,003.97 carried over in the electric reserve fund.

The city appropriated a total of $138,573.72 in the 1955 budget for salaries of employes, the street department, for the purchase of specific equipment and supplies, and for other miscellaneous expenses. A total of $73,918.19 of the amount appropriated has been spent.

Investments of $101,000

The 1955 appropriations included $29,800 for the operations of the street department, with $18,036.02 of the amount already spent up to June 30.

The operations of the police department, including salaries, office expenses, and cost of operating the squad-car cost $13,905.04 for the first six months of the year. The fire department spent $11,971.24. The amount included salaries, insurance, supplies, and a payment of $862.50 on the new fire truck.

A total of 1,696.5 gallons of gas-

Dulles Arrives In Paris For Strategy Talks

Begins Pre-Conference Round Of Meetings

PARIS (UP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles arrived here today to put the finishing touches on Western unity and strategy before next week's historic Big Four summit conference in Geneva.

Dulles and Harold E. Stassen, President Eisenhower's assistant on disarmament, landed at Orly Airport to begin their conference-eve round of meetings with French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay, British Foreign Secretary Harold MacMillan and other NATO foreign affairs experts.

They arrived as Moscow announced that both Soviet Communist Party Chief Nikita Khrushchev, Russia's most powerful man, and Defense Minister G.K. Zhukov, Mr. Eisenhower's old World War II friend, would go to Geneva with Premier Nikolai Bulganin, nominal head of the Russian delegation.

Informed sources said Dulles and Pinay would assess the make-up of the Soviet delegation in their first meeting today.

France had a number of summit proposals waiting for Dulles and MacMillan.

The first was Premier Edgar Faure's suggestion that all the Big Four powers set an example by cutting their arms budgets and setting up a world fund for underdeveloped countries with the money thus saved.

The second was the idea of a European security pact based on the rearmament controls of the new Western European Union. clear tests and the growing num-

$3,000 In School Stock Purchased In City Drive

The sale of stock in the Columbia City Joint High School in this city Wednesday evening was considered a successful drive, as local citizens purchased approximately $3,000 worth of the $10 shares.

The figure of $3,000 is not reported as an accurate amount and is based upon statements by the chairmen in the four sections since the city drive chairman was unavailable for comment today.

It was considered successful when the amount of stock sold here was compared with the amount of stock sold in other towns in the process of joining different school corporations and building a new school.

Tri Kappa sorority, Rotary, Kiwanis, and the Delta Theta Tau alumna chapter conducted the door-to-door canvass of the city last night.

Weekly Vehicle Checks To Continue Saturday Afternoon

City police and county officials will conduct the weekly vehicle safety inspection again from 1 to 4 p.m. Saturday on Chauncey street in front of the City Hall.

The safety checks, which began the last week in May here, have been made on 411 county vehicles thus far. The original rate has decreased since Churubusco and South Whitley began conducting the inspections more than a month ago.

Lee Gross, chief of police and general chairman of the safety inspections, reported that no major defects have been found on any of the vehicles checked. The most common defect has been rear lights.

Subcommittee Today Officially Closes Case Of Former Major Peress, Criticizes Army

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate Investigating subcommittee today officially closed the case of former Maj. Irving Peress with withering criticism of the Army for bungling it and hiding the facts.

The subcommittee's repor, filed in the Senate today, gave this answer to the question which Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R - Wis.) trumpeted last year, "Who promoted Peress?":

"Individual errors in judgment, lack of proper coordination, ineffective administrative procedures inconsistent application of existing regulations, and excessive delays."

Sen. George H. Bender (R-Ohio) objected in a separate statement that the report failed to state that "not ont iota of evidence was revealed to indicate any subversion, collusion or Communist conspiraccy" involved in the Army's handling of the case.

"I think it is of paramount importance that this subcommittee should assure the people of this country that no Communist influence was found in the Army," Bender said.

The subcommittee report was approved Wednesday by the full Government Operations Committee and was filed in the full committee's name. Sen. Thomas E. Martin (R-Iowa) added a separate statement saying he was not a member of the subcommittee and took no part in the report.

The report said Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens "or his superiors . . . are to be criticized for the delay of almost one year" before releasing the facts in the case of the onetime Army dentist.

"Such unnecessary delay served to unduly arouse and increase suspicions of the public as to possible communist influences," the report said, "and therefore was a dicorv tonl ytoA yre rmp- iee a disservice not only to Army perbut also to the Army as a whole, to this subcommittee, to the Congress and to the general public."

Bender disagreed with this. He said Stevens stated repeatedly that the Army made serious mistakes but was correcting them, but McCarthy was not satisfied.

"The campaign of doubt continued and in so doing promoted the Communist cause," Bender's statement said.

The Peress case proved a perennial furor in 1954 when the New York dentist received an honorable discharge from the Army shortly after refusing to tell McCarthy, then chairman of the subcommittee, whether he was a Communist.

McCarthy, locked in combat with the Army during most of the year, made "who promoted Peress?" a battle cry. He demanded that the Army identify the "secret master in the Pentagon...responsible for coddling Communists."

First Stevens and then President Eisenhower declared publicly that the Army had made serious errors in the case but had moved to correct them.

Private Plane Smashes Truck, Pilot Is Killed

Injures Truck Driver, Plane Passenger

ANDERSON, Ind. (UP)—A private plane coming in for a landing smashed into a truck on Ind. 67 Wednesday night, killing the pilot and injuring his passenger and the truck driver.

The light plane smashed into the side of the truck-trailer, knocking it off the roadway and overturning it on its side. The airplane was demolished.

Beard Shirley, 59, Pendleton, pilot of the craft, died less than two hours after the accident from multiple injuries. His passenger, William Greenwood, 31, Edgewood, was hospitalized with internal injuries.

Truck Driver Preston Banfield, 53, Allen Park, Mich., was treated at St. John's Hospital for a back injury.

Police said the plane was headed for a landing on the north runway of Darlington Airport, southeast of here. It came in low, and hit the eastbound truck. Banfield said he saw "a light coming down at me," then felt the plane hit.

It knocked a large hole in the truck and upset the vehicle. Wreckage blocked the highway almost two hours.

Shirley was the operator of an automobile agency in Pendleton.

Traffic was jammed on Ind. 67 and rerouted over Ind. 9 while the accident was being investigated and the debris removed.

Marion Folsom May Step Up Flow Of News

Reporters Find Him Easy To Reach

WASHINGTON (UP)—Marion B Folsom, newly-named secretary of health, education and welfare, may step up the flow of news from his widespread department.

Reporters have found Folsom easy to reach during his government service. The department's retiring secretary Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, often has been inaccessible to newsmen.

President Eisenhower Wednesday nominated Folsom, now treasury undersecretary, to succeed Mrs. Hobby, the only woman cabinet member in his administration. Mrs. Hobby is leaving Aug. 1 because of the serious illness of her husband former Texas Gov. William P. Hobby. She will take his place as president of the Houston Post Publishing Co.

Answers Questions Freely

Reporters could recall no news conference Folsom held on his own at the Treasury Department. But he usually sat in on Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey's news conferences and answered questions freely. Newsmen also could reach him by telephone.

Mrs. Hobby has held six news conferences during her 30 months in office. Only her first, in April, 1953, and her last in February of this year were open to questions on all subjects. The others were limited to discussions of specific legislation.

Mrs. Hobby granted only a few limited interviews—usually in connection with a magazine article concerning work of her department. Newsmen found it almost impossible to speak to her by telephone although queries frequently were relayed through the department's press officer.

She has been one of the most sought-after speakers in the Eisenhower administration. She made hundreds of speeches before many groups, but had to turn down thousands of other requests.

Social Security Expert

Folsom told newsmen he expects education and health matters to be the biggest problems at HEW. The 61-year-old business executive is an expert on Social Security and health insurance.

He conceded that his experience in the educational field is limited, although he has served as trustee of the University of Rochester and as an overseer of Harvard College.

Folsom was treasurer of the Eastman Kodak Co. before taking the Treasury Department post. He helped initiate a broad health insurance plan covering all illnesses which is now used by 17 Rochester, N.Y., companies. He also helped start a pension plan for Eastman workers in 1928 and in 1934 served on a government advisory council on formation of the Social Security system.

No Word Received On Additional Vaccine For 2nd 'Shot' Here

Dr. Otto Lehmberg, chairman fo the Whitley County Medical Association, which supervised the administering of the first polio inoculation to children here, stated Wednesday afternoon that he had heard no word from the State Board of Health regarding an allocation of vaccine to the county.

Dr. Lehmberg said if the vaccine is alloted for a second inoculation of children who received the first one that the county physicians would endeavor to administer the "shots."

Otherwise, he said, the county association would initiate no program to inoculate children with the polio vaccine before next fall. The physicians will administer the "shots" upon individual request or if the state allots additional vaccine for the purpose.

Man Killed Beneath Wheels Of Trailer

FARMLAND, Ind. (UP) —Edward Johnson, 21, fell off a tractor-trailer Wednesday and was killed only minutes after the driver stopped to give him a ride.

Gilbert Mendenhall, Farmland, told police he stopped and gave Johnson a lift near here. At the intersection of Ind. 32 and Ind. 1 Johnson fell off and was crushed under the wheels of the trailer.

He was pronounced dead on arrival at a Winchester hospital.

American Legion Calls For Repeal Of Treaties

Permitting Foreign Countries To Jail Servicemen Overseas

WASHINGTON (UP) — The American Legion called upon Congress today to repeal immediately treaties permitting foreign countries to jail American servicemen overseas.

Bruce P. Henderson, chairman of the legion's National Security Commission, said "never before in our history have American soldiers been turned over to foreign courts for trial and thus denied the protection of the Constitution."

In testimony prepared for the House Foreign Affairs Committee, Henderson said the treaties "should be repealed without delay."

The committee is investigating the effects of the so-called status of forces treaties under which U.S. troops stationed abroad are subject to foreign laws and courts for crimes committed while off duty. The treaties include 11 North Atlantic Treaty nations and six others.

Henderson said "the American soldier is in the uniform of his country to protect the very rights which he is being denied under the status of forces agreement."

Rep. Frank T. Bow (R-Ohio) and a dozen other House members are pressing for legislation to direct President Eisenhower either to seek revision of the treaties or to withdraw from them entirely.

The administration, however, claims servicemen are getting lighter sentences from foreign courts than they would if tried by U.S. court martial.

Reps. E. Ross Adair (R-Ind.) and Marguerite Stitt Church (R-Ill.) said they agreed with Bow.

Greg Woodham Gives Report To Kiwanis Club On Boy's State

Greg Woodham, the Kiwanis Club's delegate to Boy's State in 1955 at the Indiana University campus, gave a report of his experiences at the event at the club meeting Wednesday night.

Woodham, who was elected an inspector during the elections at State and later a representative, said that he enjoyed the trip immensely. He said that he believed the experiences gained there would aid him in becoming a better citizen in the community of the future. He emphasized his hope that the club would continue to sponsor a youth to attend the annual Boy's State.

Following the club meeting, some 40 members canvassed 35 block areas in the city to sell shares of stock in behalf of the proposed new high school in the city. Club members sold a total of $1,080 worth of shares of stock in the school during the evening.

Schooenberg said he likes the patience and skill shown by eight grandmotners already working on the assembly line for him and is hiring 25 more.

Rocket Explosion Kills Soldier, Wounds Two

Peru Man Killed At Camp Grayling

CAMP GRAYLING, Mich (UP)—Ordnance officers of Indiana's 38th National Guard Infantry Division prepared today to inspect every round of rocket ammunition for defects after an explosion killed one soldier and wounded two others.

Col. Stanley Meyer, Fort Wayne, commanding officer of the 23rd regiment, said the rocket which killed Cpl. John P. Myers, 20, Peru, Wednesday was "definitely a defective round."

Wounded when the accident occurred on a rocket launcher range as the Indiana Guard continued two-week summer training were 2nd Lt. Donald E. Burkhalter, 21, Delphi, and Cpl. Robert R. Helfrich, 21, Evansville.

Burkhalter was wounded in the left shoulder and face by shell fragments. Helfrich was hit in the head. Both were hospitalized in "good" condition.

Witnesses said myers had just fired a rocket when a round from another launcher exploded about 15 yards in front of a line of bunkers occupied by men.

Myers, hit in the back, crumpled to the ground. He was taken to a first aid station but was dead before he was rushed to the camp hospital.

The accident occurred about 3:30 p.m. on a range where 3 rocket launchers were being fired.

An eyewitness was 2nd Lt. Kilburn H. Durham, Evansville, who was with Myers in the bunker when the accident occurred.

Durham said he had just signaled Myers by tapping his helmet that the round Myers had fired had gone off and the weapon was clear. Then, he said, a round from another launcher burst.

Burkhalter was at Myers' left but was not in a bunker. Helfrich was in a bunker at the left of Burkhalter.

Myers joined the division in 1952 and was a member of Company A of the 293rd regiment. The company is based in Peru, where myers was the son of the John S. Myerses.

Alley Intersection Collision Causes $250 Damage To 2 Cars

An estimated total of $250 damage was caused to two cars about 7:55 Wednesday evening when they collided at an alley intersection between Jackson and Jefferson streets just west of Main street.

The driver of one car Gayle L. Horne, 21, of R 4, was northbound on one alley. The other car driven by Dorothy Holden Gall 35, also of R 4 was eastbound on the other alley.

The Horne car struck the right front fender and right wheel of the Gall car as both vehicles reached the intersection.

About $75 damage was caused to the front bumper of the Horne car and about $175 damage to the right front fender, bumper and hub cap of the Gall car.

The Horne woman told city police who investigated the accident that she could not see the Gall car as she approached the alley intersection because of a barn at the northwest corner.

Defective Chimney Allows Smoke To Fill Presbyterian Church

A defective chimney, which failed to allow smoke to travel out of the basement furnace, was the reason for calling firemen to the First Presbyterian Church, Jackson and Chauncey streets, shortly after 2:30 p.m. Thursday.

A church employe was burning paper in the furnace and the lack of draft in the chimney forced the smoke back into the basement filling both it and much of the upstairs portion of the church.

City firemen used an exhaust fan and the draft was opened in the chimney to rid the church of the smoke.

No damage was caused.

Gold Medal Calves Must Be Weighed During This Month

Members of the Hoosier Gold Medal Calf Club are reminded by Harold Buckenmeyer, assistant county agent, that all calves must be weighed in this month. Weight cards must be in the hands of the assistant county agent before July 31, to determine whether the animals are eligible to be shown in gold medal competition.

4-H Swine Club Visits Seven Farms On Tour

Eric Holm Says Show Hogs Too Fat

The Whitley County 4-H Swine Club held its annual tour Wednesday. The farms visited were Russell Johnson of Union township, Robert Johnson, Norman Egolf, Steve Fry, Hubert Stampe, Herbert Gross and Guy Gross, all of Smith township. The main topics discussed were sanitation, summer comfort, feeding, fitting, showing, judging, selection of breeding stock, and external parasite control.

The discussion on the tour was lead by Eric Holm, assistant state 4-H leader. Eric Holm has been on many 4-H Swin etours, throughout the state this summer and he said that one of the most common, faults is that we feed our show hogs too well. They are in good shape now and ready for market. This is good management, but if the pig must be kept six more weeks it will be too fat to make a good showing. In many cases he recommended putting the pigs on a diet.

Also on the tour Mr. Holm pointed out the proper methods of fitting and showing. Sanitation is very important in swine raising and showing. Special emphasis was placed on testing of gilts and vaccination of all pigs to be shown. Papers of proof of vaccination of all pigs to be shown must accompany them to the show.

"About 75 persons attended the tour. Among these were three 4-H leaders and several parents. It shows that there is a definite interest in our swine program in the county and we are pleased to see that so many parents take an active interest in their boys' and girls' 4-H projects," Harold Buckenmeyer stated.

This year's swine club has 140 members.

Keen Interest That Zhukov Will Attend

Was President's War-Time Friend

By DONALD J. GONZALES
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—The powerful Soviet lineup being sent to the Geneva Big Four conference indicated today the Russians will be fully prepared to do business on world problems—if they want to.

Announcement that Communist Party Chief Nikita Khrushchev and Defense Minister Marshal Georgi Zhukov will attend the meeting next week suggested to some diplomats that the Reds might be ready to transact even more business than the United States is prepared to do.

Russians have been talking about a long, detailed conference while this government has planned for a short meeting of about a week on what it regards as "procedural planning"—or steps toward later negotiations.

Keen interest was expressed here in the participation of Zhukov, President Eisenhower's wartime friend.

Mr. Eisenhower has said that if Zhukov did attend the meeting "he and I, at least, would have a chance to talk personally and, I think, to talk over events since 1945 among ourselves and we might just get some item of value out of it."

Ike, Zhukov Got Along

After Zhukov's appointment as defense minister in February, Mr. Eisenhower said he and the marshall developed "a practice of getting along and seeing eye to eye on a number of our local problems in Berlin" after the war.

Meanwhile, diplomatic officials said the Big Three allies will press Russia at Geneva for rapid action on reunification of Germany.

Russell Predicts Quick Senate Approval Of Sharply Modified Military Reserve Plan

CONGRESS

By UNITED PRESS

Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga) today predicted quick Senate approval of a sharply modified version of President Eisenhower's military reserve program.

Russell, chairman of the armed forces committee, said the compromise measure, scheduled for debate today is "eminently fair" and a "vast improvement" over the House reserve bill. The House approved the President's request to make reserve service compulsory for all men entering the armed forces since the Korean truce.

But the Senate version would impose forced reserve training only on future GIs, exempting those now in the service and veterans. Those now on active duty, however, would get bonus of $200 to $600 if they volunteer for the reserves.

Senate Republican leaders conceded there was little chance of restoring the bill to the administrations original design.

The Senate bill, like the House measure, includes the administration's proposal to let some youths volunteer for a special six-month training program and then spend a long period in the reserves. The Senate bill would let those aged 17 through 19 participate in this program. The House bill would permit only those who had reached 19 or had finished high school to do so.

The Senate bill, in line with the administration's request, would require youths to spend a total of eight years on active duty and in the reserves. The House had cut the period to six years.

Other congressional news:

Resolutions: Senate leaders expected overwhelming approval today of two resolutions to strengthen President Eisenhower's hand at the Big Four conference. One voiced the Senate's hope that the satellite nations will again gain their independence. The other is a House - approved resolution condemning colonialism and Communist imperialism.

Dixon - Yates: Chairman Clinton P. Anderson (D-NM) of the House - Senate Atomic Energy Committee said "not one dollar" should be paid in penalties by the government for cancellation of the Dixon - Yates contract. Anderson and other committee Democrats disagreed with testimony Wednesday by General Counsel William Mittchell gave an opinion that the Dixon-Yates contract became effective Sept. 17, 1954, and that the government is liable for cancellation damages of an unspecified amount.

Defense: President Eisenhower told Congress in a special message that he had signed the new $31,882,000,000 defense money bill but felt one of its provisions was an "unconstitutional invasion of executive branch powers. He objected to an amendment giving Con-

Manchester Man To Accompany Load Of Heifers To Germany

Russell L. Miller, 63, R 2, North Manchester, sails from New York July 19, with a shipload of bred dairy heifers. This livestock was collected by Heifer Project, Inc., New Windsor, Maryland, for distribution to newly settled refugee farm families in Western Germany.

Aboard ship, Mr. Miller will be responsible for the twice a day feeding and watering of the 55 heifers. Although all the heifers are bred, none are expected to have calves while the ship is at sea.

Mr. Miller has been an active supporter of Heifer Project for the last ten years. He has often used his farm as a collection center where heifers contributed by other farmers or church groups could be brought together before shipment to Eastern seaports.

The heifers will be given to farm families who have abandoned their own farms behind the Iron Curtain. Now they are starting life anew on small five to ten acre farms in Western Germany.

A heifer to them is a gift of greatest value for it is a source of income as well as an expression of good will and love.

Assisting as seagoing cowboys are Richard Simons of Marion, and Presbyterian minister F. J. Fonken of Monnet, Missouri.

This will be the 45th shipment of livestock to Germany by Heifer Project, Inc., since 1949. Altogether 2,172 head of cattle have been shipped there.

Recipients are selected on the basis of need and ability to give proper care of livestock. They also promise to give the first born heifer calf to another family who did not recieve a "kuh" from the first distribution. In this way, the first recipient helps his neighbors.

The ocean voyage takes about ten days. The cattle then go into quarantine for two weeks. During this time the livestock attendants travel and visit people who have received heifers on earlier shipments. After the distribution ceremony, the men return on any of the U.S. Lines freighters crossing Westward.

Since 1944, Heifer Project has shipped 7,836 cattle, 6,639 goats, 213,260 chicks, 1,060 pigs, 47 horses, 15 sheep, 3,000 turkey poults, 217,440 hatching eggs, 530 rabbits, 60,120 duck eggs, and 200 packages of honey bees to 36 different countries.

Heifer Project, Inc., is guided and directed by the American Baptist Home Mission Society, Brethren Service Commission, Congregational Christian Service Commitee, Evangelical and Reformed Church, Evangelical United Brethren, Fellowship of Reconciliation, Koinonia Foundation, Mennonite Central Committee, Methodist Church, National Catholic Rural Life Conference, Rural Life Association, and the Department of Social Welfare of the United Christian Missionary Society.

Warming Trend May Mean Heat Wave For The East

By UNITED PRESS

A warming trend moved in on the eastern half of the nation today and the weatherman warned that it might mean a heat wave similar to the one that scorched the East for 10 days until last Sunday.

Temperaures were generally 5 to 10 degrees higher and going up. Hot, but drier, weather was also the outlook for the West.

Meanwhile showers and thunderstorms brought some relief in the South, Southwest and Mississippi Valley. The heaviest article during the night was 1.57 inches at Guyman, Okla.

At Rocky Mount, N.C., the rain averaged four inches in the Tar River watershed.

The rain-swollen river was expected to crest at 2½ feet above flood stage today and five feet above Friday at Tarboro N.C. Wednesday the river flooded low crop lands.

No apparent danger was reported, but there was heavy property damage. Authorities feared that some families in the Negro section east of Tarboro might be forced to leave their homes later in the week.

Notice is hereby given that the township trustee and advisory board of Washington Township, Whitley County, Indiana, will receive bids at the office of the trustee, until the 5th day of August, 1955, at 8:00 o'clock P.M. C.D.T., for the purchase of the following described articles for said township, to-wit:

1. For the cost of material and labor to repair a hot air furnace situated in the Washington Township School Building.

2. For an oil furnace to replace the present hot air furnace situated in said school building, together with a three thousand (3,000) gallon oil tank.

All bids shall include the cost of installation of the above units. Bids will be accepted covering either or both specified methods of heating. Certified check in the amount of 10 per cent of the bid submitted shall accompany all bids. Successful bidder will be required to furnish performance bond.

Information regarding the above repairs or installation of new unit and specifications can be obtained from said trustee at his office at any time before the awarding of said contract.

The right is hereby reserved to reject any and all bids.

Dated July 13, 1955.

JOLLY WORKERS

The Jefferson Jolly Workers 4-H Club, Jefferson 4-H Hustlers ,parents, and the leader, Gerald Wallace, enjoyed the 4-H picnic at Center Lake in Warsaw Sunday.

G. W. Dygert returned thanks before the bounteous potluck dinner was served. In the afternoon, the 4-H'ers enjoyed swimming. Ninety attended the picnic.

Sorry Mrs. Wallace could not be with us, but we congratulate her on the arrival of a son, David Carl, on Saturday.

Without Painful Backache
Nagging backache, headache, or muscular aches and pains may come on with over-exertion, emotional upsets or day to day stress and strain. And folks who eat and drink unwisely sometimes suffer mild bladder irritation ...with that restless, uncomfortable feeling.
If you are miserable and worn out because of these discomforts, Doan's Pills often help by their pain relieving action, by their soothing effect to ease bladder irritation, and by their mild diuretic action through the kidneys — tending to increase the output of the 15 miles of kidney tubes.
So if nagging backache makes you feel dragged-out, miserable...with restless, sleepless nights...don't wait...try Doan's Pills...get the same happy relief millions have enjoyed for over 60 years. Get Doan's Pills today!

Sum Received To Be Used As Memorial To Mrs. Edna Carter

A sum of money received from the family of Mrs. Edna Carter of this city by the Golden Rule class of Trinity Methodist church will be used as a memorial to the late Mrs. Carter, active in the work of Trinity church.

A letter which was read Wednesday evening before members of the class at its July meeting came from the children of Mrs. Carter and suggested that the money be used as a memorial to their mother.

Devotions conducted by Mrs Martin Zumbaugh were taken from St. John. A letter was read from the Mary Johnson school in Manila for recent literature received by the school from the class.

Winners in contests conducted during the social hour were Mrs. Virgil Vernon, Mrs. LaVere Pence, Mrs. S. J. Leland.

Lemon bisque, coffee and mints were served by the hostesses, the Mesdames Zumbaugh, Daisy Holloway, August Erdmann, E. O. Walker and Gilbert Humbarger.

Big Lake Bunco Club Entertained By Mrs. Smith Wednesday

Mrs. Roland Smith was hostess Wednesday evening for the monthly meeting of the bunco club at Big Lake. Prizes in the game were awarded to Mesdames Raymond Stone, Harry Reed, Frederick Brown, Jack Goss, Richard Kemery.

Guests of the club were Mrs. Gene Baughman and Mrs. Louis Hurley.

Mrs. Smith served sandwiches relishes, pineapple salad, angel food cake and coffee.

Mrs. Herbert Griffith will be the August hostess.

Columbia Township Club To Have Dress Revue In The Fall

Columbia Township Home Demonstration club will hold a dress revue this fall, according to plans made at the July meeting of the club, held at the 4-H Community Center Tuesday.

The Mesdames Norman Shearer, Lewis Blanchard, William Worden, Russell Sievers were appointed members of the committee to be in charge of the dress revue. Mrs. Jesse DePoy read from the 18th chapter of Matthew during the devotional period. Sandra Heinley sang a solo.

Guests of the club included the 4-H Girls. The Mesdames Elmer Heinley, Willard Knisely, Clarence Keiser, LeRoy Veazey, William Worden and Mrs. Hershmann conducted a panel discussion on the Purdue Conference.

A committee served ice cream bars during the afternoon.

Mrs. Stayer Gives Pretty Party For Mrs. Charles Gibson

Mrs. Charles Gibson was guest of honor at a pretty pink and blue shower for which Mrs. Donald Stayer was hostess, Wednesday evening, at her home on Hilltop Drive.

Mrs. Carl Weigold, Linda Kitson, Marilyn Gibson and Mrs. Charles Gibson won prizes in games that were played and these were later presented to the honor guest.

Cake decorated in pink and blue was served with punch nuts and mints. Favors were in the form of pink and blue diapers.

Guests besides the guest of honor included Mrs. Carl Weigold, Mrs. Ben Fruchey, Mrs. Clifford Gibson and two daughters, ose and Linda, Marilyn Gibson Linda Kitson and two daughters, Rose and son, Margery Gibson, Mr.s Robert Bobby, Billy and Ricki.

Deborahs Entertained At Furthmiller Home

Members of the Deborah class of the First Baptist church were entertained Tuesday evening at the Richard Furthmiller home near Fort Wayne. Mrs. Roy Barnes and Mrs. Ralph Heald were co-hostesses with Mrs. Furthmiller.

"Peace and Prayer" formed the theme for the devotions taken from Isaiah which were conducted by Mrs. Barnes, who gave readings titled "America," "For Today," and "Not By Bread Alone."

Winners in contests conducted by Mrs. Barnes and Mrs. Heald were won by Mrs. Roy Inks, Mrs. Marion Fisher, Mrs. William Terry, Mrs. Harry Staley.

Ham salad sandwiches, wafers and punch were served by the hostesses.

Is Here For Some Weeks From Arizona

Mrs. Cleon H. Foust of Tucson, Arizona, will be the guest of her relatives here for the next several weeks.

She was called here by the death of her brother-in-law, R. Earl Briggs of Smith township. She arrived in the city Saturday. Mrs. Foust is a guest in the home of her son, Franklin Foust, at the corner of Washington and Collinwood, and will visit in Indianapolis with her son and daughter-in-law Attorney and Mrs. Cleon H. Foust.

Fort Wayne Labor Troubled City; Men Failed To Report For Work

BULLETIN

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (UP)—More than 125 AFL printers returned to work today after a strike of several hours against Fort Wayne's two daily newspapers.

The printers walked out Wednesday night and returned today shortly after noon on orders from the union's international president.

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (UP)—More than 125 AFL printers went on strike against Fort Wayne's two daily newspapers Wednesday night.

The morning Journal-Gazette published a four-page edition in place of a 46-page edition it had planned to issue. Executives of the newspapers performed the printing chores.

The afternoon News-Sentinel prepared to publish a similar brief edition today unless the printers, members of the International Typographical Union, return to their jobs this morning.

The walkout was described by a front - page statement in the Journal - Gazette as "unauthorized." The statement also quoted Woodruff Randolph, international president of the union with headquarters at Indianapolis, as saying the walkout was unauthorized.'

Ignore Randolph Order

Clifford B. Ward, editor of the News-Sentinel, said the newspaper executives were told that Randolph had sent a telegram ordering the men back to work Wednesday night but they ignored the order.

The men failed to report for work at 6 p.m. The Journal-Gazette said they contended they were in a meeting and not on strike.

The newspaper said the publishers and the scale committee of the union had been meeting regularly since April in negotiations for a new contract. A meeting was held Wednesday afternoon and adjourned at 4:20 p.m. after the publishers offered a setlement of the contract issues.

"The publishers understood that the offer of a new contract and a wage increase made at the time would be submited to members of the union at a meeting called for 4:30 p.m.," the Journal-Gazette statement said.

Oher Employes Work

"Without warning, the men failed to appear at the usual time... and contended they were in a meeting and not on strike.

"The publishers contacted Woodruff Randolph...and reported the facts to him. He advised the publishers that the action of the local union constituted an unauthorized strike and ordered the men back to work. The men did not report back for work, after having received a telegram from Randolph ordering them to return.

"The publisher stands ready to negotiate further with the scale commitee of the union as soon as the men return to work as ordered by their international president."

Organized employes in other departments of the newspapers reported for work as usual.

FORT WAYNE Ind. (UP)—Contract disputes Wednesday idled truckers and machinists in this labor-troubled city.

About 130 members of Lodge 1719 of the International Association of Machinists walked out and established picket lines after contract negotiations for wage increases in process since May remained deadlocked.

The warehouse unit of AFL truckers Local 414 struck the Fort Wayne Storage Co. Drivers are seeking a 74-cent package increase spread over three years. Warehousemen and helpers are asking a 59-cent package deal.

The company said it offered 30 cents and 25 cents, respectively

Amazing New Safe Discovery Makes

REDUCING EASY

SCIENCE NOW HELPS YOU TAKE OFF YOUR FAT WHILE YOU EAT THE FOODS YOU CHOOSE

FRIENDS! Let Me Ask You a Simple Question

Are you too fat because you eat too much? Would you like to lose fat but you just can't control your appetite and like to eat too much of the wrong kind of food? Do you like sweets, candy, cake and are you a real glutton when it comes to butter, gravy, potatoes? Have you tried one thing after another to reduce, spent dollar after dollar for pills and tablets and in spite of everything you've tried you're still too fat?

AT LAST! A CAPSULE THAT EQUALS A MEAL OF VITAMINS, MINERALS AND BULK

Just recently a well known scientist perfected a new tiny capsule that combines not one but ALL THE RECOGNIZED proven aids to reducing he found in all the advertised products offered today. It contains the concentrated proteins you've read and heard about. It combines the vitamins and minerals often lost when cutting off fattening foods containing these needed vitamins and minerals. It combines the vegetable cellulose that has no calories yet expands when it absorbs water, thereby helping to give the feeling of a full contented stomach. Yet these tiny new capsules contain not just one but ALL the drugless reducing aids he found to be needed to actually automatically make you eat less without conscious effort and like it! In fact, these tiny capsules are so packed with vitamins and minerals, protein and non-caloric filling food, they actually equal and exceed many a meal!

Counteract Hunger

Yes, All-in-One Reducing Capsules are as filling, as hunger satisfying, as rich in vitamins, minerals and fat consuming protein as many a meal. When you take All-in-One Reducing Capsules, you not only don't want to eat, but you also get the very vitamins, minerals and fat consuming protein you need for health, for energy, for rich, red blood, for that wonderful feeling that comes from eating a delicious, satisfying meal of well chosen food.

Questioning Of Iowa Farm Hand Resumed Today

JOPLIN, Mo. (UP)—An itinerant farm hand, in a new and detaied statement, told today of raping 2-year-old Donna Sue Davis of Sioux City, Iowa, and then hitting her until he went to pieces."

Audrey Earl Brandt, alias Albert Daws, gave details which tallied on "7 of 10 major points" in the slaying, Acting Detective Capt. Johnny Showers of the Joplin police department reported.

Brandt, who slept so soundly that jailers were unable to arouse him for breakfast was returned to the same room where he was questioned for 18 hours Wednesday. A third set of fingerprints was made, police said.

Brandt, who was known at Laporte City, Iowa, by the name of "Mugeye told of seeing the Davis child on the porch of her home with her mother, and of returning later to take her from the bedroom where she slept.

Acting Detective Captain Johnny Showers said Brandt, 42, "admitted any crime we asked him about, so we couldnt be sure of anything."

Iowa police said Brandt has a record of one conviction for sex molestation in 1947 at Cedar Rapids and was fined $100. He was arrested last April 24 at Waterloo, Iowa, for investigation of annoying two small girls in a movie theater, but was released when the investigation showed no molesting.

At Laporte City, Town Marshal Henry Kruse said he has known Brandt since he was a small child and said he has worked as a farm hand and odd-job man in the La-Porte City area all his adult life.

Kruse said Brandt didn't get much schooling and "can barely write his name.' He said Brandt had been involved in petty thievery a long time in the La-Porte City area but was never prosecuted because the people in town knew they could go to him and get their property back.

A truck driver's suspicion led to Brandt's arrest on a Joplin street about midnight Tuesday. The driver, who gave Brandt a ride to Joplin from Springfield, Mo., said the man acted strangely and would not talk except to say he was "headed south."

Police and FBI agents reported several "good" fingerprints were found in the bedroom from which Donna was abducted last Sunday night while her parents watched television in another room. The prints were found on the child's crib and on the window frame through which the killer escaped.

The ravaged body of the little girl was found late Monday at the edge of a muddy cornfield near South Sioux City Neb., just across the Missouri River from Sioux City, Iowa. She was buried Wednesday.

Memorial Rites For Larwill Man To Be Held Friday

Minard M. Gates, 78, Dies Wednesday

Minard M. Gates, 78, died at his home in Larwill at noon Wednesday following an illness of the past 7 months. He was born in Kosciusko county July 22, 1876, a son of Merril and Eva Ann Kress Gates.

February 23, 1910, Mr. Gates was united in marriage to Mary E. Coplen and after living at Cambridge, Nebraska they moved to a farm near Larwill. For the past few years they have resided in Larwill.

He was a member of the Larwill Methodist Church.

He is survived by his wife, Mary; two sons, Kenneth, Columbia City and Paul, Larwill; five daughters, Mrs. Albert Barnes, Larwill , Mrs. Carl Schrader, Larwill, Mrs. Charles Wolfe, Pierceton, Mrs. Harold Black, Warsaw, and Naomi Dirck, Larwill; nine grandchildren; ten great grandchildren; one brother, Horace Gates, Pierceton; and one sister Mrs. Charles Sroufe, Warsaw.

The body was removed to the Smith and Sons Funeral Home where friends may call after 5 p.m. Thursday. Final rites will be held at the funeral home at 2 p.m. Friday, Rev. Walter Meacham, pastor of the Larwill Methodist Church, officiating. Interment will follow in the Hillcrest Cemetery, Pierceton.

Church Rites For Lafayette Hill Saturday Afternoon

Memorial services for Lafayette Hill, who died Wednesday morning, will be held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Ormas Baptist church. The Rev. Valmont A. Fry, pastor of the Free Methodist Church, and the Rev. Volie Pyles, pastor of the Ormas Church will officiate at the service. Interment tery in Noble county.

Friends will be received at the J. A. DeMoney and Son Funeral Home until noon Saturday. After 1 o'clock friends will be received at the church.

Salaries: Chairman Styles Bridges (R-NH) of the Senate Republican Policy Committee confirmed the administration wants Congress to raise salaries of cabinet officers and other high officials by amounts ranging up to $5000. The proposed raises would cost about $1,625,000 annually.

Academy: The House today faced the question of whether to approve additional funds for the Air Force Academy, whose proposed modern design has been severely criticized. The House Appropriations Committee has recommended that 77 million dollars sought by the administration for the academy be denied until building plans "are more firmly established."

Jailed GIs: The American Legion urged Congress to repeal treaties permitting foreign countries to jail American servicemen overseas. A legion spokesman told the House Foreign Affairs Committee that GIs tried in foreign courts are "denied the protection of the constitution."

Survivor Benefits: The House Wednesday passed and sent to the Senate a proposal to overhaul government benefits for survivors of servicemen. Supporters of the bill said it would eliminate many inequities in the present payments.

Major League All-Stars Come Back To Earth, Settle Down For Stretch Run Of Big Season

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer

The Major League All-Stars came back to earth today, ready to complete a season which could be the most notable since the golden era of Babe Ruth.

As the teams settled down for the stretch run in the third round of East-West competition it was significant to observe that:

1. Ted Kluszewski is running 10 full games ahead of Hack Wilson's National League record home run pace of 1930 when he hit 56 and is virtually even with Ruth's 1927 pace when he set the all-time high of 60 homers.

2. Don Newcombe is on a 30-victory time table and Robin Roberts is just a little behind schedule running toward the same goal.

3. Duke Snider also is ahead of Wilson's home run pace and stood an outside chance of topping Wilson's all-time major league high mark of 190 runs batted in, also in 1930.

4. There could be a bumper crop of 20-game winners with big Newk at 14-1, Roberts 13-7, Bob Lemon 12-6, Early Wynn 11-4 Bob Turley and rookie Luis Arroyo 10-3, all within striking distance if they maintain the same pace the second half of the season.

Kluszewski, the Cincinnati muscle man, leads both leagues in homers with 29 for 80 games. In 1930 when Wilson was riding high he did not hit his 29th homer until July 21 in the 90th game for the Chicago Cubs. Ruth hit his 29th homer in 1927 in his 79th game on July 9.

The Brooklyn Bonfire

Newcombe, the Brooklyn bonfire, who is bidding to become the first 30-game winner in the majors since Dizzy Dean of the 1934 St. Louis Cardinals, was ahead of Dean's pace until the All - Star break. If he makes it 15 victories in his next start he'll be even with Ol' Diz. Roberts, who undoubtedly would have three or four more victories if he were not pitching for the seventh place Phillies, needs every win he can get from now on and probably would be glad to settle for 25 wins.

Snider, another in Brooklyn's "arcade of heroes," now has a total of 89 runs batted in, which leaves him with a total of 101 to acquire in the remaining half of the season if he wants to equal the Wilson total. That is a large order but there is a special factor involved. Snider openly covets the "most valuable player" award and he also has stated repeatedly that he would rather set the pace in RBI's than in any other department. He can be expected to give out all the way in order to do it.

There might even be a restoration of that all but extinct figure—the .400 hitter. And the guy if he made it, wouldn't even win a batting championship. Ted Williams of the Red Sox, the last man ever to hit .400 (.406 in 1941), is batting .394 currently and could easily rise to the magic figure if he stays hot with the Red Sox. But because of his late start he won't run up the required total of 400 at bats to be eligible for the bat title.

Pennant Races Resume

As for the pennant races themselves, the Dodgers hope to get back in winning stride and put an end to their crippling run of injuries in a long home stand beginning tonight against the Cardinals. The second place Milwaukee Braves who are running at their best speed of the season, open against laggardly Philadelphia, the third place Cubs are at New York against the deflated Giants, and Cincy's "big Klu crew" is at Pittsburgh in other National League games all at night.

The Yankees open their third invasion of the west against the Indians in Cleveland tonight — Still the team Manager Casey Stengel thinks will offer the Bombers the greatest challenge in the stretch. In other American League action, there are three night double headers. Washington is at Chicago, Boston's Hot Sox play at Detroit against the fading Tigers, and Baltimore is at Kansas City.

Charles Continues On Comeback Path

CHICAGO (UP)—Ezzard Charles still was on the comeback path toward another heavyweight title chance today, but handlers of Paul Andrews charged the advance resulted only from a low blow and faulty scoring by a fight judge.

Charles, the former heavyweight titleholder who has lost three times in an effort to regain the crown, won a majority decision over Andrews in the Chicago Stadium television fight Wednesday night.

But Andrews scored the only knockdown of the brawl, putting Charles on the canvas for the compulsory eight count in the second round. The scoring of the judges for this episode varied widely.

Referee Frank Sikora gave Andrews the round by a 10-7 score, Judge Frank McAdam made it 10-6 for Andrews, and Judge James McManus 10-8. McManus scored the fight 96-95 for Charles while Sikora had it 94-91 for the ex-champion and McAdam 95-89 for Andrews.

"If McManus had scored the round 10-7, the fight would have been a draw," Andrews' manager, Marshall Miles, the former manager of ex-champion Joe Louis, said.

Then in the tenth round Charles landed a punch to Andrews' stomach which sent him doubled up against the ropes, and Sikora held Charles away.

"I thought he was going to fall," Sikora said. "The punch landed right at the belt line."

"If it was low," Charles said, "I didn't know it and I didn't mean it."

Andrews claimed the blow landed "right in the groin," and said he was hurt the rest of the way by pain. Miles and the other handlers agreed.

Even though Charles won, he wasn't impressive. Andrews had him in trouble in the first three rounds and Charles got the victory only because he fought from a crouch thereafter, worked inside on the body expertly and kept Andrews confused with his attack shifting occasionally to the head.

Charles, who intended to gain a third match with champion Rocky Marciano by eliminating all the other contenders, will meet Hurricane Tommy Jackson in Syracuse, N.Y. Aug. 3 in his next outing. Had Andrews won, he would have received the match. It was Andrews' 6th defeat in 36 fights and Charles' 90th win in 104.

45,314 Attend All-Star Game

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP)—Before expenses were deducted the 22nd major league All-Star game grossed $273,245.02, with most of it headed for the players' pension fund.

A total of 45,643 tickets were sold and 45,314 attended the game. The ticket sales grossed $179,545.50 with a net of $163,254.02 after taxes of $16,291.48.

Television rights were $75,000 and radio $35,000.

About 60 per cent of all U.S. visitors to Canada cross the border at Ontario.

Hoot Evers, Ferris Fain Today Join Cleveland Indians

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UP)—Outfielder Hoot Evers and first baseman Ferris Fain, two veterans who have seen better days, joined the Cleveland Indians today in separate deals which General Manager Hank Greenberg said "can help us win the pennant."

The Indians, fortifying themselves for the latter half of the pennant race in which they trail the first place New York Yankees by five games, acquired Evers in a waiver deal with last place Baltimore and picked up Fain as a free agent.

In exchange for Evers, the Indians gave Baltimore left-handed pitcher Bill Wight, another fading veteran who has no won and lost record although he has worked in 16 games as a reliever for Cleveland this year.

Evers, should he regain the all-around talent he showed with the Detroit Tigers in 1950, his best year, could be of considerable help to the Indians. Only 34, he has a lifetime batting average of .280 in the majors, but after hitting a peak of .323 wih Detroit that year he unaccountably went sour.

Fain, who was dropped by the Detroit Tigers, reportedly because he suffered from both a sore knee and a sore head, was signed as a free agent. He received his unconditional release last week after a series of quarrels involving his successor on the Tigers, first base man Earl Torgeson, and Tiger Coach Lynn (Schoolboy) Rowe. Fain re-injured his knee during the past winter in a fall and it hobbled him badly, particularly in the field where he once had shone as a top defensive first sacker.

However, Fain told Greenberg his knee was sound again.

Fain and Evers join a roster already packed with castoffs from other major league clubs. These include Wertz, ex-Cub Ralph Kiner, ex-Yankee Gene Woodling, ex-Pirate George Strickland, ex-Oriole Bobby Young, ex-Tiger Art Houteman, and ex-Senator Early Wynn.

Ladies Tee Off At PGA Tourney

FORT WAYNE, Ind., (UP) — The $6,000 first National Ladies Professional Golf Association tourney opened today with three-fourths of the nation's low-shooting play-for-pay girls vying in a unique 4-day medal-match championship route.

Twenty-one pros were entered. That, said tourney Chairman Arnold Lee, represents at least 75 per cent of the women professionals who shoot consistently in the 70s.

The linkswomen, ranging in age down to 18-year-old Dianne Garrett of Houston, Tex,, will play 54 holes on a medal basis today Thursday and Friday.

The two with the fanciest scores will bid for the championship in a 36-hold match Sunday to determine who gets the $1,200 first prize.

Pirates Sign Stubing

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Larry Stubing, 17-year-old Bronx, N. Y., first baseman was signed by the Pittsburgh Pirates today and assigned to their Brunswick Ga., farm club in the Class D Georgia-Florida League.

In addition to the balance of $317,862.78 from receipts and expenditures, the city also owns U. S. Treasury notes or bonds valued at a total of $101,000.

Through a typographical error in an article on the city council meeting in Wednesday's paper, an incorrect figure was shown as the amount still owed on electrical bonds. The figure shown was 58,000. It should have been $258,000.

Gunderson Among Tennis Finalists

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Belmar Gunderson of Edgewood, Md., will meet Mrs. Carter Simonin of Philadelphia while Mrs. Connie Ball of Ormond Beach, Fla., opposes Mrs. Francis Vosters of Merion, Pa. Friday in the semi-finals of the Middle States Women's Grass Court tennis championship.

Redskins Start Training Wednesday

LOS ANGELES (UP) — Fifty three members of the Washington Redskins National Football league team opened training at Occidental College Wednesday and lost a total of 212 pounds at the conclusion of their first mid-summer workout.

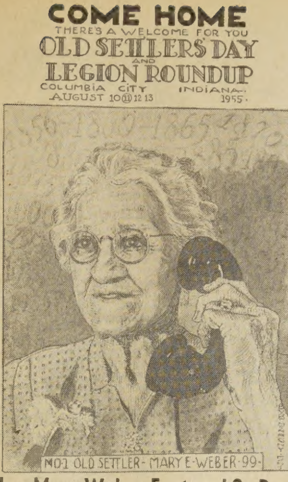
COLUMBIA CITY POST

NEA FEATURE AND PICTURE SERVICE — COLUMBIA CITY, IND., FRIDAY EVENING, JULY 15, 1955 — UNITED PRESS TTS WIRE SERVICE

Committee Allocates Almost Two Million Dollars For Projects



Mrs. Mary Weber Featured On Drawing

This year Rob McNagny chose Mrs. Mary Weber as the theme for his postal card drawing for Old Settlers Day.

Mrs. Weber, 99, is Whitley county's Oldest Settler.

She was on the program at the first Old Settlers Day held at Loon Lake fifty-five years ago. Mrs. Weber gave a recitation and pantomime at that affair.

She is now residing at the South Whitley Rest Home and is looking eagerly forward to Old Settlers Day with the same enthusiasm as many of the youngsters of the community. If able, she hopes to attend this year's event.

The postal cards may be picked up at the newspaper office or most retail stores.

East-West Struggle 'Cannot Be Solved By War', Bulganin Says

By KENNETH BRODNEY
United Press Staff CorresPondent

MOSCOW (UP)—Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin declared today that the struggle between East and West "cannot be solved by war."

The Soviet premier pledged the Soviet delegation at the Geneva "summit" conference will seek "a common language" to end the Cold War.

Bulganin spoke at a press conference, the first ever held by a Soviet premier.

It took place in a handsome, wood-panelled conference room in the Cabinet Ministers' Building, inside the Kremlin walls.

Bulganin told Soviet and foreign newsmen that the chiefs of government at Geneva would not be able "to settle all international differences."

Bu he said their objective will be to "point the way" to solutions.

Soviet Pledges Effort

"The Soviet delegation, for its part, will make such an effort," Bulganin said.

The Soviet premier said some of the urgent international questions will persist. But he reiterated that the aim of the Geneva conference will be to resolve them.

Bulganin said there had been considerable talk in the West of "the menace allegedly emanating from the Soviet Union."

He added solemnly:

"We have never had and do not now have the intention of attacking anybody."

May Exchange Visits

The press conference and the general improvement in East-West relations led to speculation here that Bulganin and President Eisenhower might exchange state visits as an aftermath of the Geneva conference.

Eastland Hopes To Get Leads To Present Time

From Questioning Reporters Who Admit They Used To Be Reds

WASHINGTON (UP)—Chairman James O. Eastland (D-Miss.) said today the Senate Internal Security subcommittee is "trying to get leads to the present time" from its questioning of reporters who admit they were Communists 15 or so years ago.

With the hearings in indefinite recess, Eastland told newsmen that testimony to date "has shown places where communism became entrenched.

"We hope to get leads from these hearings that will show us activity down to the present time," he said.

Eastland also praised the "cooperation" the subcommittee received from newsmen who had testified.

He said the subcommittee had had witnesses from most of the professions.

"We've gotten more cooperation from newspapermen than from any other group in the country," he said.

Rain Falls Here On Eight Of 12 Days, 1.76 Inch Thursday

Over an inch-and-a-half of rain fell in Columbia City during Thursday night's steady rain in addition to the .21 of an inch which fell Thursday afternoon.

The area was not in need of rain since the numerous showers that have fallen on this community the first two weeks of the month. Rain has fallen here on eight of the last 12 days. A considerable amount of the Whitley county wheat has been combined, but the frequent rains and high humidity have limited harvesting to only a few hours a day, except for a few days. Fortunately, no strong winds accompanied the rain last night and knocked down the ripe wheat and oats which are fast becoming ready for harvest.

The 1.55 inch of water that fell last night, and the other rains, should help bring on a good growth of second cutting hay to supplement the first cutting, which was apparently plentiful.

All U. S. Ex-Prisoners Of Communists Want To Go Home Now, Asserts Turncoat Bell

By WILLIAM MILLER
United Press Staff CorresPondent

KOBE, Japan (UP)—An American turncoat returning to the United States said today that all U.S. ex-prisoners who refused reparlation at Panmunjom after the Korean War now want to go home.

He said 18 more Americans who chose to stay with the Communists will be crossing the Hong Kong border "in the very near future."

Otho G. Bell, 24, Hillsboro, Miss. broke away from the leadership of "spokesman" William Cowart and told his story aboard the liner President Cleveland.

Only Communist intimidation and the fear of U.S. courts are keeping the rest of the ex-prisoners in Red China Bell said.

"I talked to all of them before I left," Bell said. "They are very afraid. They told me they just didn't have the guts to face U.S. military courts.

Bell said Communist Chinese officials informed all American exprisoners they had been sentenced to death by the U.S. Supreme Court.

The exclusive United Press interview with Bell was conducted on the President Cleveland, which stopped here today on its voyage from Hong Kong to San Francisco.

Bell and two other turncoats, Cowart of Dalton, Ga., and Lewie Griggs of Jacksonville Tex., are traveling home in a third class dormitory on the liner. They stepped out of Red China at Hong Kong Sunday after 17 months with the Communists.

Bell said the American turncoats still in Red China are being used in "brain-washing experiments.'

"They are being used as talking monkeys" Bell said.

The ex-prisoner said the Americans were being held and forced to work in a paper mill in southern China. All were miserable and wanted to get out, but were under pressure of fear, he explained.

The Americans still in China are "all fouled up beyond all reason" and do not know what to do any more," Bell said.

"The Reds can turn your heart to steel," he continued. "They give them only two roads—one, to be a good comrade, the other death. This uncertainty is keeping American ex-prisners in Red China today."

Bell said the Communists were using the Americans for their propaganda value only.

"They would have liked to string us up but they couldn't, he said.

The ex-prisoner could not explain fully how he, Cowart and Griggs were able to overcome the fears, threats and intimidation he reported while the others had not.

Fifth Child Born To South Whitley Couple

Mrs. Simmons was Mary Ellen sowers before her marriage. The couple has three girls and another son.

U. S. Preparing Secret Plan For Disarmament

For Consideration By World Powers, Including Russia

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States is preparing a secret new disarmament plan for early consideration by the world's major powers, including Russia.

The disarmament program may be hinted at by President Eisenhower at next week's Big Four conference at Geneva. Its final release, however, is expected to be held back for detailed disarmament talks in late summer or early fall. Foreign ministers or other experts would attend these talks.

Mr. Eisenhower was reported to have high hopes the Big Four powers at Geneva will agree to a fresh start on a step-by-step path toward eventual global disarmament.

But the President, with British and French support, was reported ready to oppose any Russian move to call for a gigantic "world disarmament conference." This Soviet approach to disarmament has been sounded for years. It was repeated only last month by Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov at the San Francisco United Nations Conference. Diplomats are sure it will be repeated again at Geneva.

The President and other Western leaders were said to want a more modest, and what they believe would be a more effective, approach to disarmament, including control of atomic-hydrogen weapons.

One possibility under Allied discussion would be for the Big Four at Geneva to call for the U.N. disarmament subcommittee to make a new start on disarmament. This would begin after the Geneva conference ends. It would provide a good forum for the new U.S. proposal, informants said.

Inspection is expected to be the heart of the new U.S. plan under formulation by Harold E. Stassen, special disarmament adviser to the President. But previous American thinking on inspection is sure to be modified.

Western Powers 'In Agreement' On Strategy

For Conference With Russia

By WILBUR G. LANDREY
United Press Staff Correspondent

PARIS (UP)—The Big Three foreign ministers announced today that the Western powers are "in complete agreement" on their strategy for the summit conference with Russia at Geneva.

The agreement was reached at a lengthy strategy conference of the three foreign ministers.

It was learned that among other things they agreed the West would no bring any Far Eastern issues into the conference. If they are injected, the foreign ministers said, it will be on Russia's responsibility.

Informed sources said the West also agreed to offer Russia a pledge that Germany's armed forces would be limited to 12 divisions in exchange for Russia's agreement to reunification of the divided nation.

Two Hour Session

French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay announced "complete agreement" after he, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and British Foreign Secretary Harold MacMillan had conferred for more than two hours in the ornate Salle Beauvais, at the Quai d'Orsay.

"There is a very good atmosphere and complete agreement in so far as the foreign ministers could prepare the Geneva conference for the heads of governments," Pinay said. His statement echoes the optimistic tone of Dulles' statement on his arrival here.

The Allied blueprint for the Geneva meetings has been hammered out in a series of meetings.

In general, however, the West decided against fixing any hard and fast line for the conference until after Russia has indicated its

Firemen Put Out Trash Fire In Rear Of Farmer's Bank

City firemen were called about 9 a.m. Friday to extinguish a roaring rubbish fire in an areaway behind the Farmer's Loan and Trust Company, 218 West Van Buren street.

The alarm was evidently turned in by a neighbor when the fire seemingly got out of control. It was being tended by Isaac Sell, janitor for the bank, who was burning waste paper and cardboard boxes.

The areaway, directly behind the back entrance to the bank, is completely enclosed on the sides and rear by brick walls. The refuse was being burned along the west side of a wall of an extension of the bank building.

Fire Chief Russel Wolfe, who said the department had answered "a couple" of previous calls to put out trash fires in the areaway questioned Sell about the danger of having a fire there.

The fire was extinguished without any damage although the brick wall of the building had become over-heated and steamed a great deal when the water was turned onto it.

Chief Wolfe and the fire department have been waging a recent campaign against trash burning in or near enclosed areas or buildings, since the fatal fire early in May which destroyed the Whitley Products Company. The fire had spread from burning trash near the plant building.

Nearly Five Inches Of Rain In Indiana

More On Tap Says Weatherman

By UNITED PRESS

Torrential downpours and thundershowers doused parts of Indiana with almost five inches of rain Thursday and early today but barely dented the wave of hot, humid weather.

The Weather Bureau said more rain was on tap for today, tonight and early Saturday.

The five-day outlook said temperatures will average three to five degrees above normal during the period.

Kokomo was awash with 4.96 inches of rain, the weatherman said. Wabash got 4.27 inches, Marion 3.90, Fort Wayne 3.30 Lafayette 2.64 Martinsville 2.54 and Covington 2.04. Indianapolis got 1.94 inches and gusts of wind up to 44 miles an hour. Newberry, Elliston, Muncie, Knox South Bend, Shials, and Petersburg got more than an inch each.

High temperatures Thursday ranged from a sultry 92 at Fort Wayne to 86 at South Bend.

Normal temperatures for the next five days are 88 north to 93 south at high points and 64 north to 68 south at lows the outlook said. There will be little change in temperature through Sunday but it will be warm Monday through Wednesday.

The outlook said precipitation will average little or none in the extreme northwest to one-fourth to one-half inch elsewhere as showers tonight and early Saturday.

Today's forecast called for highs ranging from 85 to 90. The day will be partly cloudy and humid with scattered thundershowers. Thundershowers were expected in the south and east central portions tonight. Saturday's highs will range from 83 to 90 with a chance of scattered thundershowers in the extreme south.

Lows tonight will range from 66 to 70, near lows early today which ranged from 66 at South Bend to 72 at Evansville.

To Be Transferred To Great Lakes

Collision Kills Four, Climaxes Bloody Day

10 Motorists Killed In Traffic In Indiana

By UNITED PRESS

A White County collision which snuffed out the lives of four Arkansas persons climaxed a bloody day in which 10 motorists were killed in Indiana traffic.

Six, and possibly seven ,of the victims were killed within a 90-minute period Thursday night. All four fatal accidents Thursday night occurred in the north portion of the state.

Two of the day's five fatal accidents resulted in multiple deaths.

Accidents happened in or near Indianapolis, Fowler, Fort Wayne, Chalmers, Flora and Knox.

Michael Lewandowski, 68, Knox, was killed when his car skidded in U.S. 35 during a rainstorm near Knox and hit a tree, fence and utility pole.

The worst crash was near Chalmers, where Mr. and Mrs. John Belew and Mrs. Zula Walker and her 14-year-old son Jerry, all of Blytheville, Ark., were killed. Jerry's 8-year-old sister Jeanette was the only survivor in one of the two cars. Six members of a Michigan family were injured in the other car including 4-year-old twin boys who each sustained a leg fracture.

Harry LeSage, 59, and William R. Donohue, 32, Fowler, were killed when an automobile and a gasoline transport collided near Fowler in the day's other multiple fatal accident. LeSage was the truck driver.

Another truck driver was killed near Fort Wayne when two semi-trailers collided. He was Harry Keltz, about 48, Battle Creek, Mich., who was killed or burned to death in a fiery crash.

At Indianapolis, Mrs. Evelyn R. Crossen, 47, Indianapolis, was killed when a fire department pumper truck and a district fire chief's car crashed at an intersection and one of the vehicles swerved into her automobile at the point where she stopped to give the emergency vehicles the right of way.

J.T. Tyra, 22, Flora, was killed when his car hit a fence and post and threw him out.

President Hopes For Pattern Of World Peace

Flies To Europe Aboard Columbine

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower flies to Europe today in an effort to wrest a pattern for peace from the Russians.

In the comfortably bunked White House Super-Constellation, the Columbine III, the Chief Executive and his wife were scheduled to take off for Geneva, Switzerland, and the Big Four meeting which opens Monday.

After a re-fueling stop at the U. S. Air Force Base at Keflavik, Iceland, Saturday, the President was scheduled to land in Switzerland at 3 p.m. EDT. Following welcome ceremonies at the airfield, he will motor to a luxurious villa outside the city for preparatory conferences with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles who already is in Europe.

Before his departure, the President was to address the nation at 8:15 p.m. EDT on radio and television on his hopes for the Geneva meeting.

For Construction, Building Repair; Approves Lease

Of "Stop-Gap" State Building

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—The Indiana State Budget Committee late Thursday allocated more than $1,800,000 for construction and repair projects and approved the lease of a "stop-gap" state office building across from the Statehouse.

The committee voted $42,000 for the first year's rent of a building which formerly housed a furniture store and which the state will take over for four years, beginning Aug. 1.

State Works and Supply director William E. Clarkson said the building provides 75,000 square feet of office space. He said reconditioning would cost $30,000 but added the state is getting "a good deal.'

Officials said the auxiliary statehouse will accomodate the local employment security office and med into the crowded Statehouse other state agencies now cram- until the state legislaure will provide funds for a 15-million dollar state office building.

The committee also allocated:

Indiana University, $572,116, for construction of a library addition.

Purdue University $550,000, to remodel its power plant and finish a personnel building.

Logansport State Hospital, $450,000, to remodel its power plant and complete a personnel building.

State Prison $150,000, for a new cell house lock system.

Evansville State Hospital $90,950, for construction and completion of seven doctors residences.

World War Memorial Commission, $12,000 for repairs.

West Germany's New Foreign Minister Says That Another Meeting May Be Necessary

By JACK SCHEMEIL
United Press Staff Correspondent

PARIS (UP)—West Germany's new foreign minister warned the West today against expecting immediate results from the Big Four conference at Geneva. He said another meeting may be necessary.

"One should not expect miracles," said Dr. Heinrich von Brentano, who took over the Bonn Foreign office from Chancellor Konrad Adenauer last month.

"I do not expect the first days of the conference will result in an immediate relaxation of tension," Von Brentano said.

"But, I believe a following conference at a lower level could do a lot of good work towards preparing a second big power conference, perhaps in October," he added.

"Third Force" Concept

In an exclusive interview with United Press on the eve of Big Three foreign ministers' talks here Von Brentano did the following:

1. Gave qualified approval of Western Europe's stern arms pool as a "very suitable vehicle" for achieving the "historical necessity" of unifying Europe. (Last week British Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden suggested the Western European Union as a possible foundation of a European security system ending the Iron Curtain.)

2. Rejected both neutralism and the "third force" concept of a power-block between East and West in Germany's future.

3. Said he is "fully convinced" the Paris rearmament treaties can end traditional Franco - German hostility.

4. Predicted the Big Four talks can succeed in lessening international tension "if the Soviets so desire."

Calls Neutralism Dangerous

Neutraliam, said the 51-year-old lawyer-turned-diplomat, would be dangerous "since it would be a perennial invitation to Bolshevism to conquer our country."

"Should Germany one way or another fall under the influence of the Soviets," Von Brentano said, "the Germans would lose their freedom and the international balance of power would be decisively changed in favor of the East. Aside from that I consider neutralization unthinkable since it would prejudice the freedom of a future all-German government to make its own decisions."

In answer to a question about a so-called "third force," Von Brentano said he considered the suggestion "very unrealistic."

"These speculations are based mainly on the wrong presumption that a bloc could, in the near future, withstand the pressure of Soviet Russia, especially in the military field.

"They overlook the deadly danger that by such a course, the United States might be pushed into a path of isolationism."

Big Four sessions somewhat against his inclinations. He has believed, as President Truman before him, that relations with other nations, particularly Russia, are better conducted on the ministerial level. This would leave a Chief Executive a freer hand to contemplate and pass on tentative commitments arrived at such conferences.

Mr. Eisenhower, however, has said frequently he would be more than glad to meet the Russians half way in such talks as the Swiss meetings in the hope that across -the - table conversation might lessen world tensions and chart a course for the foreign ministers to follow in later conferences on specific details.

The Chief Executive wants a relatively short conference in Geneva. He talked originally about a meeting of no more than three days, but since has agreed to stay all next week. He was expected back in Washington no later than the evening of July 25.

Meeting Focus On Russia

While Mr. Eisenhower and Dulles hoped to work as a team with the British and French, the focus of the meeting was on Russia whose delegation will include Gen. Georgi Zhukov, the Soviet defense minister with whom the President was openly friendly at the end of World War II.

As a prelude to his reunion with Zhukov, the President told a news conference on June 2:

"I think that the world, including ourselves, deserves a renewed opportunity now through such a meeting to attempt to discover what are the . . . general intentions of all of us.

"We are trying to explain ours eloquently and intimately as we can to those who oppose us. We are trying to get the same impression of their intentions and purposes, and through this method, we may find ways of putting problems in new channels or in places and under particular studies where some real progress toward an easing of tensions . . . may be made." since the President made these remarks, the Russians have embarked on a new "friendship" program and have beckoned almost effusively to the West. Backed by his chief foreign policy experts, Mr. Eisenhower will have an opportunity next week to measure the sincerity of recent Russian peace protestations for himself.

B & P W Club Has Initiation, Style Show At Thursday Evening Meeting

Mrs. Connie Buckles, Mrs. Violet Boggs, Miss Suzanne Trump, Mrs. Juanita Calvert, Mrs. Fern Stickler, Mrs. Tom Grant, Miss Frances Miller, Mrs. Mildred Miller, Mrs. Charles Gage and Mrs. Sarah Perry were initiates Thursday evening at an impressive candlelight ceremony conducted by the Business and Professional Women's club. Mrs. John Travelbee, president of the club, was in charge of the ceremony.

The ceremonies followed a picnic supper served at the shelter house in John W. Baker Park. A money tree was a clever appointment of the U shaped table which had been brought by the delegates from the state convention, an appointment at the convention banquet honoring Mrs. Ivy Baker Priest, United States treasurer and a member of the club at Washington D.C., who was the banquet speaker.

A style show featured the entertainment of the evening when clothes manufactured by Blue Bell Inc., were modeled by Joan Jagger, Gloria Ruby, Mrs. Kenneth Snyder, Melody Ditton, John Travelbee, Tommy Mattix. The show was in charge of Mrs. Grover Snyder, personnel director at the local plant.

Helen Louise Wolf of the Washington Center school, sponsored by the club at Girls' State, gave a most interesting report of her week there. She was an alternate to Girls' State replacing Darla Jean Beard of Jefferson Center school, whose father recently met a tragic death.

Reports of the State Convention of the club held at French Lick in June were given by Mrs. Travelbee, Mrs. Esther Smith and Miss Wilma Wise.

Guests of the club Wednesday evening were Jean Wolf, and the Mesdames Walter Ditton, Rose Osborn, Woodfin Jones, Steve Jones, Firmer Foster and Frieda Paul, of this city, and Mrs. Theodore Knox of Larwill.

Between 50 and 60 members and guests attended the meeting.

Troy Church Women Entertained By Mrs. Kile In Fort Wayne

Sixteen women of the Troy Presbyterian church and their guests, Mrs. Ralph McKibbon and two daughters of Etna-Troy township, and Mrs. Meyers, Fort Wayne, were guests Thursday afternoon of Mrs. Roscoe Kile in Fort Wayne. Mrs. Edward Kreider was a cohostess.

The devotions, taken from "Presbyterian Life," were conducted by Mrs. Floyd Kitson. The topic "Christ Proclaims the Way Through Summer Offering Dedication" was presented by Mrs. Paul Hearn.

Cherry tarts topped with ice cream, potato chips and kool aid were served.

intentions and plans.

Following a press conference in Moscow by Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin, which is expected to disclose the Kremlin policy line, the foreign ministers likely will meet again later today to consider any indicated modifications of their views.

Agreed List Of Topics

An American spokesman announced after Dulles arrived here Thursday that "there is an agreed list of topics and details of these topics for the conference, and there is agreement on the substance of these points."

Informed sources said the United States, Britain and France would not put forth any detailed plans until they get an idea of the Russian program. But they have agreed on these three main objectives:

1. The reunification of Germany.
2. A security arrangement for Europe that would meet any legitimate Soviet fears. This is said to include an offer to limit a unified Germany's armed forces to 12 divisions to further reassure Moscow.
3. A disarmament program.

Points To Be Pushed

Despite a spate of supplementary suggestions, these points remain the principal points of the agreed Allied program to be pushed when President Eisenhower, French Premier Edgar Faure and British Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden sit down Monday with Bulganin and the Soviet delegation.

That Kremlin delegation will be the strongest bargaining team ever sent to the West by Russia. It will contain all the major Soviet strong men nominally headed by Bulganin, and including Communist Party Head Nikita Khrushchev, in his role as a member of the presidium of the Supreme Soviet, and Defense Minister G. K. Zhukov.

Diplomats in London interpreted this as an indication Russia means to talk business and wants to be able to make big decisions on the spot.

In Geneva itself, delegations from East and West Germany moved in quietly and set up headquarters. From the sidelines, they will keep an eye on the progress of the talks which may decide their future.

Unemployment Remains Low

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) —Unemployment insurance claims in Indiana last week remained below 25,000 for the sixth straight time despite an increase of 500 over the previous week.

The Indiana Employment Security Division said total claims of 24,460 was nearly 60 per cent below the figure a year ago.

Increased claims were reported in all but six of the division's 30 district offices. However, several areas reported a drop in continued claims as many workers returned to their jobs.

Seek Cause Of Building Collapse

SHIPSHEWANA Ind. (UP)—Investigators sought to learn today what caused a building at the Wolfe Grain Co. to collapse and dump 15,000 bushels of corn to the ground.

The structure, a 75-foot-tall building used for grain receiving, burst with a rumble near midnight Wednesday.

Edward A. Wolfe, president of the firm, said the building was dedicated only six weeks ago after it was built to replace a structure destroyed by fire a year ago.

Joplin Police To Continue Brandt Questioning

BULLETIN

KANSAS CITY, Mo., (UP)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation today cleared Audrey Earl Brandt of suspicion in the slaying of Little Donna Sue Davis.

JOPLIN, Mo., (UP) — Joplin police gave a convicted sex criminal a full night's rest before questioning him today about his repudiation of a confession that he raped an dkilled little Donna Sue Davis.

Detective Capt. Johnny Showers said he told Audrey Earl Brandt, 42, to "sleep on it" after the suspect suddenly changed his ghastly story and claimed all he knew about the crime was what he heard on the radio.

"The whole things sounds a little mixed up to me," Showers said. Showers, who has led questioning of Brandt since his arrest Wednesday as a suspect in the slaying of the 21-month-old girl in a cornfield near Sioux City, said he would attempt to determine whether Brandt learned details of the slaying from broadcasts.

Brandt, an itinerant farm hand of La Porte City, Iowa, is a known sex deviate.

Brandt's new stand was a radical turn-about from his earlier confession, which authorities said tallied on seven of 10 major points in the crime. But officials admitted they had doubts about the confession.

"He also confessed to any crime we asked him about," Showers said. Brandt was arrested as a suspect in the murder after a truck driver with whom he hitched a ride reported to police that he "acted suspiciously."

After 20 hours of questioning, Brandt confessed. He was arraigned on a technical charge of vagrancy and bound over for formal hearings on Saturday. His bond was set at $75.

Fire Interrupts Training Program

CAMP GRAYLING, Mich. (UP)—The training program of Indiana's 38th National Guard Infantry Division was partly interrupted today as troops battled brush and forest fires.

Officers said three fires were set off in dry, heavily-wooded training areas by exploding artillery and mortar shells.

The 293rd Infantry Regiment and division artillery personnel were picked to put out the fires.

Rescue Boats Return 27 Survivors From Mexican Freighter

VERACRUZ (UP)—Six rescue boats returned to Veracruz early today with 27 survivors of the Mexican freighter La Flecha which sank Wednesday nine miles off the coast.

Thirty-three passengers and five crewmen were still missing. Survivors said the 145 ton coastal freighter was carrying too many passengers, a heavy oil cargo in her hold and an automobile on her deck.

A few of the 51 passengers and 14 crewmembers managed to launch small boats. Most of those aboard were forced to jump into the sea. There was hope that some of those missing may have reached safety on nearby islands.

Buhl And Thomson Are Making Up To Braves For Last Year's Let Down; Fashion 7-1 Win

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press Sports Writer

Bob Buhl and Bobby Thomson were key figures in Milwaukee's big let-down last year but they're making it all up to the spurting Braves now with the type of performances that bode no good for Brooklyn.

Between them Buhl and Thomson helped fashion a 7-1 victory over the Phillies Thursday night that marked the Braves' seventh triumph in the last eight games and pulled them within 10½ games of the pace-setting Dodgers, who lost to the Cardinals, 6-1, for their third loss in a row.

Buhl who won only two games all last season, registered his seventh victory in spectacular style against the Phils. The 27-year-old right-hander struck out 12 batters more than any other Milwaukee pitcher has fanned this year, and gave up only five hits, including Andy Seminick's ninth - inning homer which robbed him of a shut out.

Thomson Boasts Average

Thomson, who was sidelined most of last season with a broken ankle and hit only .232 when he did return to action, put the Braves in front to stay when he homered over the left field roof off starter Herman Wehmeier in the second inning. Thomson also contributed a single in Milwaukee's three-run fourth and now has boosted his batting average from .217 to .277 in the past six weeks.

Along with Thomson's marked improvement at the plate and the recent strong pitching by Buhl, the Braves have started to move back oward the top after having trailed Brooklyn by 15 games less than a month ago.

Rookie right-hander Larry Jackson of the Cards stopped the Dodgers on four hits in handing them their fifth loss in eight games. Stan Musial, hero of Tuesday's All-Star game, hit his 20th home run off loser Johnny Podres in the second inning and Wally Moon hit his 12th homer with one on off reliever Jim Hughes in the seventh.

Giants Edge Cubs

The Giants beat Big Bob Rush of the Cubs, 3-2, after he had defeated them three times previously this season. Playing heads-up ball, the Giants stole four bases, two of which figured in their final two runs. Don Mueller's second inning homer gave New York its first run. Rookie Jim King's two-run homer in the sixth produced Chicago's only runs off Ruben Gomez.

Cincinnati collected 21 hits, including five by second baseman Johnny Temple to crush Pittsburgh, 19-1. Little Jackie Collum limited the Pirates to six hits and was backed by an attack that included two homers by Wally Post and one by Smoky Burgess. Frank Thomas homered for Pittsburgh.

Cleveland cut New York's American League lead to four games by beating the Yankees, 5-4, with a two-run rally in the eighth inning and a fine combined relief job by Don Mossi and Ray Narleski, who have not allowed a run in their last 24 2-3 innings of duel pitching. Narleski relieved Mossi in the seventh and gained his fifth victory against no defeats.

Indians Come From Behind

The Indians were forced to come from behind in notching their victory in 13 games with the Yankees after the league-leaders had taken a 4-2 lead off Cleveland starter Bob Lemon. Al Rosen's homer off Jim Konstanty tied the score at 4-all in the eighth and the Tribe added the winning run on singles by Hal Naragon, Narleski and Al Smith. Larry Doby also homered.

The Red Sox divided a twi-night twin-bill with the Tigers, taking the second game, 7-3, after Detroit won the opener 6-0 on Frank Lary's six-hit pitching. Successive home runs by Ted Williams and Jackie Jensen in the seventh inning of the nightcap helped rookie George Susce Jr. to his fourth victory.

Chicago climbed to within 4½ games of first place by whipping Washington twice 13-4 and 5-2. A three-run rally in the eighth inning, featured by Sherm Lollar's homer, gave Dick Donovan his 11th triumph in the nightcap while a seven-run rally in the fourth inning of the opener turned that contest into a rout.

Baltimore won its first doubleheader of the year, beating Kansas City twice, 10-7 and 6-4. Two homers by Gus Triandos and one by Hal Smith helped the Orioles win the opener while Dave Philley's two-run homer high-lighted a five-run rally in the eighth inning of the finale.

U. S. No Better Than 50-50 Chance To Defend Davis Cup

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP) —The United States has no better than a 50-50 chance of successfully defending the Davis Cup against Australia next month, Walter Pate, long-time U.S. Davis Cup captain, insisted today.

"The matches stack up as the kind which could go either way" Pate explained. "And Tony Trabert has a long way to go before he can be ranked as a 'sure thing' like some of our great players of the past."

The man who guided America's net forces to victory in 1937, after 10 dismal years, made several other surprising observations. These were that:

Don Budge's "grand slam" in both 1937 and 1938 was a more notable athletic achievement than Boboy Jones' golfing "grand slam."

Kramer Ranked Second

And that, in his personal ratings, Jack Kramer now must be recognized as the all-time number two behind Budge—and ahead of Bill Tilden.

"Budge must be the greatest in my book," Pate insisted. "No other performer in any event, not even Jones in golf, even made such a shambles of world competition as Don did in 1937 and 1938. In those two years he won the United States, Wimbledon, French and Australian championships — plus a half dozen others."

He moves Kramer into the second spot ahead of Tilden because of Jack's "all-around game" against Tilden's superb back court play.

Looking back on a long life in tennis, Pate concedes that his biggest disappointment was losing the 1939 Davis Cup to Australia when Adrian Quist beat Bobby Riggs and John Bromwich defeated Frank Parker.

That was the last match until 1946, because of the war, and set up one of Pate's greatest thrills.

"There were a lot of recriminations when I picked Ted Schroeder over Parker in 1946," he grinned. "One paper in Australia even wrote that I had given away the cup. But I didn't want any more of Parker against Bromwich—and we beat 'em 5-0 when Schroeder panned out."

Greatest Thrill In 1937

His greatest thrill, however, came in 1937 when he took over the American Davis Cup team.

"We had been taking a licking for 10 years," he recalled. "mostly it was from those great French teams. But we reached the challenge round against Great Britain in 1937. Nobody thought we could do it, after failing so often with the likes of Tilden, George Lott, Sid Wood, Wilmer Allison, Billy Johnston and Frank Shields. But we fooled em.

"Using Budge Parker and Gene Mako, we licked Great Britain 4 to 1 and brought it home," he smiled. "It was a really great moment."

But this year it well may be another story, he contends.

"There just isn't one big man who can stop them all," Pate figured. "That's why it's anybody's ball game when they put it up for grabs."

Some Good News For Beer Drinkers

MIDLAND, Mich. (UP) — Two chemists got a patent Thursday for a foam preserver, designed for beer drinkers who like a bigger and better head on their brew.

George K. Greminger Jr., of Midland, and Miles A. Weaver, of Ithaca the chemists said the substance will keep a head on beer 6 to 10 times longer without affecting color clarity or taste of the beer.

Ladies Play Holds Center Of Stage At National Clay Courts

ATLANTA (UP) — Top-seeded Barbara Breit, at 17, a rapidly rising star in the feminine tennis ranks, clashed with blonde Karol Fageros today in the feature quarter-final match in women's singles in the National Clay Courts tennis championships.

Ladies play held the center of the stage with the men idle until Saturday's semi-finals.

Miss Breit, noted for her steady all-around game rather than overwhelming power, was the national girls' champion last year and now is rated the nations sixth-best feminine tennis player of any age. She gained the quarter-final round with an impressive 6-1, 6-0 victory over Audrey Brown of Southern Pines, N.C.

Other quarter-final matches sent second - seeded Dorothy Head Knode of Alameda, Calif., against Pat Shaffer of St. Petersburg, Fla. third-seeded Jean Clark of Birmingham Ala., against Mimi Arnold of Redwood City, Calif., and fourth-seeded Janet Hopps of St. Louis Mo., against Yola Ramirez of Mexico the top-seeded foreign entry.

In Saturday's men's semi-finals top-seeded Tony Trabert, the Wimbledon champion from Cincinnati, Ohio, will face third-seeded Ed Moylan of Trenton N.J., and second-seeded Ham Richardson of Baton Rouge La., will meet fourth seeded defending champion Bernard (Tut) Bartzen of San Angelo, Tex.

Trabert blazed into the semi-finals with a straight set victory over collegiate Sammy Giammalva of Houston, Tex., 6-2, 6-1 6-0. The Cincinnati star could do no wrong as his booming service and the University of Texas standout.

Richardson found his top form again to eliminate fifth - seeded Jack Frost of Monterey, Calif., star displayed none of the sluggishness he showed in earlier matches as both men banged away at each other with their strong arm tactics.

[illegible]no has been burning up the summer circuit bested Johann Kupferberger of South Africa 8-6, 6-0, 6-0. Kupferberger was second-seeded among the foreign entries.

Bartzen outlasted Jerry Moss, Modesto, Calif., 6-2 4-6 6-2 6-1. Bartzen who grabbed the Clay title from Trabert last year in the finals at Chicago was the only man to take more than three sets o polish off his opponent for a quarter-final win.

Gene Andrews Solid Favorite In National Public Links Tourney

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UP)—Defending champion Gene Andrews who plays with the poise and polish of a veteran pro, was a solid favorite today in the 36-hole semi-finals of the National Public Links tournament.

The 42-year-old Pacific Palisades, Calif., insurance agent, sporting a crew haircut and equipped with a fine all-round game teed off against Sam Kocsis, a 35-year-old Detroit industrial efficiency expert.

The other match pitted Lewis Bean, 30-year-old Summerville, Ga., auto salesman against Ralph Allen, 40, a plasterer from Miami Springs Fla.

Although considered a "wide open" championship when the six-day grind opened at the coffin layout Monday, the ease with which Andrews, the 1954 winner, has met and conquered his opponents stamped him as the man to beat.

Andrews who seemingly gets stronger as the tourney drags on, is only two over par for 87 holes of match play.

[illegible]day, he dusted off Walter Robyn, Maplewood, Mo. 7 and 6 then took the measure of Jack Gregory Detroit 4 and 3, in the quarter-finals.

Kocsis who won the Western Junior title in 1939 and whose brother, Chuck, is a former Walker Cup player, won his way into the next-to-last round with a 3 and 1 triumph over Frank Gacek Parma, Ohio.

Bean fired even par for 17 holes to oust William Scarbrough, Jr., Jacksonville Fla., 2 and 1 while Allen staved off a late rally by Hans Turner Seattle, Wash., to advance also by a 3 and 1 margin.

Downpours Thursday Delay Ladies PGA

FT. WAYNE Ind. (UP)—If the weatherman co-operates, the $6,000 National Ladies Professional Golf Association championship will get underway today 24 hours behind schedule.

Heavy downpours Thursday course unplayable forced tourney officials to postpone the first round. In order to ifnish on Schedule Sunday, the field of 21 will go 36 holes today and 18 Saturday.

The two low medalists for 54 holes will battle it out for $1,200 first prize money in a 36-hole match. The other purses also will be decided in match play.

Catcher Campanella Returns To Lineup

BROOKLYN (UP) — Catcher Roy Campanella returned today to the Brooklyn Dodgers' lineup apparently as good as ever but the National League leaders lost the services of three other players, including slugger Duke Snider.

Campanella, who had missed 15 games because a chipped bone in his left knee, came through with two hits in the Dodgers' 6-1 loss to the St. Louis Cardinals Thursday night and reported no ill effects from catching the full nine innings.

Center-fielder Snider, however, was bedded with a 104-degree temperature resulting from a virus infection and was expected to be out of the lineup several days. He was hitting .319, had belted 28 homers and led the major leagues in runs-batted-in with 89.

In addition, Manager Walt Alston revealed that Carl Erskine, the pitching staff's nominal leader despite Don Newcombe's superior record, would be given a "complete rest cure of 19 days" and that southpaw Johnny Podres, who had a 7-6 mark, will also be rested indefinitely.

Golfers Do Not Lend Weight To Statement By Cary Middlecoff

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP) — Cary Middlecoff said today 270 or more should win despite his record-tying first round 64, but 39 par-breaking golfers did not lend weight to the statement in the $35,000 Miller Open.

Middlecoff, the former Memphis Tenn., dentist playing out of Kismesha Lake N.Y., led the field of 133 pros and amateurs in blistering rounds in which 51 golfers had par or better.

But National Open champion Jack Fleck in his first tournament since winning the open three weeks ago, was not among the fortunate. He shot a disastrous 38 on the front nine and came home with a respectable 34 for a 72, far down in the field.

Middlecoff, former National Open and Masters champion, came home with an eagle and three birdies in the last five holes Thursday to tie the 4-year-old Blue Mound course record set by club member amateur Tommy Veech, who shot a 69 in the first round.

"I was very pleased with it," Middlecoff said. "It's a true com-course. The fairways are good and the greens are as good as I've ever seen."

Little known Alfred Hawkins took the early lead and remained one stroke behind Middlecoff at 65.

Hawkins, 31, who lives at El Paso, Texas. and plays out of St. Andrews Ill. dropped a 30 foot putt on 14 after getting on with a drive and four wood. He also canned a 35-foot putt on 11.

One other eagle was recorded by Tommy Bolt of Chattanooga, Tenn., who had 67. Amateur Tommy Brennan of Milwaukee had an eagle on 15 but a 41 going out gave him 73.

Five golfers were bunched at 66 after the first round. They were Mike Souchak of Grossinger, N.Y. Ted Kroll of Utica, N.Y., Bo Wininger of Oklahoma City Okla. Jimmy Clark of Laguna Beach, Calif., and Paul McGuire of Wichita Kans.

East German Reds In Tizzy Over Offers

WASHINGTON (UP) — East German Reds are in a tizzy over spurious offers of free vacations in their Communist utopia.

A Communist propaganda broad cast aired in East Berlin said "members of the intelligentsia" have been receiving letters inviting them to report to a resort area for a "holiday free of charge."

"These letters are forgeries," the broadcast said.

New Polio Cases Below Those Of Past Three Years

WASHINGTON (UP)—The U.S. Public Health Service said today the number of new polio cases reported last week was well below those reported in the corresponding weeks of the past three years.

It said that 406 new cases were reported, compared with 766 cases reported in the corresponding week of 1954. However, the new cases represented a 22 per cent jump over the 334 reported in the previous week.

It said 4,117 cases were reported this year, compared with 5,464 in the similar period last year.

Six New Polio Cases In Indiana

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) — Polio cases tracing their usual seasonal pattern, jumped six in Indiana last week to a 1955 total of 44.

The Indiana State Health Board said today that new cases added to the list in the week ending July 9 included two in St. Joseph County and one each in Madison, Porter, Floyd and Grant Counties.

Grant was the only new county added to the records. Each of the other four counties had had one case previously since Jan. 1.

Despite the incidence, which is so well scattered over so many counties that no hint of an epidemic is seen in the statistics, no deaths have occurred from 1955 cases.

Two deaths are on the records for 1955, but both resulted from cases occurring in 1954.

A year ago, 42 cases had been reported for a corresponding period and two deaths had occurred.

The current total is the second largest at this time of year in the last six seasons. In 1953, the total was 82. Beween 1950 and 1952, the early July totals ranged from 28 to 38, and deaths ranged up to nine.

LEESBURG and CEMENT

WE HAVE CEMENT. Even so, you should know WHY we can spare only enough to take care of your footings at this time - in fact, nothing pains us more than to tell anyone who enters our doors that we can't furnish something he wants. However, in the case of CEMENT, so many dealers and ready mix plants can not take care of their own customers, that we dare not offer ours on a loose "first come, first served" basis. If we did, we would be unable to sell our lumber and hundreds of other products which we must move to stay in business.

We promise you, however, that if you favor us with the major portion of your requirements we will try desperately to see you through sidewalks, stops, etc. a little later when you must have them.

Frankly, we are importing cement from Canada, Belgium, Germany, Missouri, Kentucky and Oklahoma, which means we are handling it, many times, at a loss because of our having to pay retail prices. If we are favored with your business now, we will import enough CEMENT to take care of your later requirements. Ask for free estimates on everything to build anything. Our prices are low because of large volume and low overhead. Complete satisfaction guaranteed. Phone Leesburg 44 Collect. Ft. Wayne E-7094; Herman Sunderman, Huntington 450; Vaughn Piper, N. Oat Demonstration Will Be Held On Barnes Farm July 21

Farmers will inspect the oat variety plots on the Joshua and Glenola Barnes Farm in Union township at noon, Thursday, July 21st, states County Agent B. V. Widney. Nine varieties will be seen growing side by side. Effects of nitrogen top dressing at different rates will be observed. G. P. Walker, Purdue agronomist, will be the speaker.

The Barnes farm is located two miles north of Coesse and half a mile east on the old Yellow Stone Trail. Varieties in the plots are Benton, Clinton 59, Clingland, Clintafe, Columbia, Jackson, Missouri 205, Sauk and Ajax. Top dressing with 10, 20, and 40 pounds of elemental nitrogen per acre will be compared. The meeting is to start at 12:45 p.m. All persons interested in oat production are invited to inspect the demonstration.

Uruguay won its independence from Spain in the early 1800s.

Memorial Rites Held For Mrs. Hurd

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at the Smith and Sons Funeral home for Mrs. Olive G. Hurd. Grandchildren who served as pallbearers were: Stanley Hurd, James Hurd, William Hurd, Dale Hurd, and Howard Smith. Rev. Alvin S. Link, pastor of the First Church of God, of which Mrs. Hurd had been a member since 1898, officiated at the services. Mrs. Helen Slagle Aker, funeral home organist, played a prelude and postlude of church hymns. Interment followed in the Compton Cemetery.

Smith Rites Held In This City Thursday

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at the Smith and Sons Funeral Home for Scott Smith. Mrs. Helen Slagle Aker played a prelude and postlude of old familiar hymns on the funeral home organ. Pallbearers were Harlan Ott, Russell Pendry, Donley Slater, Albert Harrold, George Weeks, and Byrl Young. Rev. Marion Shroyer officiated at the services and at the committal which followed in South Park Cemetery.

Suzan Ball Remains In CriticalCondition

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Plucky actress Suzan Ball, feared near death at the City of Hope Sanitarium in her second battle against dreaded cancer, was reported "resting comfortably" today but still in critical condition.

There were unconfirmed reports the pretty 22-year-old sar was suffering from cancer of the lungs. A sanitarium spokesman admitted she occasionally had been administered oxygen, but emphasized she still is "in diagnostic stages."

"The physicians in charge," said the spokesman, "have not yet completed their evaluation of her condition. It is anticipated that current diagnostic studies will be completed early next week."

The spokesman added that no sudden turn in Miss Ball's status was expected "at this time."

The actress, who lost a leg in the opening round of her fight with cancer a year and a half ago, was admitted to the sanitarium July 5 when the disease reappeared in an area of her body not yet disclosed by doctors.

Harmon Kiefer Will Admitted To Probate

The will of Harmon Kiefer, who died July 9, was admitted for probate in Whitley County circuit court Wednesday.

Dale Haneline, foster son of the deceased man, was named executor of the will to replace the decedent's widow who was named in the will but is now deceased also.

The bond was set at $5,000 with Harold Howard and William Strigle named as sureties.

Spring Valley Farm Member Of National Angus Association

Spring Valley Farm, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Herman Stuersel of Etna-Troy township, has been elected to membership in the American Aberdeen-Angus Breeder's Association, according to Secretary Frank Richards.

The Stuersels were among 32 other purebred Aberdeen-Angus breeders from Indiana elected to membership during the past month.

Pilot Credits Discipline With Preventing Panic

Aboard Crippled Giant Globemaster

HAMILTON AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UP) — The pilot of a crippled giant Globemaster that almost ditched in the Pacific Ocean with 87 men aboard credited military discipline today with preventing a panic during the six harrowing hours the plane was in trouble.

Capt. Theodore S. Roosevelt, 30, of Elyria, Ohio, a distanct cousin of two presidents, said he "never could have made it" if the seven other crewmen and 79 soldiers aboard had not followed his orders.

"They acted magnificently," he said of the paratroopers, members of the 187th Regimental Combat Team being rotated back to the United States after service in Japan.

The C124 Globemaster was en route from Japan to Travis Air Force Base in California. The flight was part of "Operation Gyroscope," a large airborne rotation of soldiers between the Far East and the United States. The eventual destination of the 187th is Fort Bragg, N.C.

"Point Of No Return"

The giant plane developed trouble about 850 miles from California, "about 60 miles beyond the point of no return."

"The No. 3 engine went out with internal troubles about 6:30 p.m. EDT," Roosevelt said. "Shortly after, the No. 4 engine had to be feathered because of internal trouble and loss of oil."

When the first engine went out, Roosevelt messaged Travis and all air fields in the San Franciscc bay area were alerted.

"After the second engine went out, there was a possibility we might lose another engine," he said. "However, the other remaining engines held up okay, although they were failing rapidly."

With two engines out, gas consumption rose alarmingly, Roosevelt said. After the plane anded at Hamilton Air Force Base, he told one Air Force officer, "we were running on fumes as far as gas was concerned." Actually, he had 15 minutes of gas left.

Prepare To Ditch Plane

While the plane limped towards California at a speed of 140 knots, the passengers and crew prepared to ditch the plane, if necessary.

"The paratroopers jettisoned all their baggage and loose gear except their rifles," Roosevelt continued. "The men were then strapped in their safety belts and their Mae West life jackets.

For a while, it was touch and go whether the plane could maintain altitude. As it was, it flew between 2,000 and 3,000 feet.

A commercial DC4 met the plane at 9:05 p.m. and stayed with it until rescue amphibians from California bases made contact. A host of ships steamed below in case the plane should have to land in the water.

"I'm glad I didn't have to land off shore because of the fog," Roosevelt said.

Roosevelt decided to land at Hamilton Field because it was the closest. Hamilton is about 30 miles north of San Francisco.

The plane landed at 12:08 a.m. EDT Friday.

Defiance College Offers One-Year Journalism Course

A high school graduate from the Columbia City area may have opportunity to train for community newspaper work in a new one-year course at Defiance College, Defiance, Ohio. The college has three linotype machines and presses to be used as "laboratory equipment" for the journalism class. Practice on the linotype will supplement training in news gathering and writing.

Students also will learn typewriting, accounting and oral and written English. One elective class will be included, such as shorthand, business mathematics or advertising.

If the student later decides to continue in college, all of the year's training will give credit toward a degree.

Information may be secured by writing to the admissions director at Defiance College, Defiance, Ohio.

Revue To Highlight Old Settlers Day

Highlight of this year's free acts during Old Settlers Day and the American Legion Festival will be the Dorothy Dorben Dancers.

Individually, each of the girls is a dancing star in her own right. All have been featured in leading Broadway shows as well as hotels and night clubs in most major cities.

Together these girls have been blended into what has proven as the finest dancing group to ever appear in an outdoor program.

The girls offer three dazling rollicking "Can-Can"; the soft, alluring "Kismet"; and colorful, fast-moving "Dames" from musical comedy.

In each of their appearances they are arrayed in arresting gowns and costumes sure to catch and hold the most jaded eyes.

Administration Now Hopes Senate-House Committee Will Strengthen Reserve Bill

By UNITED PRESS

The administration today hoped a Senate-House conference committee would srenthen a sarply modified military reserve bill which cleared the Senate Thursday night bv an 80-1 vote.

The bill went to a conference committee so that differences in House and Senate versions could be ironed out.

Assistant Defense Secretary Carter L. Burgess particularly objected to a Senate amendment limiting the compulsory nature of the administration's original reserve plan. The Senate bill provides that compulsory reserve service shall be required only of men entering the service 30 days after enactment of the reserve plan. Men already in the service would be exempt, but if they volunteer for the combat reserves of the Army or Marine Corps would receive a bonus.

The administration, on this point, is counting on House members. The House version of the bill incorporated the administration's recommendation that reserve duty be required of all men entering the services since the Korean War.

Burgess also opposed extending age limits under which youths could volunteer for a special program of six months active training followed by 7½ years in the reserves. The administration wanted this restricted to youths under the draft age of 18½ so that it would no interfere with recruiting older youths for regular service.

But the House bill would open the program to those who have finished high school or are 19 while the Senate would let those between the ages of 17 and 20 participate.

Other congressional news:

Marines: Congress received notice from Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson that he has impounded the extra money it provided for expanding the Marine Corps and will continue reducing the corps as planned. Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont) charged Wilson with "going against the express wish of Congress" and said only the President could impound the money.

Internal Security: Chairman James O. Eastland (D-Miss) said the internal security subcommittee hopes "to get leads" from its questioning of news reporters who admit they were former communists "that will show us activity down to the present time." The hearings have been recessed indefiniely. The subcommittee has received "more cooperation from newspapermen than from any other group."

Highways: Rep. Tom Steed (D-Okla) called chances better than two to one that the House Public Works Committee will approve billions in new taxes for a gigantic new road-building program. Steed, one of the sponsors of the bill, said the way is pretty clear for hiking gasoline and other "user" taxes to raise $11,800,000,000 in new revenue in the next 15 years.

Appropriations: The House counted on the Senate today to patch a botched-up appropriations bill that cleared the lower chamber Thursday. A parlimentary assault on the bill was led by Rep. Louis C. Rabaut (D-Mich) as a protest against the refusal of the rules committee to give its blessing to dozens of legislative provisions that always dot appropriations bills.

When Rabaut and other members finished eliminating many items on points of order the bill carried only about 223 million dollars of its original $1,648,876,128 in extra funds for military and atomic construction.

Adjournment: House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack predicted the House will be able to adjourn on July 30 always the target date for adjournment by House leaders.

AirPorts: The House Interstate Commerce subcommittee authorized federal grants totaling 232 million dollars to improve the nations airports over a four-year period. The grants would be matched by the states and local communities.

New York Times reporter Ira Henry Freeman testified that he had been a Communist for about a year beginning in 1938, 10 years after he went to work fo rthe Times. He said a Communist unit existed at the Times before World War II.

Eastland also said the subcommittee would obtain statements from United Press Correspondent Glenn Stackhouse in San Francisco and Associated Press Correspondent William Barnard in Dallas about an incident in Korea in 1950 involving another Times man, Charles Grutzner, an admitted ex-Communist.

After examining the statements of the two news service men, the subcommittee will decide whether it wants to question them about the Gruzner incident, Eastland said.

The incident involved Grutzner's action in filing a story disclosing the first combat use of F86 Sabre Jets in Korea. Stackhouse and Barnard also covered the story.

A fourth correspondent, Ansel Talbert of the New York Herald Tribune, testified Thursday that Grutzner broke an agreement to hold the story and filed it in plain English over Press Wireless, which could be monitored by the Communists.

Grutzner testified June 29 that he sent the story with a note to the Times to get prior approval from the Pentagon before publishing it. The Times said that it did this.

East-West

started, there were rumors that success in the summit talks in Geneva might lead to wholesale exchanges of visits by Soviet and Western statesmen.

This prospect was one of the more sensational possible by-products of Geneva discussed in Western quarter in Moscow.

The reports were based on a series of recent casual conversations by Bulganin and Communist Party Leader Nikita Khrushchev with Moscow diplomats of the United States, Britain and France.

Mr. Eisenhower visited Moscow as a victorious comrade-in-arms at the end of World War II. But he has never been here as president.

The possibility of an exchange of visits between Soviet and Western statesmen is fortified by the recent trip to Belgrade by the Russian leaders and their acceptance of an invitation to call on Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru in New Delhi.

There already have been hints that Bulganin might stop over in some Western countries on his way to India.

The Soviet leaders might well offer invitations to the West first, since such visits appear to fit in tions of relaxing tensions between East and West. Any invitations would necessitate reciprocal visits.

Shriners Wind Up Convention

CHICAGO (UP) — Some 90,000 Shriners wound up their 81st annual convention today.

A whopping six-hour parade finale down Michigan Avenue Thursday drew more than one million persons—about a quarter of this city's population.

Capt. Owen Duffy of the Park District Police said the parade crowd was topped only by the 4½ million persons who saw Gen. Douglas MacArthur on a 23-mile parade route to Soldier Field on April 21, 1951.

Thursday night's parade also climaxed at Soldier Field, this time before Walter C. Guy, 64, Little Rock, Ark., who Thursday was elected Imperial Potentate of the Shriners.

Bomber Crashes On Takeoff; Crewmen Killed

Three Officers And One Enlisted Man Reported Dead

SHREVEPORT, La. (UP) — All four crewmen were killed shortly after midnight today when a B47 Stratojet bomber crashed and burned on takeoff from Barksdale Air Force Base.

Sheriff's deputies from Bossier and Caddo parishes pulled the mangled bodies from the wreckage at 6 a.m. EDT. They had not yet been identified.

The giant bomber plunged into a wooded area near the edge of the Red River in Caddo Parish about 2:20 a.m. EDT, minutes after it took off. Wreckage was strewn over a 5,000 foot wide area.

Lt. Col. John Spalding, 2nd Air Force public information officer, said three officers and an enlisted man were aboard.

Sheriffs' deputies searched for two hours before reaching the site of the burning plane in heavy rains. The rain had made it impossible to get heavy crash recovery equipment to the scene.

Board Plans Inquiry Into Woman's Death In Fire Vehicle Crash

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—The Indianapolis Safety Board planned a "thorough investigation" today of an accident involving two fire vehicles and an automobile in which a woman was killed and five firemen were injured.

The accident Thursday at a street intersection just south of the Mile Square killed Mrs. Evelyn Ruby Crossen, 48, Indianapolis, who had stopped to give the fire department pumper truck and a fire chief's car the right of way.

The truck and district chief's car collided and the truck careened into Mrs. Crossen's automobile.

Louis Bortlein, 45, driver of the fire truck, and Lt. James Miller, 35, driver of the fire chief's car were injured critically. Three other firemen and Capt. Emil Weimer, 47, were in fair to serious condition.

Paul J. Shick, president of the Safety Board, said the board would "certainly go into the accident at our next meeting."

Ten vice presidents of the United States went on to become president.

Fighting Brothers To Face Court Today

MOUNT VERNON, Ind. (UP)—Two Illinois brothers held on $3,000 bond were scheduled to be arraigned in Posey Circuit Court today in connection witn a robbery and fight in which the New Harmony town marshal died.

Norman E. Atchison, 31, and his brother Lowell, 27 Mount Vernon Ill. are charged with auto banditry and second degree burglary. They were captured Wednesday at a Wabash River ferry shortly after a New Harmony tavern burglary.

Ralph Fisher 45, New Harmony marshal who was summoned to investigate the burglary, scuffled with the pair and subsequently died. His death was attributed to a hear attack induced by the struggle.

Operations Normal After Printers Strike In Fort Wayne

FORT WAYNE (UP) —Operations returned to normal today at Fort Wayne's two daily newspapers after 130 AFL printers ended an 18-hour unauthorized strike.

The morning Journal-Gazette published a normal 38-page edition early today, about 12 hours after the members of the International Typographical Union returned to work.

The News-Sentinel, an afternoon paper published in the same building with the Journal-Gazette, also planned a full-sized edition.

The printers returned at 12:30 p.m. CDT, shortly before the News-Sentinel issued a 38-page edition prepared without the help of the ITU men.

Meetings between union and management bargaining committees were held Thursday afternoon and night to discuss a new contract. The union planned to meet Monday for what publisher's representatives said was to consider the company's latest offer.

ITU members said they returned on orders of ITU international president Woodruff Randolph. Randolph was quoted by the publishers as saying he ordered the men back to work Wednesday night, shortly after they failed to show up for work.

Shelbyville Fire Causes $100,000 Damage Thursday

SHELBYVILLE, Ind. (UP)—A $100,000 fire destroyed the Shelby County Co-op elevator Thursday.

Manager Paul Thurston, estimated loss of the three-story structure at $75,000. The elevator was nearly filled with a week's wheat harvest.

More than a dozen fire trucks from here and surrounding towns poured thousands of gallons of water into the flames as billowing smoke was visible for miles.

The fire apparently started in a defective fusebox.

Jackson Asks Ridgway Explain Objections To Military Strategy

By JOHN W. FINNEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash) proposed today that Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway be called before the Senate Armed Services Committee to explain his objections to the administration's military strategy.

Jackson suggested that Congress undertake "a review of our entire defense posture" in view of Ridgway's position and the administration's refusal to accept a congressional decision to expand the Marine Corps.

It was disclosed Friday that Ridgway, a few days before he retired June 30 as Army chief of staff, declared that military forces are "inadequate in strength and improperly proportioned." He outlined his position in a letter to Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson.

Fires Democratic Opposition

The letter tended to rekindle the opposition of Senate Democrats to the administration's policy of placing primary emphasis on airpower and ability to deliver atomic weapons and secondary emphasis on ground forces.

Ridgway said this policy may be playing into Russia's hands since there may be a "common refusal" to use atomic weapons in future wars. Ridgway said there is little reason to doubt that Russia would prefer to avoid use of atomic weapons and rely instead

Meet Your Merchants

Leland (Mike) Williams

Twenty-eight years in the grocery business have undoubtedly taught Leland (Mike) a lot—and apparently among the things he's learned is not to be quite satisfied with the present.

Though he and his son, Bob, who operates the South Side Market, are both in the same business Mr. Williams says his future plans include the hope that he and Bob will eventually be able to have their own store together.

But Mr. Williams manages to keep himself busy at the present time, too. In addition to his work at Williams Market, he is a member of the City Council, the Board of Works, a past president of Rotary, a director and past president of the Chamber of Commerce, a member of the Lutheran church, a member of the Elk's Lodge, and 1948 president of the Old Settler's Day Association. He is also a member of the advisory board of the Salvation Army.

And, although these activities take up much of his time he occassionally gets in some fishing or woodworking.

Mr. Williams came to Columbia City from Montpelier, Ohio, in about 1927, and began working for Kroger here. About three years later he began operating what is now William's Market for Daniel Brothers. Then he and Roy Barnes operated the store, known as the B & W Market, for about six years. Mr. Williams has owned and operated the store since 1948.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams live at 101 West Ellsworth street, and have a daughter, Penny, at home. Another daughter, Gloria Parry lives in Huntington.

"There's no other town like Columbia City—and Columbia City has certainly been good to me," says Mr. Williams.

Nixon To Speak For National Plowing Event

Contest At Wabash September 14-17

WABASH, — With Vice-President Richard M. Nixon as the headliner for the last day of the Four Day event, the program of the National Plow Match and Soil Conservation event, September 14 to 17, has been practically completed. The Vice-President will speak on Saturday following the fourth and final day of contour and level land plowing.

State eliminations will be held on Wednesday on contour plowing and Thursday on level land plowing. The winners to compete on Friday in the Contour Plowing National Event and on Saturday the finals in the level land and National Winners contest. The site of the National event is 6 miles north and 3 miles east of Wabash and in its entire program will cover 20 farms totalling over 2000 acres and is to include the various soil conservation practices as observed by soil experts in addition to the plowing events.

Farm ponds, terracing, contouring, drainage, game preserves, wood lands, are but a few of the many conservation features to be demonstrated during this four day

Took This Summer A Long Time To Warm Up In Indiana, But Once It Did, It Really Did

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—It took this summer an awfully long time to warm up in Indiana. But once it did the mercury has averaged well above normal.

Indianapolis temperature records showed that for the first half of July, the average reading was 79.1 degrees. The normal for the station for the entire month is 75.9, a figure about 3.2 degrees lower than the July average thus far.

Past statistics would indicate the last half of July is usually as warm as, if not warmer than, the first half. Witness the fact four of the six hottest temperatures ever recorded in the Hoosier capital were chalked up after the 15th of July.

If tradition holds true this month, the July average very well could be one of the highest for any July in the 85-year history of the Indianapolis Weather Bureau.

Records show that between 1900 and 1950, the July average was higher than the current 79.1 in only seven of the 50 years, topped by the 82.8 degree average in that blistering summer of 1936 which everybody 30 years of age or older is bound to recall.

How the average got up to 79.1 degrees in the first half of the current month is rather mystifying. Actually, the mercury never reached 90 this summer until July 3. Then it reached 90 or better on only seven of the last 13 days with a top of only 93, which isn't at all high as temperatures go.

On the other hand the nights have been generally warm, ranging from the coolest low of 63 to the warmest of 71. And on the days when the mercury didn't get to the 90s it flirted with them. The lowest maximum temperature thus far this month was 85.

While these figures are for Indianapolis only, they are representative of the state's midsection. And the average might be even more spectacular around the Fort Wayne area, where a July 4th weekend heat wave sent the mercury climbing as high as 101 and to points which exceeded all others in the state four days in a row.

Big Four Head Toward Geneva With High Hopes

Of Ending 10 Years Of Bitter Cold War

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent

GENEVA (UP) — The Big Four optimistically headed today toward Geneva and the summit conference which the world hopes will end 10 years of bitter East-West cold war tension.

President Eisenhower winged across the Atlantic by way of Iceland and was due in this Swiss city tonight (about 3 p.m. EDT).

British Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden, French Premier Edgar Faure, and Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin were due to arrive soon afterward.

They will sit down together for the first time Monday in the main conference room of the ornate palace of nations. What they decide will influence the life of the world perhaps for generations.

Neither side expected to reach specific agreement on details, but both hoped to arrive at a general understanding which can send future relations between the Communist and democratic worlds into a new and friendlier phase.

Air Tinged With Optimism

France Declares Martial Law In Casablanca

In Wake Of Race Rioting

CASABLANCA, Morocco (UP)—France declared martial law in riot-torn Casablanca today.

Resident General Gilbert Grandval ordered martial law instituted "in full force" in the wake of race rioting and other violence that has killed at least 19 persons and wounded 80 others since Thursday night.

The order was issued almost simultaneously with a new demonstration by angry Europeans. Police armed with machineguns were rushed in to smash the uprising.

Fifteen tanks were stationed in front of the city's administrative headquarters to ward off a possible invasion of the buildings. The demonstrators almost gained control of the city Friday.

The mobs moved through streets littered with telegraph poles that were chopped or burned down, torn newspapers and vegetables and fruit. They moved past firemen who were still wetting down some of the estimated 150 blazes that were started in the riots.

Mobs of Frenchmen and Arabs roamed the city Friday night in a wave of terrorism which started with the explosion of a bomb in a European-sector cafe Thursday evening.

The bomb killed 6 Europeans, wounded 35 others and touched off a cry for revenge from anti-Arab French extremists. Mobs of Europeans toured the streets attacking Arabs and their shops. They abused Grandval and the administration for their "soft" policy toward the Moroccans.

Frequent demonstrations spread rapidly through the city and Friday night resulted in three fatal clubbings and a lynching.

The rioting was the most serious since the nationalist agitation started, and came only eight days after Grandval arrived, determined on a policy of "liberalism."

His regime was considered the "last chance' for France to continue this North African protectorate peacefully. Instead, the uprisings have shaken the whole countion at the Big Four conference in Geneva next week.

Arrive In Germany

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Lehman have been notified that their daughter-in-law and small granddaughter, the wife and daughter of Sgt. Charles E. Lehman have arrived in Wurzburg, Germany, where Sgt. Lehman met his family. Mrs. Lehman is the former Bernadine Furthmiller of near this city.

Mrs. Lehman has written that she landed in Newfoundland, at Shamrock, Ireland and Frankfurt, Germany enroute. Making the trip by plane, Mrs. Lehman traveled on the Flying Tiger 4 D.

On the 4th of July Sgt. Lehman spent the day with his brother A—1c Kenneth L. Lehman in Frankfurt, Germany. This the second meeting for the two brothers. They previously had been together for two days.

Kenneth Lehman has been overseas since December 1953.

Churubusco Democrats Name 1955 Committee

The Churubusco Democratic Central Committee has been named in preparation for the town election in November.

Dale Barrett was named chairman, Lilan Miller vice-chairman and Mrs. Vernon Harrold, secretary-treasurer of the committee last week.

No date has been set for the Democratic caucus but it must be held before August 26, according to regulations.

The Republican committee has not announced its organization. However, it is expected to do so before the July 30 deadline.

NATO Powers Meet To Hear Big Three Report

On West's Strategy For Geneva

By WILBUR G. LANDREY
United Press Staff Correspondent

PARIS (UP)—The foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization met today to throw the full weight of the Western alliance behind the Big Three's strategy at next week's Geneva conference.

U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Harold MacMillan and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay asked NATO indorsement in outlining the West's plans for the summit talks. They promised to keep their allies closely informed of the Geneva parley's progress.

NATO approval of the Big Three program was the last weapon placed in the West's arsenal for the Big Four discussions. If all goes well, informed sources said, the United States, Britain and France will give NATO a part in helping work out European security arrangements.

Dulles, MacMillan and Pinay planned to head for Geneva in time to meet their respective heads of government and prepare for Monday's talks.

The main points of the Western proposal to end the cold war were these:

1.A detailed plan for the reunification of Germany based on free elections and similar to the deal worked out last year by Britain's Sir Anthony Eden.

2. European security arrangements to form the framework for German unification. There are as yet no detailed plans in this field. But the West will suggest such things as an East European buffer zone and the limitation of a unified Germany's armed forces to 12 divisions to ease Russia's legitimate fears.

3. A new attempt to work out a world-wide disarmament scheme within the United Nations, in addition to scaling down and controlling European forces.

The Big Three already have told their allies that they do not expect any final agreement to come out of the Geneva talks. But if they are successful, the heads of government will agree to a general line of action which will be worked out in detail in the fall by the Big Four foreign ministers and the United Nations.

Miss Beeching Places Fifth At 4-H Contest

Marlyn Beeching, daughter of Mr .and Mrs. Frederick Beeching, of Union township, placed fifth in Group A of the district baking demonstration contest.

The contest, at Wabash Thursday and Friday, had 12 participants from Whitley county, including Miss Beeching.

Myra Hatter of Jefferson township, and Nancy Wade, of Smith township, placed 7th and 8th respectively in the clothing judging contest, and Myrna Esterline, of Jefferson township, placed 7th in home improvement judging.

Other participants in the contest included Monica Fleck and Beverly Mishler, Cleveland township; Kay Leininger and Linda Knisely, Columbia township, Nancy Smith Thorncreek township; Loretta Johnson, Richland township; Cathy Bockelman, Union township, and Sharon Western, Etna-Troy township.

Possible Rebirth Of Democratic Government Seen

With Resignation Of President Peron As Party Leader

BUENOS AIRES (UP)—President Juan D. Peron's resignation as head of the Peronist Party was seen today as the possible rebirth of democratic government in Argentina.

Diplomatic observers interperted Peron's withdrawal as boss of the country's dominant political group as the end, or the beginning of the end, of his dictatorial reign.

In such a constitutional government as Peron outlined Friday, the observers said, it would be assumed the president would eventually lose all his special and dictatorial powers.

Opposition political leaders, to whom Peron promised return of full rights, refused to comment on the president's statement to his congressional leaders Friday.

Arturo Frondizi, leader of the opposition Radical Party, indicated he and other Radical Party chiefs preferred to "wait and see."

Opposition Leaders Dubious

Informed sources said opposition leaders were dubious about Peron's new policies. They said the president's political foes suspected his statements may not have any meaning below the surface.

Observers close to the situation believed, however, that Peron's actions were forced by military powers in the government. They believed Peron would be only a titular head, or figurehead, if a constitutional government were formed.

Peron announced his new policies to Peronist leaders Friday in tion. He said the Peronist revolution has ended and that full constitutional guarantees and freedoms would be restored to the nation.

Peron said that he would remain Argentine chief of state, but he added that his position in the Argentine political system had "absolutely changed.'

His resignation came just one month after a bloody navy-led revolt broke out, but was sup-

Fractures Ankle

Mrs. Henry Maugher, 330 W. Taylor street Huntington, was taken from Grosse Point on Big Lake to the Huntington County Hospital Friday afternoon in the J. A. DeMoney and Son ambulance. Mrs. Maugher suffered a fracture of her right ankle when she fell while vacationing at the lake.

Leaves Hospital

John Bobbitt, Jefferson township farmer, was taken to his home 3 miles southeast of Jefferson Center on Friday afternoon in the Smith and Sons ambulacne. Mr. Bobbitt had been a patient at the Whitley County Hospital where he had submitted to major surgery.

BIG PAW—This black cat being held by Judith Lefever, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lefever, R. 6, is appropriately named "Paws". The unusually big looking paw is due to the fact the cat has seven claws on each of its front feet. The rear feet are normal. There were two other kittens in the same litter, one had normal paws while the other had six claws on the front feet.

Hoosier Corn Crop Should Be Second Largest

Purdue Predicts Other Production

LAFAYETTE—Corn prospects in Indiana indicate the second largest crop on record, according to agricultural statisticians at Purdue University. The acreage for harvest is 4,835 000 acres which is one percent more than last year and six percent above the 1544-53 average. Production expected is 256,255,000 bushels, slightly above last year and 13 percent above average. Stocks of corn on farms July 1, were said to be 86,678,000 bushels—108 percent of last year and 148 percent of average.

Wheat yields are uniformly good. The 30 bushels expected per acre did not change the past month, so the forecast remains at 35 160,000 bushels.

Oat acreage at 1,381,000 is three percent above last year. With a record high yield of 45 bushels per acre production is forecast at 62,145,000 bushels or 131 percent of the 10-year average.

The 2,202,000 acres of soybeans is 10 percent above last year, which is a new high record. Farm stocks of soybeans were 3,921,000 bushels more than 10 times what i twas a year ago and more than three times the 10-year average.

Harvested hay acreage of 1,445,000 is 91 percent of last year. Pasture condition at 93 percent of normal is 14 points above last year and two points above average.

Commercial apple production is expected to be 820,000 bushels—two-thirds of last year and average. Peach production at 158,000 bushels is 29 percent of last year.

Egg production in June was 247 million—four percent more than last year. There were more layers than a year ago and the rate of lay was a new record high for the month of June. For the first six months of the year production was 1,637 million eggs. First six months last year production was 1,611 million eggs.

Milk production in June was 398 million pounds—five percent above last year. Production per cow set a new high record.

Index of Indiana farm prices was reported to be 233 which is 8-points above a month ago but 20 points below a yaer ago.

Expresses Hope In Brief Speech At Iceland

En Route To Big Four Meeting

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer

KEFLAVIK, Iceland (UP) — President Eisenhower, en route to the Big Four meeting in Geneva, today told the people of Iceland that he hoped his meeting with the Russians would advance the cause of peace for "all the world."

Mr. Eisenhower expressed his hope in a brief speech made at Keflavik Airport shortly after he arrived aboard the Presidential plane, the four-engine Columbine III.

He was greeted by a host of officials headed by the Icelandic president and more than 1 000 spectators.

Mr. Eisenhower, who said before he left Washington that the Big Four Summit conference could be the world's "greatest step toward peace," inspected an honor guard and then walked together with Icelandic President Asgier Asgeirsson to a public address system to exchange greetings.

The American President, heavily tanned and wearing a light gray suit told the Iceland president he had embarked on a "search for peace."

"I shall hope (in Geneva) that the cause of peace can be advanced for all the world," Mr. Eisenhower said.

Following his welcome on the rain-washed runway of the U.S. Air Force base portion of Iceland's International Airport, Mr.

3 Cars Damaged When 1 Rams Rear Of Other At Stop-Light

Three cars were damaged in a collision about 12:10 p.m. Friday on Van Buren street just east of Walnut street.

Jerry Underhill, 31, of 121½ South Main street, and Ronald Nelson, 41, of 208 East Collinwood Avenue, both eastbound, were slowing their cars as they approached a stop light at Line street. A car driven by Jack Vernon Jerraid, 21, of Larwill rammed into the rear of the Underhill vehicle pushing it forward in-t othe rear of the Nelson car.

About $180 estimated damage was caused to the front end of the Jerraid vehicle, $75 to the Underhill car, and $60 to the Nelson automobile.

Jerraid told Chief of Police Lee Gross, who investigated the accident, that he took his eyes off the road temporarily. When he looked back, he saw the Underhill car slowing, but could not stop in time to avoid hitting it.

Twelve Counties Are Represented At Regional WCTU Rally In Columbia City

Eighty-two women representing twelve counties, attended the regional rally of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, held Thursday at Trinity Methodist church, in this city.

Theme for the rally was "Paths of Progress." Mrs. Herman Stanley state president, presided over the sessions. "Fellowship Trails," was the theme for the devotional period.

State directors were introduced and Mrs. Hedges, member of the local chapter, sang "Blessed Assurance" to the tume of a southern melody. An officers panel was conducted in the morning titled "Progress Trails." Mrs. William Stong, state recordin gsecretary, spoke on "Chartering the Trip," in which she stressed first the financing of the trip and second the guide of Standard of Excellance, outlining the most important things necessary for a WCTU journey.

Mrs. Stanley also talked on preparing the pak for the journey and the period of time involved, the purpose and the possibilities of the trip.

Film strips were presented Allen, Fulton and Whitley counties for the largest delegations in attendance. Mrs. Leonard Macy state director of the Soldier and Sailors department reported that five air matresses had been placed in Veterans hospital in the state at a cost of $1,000 during the past year. Posters made by students who had won state prizes were displayed by Mrs. Warren Dingmann, state director on Visual Education.

In the afternoon, a playlet was given entitled "The Little White Bow," and a speech contest was conducted under the direction of Mrs. John Matzigkeit, six young people participating, three from Warren and three from Akron, Indiana. It was won by a Warren contestant, who gave the "Golden Mug."

During the afternoon session, Mrs. Mary Bly institute director, reported on the assistance given the Koreans by the WCTU, and Mrs. Stanley was a speaker in the afternoon on the subject "Opportunity on the Freeway." She stressed the responsibility of the church in making the United States a safe place to rear boys and girls, stating that the "forces of evil can destroy the church if we let them, but the church can destroy the forces of evil if they will." She furthur spoke on the effects of alcohol and narcotics on the physical and mental health.

Airliner Crashes, Passengers And Crew Escape Injury

WASHINGTON (UP) — Rep. Kenneth B. Keating (R-N.Y.) and 54 other passengers and crew members escaped injury early today when a New York-to-Houston Eastern Airlines Constellation crash-landed at National Airport.

The passengers were evacuated from a rear emergency door when the four-engined plane skidded for a few hundred feet and tilted on its wing while landing.

Authorities said the right wheel of the plane gave way.

Capt. Alexander Schmidt brought the plane in after making two passes over the airport. He had notified the tower that he believed his right landing gear had failed

The tower alerted emergency crews before the plane landed after circling the airport for about an hour.

Keating said, "The crew was wonderful. The hostesses were as calm as when they were passing out sandwiches."

Gambler Might Lay Odds Against President On His Whirl Of Presidential Diplomacy

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — A gambling man would have to lay the odds against President Eisenhower as he takes off for Europe today on a whirl of personal, presidential diplomacy. The record of precedent is against him although the times have somewhat changed in his favor.

The record will show that Mr. Eisenhower is risking a lot of popularity on a long chance which he did not seek and which he would have preferred to avoid. It was pressure from Western European allies that won the President's agreement to a meeting at the summit.

Polls show that Mr. Eisenhower is the most popular politician in the United States as of take-off time today. The record will show that Woodrow Wilson was far and away the most popular man in the whole world on the day in December, 1918, that he sailed with Mrs. Wilson for the peace conference at Versailles. Some months and one more Atlantic voyage to Versailles thereafter, Mr. Wilson's popularity had begun to sag, never to recover.

Mr. Eisenhower will be the fourth U.S. president to undertake such a journey to Europe to deal with world politics. The others all came croppers, one way or another.

Franklin D. Roosevelt made personal, presidential diplomacy work for a time, and pay off. He delighted in it. Then came Yalta where the free nations began the bitter experience of losing the peace.

Truman Experienced Frustrations

Harry S. Truman experienced the frustrations of the Potsdam conference as Hitler's dream exploded and Red armies squatted on Eastern and Central Europe like a million men-who-came-to-dinner. Mr. Truman was baffled and unprepared. He knew he had lost that bout with the Soviet's Josef V. Stalin and it irked him, although the time did come when he could say in public, "You know, I liked Old Joe."

It is nearly 40 years since Woodrow Wilson sailed for Paris and Versailles. The Versailles conference became a kind of initiation of the young United States into the shrewdly adult society of old world nations. The initiation was complete with painful hazing and humiliation. Wilson's powerfully phrased pledge to "make the world safe for democracy" came to nothing. His high-minded mission was a catastrophic bust, so shocking to United States public opinion that there followed many years of what was called isolation.

The late George Harvey, U.S. ambassador to the Court of St. James, could say and be applauded when he returned in the mid-twenties from his tour of London duty that the United States should let the troubled, near-bankrupt nations of the old world "stew in their own juices." A great many of Harvey's fellow citizens felt the same way.

Wilson broke all precedent when he went to Europe. And in the end, that wrong decision broke him, physically and mentally. Former President Hoover recalls in his memoirs:

"I was one of the few men around President Wilson in Washington who had replied adversely to his inquiry for an opinion on whether he should go to Europe and personally lead the American delegation. Col. (E.M.) House also advised against his going as did Secretary of State Edward Lansing and Bernard Baruch. We had all counselled that from the thunderous and free pulpit of the White House he could be far more effective."

The late Sen. James E. Watson (R-Ind) in his book of recollections wrote: "Everybody believes President Wilson made the greatest blunder of his life when he went to Paris."

There is other such testimony and the record bears them out. But, Mr. Eisenhower, unlike Mr. Wilson, is a reluctant voyager. He had no stomach for this meeting at first. Moreover, he and the United States have learned a lot since 1918. The record of the mistakes of past presidents lies open before him. And, although Mr. Eisenhower is risking his great popularity on his ability to avoid great mistakes of his own in Geneva, he is not likely to repeat the mistakes of his predecessors. Those are the factors that give a U.S. president, a chance this time to win.

Health Board Releases 16,000 Vaccine Doses

To Indiana's Smaller Counties

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—The Indiana State Health Board is making 16,000 doses of Salk polio vaccine available immediately to the state's smaller counties to complete the second round of "free" inoculations to first and second grade children.

Dr. Andrew C. Offutt, state health commissioner, said the vaccine would be distributed on a basis of county school enrollment and ability of local doctors to finish the program promptly.

The vaccine is left over from the first-round shots last April under the "free" program sponsored by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Offutt said about one-third of Indiana's 92 counties probably could receive vaccine from the 16,000-dose reserve supply by offering it to the least populous counties.

In a prepared statement, Offutt said the decision to offer the vaccine was made "following consultations with the Polio Committee of the Indiana State Medical Association, the Indiana Office of the National Foundation, and the State Health Board."

"The decision to relase this supply without assurance as to when additional vaccine would be available," said Offutt, "was based on two factors:

"First it was felt that it was unfair to deny some 16,000 children the added protection to be derived from a second injection pending the arrival of an additional supply.

"Second, the vaccine that we have on hand is dated material and cannot be stored indefinitely."

The decision was reached as Eli Lilly & Co., Indianapolis, the nation's major vaccine producer shipped all but the remainder of its latest 720,000 doses released by the Public Health Service to the South.

Lilly sent 326,877 doses Thursday to California, Oklahoma, Missouri and North Carolina, on orders of the Foundation. That left only about 100,000 shots, most of which apparently will go to the Army for overseas use among first and second grade children of servicemen whose families are with them.

Crazylegs Hirsch Plans To Retire

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (UP) — Elroy (Crazylegs) Hirsch, one of the finest pass-catchers in the National Football League, said today he is retiring "unless the Los Angeles Rams get into a jam and need me." Hirsch is a former Wisconsin halfback who turned into an end in the pro ranks because of his great speed and breakaway ability.

Seven Rules To Save Housewives' Energy

Housewives can save time and energy on any household task if they only will analyze and improve their way of performing it.

And they don't need to be time-and-motion study experts to do it, says Mrs. Agnes Rdiley of Southern Illinois University's home economics department.

Here are seven simple rules Mrs. Ridley drew up:

Use two hands whenever possible.

Arrange utensils, materials and containers close to the point of use.

Have work well-lighted.

Sit down to work as much as possible.

Use feet and other parts of the body as well as the hands in doing chores.

Choose utensils and household tools designed to fit the hand.

Develop a rhythm for every task and learn to make curved instead of straight-lined motions that involve sharp of sudden changes of direction.

Faure Holds Out Assurance To The Soviet Union

By WILBUR G. LANDREY
United Press Staff Correspondent

PARIS (UP)—French Premier Edgar Faure assured Russia today that France "is ready to take account of the legitimate needs of Soviet security" when Germany is reunified.

The French premier held out this assurance to the Soviet Union in a written interview, exclusively answering United Press questions on French policy at the "summit" Big Four conference, opening Monday at Geneva.

Faure echoed British Prime Minister Anthony Eden who said last Thursday that Britain was ready to make "reasonable arrangements" guaranteeing Soviet security in exchange for German Faure's endorsement of this position was considered to strengthen the West's position, since France now is supporting the rearmament and reuniting of her old enemy and guaranteeing her good conduct as well.

The French premiers statement of position came on the heels of an official Soviet statement Tuesday night strongly opposing German membership in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the West European Union.

Russia charged in a statement issued through the official Soviet news agency Tass that "these agreements have sacrificed the unity of Germany to plans for the renaissance of German militarism."

Faure said the three principal questions when he, President Eisenhower, Eden and Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin sit down at Geneva will be: German reunification, the organization of security and a program for disarmament.

The French Cabinet met for nearly 3½ hours this morning to approve Faure's plans for Geneva.

The Cycling Theron Troupe, a family of eight whose antics on their bicycles are certain to thrill thousands at this year's Indiana State Fair, will be seen in a dazzling "Stars Over Indiana" revue in front of the Grandstand September 3 through the 9th. The revue also features the Crew Cuts, popular vocal quartet, and the music of Ted Weems and his world-famous orchestra. This year's State Fair opens Wednesday, August 31, and continues through September 9.

WALTER H. WIMMER,

As president of Your Indiana State Fair, I welcome you to attend the 1955 Agricultural and Industrial exposition, August 31 through September 9. The best entertainment features available have been booked for your enjoyment and exhibits and displays showing the importance of agriculture and industry in Indiana are set up for your inspection. You can be proud of your State Fair because you've had a part in its growth and development. I urge you to attend and take part in this gigantic exposition.

Debalb County Farmer To Show 1955 Cornfield

AUBURN, Ind. (UP)—A.J. Custer, Dekalb County farmer whose 241 bushels per acre in the 1954 Five-Acre Corn Club set an all-time Indiana production record, will show off his 1955 cornfield July 28 at a state muck crop field day program.

Many Five-Acre Corn Club members and other corn growers were expected to visit Custer's farm to see how the champion is doing with his current entry.

Last winter Custer said he would apply three tons of fertilizer and have a population of 30,000 to 40,000 plants per acre on his 1955 plot.

Ligonier Post To Hold Forum For Press, Legislators July 22

LIGONIER, (Special) — Indiana legislators and members of the press from 11 northeastern Indiana counties can get a close view of top State Police officials and learn about the department's enforcement operations during a session here Friday, July 22.

At 10 a.m. an inspection of the building, grounds and personnel of Ligonier district and Fort Wayne post will be held, State Police Supt. Frank A. Jessup announced today. Jessup and members of the department board will then meet with newspaper, radio and television representatives in a round-table conference dealing with State Police objectives in combating crime and traffic problems.

Board members participating will be Vayne M. Armstrong, Indianapolis, president of the board; Secretary Paul R. Schnaitter, Madison, and members Buford M. Cadle, Clayton, and Dewey D. Raper, Monticello.

Indiana senators and representatives of Whitley, DeKalb, Elkhart, Kosciusko, LaGrange, Noble, Steuben, Allen, Adams, Huntington and Wells counties have been invited to take part in the program. Several have indicated they will be present.

"We want people to see how we operate at first hand," Supt. Jessup pointed out. "Understanding by the citizen of department aims is an invaluable aid to reducing enforcement problems through wider public support."

Lt. George A. Everett, over-all commander of the Ligonier and Fort Wayne areas, will be the day's host. He will be assisted by Sgt. Nelson E. Winebrenner who is in charge of Fort Wayne post.

Youth, Victim Of "Zip Gun," Killed In New York

NEW YORK (UP)—A teenage boy stumbled and fell dead on a quiet Bronx Street corner Thursday night, the apparent victim of youth gang's favorite weapon, the deadly "zip gun."

The teenage victim was identified as Warren Holstrom, 14, of the Bronx, an eighth grade student.

Police immediately rounded up some 30 youths including several girls, in an attempt to solve the mysterious slaying. Most of those brought in for questioning were held for several hours.

Thomas Neilson, chief of detectives, said two unidentified boys who rushed into a nearby hospital and asked for a doctor to treat a friend who was hurt may hold the key to the killing.

He said a hospital attendant attempted to question the boys about their injured friend and they rushed away.

A zip gun, believed to be the one that killed Holstrom was found a short distance from the place where the boy's body lay on the sidewalk.

The guns are fashioned from a pipe about the size of a gun barrel and rigged with a stout rubber that exerts pressure on a makeshift hammer. A bullet is inserted in the pipe and fired by tripping the hammer.

Not In A Million Years!

EDINBURG, Ind. (UP)—Marilyn Wertz and Joe Lain went for a boat ride on Sugar Creek near a cabin where Marilyn's parents were camping.

All of a sudden, they said, a two and one-half pound small mouth bass jumped into the boat and flopped around.

"That wouldn't happen again in a million years," said Joe.

Just then, they said, a two-pound bass arched into the boat and landed beside the first.

Didn't Fit

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UP)— It was a discriminating thief who stole two hubcaps from a 1955 model car owned by William Remack Jr.

Remack found the stolen hubcaps lying on the front seat of his car the day after they were stolen, along with an unsigned note.

"They didn't fit, you can have them back, thanks," the note said.

Call Witnesses In International Adoption Racket Case

CHICAGO (UP) — A Senate subcommittee today called its first witnesses in a full-scale investigation into an international "baby adoption racket,' allegedly centering in Chicago and extending to New York, Oklahoma, Texas Illinois and Canada.

About 30 witnesses including unwed mothers who put their babies up for adoption and lawyers who arranged "quickie" adoptions for fees, were to testify today and Saturday before the subcommittee, headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.).

The Senate group opened its three-day hearings here Thursday by questioning 17 civic and religious leaders of Chicago on juvenile delinquency.

A husky elementary school principal from Chicago Thursday in effect branded the entire inquiry a waste of time.

The 6-foot, 4-inch principal, Thomas J. Farrell, testified loudly and to the obvious discomfort of Kefauver and Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.) another member of the subcommittee, that:

"Highly - publicized, top level meetings by public officials in an atmosphere of popping flashbulbs rank high among our most futile efforts.

"Publicity is good for the man at the top," Farrell said, "but it does little for junior."

Eisenhowers To Have 'Reunion Of Sorts' During Geneva Trip

WASHINGTON (UP)—It will be a family reunion of sorts when the Presidential plane Columbine takes off tonight for Geneva with the President and Mrs Eisenhower and their son John aboard.

The 15½ hours of flying to the Big Four conference plus any off-duty time they spend together in Switzerland will give the busy Eisenhowers and their Army son visit together for some time.

That may have been the reason the First Lady decided almost at the last minute, to accompany the President. It was not definitely known that she would be going until late Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Eisenhower has turned thumbs down on the "up-again down-again" flights that her husband has taken on various speaking trips around the country. She is reported to feel they are "too hectic."

But the big silver Columbine, with its pressurized cabin—which she prefers because of a slight heart murmur—offers a more restful trip. And the villa awaiting the President and his family in Geneva will provide her a little "rest and quiet" instead of the busy schedules of some other Presidential trips.

Somebody Pulls Plug Out Of Club's Pool

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind. (UP) Somebody pulled a dirty trick on the Sportsman's Club.

They pulled the plug in the club swimming pool and all the water drained out.

When swimmers went to the club Thursday, they found the pool dry as a bone. Authorities believed pranksters turned on an outlet valve during the night.

It will take at least a couple of days to refill the pool. Meanwhile, club members sweltered in 90-degree temperatures and high humidity.

The whale is the world's largest animal. A 100-foot blue whale is far bigger than the dinosaur and mastodon of prehistoric times.

The Army organized and manned the first U.S. weather bureau as a branch of the Signal Corps.

Predict Weather For Weekend In Indiana

By UNITED PRESS

More thundershowers were expected this afternoon and evening in Indiana. The weather will clear Sunday, the Weather Bureau said today.

Today's showers will be widely scattered. Sunday will be mostly fair.

Meanwhile, showers poured more than an inch of water in some parts of the state Friday. Winchester reported the greatest rainfall with 1.15 inches The weatherman said Seymour got .75 inch, Monticello .66 and Edwardsport .48 . Other cities got around a quarter inch or less.

The rainfall was considerably less than the five inches which drenched Hoosiers Thursday and Friday morning in some sections.

Highs today will range from 83 to 90. Highs Sunday will range from 85 to 87. Lows tonight will range from 65 to 70.

The mercury stayed below the 90-degree mark for an 87 high Friday. It was at Evansville. The coolest high was 83 at South Bend Lows early today ranged from 66 at Fort Wayne to 71 at Evansville.

The outlook for Monday was fair with moderate temperatures.

President Addresses Nation

Minutes before his departure from Washington Friday night at 9:18 p.m. EDT, the President told the nation in a radio and television broadcast of his hopes for the Geneva meeting. He said he was going to "extend the hand of friendship" to Russia provided the Soviet Union "honestly" joins in a search for a "new road' to world peace.

He promised that he and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles "shall do our best with others there to start the world on the beginning of a new road, a road that may be long and difficult, but which, if faithfully followed will lead us all into a better and fuller ife.'

Mr. Eisenhower said he hoped to find at the Geneva meeting "one ingredient (that) has been missing" from previous such conferences—"an honest intent to conciliate to understand, to be tolerant, to try to see the other fellow's viewpoint as well as we see our own."

He said if such conditions exist, the Geneva meeting can be the "greatest step toward peace, toward future prosperity and tranquility that has ever been taken in all the history of mankind."

The President also responded warmly in his address to a pledge made by Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin at a Moscow press conference Friday to seek at Geneva a "common language" to end East-West tensions.

"To All The World"

Mr. Eisenhower replied "to all the world' that "if the words that he (Bulganin) expressed are as truly reflective of the hearts and minds of the men in the Kremlin as we are sure they are reflective of the hearts and minds of all the people in Russia . . . then there will be no trouble between the Russian delegation and our own."

After his address, the President was obviously pleased — and surprised—to find Soviet Embassy official Sergei R. Striganov in the lineup of diplomats at Washington's airport to see him off for Geneva. Striganov is the top Russian assigned to Washington in the absence of Ambassador Georgi N. Zarubin who is attending the Geneva meeting.

Veteran Washington observers could not remember a top Russian making a similar gesture since the cold war started.

The President's speech drew praise from several Democratic members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Committee Chairman Walter F. George (D-Ga) said it was a "very sincere appeal . . . and very properly voiced the true sentiment of the vast majority of the American people and their desire to eliminate war and the fear of war."

Sen. John J. Sparkman (D-Ala) said it "reflects the true position of this country" and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn) said Mr. Eisenhower "spoke in the spirit of the country."

Balance Sheet Of Good And Bad News For Week

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

The week's good and bad news on the international balance sheet:

The Good

1. American, British and French leaders seemed increasingly hopeful that the Big four "summit" conference which opens Monday in Geneva, Switzerland, might lead to a reduction of world tensions. Optimism was tempered by caution, pending actual negotiations with the Russians. But Secretary of State John Foster Dulles arriving in Paris on his way to Geneva, summed it up when he said: "Great hopes are in the air. Moscow announced that the Kremlin will send an unusually strong delegation, led by Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin. It was finally disclosed that Communist party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev will be a member, thus increasing the authority of the delegation. Soviet Defense Minister Georgi K. Zhukov, wartime friend of President Eisenhower, also will be a member.

2. Antonio Segni, new premier of Italy said in his first speech in Parliament that he will continue close cooperation with other members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. It was predicted that Segni would have no trouble in getting a vote of confidence in the chamber of deputies, probably Monday. The chamber's reception of Segni, when he outlined his legislative program, was lukewarm, however. He may run into trouble soon.

3. The threat of serious delay in West German armament seemed ended. Chancellor Konrad Adenauer accepted demands that the armed forces be put under the control of parliament instead of his own government. The Bundestag—the lower house of parliament—prepared to rush through the first armament bill to raise 6,000 volunteers.

The Bad

1. Tricky Ho Chi Minh, president of the Communist state of Northern Viet Nam in Indochina, arrived in Moscow after visiting Chinese Red leaders in Peiping. There seemed every reason to believe that Ho was plotting trouble for the free states of Indochina His agents are increasingly active in Southern Viet Nam and Communist guerrillas are fighting government troops in Laos.

2. Indonesia was threatened by the biggest crisis since it attained its freedom from the Netherlands in 1949. There has long been chronic revolt in Sumatra, West Java and the Celebes. Now the army refuses to accept a government-appointed chief of staff. The latest developments were that greater Indonesian Moslem party pulled its two members out of the cabin.

3. The armistice situation in Korea continued to deteriorate. The Communists have openly cheated ever since the truce was signed two years ago by building up their armed forces. They refuse to let the neutral nations supervisory commission inspect North Korean territory. It is now proposed that the number of inspection teams be reduced.

Believes South America Once Joined To Africa

ALGIERS, North Africa—(UP)-A University of Cincinnati geology professor has announced new findings on an old question: Were South Africa and South America ever joined by a strip of land?

Dr. Kenneth E. Caster told the International Geologic Congress here that his years of study have convinced him that the two continents, although never a single body of land as suggested by some, were once joined by a belt of earth. He said the strip probably was alternately below and above the water's surface during the course of geologic history.

Dr. Caster based his beliefs mainly on the "astounding" similarity of plant and animal life in corresponding formations on the two continents.

Clean Wools Before Summer Storage

MADISON, Wis.—(UP)— Winter woolens should be cleaned thoroughly before they are stored for the summer.

Gladys Meloche, clothing specialist at the University of Wisconsin, says many wool garments need to go to the dry cleaner before being put in storage, but wool sacks, sweaters and most lightweight flannels and challis may be washed at home. To keep wool from shrinking or matting until it's stiff handle it with care.

Wool should be washed before it gets too soiled, she says. But handle it gently. Don't wring or rub it, and move it as little as possible.

Woolens may be mothproofed by dipping them in the new EQ53 solution now available. Directions are on the container.

Thread Of Evidence

COLUMBUS, Miss. (UP) — Charles Ray, 25 was arrested on a thread of evidence for stealing a sewing machine.

A thread attached to the bobbin of the machine led from Ray to a spool which had fallen and unwound at the spot where the machine was taken police said.

Stevenson To Tell Plans Well Before End Of The Year

CHICAGO (UP)—Adlai Stevenson will announce his presidential plans "well before the end of the year."

The 1952 Democratic presidential candidate told this to reporters Wednesday after a private visit with former President Truman, who was attending the Shriners' convention.

Asked if the two leading Democrats talked about victory prospects in 1956, Mr. Truman replied:

"There aren't any prospects to talk about. We know what will happen. We will win."

Eighteen Winners Of The Nobel Prize Issue Warning

LINDAU, Germany (UP)—Eighteen Nobel Prize winners, including four Americans appealed to the world today to discard atomic war as a political instrument or "cease to exist."

The scientists said they had become "servants of science with enthusiasm" but that they were "terrified to see that this science gives mankind instruments to destroy itself."

They warned that the nations of the world must renounce atomic war. "If they don't, they will cease to exist," the statement said.

The appeal, issued at the close of the Nobel Prize winners' fifth annual convention here, came on the eve of the Geneva Big Four Conference.

American Nobel Prize winners signing the statement included Dr. H.J. Muller of Bloomington, Ind.

Muller and another signer of the Lindau statement, Hideki Yukawa of Japan, also signed the warning against another war issued by the late Albert Einstein and published posthumously in London last Saturday.

Muller warned that atomic war and its resulting radiation may wipe out unborn generations by affecting the genes that control heredity.

He said radiation causes mutation factors to work on the genes. The fallout from an atomic attack, he explained, would affect the genes of survivors so strongly that their children would be born with no capability of resisting the changed living conditions after an atom war.

Boy Killed By Detonator; Another Seriously Injured

PORTLAND, Mich. (UP)—Authorities conducted a life-and-death search today for 2,000 stolen detonators which already have killed a 9-year-old boy and critically injured another in this southern Michigan community of 2,200 today.

The tiny detonators, about the size of lead pencil erasers, were reported missing Friday night by officials of the Barley-Earhart Co. after Keith Jones was literally blown to bits while carting off a case containing 50 of them.

A 10-year-old playmate, William Gorman of Alma, Mich., was reported in "very critical" condition today after the detonators exploded less than a block from the business district. A spokesman at St.Lawrence Hospital in Lansing Mich., said both of his legs were torn off and he was given only a 50-50 chance for survival.

Police feared other youngsters may have hidden the caps and urged all children in this and surrounding communities to give police any information about the explosives.

Pastor To Conduct Special Christmas Services Sunday

VICKSBURG, Mich. (UP)—The Rev. George Stannard, pastor of the First Methodist Church, said today he would conduct Christmas services in the church Sunday in an attempt to allow his congregation to really enjoy Christmas.

Stannard said modern Christmas services had all the real joy of Christmas taken out of them by the headlong rush to stores, the last minute scramble for gifts for overlooked relatives, the tedious writing of Christmas cards, and the worry over Christmas bills.

"Let's celebrate Christmas when we can enjoy it," Stannard said. "For all we know Christ may have been born in July, anyway, as no one really knows the time of year he was born."

The church choir will sign the traditional Christmas anthems and carols' Stannard will deliver a Christmas sermon and flowers will replace the traditional holly. But there will be no exchange of gifts.

"This will be a Christian Christmas," he said.

South Bend Woman, 100 Years Old, Dies

SOUTH BEND (UP) — Mrs. Jennie A. Harris died Friday at the age of 100. Her only survivors were two grandchildren.

The bases or porous flower pots can be water-proofed with melted paraffin.

REPORTED NEAR DEATH—Screen actress Suzan Ball is reported near death from cancer in the City of Hope Sanitarium in Hollywood, Calif. Miss Ball, who was married to actor Dick Long after she lost one leg to the disease 18 months ago, is reported to be suffering from cancer of the lungs. She is said to be under oxygen most of the time, but has remained cheerful. Suzan is shown above in a hospital bed last year following the amputation of her leg.

Railroad Express Train Accident Kills Engineer

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (UP)—A New Haven Railroad express train hurtled over an embankment here today, killing the engineer and injuring more than a score of passengers.

Twenty-two persons admitted to hospitals were reported in fair or good condition. Several others were treated at the scene,

Nearly all the passengers were sleeping when the wreck occurred at 4:42 a.m., a fact which authorities said prevented a heavier toll.

Seven cars and the engine of the Washington-to-Boston "Federal Express" derailed, some plunging down an embankment onto a city street.

The first four cars were empty, another factor which held down the casualty list. The other derailed cars were a sleeper, a coach and an express car.

Cause of the wreck was not immediately determined.

Five hours after the accident the main line between New England and New York was still blocked.

The engineer who was killed was identified as Arthur Ortcneau of New Haven, Conn.

Major Eisenhower Will Be Personal Aide To President

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower will take his son, Maj. John S. Eisenhower, to the Big Four meeting in Geneva as a personal aide, the White House announced today.

Mr. Eisenhower's son recently completed a year at the Army staff and command school and recently has been assigned as an infantry training officer at Fort Belvoir, Va., just outside Washington.

Hogs And Lambs Higher In June Than In May

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UP)—Purdue University agricultural economists and federal statisticians today said Indiana farmers received considerably higher prices for hogs and lambs in June than they did in May.

Hogs averaged $19 per hundredweight in June, compared to $16.80 in May. Lamb prices averaged $23 in June and $16.80 in May.

Authorities said the combined index of farm prices was 233 in June, eight above May. The June index was 20 points below the same period a year ago.

effort to find a way to lift from the world the awful shadow of a possible all-out nuclear war.

Mr. Eisenhower said in a nationwide radio and television speech from Washington that he hoped the conference would "open new vistas' and usher in a "new phase' in international relationships.

In London, Eden declared that only total abolition of war could remove the perils that threaten mankind in the atomic age.

Faure said in Paris that the organization of security is one of the major problems that the conferees must tackle and attempt to solve.

Bulganin, in an unprecedented statement to newsmen, said the East - West struggle "cannot be solved by war," and pledged the Soviet delegation to seek a "common language" in the Geneva talks.

This was the first time a president of the United States has flown to Europe since the Potsdam conference just 10 years ago.

Seek Cold War End

But that meeting between President Truman, British Prime Minister Winston Churchill — who was replaced in mid-conference by Prime Minister Clement Attlee—and Soviet Premier Josef Stalin to consider the question of a crushed and prostrate Germany which had just been defeated in war.

The Big Four meeting which opens here Monday seeks an end to the cold war which began at Potsdam and a way to fit a newly-resurgent Germany into the pattern of a European security system.

Though the accent was on hope, all four heads of state made it clear they did not expect the Geneva meeting suddenly to bring peace to the world.

At best they hoped it would set a more friendly atmosphere and help reduce tensions. With the pressure off, a series of conferences in coming years might gradually bring step-by-step settlement of the world's headaches.

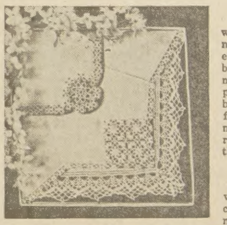
Needlecraft News

by Nancy Baxter

The sound of wedding bells and the scent of orange blossoms are in the air. The starry-eyed bride-to-be is practicing her graceful walk down the aisle and is planning a lovely, new trousseau. The friends and family of the happy girl are excitedly planning, too . . . planning bridal showers and wedding presents.



THE BRIDAL SHOWER

Showering the bride-to-be with presents, a custom originating in Holland, is fun for everyone concerned. The first bridal shower was held for a maid who fell in love with a poor miller. Her father, forbidding her to wed the boy, refused her a dowry, but the miller's friends made the marriage possible by marching to the girl's house with gifts.

THE BRIDAL HANKIE

Another custom associated with the blushing bride concerns the bridal hankie. Ornate handkerchiefs have always been cherished wedding and betrothal gifts. In some countries, the bridal hankie would be used in the wedding ceremony. The bride would be led to the altar by the handkerchief tied to her wrist. Today's bride follows tradition somewhat by inserting her bridal hankie in her glove or bouquet.

HERE'S TO THE BRIDE

True to tradition is today's needlework design. Especially for the bride, these lacy handkerchiefs make beautiful shower gifts or wedding rememberances. The dainty, white edgings, done in fine tatting crochet cotton, are added to linen squares for beauty befitting a queen. Two of these are crocheted in the cluster stitch and picots; the other is a delicate, tatted design with a round motif in the corner. The instructions for making THREE HANDKERCHIEF EDGINGS may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Needlework Department of this paper and requesting Leaflet No. 81.3.

Chuck Dressen Headed For Worst Showing Of Career; Thinks He's Piloting Brooklyn

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press Sports Writer

Chuck Dressen is headed for the worst showing of his managerial career all because, according to his oft-whipped Washington players, he still thinks he is piloting Brooklyn.

The slumping Senators, who threatened to do so for some time, finally fell into the American League cellar Friday by losing to the White Sox, 5-4, when pinch hitter Bob Kennedy tripled home two runs in the ninth inning. It was Washington's ninth setback in the last 10 games and 30th loss in 35 contests.

At their current rate of only 27 victories and 57 losses,the Senators stand to lose 105 games this season, surpassing even the 98 defeats suffered by the eighth-place Cincinnati club Dressen managed in 1937.

The bulk of Washington's troubles say several of the Senators, is that Dressen often mistakes them for the tremendously talented Dodgers he managed in 1951-52-53. He expects his current Washington crew to hit-and-run the way the Dodgers did. He expects the Senator hurlers to pitch the way the Brooklyn staff did, and he expects his second-divisioners to execute such plays as the pickoff and outfield-to-infield relay as smartly as his Brooklyn clubs used to do.

"We Ain't The Dodgers"

Long accustomed to seeing plays made correctly, Dressen often finds himself saying, "The Dodgers would have made that play with no trouble at all."

"There's only one hitch," one sad Senator player admitted. "We ain't the Dodgers."

While Washington was hitting the skids, Baltimore kept moving upward, a half game ahead of the Senators, by beating Kansas City, 8-5 with a seven run rally in the sixth inning. Until the sixth, southpaw Bobby Shantz had blanked the Orioles but they rapped him for four runs and added three more in the same frame off his successor, Tom Gorman. Jim McDonald was the winner although he was removed for a pinch hitter in the sixth.

The Yankees stretched their lead to five games again by beating the Indians, 4-3, in 10 innings. Held scoreless by Early Wynn until the ninth, the New Yorkers tied the score on Eddie Robinson's three-run homer in that frame, then won in the 10th on Irv Noren's homer. Al Rosen homered for Cleveland in the eighth. Tom Morgan, the fourth Yankee hurler, was credited with his sixth victory.

Rain caused postponement of the scheduled game between the Red Sox and Tigers.

Murry Dickson of the Phillies pitched a three-hitter in stopping the surging Braves 1-0, for his sixth victory and third shutout. The Phils scored the only run of the game off Lew Burdette in the eighth on a walk to Willie Jones and Marv Blaylock's second triple of the contest.

Newcombe Wins 15th

Big Don Newcombe posted his 15th triumph against only one defeat by pitching and batting the Dodgers to a 12-3 victory over the Cardinals. In addition to hurling an eight-hitter, Newcombe tied a National League record for pitchers by hitting his sixth home run during a six-run splurge in the eighth. He also had a double and two singles to bring his batting average to .406. Roy Campanella and Rip Repulski also homered.

Jim Hearn settled down after a shaky first inning to pitch the Giants to a 5-3 victory over the Cubs. The Giants, who settled the outcome with four runs off Sam Jones in the bottom of the first inning, moved into third place with 12 games.

Southpaw Joe Nuxhall smashed a three-run homer as he led the Redlegs to a 9-1 decision over the Pirates. The 90-degree temperature finally weakened Nuxhall, however, and he was relieved by Hershell Freeman in the seventh. Vern Law was the loser.

IBC To Boycott Pennsylvania If Code Becomes Law

CHICAGO (UP)—The International Boxing Commission made it clear today it will boycott Pennsylvania if the state passes its new boxing code.

Truman Gibson, Secretary of the IBC, said in a telegram he sent to the governor of Pennsylvania, George M. Leader, that the IBC will stay out of Pennsylvania if the new code becomes law.

Gibson said the IBC will not stage any fights in a state in which a license of one of its fighters or promoters can be suspended by a commission without notice or a hearing prior to the suspension.

Under the proposed new Pennsylvania code, the State Boxing Commission could suspend any "licensed fighter, manager, promoter or handler without a hearing" beforehand. The code would allow a hearing only after the suspension.

"This is the crux of the whole matter," Gibson said. "Everywhere else you have a right to a hearing before not after, the suspension."

"In these circumstances, in the event the IBC cooperated in the future presentation of a Pennsylvania fight, its license would be jeopardized by the acts of cooperating with local promoters of their ible," Gibson said in his telegram to Leader.

"Accordingly we have no plans to schedule fights in Pennsylvania or any other state that does not provide the ordinary and reasonable safeguards of notice and hearing," Gibson said.

Leader told Gibson in an earlier telegram that Pennsylvania "welcomes boxing within its borders" and the new boxing code would furnish "enlightened, sympathetic and productive supervision and regulation" of the sport.

Leader has insisted "if we can't clean up boxing in Pennsylvania we'd better get rid of it."

Gibson said he will study the code further, but as he understands it now the IBC will boycott Pennsylvania if and when the code is approved by the state Legislature.

Gibson said he was also puzzled about whether Pennsylvania police would have "enforcement" or merely "investigating" rights under the proposed code.

Sizzling Turnesa Breaks Course Record

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP)—Jim Turnesa said he wasn't playing as good on the second round, but he broke the course record and took a 10-under-par 130 into the final half of the $35,000 Miller Open today.

Turnesa fashioned a blazing 63 Friday to oust Cary Middlecoff from the lead by one point. Mike Souchak, playing in Turnesa's three-some finished one stroke behind at 132.

The sizzling Turnesa, sixth of seven famous golfing brothers, showed the gallery of some 12,000 he still had a lot of golf in his stubby, 5-foot-6 frame despite his 42 years. He birdied seven holes with putts including 18, 15, 15, and 22 feet.

But Turnesa, of Briarcliff, N.Y. wasn't satisfied with the round. "I played better in the opening round" he said. "I missed several shots and two or three putts for birdies."

Middlecoff, the former Memphis Tenn., dentist playing out of Kismesha Lake, N.Y., added a 67 to his record-tying first round of 64 The Master's champion said he, too, thought he played better on his higher round.

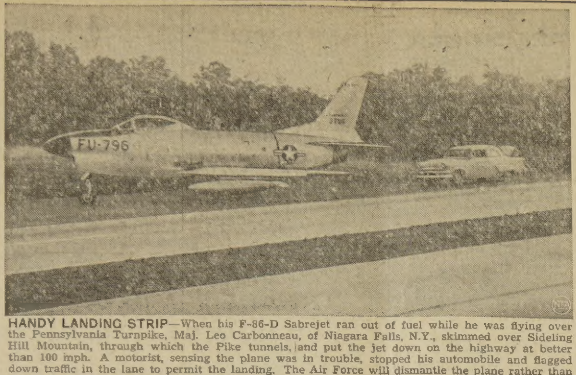
National Open champion Jack Fleck of Davenport, Iowa, packed up for home even before he learned his 72-73—145 was not good enough to qualify. He became the second straight National Open titlist to lose out in his first tournament bid after winning the big one. Ed Furgol did it last year.

Middlecoff reversed his earlier prediction that a 270 or higher would win and said 267 or 268 should do it "if they don't try to play games with the pins." Turnesa said he thought he had a chance to win.

Souchak, of Grossinger N. Y., was followed by Bob Rosburg, San Francisco; Paul McGuire, Wichita Kans., Mike Fetchick, Lake Mahopac, N.Y., and Fred Hawkins, St. Andrews, Ill. at 133.

Signs With Tigers

DETROIT (UP)—Jerry Paparella, 20-year old son of American League Umpire Joe Paparella, has signed with the Detroit Tigers and been assigned to their Jamestown N.Y., farm club. An infielder, Jerry hit .367 as captain of George Washington University's nine this year.



HANDY LANDING STRIP—When his F-86-D Sabrejet ran out of fuel while he was flying over the Pennsylvania Turnpike, Maj. Leo Carbonneau, of Niagara Falls, N.Y., skimmed over Sideling Hill Mountain, through which the Pike tunnels, and put the jet down on the highway at better than 100 mph. A motorist, sensing the plane was in trouble, stopped his automobile and flagged down traffic in the lane to permit the landing. The Air Force will dismantle the plane rather than make an attempt to fly the ship out.

Duke Turns Down Future Athletic Aid In Secret Move

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP) — Duquesne, one of the nation's top basketball powers, has turned thumbs down on future athletic aid in a secret move which is not expected to spread to other Catholic colleges, it was learned today.

The "Iron Dukes" who won the 1955 National Invitation Tournament and the 1953 and 1954 Holiday Tournaments at Madison Sq. Garden, made the move in the interest of a higher scholastic rating.

Coach Dudey Moore, who led the team to national prominence and was the United Press Coach of the Year in two of the past four seasons, will leave at the end of the coming season. There are hopes in some quarters he will wind up at Pittsburgh.

An Unimpeachable Source

Duquesne and possibly Moore may issue a denial of his. But the source is unimpeachable.

As a supporting factor, two highly-regarded players to whom Moore had made commitments for athletic aid already have been switched to Pittsburgh and St. Vincent's, of Latrobe, Pa.

This is not a trend among Catholic colleges, even though a great many of them such as Georgetown, St. Mary's, St. Bonaventure Niagara, San Francisco and Fordham went along with Duquesne in giving up football.

They all fall in line with the abandonment because they found that the grid sport was too costly. Fan interest did not compensate for the expenses involved and the size of the squads. All found basketball a highly satisfactory replacement, being cheaper, more lucrative and still giving the schools a place in the national eye.

The Duquesne administrative powers feel, however, that the school's scholastic standing has suffered. Thus the decision to cut off athletic aid without which no college basketball team can hope to remain on a competitive level with the nation's best.

No New Talent Forthcoming

Moore this coming season will have a fairly adequate squad of holdovers, led by All-America Si Green. But there simply will be no new talent forthcoming in the future.

ome of his friends hope that Pitt will be smart enough to grab Dudey on the first bounce. The stumbling block is the quiescent but long-standing animosity between Pit and Duquesne and the fear that Pitt officials would not hold still for two "outsiders" on the coaching staff.

Athletic Director Tom Hamilton picked Red Dawson of Tulane, a former Michigan State assistant as grid coach. Bob Timmons a Pitt man, was taken from the football coaching staff to coach basketball although he was not a basketball player as an undergraduate.

If the talented Dudey wore the old school tie there is small question but what he would be "in" at Pitt. But you can bet somebody will grab him—and fast.

Williams To Be Back With Chicago Bears

CHICAGO (UP) — Quarterback will be back direct gint hCe-haciog Bob Williams will be back directing the Chicago Bears' T-formation this year after spending two seasons in the Navy. The former Notre Dame star completed 51.5 per cent of his passes for the Bears in 1952.

Pitcher Munger "Best In Minors"

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—George (Red) Munger, former star right-hander of the St. Louis Cardinals, was tabbed by Manager Bobby Bragan of the Hollywood Stars as "the best pitcher in the minor leagues right now." Munger has a 12-5 record and 1.60 earned run mark for Hollywood.

Sets Meter Record

OSLO (UP)—Pentti Karvonen of Finland set a 3 000-meter steeplechase record of 8:45.4 Friday at the Bislet Olympic Stadium. Karvonen held the former mark of 8:47.8.

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Cancer-stricken actress Suzan Ball was reported "slightly improved" today at City of Hope Sanitarium but specialists withheld any announcement on her chances of recovery.

The 22-year-old actress, whose right leg was amputated a year and a half ago because of the disease, continued to "rest comfortably," spokesman said at the nonsectarian institution 20 miles from Hollywood.

TRENTON, N.J. (UP)—The runnerup in New Jerseys beauty contest to pick a candidate for Miss Universe said today she doesn't "hold anything personally" against the winner but is suing for $50,000 because she doesn't think Miss Jersey is qualified.

Adrian Brennan, a curvy 21-year-old brunette, charged in her suit that winner Beverly Rodgers, 18 "just didn't meet the residence requirements."

Miss Brennan wants the $50,000 to soothe her hurt feelings at missing out on the trip to the Miss Universe contest in Long Beach, Calif., and also asks that she get the "Miss New Jersey" ribbon that Miss Rodgers now wears.

VERA CRUZ, Mexico (UP) — The Mexican navy abandoned hope today for 27 persons missing from the coastal steamer which sank in stormy waters of the Gulf of Mexico Tuesday night.

A navy ministry spokesman said the 5 bodies recovered and 33 survivors were "probably all" that would be accounted for of the 65 persons believed aboard "La Flecha' when it went down nine miles off shore.

Beach patrols found a crewman and a woman who had washed ashore on a raft south of here Friday. The woman died of exposure and exhaustion en route to a hospital.

The crewman haid two other persons, a father and son, had been on the raft with them, but were swept away by a sudden wave.

TAMPA Fla. (UP)—Daniel G. McDaniel, 35, sobered up in jail and moaned, "I still cant believe it." While drunk police charged today he had battered his 70-year-old mother to death.

McDaniel was arrested Friday after the bruised bloodied bod of Mrs. Bessie Coken McDaniel was found in her home. Four rooms were disarrayed.

CARACAS, Venezuela (UP)—Dr. Pedro Gonzalez Rincones, rector of the Caracas Central University, announced Friday night that President Grayson Kirk of Columbia University will arrive July 21 for a 10-day visit. Kirk will receive an honorary degrees visit several educational facilities and tour the country's large oil fields.

BONN, Germany (UP) — West Germany will send a five-man delegation to the Geneva conference on peaceful use of atomic energy next month, it was announced today.

SEOUL, Korea (UP) — Gen. Chung Il Kwon, South Korean Army chief of staff, said on his return from the United States Friday that America promised to consider his request that Korean soldiers be given training with atomic weapons. Chung spent four months in the United States.

ANTWERP Belgium (UP) — Striking dockers were expected to trickle back to work today following a confusing meeting to determine their position.

The dockers failed to reach a decision on whether they would return to their jobs Friday. They took four votes, but each one ended in confusion.

The wildcat strike of 14,000 dockers will be three weeks old Monday. It started when a handful of dockers were refused unemployment dole because they had rejected jobs offered them.

TOKYO (UP) — Far East Air Force officers said today the Communists' air buildup in Asia poses the "most immediate threat to the free world."

Col. James T. Stewart, Far East Air Force assistant deputy for operations, said the might of the Red Chinese air force had "gradually shifted southward" in a buildup that could be unleashed on Formosa. He said the Communist air power outnumbers American planes by four to one.

GENEVA (UP)—White Russian Archbishop of Geneva Leonty Bartochevitch said today he would "welcome" the Red Russian leaders if they show up at his church to worship during the Big Four conference. He added, however, that he doesn't expect them. He said it would be too much if a miracle if the Soviets suddenly abandoned their view that religion is just a superstition.

JERUSALEM, Israel (UP) — Israeli and Egyptian negotiators issued a joint communique Friday expressing confidence of accord on a plan to end border clashes.

Issued at the end of the seventh meeting with U.N. truce team members, the communique said the points to be settled were reduced to a very limited number. The negotiators will meet again next Wednesday.

MOSCOW (UP)—Marshal Georgi K. Shukov, Soviet defense minister, said today he planned seeing his "old friend" President Eisenhower on a personal basis outside official talks at the Big Four Geneva conference.

Zhukov, who became friends with the President during World War II and since, he has corresponded with him, said he thought a personal meeting would be natural "after not seeing an old friend for so many years."

Every year an estimated 100,000 American children suffer eye injuries while playing unsupervised games, reveals Dr. Franklin M. Foote, executive director of the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

Pairings Listed For Championship Flight In Women's Tourney

Women golfers who advanced to the championship flight for Thursday morning at the Crooked Lake course have been named following the second round of tourney action last Thursday.

Pairings for the championship flight the first of which will tee off at 8:30, are: Kay Schubert & Marty Schabacker, Winnie Morsches & Lois Minear, Marjorie More & Mary Youngblood, Phyllis Johnston & Marilyn Washington. These pairs will tee off at five-minute intervals.

One pair of women golfers in the consolation flight has not been definitely decided as yet since the women did not play Thursday and could not play on Friday morning due to rain. They are Edna Duncan and Nell Spence.

Gladys Ream and Jeannette Biddle will begin their consolation match at 8:00, but others will start at 8:50 and continue leaving the first tee at five-minute intervals. They are Irma Toomey & Duncan or Spence, Dorothy Koch & Pat Anderson, Henrietta Argerbirght & (drew a bye).

Thursday's losers will play in a "weepers' tournament", and the women will tee off in foursomes beginning at 9:05. Those women in the "weepers' tourney" are: Babe Kilby, Francis Horne, Jean Stangland, Lois Kaufman, Susie Guse, Georgia Stickler, Phyllis Bates, Helen Barry, Betty Stoffer, Thelma Strouse, Joan Peabody Nell Spence or Edna Duncan, Joan Clapp, Marjorie Henry, and Jean Sheets.

200,000 Expected To Attend Catholic Eucharistic Congress

RIO DE JANEIRO (UP)—Some 200,000 Roman Catholics began gathering here today for the opening of the 36th International Eucharistic Congress on Saturday.

Twenty - one cardinals, largest number ever to participate in a Eucharistic Congress, will attend.

Pilgrims from more than 30 nations all over the world will attend the week-long demonstration of faith dressed in the pageantry and ritual of the Roman and Eastern churches.

Pope Pius XII will address the congress by radio from the Vatican during the final Mass.

Keynote of the congress will be a restatement of the Catholic belief in spiritual redemption through the Holy Sacrament.

The "silent church"—the millions of Catholics behind the Iron Curtain—will be honored.

Catholics in the United States will be represented by a large delegation headed by Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York and Samuel A. Cardinal Stritch of Chicago. They will be accompanied by bishops, monsignori, priests and pilgrims from many states in the union.

The arrival Saturday of Benedetto Cardinal Alcisi Masella, personal representative of the Pope, will signal the opening of the congress.

CAPTURED AFTER JAILBREAK—Samuel W. Tannyhill, 26, awaiting trial for murder, is returned to jail in Fremont, O., by Sandusky County Sheriff Fred Paul, some four and a half hours after he and a youthful pal escaped from the jail. Tannyhill and his 17-year-old friend, Charles W. Toewe, escaped by throwing pepper into the eyes of two deputies. They were captured when a car they had commandeered turned over in a Marion County cornfield as they fled from state highway patrolmen.

Coach Crawley Quits As Marion's Head Football Coach

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UP)—North Central Conference rivals of Lafayette Jefferson High School took no delight today in the resignation of Marion Crawley as head football coach and the elevation of his assistant, Norm Willey.

Crawley quit Monday night so he could spend more time as head basketball coach and athletic director. On paper, at least, that would improve the school's hardwood chances.

Willey was appointed head football coach immediately. He has been Crawley's chief assistant since 1946 and is considered a top-ranking gridiron mentor.

Trailer Population Put At 700,000 Families

CLEVELAND, O.—(UP)— More than 700,000 families live in house trailers, according to the Mobilhome Dealers National Association.

The association said the families have an avrage annual income of nearly $5000, which is above the national average. It says most of the family heads are craftsmen and industrial workers who move about the country with their trailers to wherever they can find the best jobs.

LEESBURG and CEMENT
WE HAVE CEMENT. Even so, you should know WHY we can spare only enough to take care of your footings at this time - in fact, nothing pains us more than to tell anyone who enters our doors that we can't furnish something he wants. However, in the case of CEMENT, so many dealers and ready mix plants can not take care of their own customers, that we dare not offer ours on a loose "first come, first served" basis. If we did, we would be unable to sell our lumber and hundreds of other products which we must move to stay in business.

We promise you, however, that if you favor us with the major portion of your requirements we will try desperately to see you through sidewalks, stops, etc. a little later when you must have them.

Frankly, we are importing cement from Canada, Belgium, Germany, Missouri, Kentucky and Oklahoma, which means we are handling it, many times, at a loss because of our having to pay retail prices. If we are favored with your business now, we will import enough CEMENT to take care of your later requirements. Ask for free estimates on everything to build anything. Our prices are low because of large volume and low overhead. Complete satisfaction guaranteed. Phone Leesburg 44 Collect. Ft. Wayne E-7094; Herman Sunderman, Huntington 450; Vaughn Piper, N. New National Angus Headquarters

Ground was broken recently at St. Joseph, Missouri, for the new headquarters of the American Aberdeen-Angus Breeders' Association. An architect's drawing of the structure is shown above. The modern, one-story, red brick office building, 123 by 127 feet, with a full basement, will be erected on a five-acre tract fronting on Frederick Boulevard (Highway 36) about one-half mile west of this route's junction with Highways 169, 71, and 59. The building will cost approximately $350,000. Target completion date is May 31, 1956.

4-H News

JEFFERSON JOLLY WORKERS

The Jefferson Jolly Workers junior and senior 4-H Clubs met with Thursday at the school. A potluck dinner was served at noon.

Nancy Hollenbaugh presided at a short business meeting at 1 30, and following that the local dress revue was held. The dress revue winners were: Division I - Rita Hinen, first; Carolyn Phillips, alternate; Division II - Anita Dygert, first; Loretta Hinen alternate; Division III - Myra Herriott first; Janice Hindbaugh, second· Patty Mote, first alternate; Syivia Dygert, second alternate.

After the 4-H Dress Revue the Home Demonstration Club also modeled dresses, skirts, and aprons made by the members.

Colored travel slides were shown before the meeting was adjourned.

The club leader, Mrs. Wallace, will be back with the group next week. The members congratulate her on the birth of their second son, David Carl.

Larger Families A Housing Problem

CHICAGO—(UP)— Local housing authorities across the country are faced with the problem of finding rooms for today's larger families.

The National Association of Housing and Redevelopment Officials said a study shows that the need for larger dwelling sis growing in both public and private houusing markets.

The association said a check of local housing authorities disclosed that an increasing number of them are adding to their store of four and five-bedroom units.

At Gary, Ind., 20 per cent of the 490 public housing untis are four-bedroom affairs. In Daytons, Beach, Fla., 19 per cent are in four and five-bedroom unuits.

Sixteen per cent of the 150 units in Everett Wash., have four bedrooms. Dallas, Texas, has 15 per cent in four-bedroom dwellings.

Slow growing pullets should be culled as soon as they begin to lag behind the rest of the flock, advises the poultry department at Purdue University. Removal of these pullets saves feed and gives more room for the other pullets to develop to best advantage.

U.S. Rubber Company, CIO Sign Contract

NEW YORK (UP)—The United States Rubber Company and the CIO United Rubber Workers union Friday night signed a new five-year contract increasing pension and other fringe benefits for 33,000 employes in 19 plants across the country.

Under the new contract, employes will be eligible for pension after 15 years of service instead of 20 years. The minimum pension which has been $125 a month, including Social Security, now is figured at the rate of $1.80 per month for each year of service up to 30 years at age 65, exclusive of Social Security benefits.

The new contract increases the amount of group life insurance paid by the company and provides for improved hospital, medical and surgical insurance.

The contract is effective Aug. 1 and is reopenable after three years.

POTATO SEEDS? — Local and national interest has been aroused in recent weeks over publicity given small green balls hanging on potato plants. National publicity was given such an instance in Kansas, and local potato growers have noticed the small green balls on potato plants here. The photo above shows such a potato plant. The county agent's office here reports this is not uncommon or unusual, but that seldom does a potato plant grow these "potato apples", as they are called by Webster's dictionary. The plant shown above was provided by Mrs. Al Baker, 307 South Line street, who planted only heavy potato peeling. Mrs. Dulca Bland, Tunker, also brought a similar plant into this office. Harold Buckenmeyer, assistant county agent, called it a seed plant.

13 Passengers Escape Injury In Crash Landing

Commentator Ed Murrow Aboard

YAKIMA, Wash. (UP)—A Northwest Airlines plane carrying CBS news commentary Edward Murrow and 12 others passengers crash landed in a pasture near Yakima Friday night, tearing off part of the wing but all aboard escaped injury.

"It was a good landing because everybody walked away from it,' said Murrow. His wife and 9-year-old son, Casey, also were aboard the craft.

Pilot Jack Taylor of Seattle said he had to crash land the two-engined DC3 after a sudden wind shift caused it to dip badly as he approached the Seattle Airport for a landing. He made the landing about a half-mile from the airport.

The plane stopped only 30 feet from a clump of trees.

Al Josephson of Norfolk, Va., another passenger said "I thought we were goners when I saw those trees ahead.'

Airline officials said the wing section aparenuy was torn off when the plan hit a power pole on the edge of the pasture.

Murrow said it was his first crash landing in a civilian plane, although he said he had made such landings in military planes.

'Huckleberry Finn' Is Plane Stowaway

LOS ANGELES (UP)—A "Huckleberry Finn type" boy baffled authorities today with his explanations of why he stowed away aboard a Trans-World Airlines plane and rode from St. Louis, Mo., to Los Angeles.

The skinny 12-year-old boy was clad only in a pair of tattered blue jeans Friday night when he arrived at International Airport. He identified himself as William Davis, of Berkeley, Mo.

"This is Los Angeles?" he asked as he stepped off the plane.

The boy puzzled the airline, police and juvenile authorities with "about half a dozen different stories," spokesmen said. He once said he "just decided to take a ride."

William, who said it was the first time he had run away from home, at first told police his mother put him aboard the plane in St. Louis and he would be met by an aunt here. Later, he said he had no friends or relatives in Southern California.

"I was standing out in front of my home" he explained, "sort of half-thumbing a ride and a couple of guys picked me up and asked where I wanted to go. I said I wanted to go to the (St. Louis) Airport.

"When I got there I decided to go for a ride and just walked on with a whole bunch of people,' he said.

When fellow passengers noted he wore only a pair of jeans torn at the knees, he said he had a Davy Crockett shirt, "but I left that at home.'

A hostess asked for his ticket shortly after the Constellation, flying non-stop on the run, took off.

"I just told her, 'I ain't got none' " the barefooted boy said.

Pilot Leroy Watts radioed the TWA office in Kansas City that he had the young stowaway aboard. The airline contacted its St. Louis office, which in turn notified police.

Los Angeles juvenile officers said William would be detained in Juvenile Hall until arrangements are completed to return him to home.

Five Mile Tour

There will be twelve or more definite demonstration points in the five mile tour of the contest site. Experienced soil experts from Purdue University and from the Indiana Conservation Department will be on hand at each point to evaluate the feature being demonstrated and will tell the story over and over as the wagon train brings each load of sight-seers to their point. Sixty tractors with wagons attached will tour the various points of interest and will unload their cargo, and pick up those who have been instructed by the expert at each point.

The Headquarters site will be a large tented city with innumerable displays, food tents, news tents, hospital, phones, telegraph, radio, television and others needed to take care of the thousands of people who will throng the grounds during the four day event.

Queens will be chosen, awards given, a big plowmen's banquet on Friday evening addressed by Louis Bromfield of Ohio. The large Home Economics Women's Chorus under direction of State Director Albert P. Stewart, of Purdue University will present a complete musical program and in addition to Vice-President Nixon, many state and national government officials will be present and participate in the program. To assist in the handling of visitors a landing field has been constructed on the Huston Shaffer farm, one mile north of the plow site and runways have been built, over 2000 feet in length that will accomodate ships up to the DC-3 in size.

TV Will Unveil Disneyland Sunday

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—The biggest one-network television show in history — featuring everything from Davy Crockett to 500 homing pigeons — Sunday will unveil Walt Disney's 17 million dollar amusement Park, Disneyland.

Twenty-four cameras a behind-camera staff of 63 and "the most complicated technical set-up in the TV industry" will be used for the long-awaited program over ABC-TV from 7:30 to 9 p.m. EDT.

The program will combine a dedication of the 160-acre park with a press preview for reporters and columnists from all over the nation, plus press representatives from 30 foreign countries.

Besides newsmen and friends invited by ABC-TV and Disney tudio, the concessionaires in the park also issued invitations for a grand total of 30,000 guests and assorted freeloaders.

The TV program, "Dateline Disneyland," has been under rehearsal since May 21. ABC officials insisted "it's the largest in terms of cameras, personnel and scope ever covered by a single network and our problems have been staggering."

Adenauer Says Continued Division System Unacceptable

BONN, Germany (UP —nahC-)

BONN, Germany (UP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said today that any European security system based on the continued division of Germany would be "unacceptable" to the German people.

Socialist opposition leader Erich Ollenhauer agreed with Adenauer on this point. Both made brief statements in the Bundestag (lower house of parliament) this morning, shortly before resumption of debate on rearmament legislation for West Germany.

"A European security system based on the continued division of Germany is for us unacceptable" Adenauer said.

"Such a system would continue the division of Germany for an indefinite time, and would bring Europe no security.

"No security system can be built which ignores such a deeply-rooted demand (as reunification) in the German people."

Former Noble County Resident Dies Suddenly Friday

Ranson Workman, 83, former Noble county resident and for the past two years a resident of Fort Wayne, suffered a fatal heart attack Friday a few minutes after noon while walking across the Nickel Plate tracks at Harrison street in Fort Wayne.

He is the last member of the Joseph Workman family in Green township, Noble county and is a cousin of Arthur Benward, president of the Churubusco Bank.

Mr. Workman was a bachelor and resided at 406 W. Superior street, Fort Wayne.

The body is at the Madalyn Schone Funeral Home in Fort Wayne awaiting funeral arrangements.

military policy, said that Ridgway's "basic thesis is correct." He said that the composition of U.S. forces is not designed to meet dangers which now face this country.

Jackson said that the Ridgway letter confirmed the Democratic argument that "the budget and not national' requirement is the final est in administration of policy.

A Valuable Witness

In view of Ridgway's position, Jackson said the former Army chief would be a valuable witness in a congressional review of defense policy.

He suggested that such a review should also go into Wilson's decision to impound extra funds voted by Congress to increase Marine Corps strength. Wilson has the Marine Corps despite congressional wishes.

Sen. Francis Case (R-SD) defended the administration's policy and said it is proving effective.

"Witness the present release of tension,' he said. "When we were piling up conventional weapons, we had a crisis every week."

Clark Gable Holds Saddest Marriage Record

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Clark Gable holds the curious position of having one of the saddest matrimonial records in Hollywood—yet being seldom criticized for it.

He also is one of the best-loved movie stars around the world although for 15 years he has appeared in a string of mediocre movies.

Experts have figured that Gable's appeal lasts—come divorce courts or bad films—because of his clean, healthy, "he-manliness" and his friendly, honest manner.

Those attributes brought him a stardom which has never been equalled. They also brought him a string of unhappy loves.

Gable was born in Cadi Ohio, Feb. 1, 1901, the son of a farm girl and an oil field worker. At 15 he was laboring in a rubber factory when he saw his first play. The boy with the outsized ears and wide grin became stage-struck. He took odd jobs in theaters while working as a lumberjack and salesman.

Marries His Coach

At one little theater he met director Josephine Dillon several years older. She taught him acting and the lessons ended in marriage

Gable was an unsuccessful actor in bit parts on the stage and in movies for six years. His acting coach divorced him in 1930. Gable soon won an MGM contract and began to be noticed. A year later he again married an older woman, Mrs. Rhea Langham, 11 years his senior.

"He was very insecure at that time," a close friend says. "He had a mother complex because his mother died when he was a year old. So he was attracted to older women."

After four years the couple separated. In 1939, Gable—by then a star—married Carole Lombard. At last he appeared mated with someone close to his age, interests and personality.

Gable won an Oscar for "It Happened One Night" in 1934. He scored tremendous successes in "Mutiny on the Bounty' and "Gone with the Wind.' He appeared with Jean Harlow, Greta Garbo and other sirens of the screen.

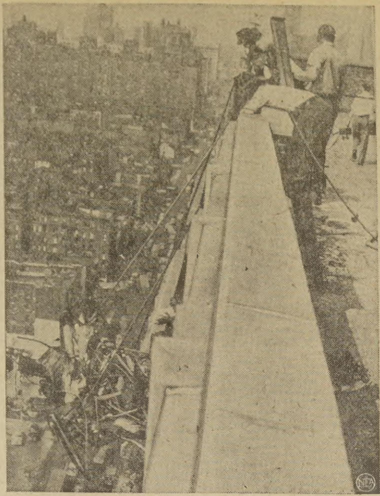
A Box Office Hit

He was among the first 10 money-makers at the boxoffice for 10 years before the war. But he had rough sledding at home. Carole was killed in a plane crash near Las Vegas in 1942. Gable quit movies for the Army. He returned to pictures in 1945 but never equalled his past glory.

In 1949 he ended his solitude by Marrying Lady Sylvia Ashley. One of his ex-girl friends said then, "I hope he finds happiness—he's been a lost guy for a long time."

But the elegant, sophisticated Sylvia and outdoorsy Gable were no match. One day he moved her clothes out of the house and changed the locks on the doors. After more than a year of legal fights over his fortune, she divorced him in April, 1952.

Gable escorted Grace Kelly, model Suzanne Dadolle and other beauties. He resumed dating old-time friend Virginia Grey, who once claimed she's the only girl who jilted Gable. Finally he renewed a friendship with Kay Williams Spreckels, his latest wife.



'COPTER CRASHES ON ROOFTOP AIRPORT—The wreckage of a New York Port Authority helicopter hangs over the roof edge of the Port Authority Building in congested lower Manhattan, after the plane crashed while apparently trying to land on the 16th floor heliport. The plane's passengers, Marcel O. Chevalier, 30, the pilot, and Arthur Truss, 33, a Port Authority photographer, both were rushed to a hospital, where Truss was reported in bad condition. Senate Subcommittee Calls More Witnesses In Alleged Black Market In Baby Adoptions

CHICAGO (UP)—A Senate subcommittee called more witnesses today as its investigation of an alleged "black market" racket in baby adoptions stretched to a "filthy" home for unwed mothers in Montreal.

Witnesses today before the senate subcommittee on juvenile delinquency were to include a Duluth, Minn., woman said to be a "source" for expectant mothers and three mothers whose babies were adopted under "questionable" procedures.

The subcommittee Friday heard witnesses testify about operators of "commercial maternity homes" in Montreal and in Texas, and Oklahoma.

Screen Hides Witnesses

A one-time "carnival shill" and a mystery witness, hidden by a screen, combined to testify concerning a home run by a Sara Weiman of Montreal.

Eugene Harry Miner, 44, who described himself as a former boxer, wrestler weight-lifter and "shill" in a carnival, told the subcommittee headed by Sen. Estes A. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) that he acted as a "bouncer" in the Weiman home.

He testified he smuggled babies across the border for adoption into the United States. But he objected to the term "smuggling."

"That ain't smuggling, mister," he fired back at a committee lawyer who used the term, "that's giving a baby a home."

Describes Woman's Work

Ernest A. Mitler asked Miner what business the woman was in.

"Sara's business was making with the babies," Miner said. "She's selling babies to some American people."

Miner said girls who were waiting to have babies were living in the home. He said one of his jobs was to keep the girls happy.

"I make with the nylons, box chocolates and stuff," Miner said, "But Sara paid for it not me."

Mystery Man Talks

The mystery witness, described as a "professional man of means" from New Jersey, testified he obtained a baby from the Weiman home which, he said, was in a slum area and filled with "filthy dirt."

He said delivery of the baby apparently had been "mismanaged." The baby, he said, looked like he was "dying." He said he virtually kidnapped" the child and took him to his hotel and called a pediatrician.

Other testimony by witnesses of quickie adoption practices:

1. George Chenkin, an officer of the New York State Commission of Investigation, said the Weiman woman was "still in business" and handling "70 t o100 babies at one time" as of last April.

2. Mr. and Mrs. Luther D. Watson, Oklahoma City Okla, testified they obtained a 5-day-old baby from a home run by a May Marshall at Edmund, Okla. The child, they said, later was found to be "totally blind," apparently as a result of premature birth.

Texan Brags of Pull

4. Mitler testified that the operator of a Texas old peoples' home who bragged of "political support" did an estimated $360,000 nationwide business in placing babies for "quickie" adoption. He said the woman, Mrs. Ruby Hightower, Texarkana, Tex. had placed 88 babies in 48 states.

5. A Cook County (Ill.) judge said a small group of doctors and lawyers in Chicago "make the selling of bodies a business." He said some parents offered to "sell" their children for $1,250.

6. Sheriff Woody Blanton of Denison, Tex., and railroad detective D.C. Robnett of Sherman, Tex., told of investigating an "unsanitary" home for "unfortunate mothers" operated by Mrs. Mary Jane Dunning at Sherman. Mrs. Dunning also testified and denied under oath that she had ever placed children up for adoption.

The testimony came after Kefauver noted that "gross abuses" had developed in adoption of children because of a "tremendous increase" in the demand for children for adoption over the last 10 years.

Kefauver said his subcommittee entered the investigation because 80 per cent of the unmarried mothers were under 19 years of age.

Modified Martial Law Lifted

Peron announced that the state of internal war or modified martial law which has existed in Argentina since 1951 was being lifted. He said "the permanent state of a country cannot be that of revolution."

Under the state of internal war, the government was empowered to suspend constitutional guarantees, establish censorship, carry out arrests and searches without warrant and to hold prisoners indefinitely without trial at the disposal of the chief executive.

In promising full restoration of freedom in Argentina, Peron admitted he had curtailed liberty but said it was necessary to attain the objectives of Peronism. He said the Peronist revolution had achieved most of its social and economic aims.

Right Color Can Cure Tired Feeling

CLEVELAND, O—(UP)— The next time your wife decides to have you rearrange the living room decor, paint the grand piano a smart pastel shade before you grapple with it.

That's called "color psychology And it's applied in a new course this spring at Fenn College here. It all has to do with weight, speed, the disposition of colors and their psychological application to efficiency.

"Of course, iceberg blue would have been just as exhilarating.'

Eisenhower Opens Conference With His Challenge To Russia

To Agree To Free, Unified Germany AndDisarmament

That Would Guarantee Against 'Frightful Surprises'

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press Staff Correspondent

GENEVA, Switzerland (UP) — President Eisenhower opened the Big Four summit conference today with a challenge to Russia to agree to a free, unified Germany and to controlled disarmament that would guarantee against "frightful surprises" in this atomic age.

The President's speech, while challenging, was far from pessimistic. And the eight-point program he proposed for a Cold War armistice was in keeping with the cordial atmosphere in which this first top - level conference since Potsdam's disappointments opened in the Palace of Nations.

Mr. Eisenhower, keynoting the conference, called for a "new spirit." He frankly challenged Russia to "improve the international climate" by cooperating with the West in a workable program of disarmament and the use of atomic energy "for constructive purposes.'

The American chief executive spoke with obviously deep conviction and sincerity.

Although couched in grave phrases, the Presidents general tone was one of hope and optimism.

Smith Township Seeking Share Of New School Building Loan Fund

Smith township is one of 34 school units seeking a share of Indiana's new construction loan fund set aside by the 1955 Legislature from a surplus in the World War II bonus fund.

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—All 34 school units seeking a share of the loan fund probably will receive the money, State School Supt. Wilbur Young said today.

The State Board of Education meets Friday to allocate loans from a five millon dollar memorial fund.

Smith township is presently completing construction on a new classroom building and gymnasium at Churubusco high school. If the money from the fund is received, it is planned to add a wing for eight classrooms to the new building, according to Harry Yoder county superintendent of schools.

Plans for the new wing are already drawn and options for the construction contract assigned, however sufficient money was not available for active building.

Each school can borrow up to $250,000 for construction, repaying the money at one per cent interest over the next 20 years from higher local school tax levies. Priority is assigned on the basis of need.

Young and his staff completed an inspection of all 34 sites last week.

"Since not all the applicants have asked for the maximum $250,000 assistance it would seem that each of them will get aid provided they are found to meet all the requirements of the law," Young said.

The Churubusco school was the only one in the county which applied for a share of the loan, Yoder said. One of the requirements for being eligible for the loan was that the school corporation have at least a 50 cent tax rate for a three-year period on either an accumulative building fund or a bond. Most of the schools did not qualify.

Yoder said regulations of the loan-fund set-up allow borrowing up to $20,000 per classroom. Under this plan, the Smith township school would receive $160,000 from the fund for the eight-classroom wing.

The county school superintendent said that officials of Young's office were here last week to inspect the site of the school building at Churubusco and to examine the intentions of the Smith township school corporation.

Money available for schoolroom construction—offered by the state for the first time in history—will be increased next year when it is determined how much will be left after payment of the Korean veterans' bonus.

Humphrey Gives Congress Hope For Tax Cut

When And If Powers Agree On Arms Reduction

By UNITED Press

Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey gave Congress hope today that taxes some time could be cut substantially—when and if the world powers agree to a major armaments reduction.

Humphrey made no mention specifically to the current Big Four conference at Geneva, where President Eisenhower today called for a halt in the arms race.

He said, however, that he is confident that the great powers will eventually agree to such a proposal. That will make possible heavy cuts in taxes and the national debt.

He made the statement in testimony before a House Government Operations subcommittee.

Other congressional news:

Tax Write-Offs: Humphrey urged a sharp reduction in the program of rapid tax write-offs for industrial construction which Congress approved during the Korean War to boost defense plant construction.

Little Boy Symbolizes Future Generations Whose Destiny Hangs In Balance At Geneva

By BILLY GRAHAM
Written For United Press

GENEVA (UP) — Today a little boy stood out in front of our hotel watching the people come and go. Then I noticed he glanced up at the four flags hanging in front, the American, British, French and Russian.

His eyes seemed to be filled with wonderment, excitement and a certain amount of bewilderment. To me he seemed to symbolize future generations whose destiny hangs in the balance during the next few days.

I have four little children and the type of world they live in may be decided right here in Geneva this week.

Millions of eyes are focused on this resort city. They represent all races, tongues and creeds. The weather is hot, the hotels are jammed. Beautiful Lake Geneva is filled with sailboats.

But the topic of conversation is, "Will this conference increase the possibilities of war or peace?"

As we have been driven several times by the Metropole Hotel where the Russian delegation is staying, we could not help but wonder what was going on in those well - guarded conference rooms. They are all smiles.

A Genuine Change

Many feel that a genuine change is taking place in Russian foreign policy.

But the world has been deceived so many times that it is waiting with bated breath for proof.

As I have talked to diplomats and newspapermen from various countries, there is caution on the one hand and optimism on the other.

There is no doubt about it, that there is an unprecedented worldwide hunger for peace.

Never before in history has the

Inquest Opens Into Deaths Of 22 Persons

Killed In Crash Of Braniff Airliner

CHICAGO (UP)—A coroner's jury today investigated an apparently normal instrument landing of a Braniff Airways Convair plane that crashed Sunday and killed 22 persons and injured 22 others.

It was one of Chicago's worst plane crashes.

The two-engined airliner roared out of a fogged and smoke-hazy sky on a flight that started at Dallas, Tex., and clipped a filling station electric sign. The impact shot the plane into a street bordering Midway Airport, through a fence and sent it bouncing in pieces into the airport. The wreckage caught fire, but flames were put out quickly which saved many from death.

There was no indication of any trouble prior to the crash. Preliminary investigations showed the plane was making a normal instrument landing according to schedule.

The inquest to investigate the crash was called by Cook County Coroner Walter J. Mc Carron for today.

All but one of the dead and injured was aboard the plane. The exception is Mrs. Sara Ellis, 39, Chicago, who was thrown from an automobile by the force of the crash as the vehicle waited in the street for a traffic light. She was treated for cuts and bruises in a hospital.

Quarterly Meeting Of Noble County Red Cross Is Held

The first Quarterly meeting of the Noble county chapter of American Red Cross was held in the Red Cross room in Albion Wednesday evening. Vacations, farm work, and hot weather limited attendance to nine members.

Reports revealed 92 people had called at the office in person, 11 visits were made to homes in the interest of the Home Service Department and 23 servicemen were helped through office calls and home visits. Some servicemen and their families were served by telegrams, 19 being received and 18 sent.

Two bloodmobile visits were held during the quarter, netting 106 pints of blood, and 78 pints were received in transfusions by Noble county people during the same period.

The Noble county chapter sent two young women to Red Cross Aquatic School at Oliver Lake in June. They are now ready to begin their first class of instruction in swimming and diving.

The auditing of the fund has been completed and shows a final return of $4,626.00 and 2260 Red Cross members.

The meeting was conducted by the new chapter chairman, Wayland Rose, while Past Chairman Cary Davis and the new vice-president, Dale Weimer, were also present.

Indiana Weekend Traffic Toll Rises To 12

Four Killed In Accident Near Plymouth

By UNITED PRESS

Four persons were killed in an accident near Plymouth Sunday as Indian's weekend traffic toll rose to at least 12.

The dead in the accident, the second in four days in Hoosierland to kill four persons, included a honeymooning couple, a newspaper publisher's wife and a member of the Air Force.

Airman Donald O. Stein, 19, his wife of nine days, Mary Elizabeth, 19; Mrs. Katherine Courtright, 37 Westerville, Ohio, and Theodore Bullman, 21, Galesburg, Ill., were killed in the crash of two cars on U.S. 35 five miles west of Plymouth.

Three other persons were hurt, one critically.

Stein, of Kenosha Wis., stationed at Manhattan Beach, Brooklyn, N.Y., and his wife were riding with Bullman. State police said Bullman pulled out of his lane of traffic to pass a string of cars on a hill and hit the Courtright car head-on.

4 Wrecks in 2 Hours

Monroe Courtright, 37, publisher of the Westerville Press and Public Opinion, was injured critically.

At least four fatal accidents occurred Saturday night between 10 p.m. and midnight.

Lowell Ferguson, 20, Van Wert Ohio, was killed and two persons injured when an auto left a county road south of Fort Wayne and overturned. Gordon Marske, 26, St. Joseph, Mich., the driver, was held on $5,000 bond pending a coroner's inquest.

Lester Conner 33, Cortland, Ala., two-car wreck. Richard Lee Myers, 19, Hanna, was severely hurt.

Mary Lou Kinder, Rockport, was killed and two persons injured when a car struck a bridge abutment and hit a tree at the junction of Ind. 66 and Ind. 75 near Rockport.

Baby Is Killed

Barry Snyder, six-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Snyder, Walton, was injured fatally in a two-car crash on U.S. 35 south of Walton.

James Mathes, 28, Lawrenceburg, died Sunday in a Batesville hospital, less than 24 hours after he was injured in a two-car collision in Dearborn County. Eight other persons were hurt.

Richard Lee Stanton, 25, Portland was killed Friday night when his car hit a tree along U.S. 27 near Winchester.

Saturday fatalities also included Lee Anderson, 30, Bridgeport, and Mrs. Ethel Royal 35, Waterloo. Anderson was killed in Indianapolis when his motorcycle collided with a truck.

Mrs. Royal was killed when she lost control of her auto on a wet stretch of U.S. 427 near Waterloo.

Commissioners Meet To Consider Budget For Steam Heat Plant

The Whitley County commissioners began meeting with Raymond Eloph, county auditor, Monday morning to begin preliminary plans for the 1956 budget.

The main item to be considered is an appropriation for a new steam heating plant at the county Court House.

Tentative plans have been made for the plant and an engineer has made a recommendation for a site of the plant and its installation in the Court House.

Present plans call for the plant to be located at the rear end of the custodian's room. This would allow connecting of pipes to the present line which now enters the building from the city's Municipal Power and Light Plant which will abandon its heating facility by June of next year.

Devout Mother Fasts To Protest Drafting Of Son

Enters Third Full Day Of Hunger Strike

MIAMI, Fla. (UP)—A devout housewife declaring she intends to fast "unto death" today entered the third full day of her hunger strike protesting the drafting of her only child.

Slender, dark-haired Mrs. Martha Blumenbach, 52, was reported weak but still determined to fulfill a "pact between myself and God" as a result of the induction of her 26-year-old dentist son.

Her husband, Earl Blumenbach, a well-to-do businessman, said his wife had consumed nothing but a little water since 5:30 p.m. Friday, the day their son, Dr. Thomas E. Blumenbach, was drafted.

She did not feel strong enough to attend church Sunday and spent most of the day resting, he said, butwas in good condition under the circumstances. She is a member of the Unity Church.

Asked if a doctor had been called, he said "That hasn't been necessary, yet."

Mrs. Blumenbach said she would try to attend to her usual duties about their large home in an exclusive residential area of Coral Gables, Fla., while fulfilling her "pact" to starve "unto death."

She said her father committed suicide in protest against the entry of his eldest son in military service during World War I and that she made her pact when the draft law of 1940 was enacted.

The father and son, both deeply religious, indicated they sympathize with her motive but the elder Blumenbach said "The whole thing is very upsetting—I'd rather not talk about it."

Three EUB Ministers Get Area Pastorates

Columbia City, South Whitley And Churubusco To Have New Pastors

Three new ministers for Evangelical United Brethren churches in Whitley county have been named by the committee of the Indiana Conference North Sunday.

The Rev. P. F. Young, formerly of South Bend, will take over ministerial duties at the Columbia City Evangelical United Brethren church. The Rev. Lynn Henry has been the pastor here for three years. He will go to the First Evangelical United Brethren church in South Bend.

The Rev. James Hook, formerly of Burr Oak and Pretty Lake, will replace the Rev. R. R. Wilson at Churubusco, and the Rev. Paul Gilman, of Athens will replace the Rev. E. O. McSherry, who is retiring, at the South Whitley EUB church.

Other county ministers who will retain their present pastorates include the Rev. Herbert LaPage, Collins Circuit; the Rev. D. H. Pellett, Pleasant Chapel, and the Rev. H. R. Steele, Washington Center.

Lawrence Wolfe, of R 6, was named to the church's Board of Evangelism at the conference. Mrs. Lawrence Wolfe served as a lay delegate to the conference.

Officials Explain New Law Requiring Vehicle Turn Signals

State, city and county police officials, along with the Auto License Branch in Columbia City have issued information regarding the new law requiring automatic turning signals on certain types of vehicles.

The law requires that certain types of motor vehicles, except farm tractors and farm implements, in use on any highway shall be equipped with signal lights or mechanical signal devices. The law also requires that the signals be used when the vehicles are making turns from the usual direction of the highway which they are traveling.

The vehicles affected, as explained in the law, are those which measure a distance of more than 24 inches "from the center of the top of the steering post to the left outside limit of the body, cab or load, or when the distance from the center of the top of the steering post to the rear limit of the body or load thereof exceeds 14 feet." The latter measurement applies to any single vehicle or to any combination of vehicles.

According to Charles White, manager of the Auto License Branch, a truck owner must measure his vehicle from the steering post to the back end to see if the distance is more than 14 feet. He must also meausre the width from the center of the steering post to the extreme left side of the vehicle. This measurement must include protruding rear or front fenders, racks, or any other view obstructing device to determine if the length is more than 24 inches.

If the vehicle fits any of the above measurements, the owner must procure turning signals and he will be bound by the law.

Indiana State Police headquarters has announced that warnings will be issued to violators of the above law until October 15. Thereafter, State Police will begin making arrests.

Traffic Safety Is Unpredictable

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—Traffic safety is an inconsistent, unpredictable business, the statistics showed today.

Indiana experienced a rash of highway fatalities Thursday when at least 11 persons were killed in less than 24 hours.

On Friday night New Castle racked up its 1,000th day without a traffic death.

An Indiana State Police reported in midmorning today they had received no traffic death reports for the weekend period which started at 6 p.m. Friday.

Khrushchev Does Virtually All The Talking For The Soviets At Dinner Given By Faure

By MARK MELVILLE
United Press Staff Correspondent

GENEVA (UP) — Nikita Khrushchev did virtually all the talking for the Soviet delegation at the dinner given them Sunday night by French Premier Edgar Faure, informed sources disclosed today.

It was Khrushchev who expounded the Kremlin point of view at the dinner which lasted until early this morning, the sources said, despite the fact the Russian guests were led by Premier Nikolai Bulganin.

The Russian party included the top strata of Kremlin officialdom—Bulganin Defense Minister Marshal G. K. Zhukov, "old friend" and sometime correspondent of President Eisenhower; and Foreign Minister V. M Molotov, who has been accepted as all-powerful in foreign affairs.

One of the French officials at the dinner said it was "remarkable" to see such important personages remain so much in the background while Khrushchev almost monopolized the dinner discussions.

His performance at Faure's villa heightened interest in the role he would play at the Big Four conference itself. Some observers were openly asking whether this would be a repetition of the Russian visit to Yugoslavia where Khrushchev almost completely overshadowed Bulganin.

Bulganin In Good Form

Other quarters noted, however, that Sunday night's dinner was not a formal meeting, and that Bulganin most likely would be the chief Soviet spokesman during the regular Big Four sessions this week. Bulganin was in good form Sunday night. At one point he asked Madame Faure: "Why don't you come to Moscow?"

She laughed and said, "It is an obligation for a wife to follow her husband."

"There is no difficulty," Bulganin replied. "All you have to do is get on an airplane."

At the very end of the evening, Faure, French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay and Louis Joxe Frence ambassador to Moscow, held private talks with Bulganin, Molotov and the Soviet ambassador to France, Sergei Vinogradov.

While the general atmosphere was easy and friendly, the evening was not without some diplomatic fencing. In his toast to his Kremlin guests, Faure spoke fluently in Russian and referred obliquely to the fact that the Soviets had abrogated their friendship pact with France after the rearmament of Western Germany was approved.

Friendship Inspires Toast

"Please believe me," Faure said, "that it is friendship that inspires the proposing of a toast in accordance with Soviet tradition. This friendship has lasted through two wars and has been maintained, with or without treaties, among two peoples who have not opposed each other for more than a century. I drink to the happiness of the Soviet people to the success of the conference, to the development of understanding between four great powers and to the peace of the world."

Bulganin replied: "I drink for reasons more powerful than giving satisfaction to a tradition, I drink to friendship and all the other things that Mr. Faure drinks to."

Richard Pelfrey Gets $17.75 Fine; Dozes, Hits Parked Car

Richard Pearl Pelfrey, 20 of 316 North Line street, was fined $1 and costs of $16.75 in city court Saturday morning after he had been arrested for allowing his automobile to ram a parked car earlier near 334 North Line street.

Pelfrey, who suffered a minor laceration of a knee and a bump on the forehead, evidently dozed momentarily permittin ghis vehicle to angle across the street and hit the parked car.

He was driving south on Line street at the time of the accident, about 6:15 a.m The parked car is owned by Frances Miller, of 337 North Line street. The front end of her car wa sdamaged an estimated $250. It was estimated that Pelfrey's car was a total loss from damage to the front end.

Pelfrey was arrested following the accident by policeman John North on a charge of driving on the wrong side of the street.

Cloudy Skies, Breeze Bring Temporary Relief To Indiana

Cloudy skies and showers combined with a cool breeze to bring temporary relief from the heat to parts of Hoosierland Sunday.

But the weatherman said humid weather would hang around Indiana at least through Wednesday. Widely scattered thundershowers were slated for today throughout the state and in the central and south parts again Tuesday.

The Weather Bureau reported the most rainfall during the 24-hour period ending early today was .70 inch at Petersburg. Snoals got .66 inch of rain, Williams .63, Martinsville .59, Bedord .43, Scottsburg .42 and Evansville .39.

Temperatures reached highs ranging from 84 at South Bend to 91 at Fort Wayne before the afternoon cooled slightly.

Highs today and Tuesday will range from 85 north to 90 south, except for a three degree cool-off in the north Tuesday.

Lows tonight will range from 65 to 70. Today's early lows ranged from 66 at South Bend to 71 at Evansville.

The outlook for Wednesday was partly cloudy and little change in temperature with local thundershowers.

cry been so universal. The last words of warning of Professor Einstein will not be forgotten at this conference.

Certainly these four delegations must realize that the overwhelming majority of the human race longs for peace. We do not want peace at any price.

There are still some things worth dying for, but if we can get peace without infringing on our conscience and without selling our souls we desperately want it.

These four delegations must also realize that weapons are poised and ready on both sides of the Iron Curtain that could virtually wipe out civilization.

There have been hundreds of peace conferences in history. Nearly all have eventually ended in disillusionment and failure. We could name the Versailles peace conference, the Kellogg peace pact or Yalta and Potsdam.

Can we have permanent peace? I doubt it until Christ comes again. These conferences are built on the frailty of human nature.

History proves that pride, greed, ambition and lust for power dominate.

Only a radical change in human nature can give any permanence to world conditions. We cannot build a better world until we have a better man.

Christ came to make better men. Thus it becomes the patriotic responsibility of every world citizen to turn to him for regeneration.

It is certainly possible to have an era of peace and prosperity. et us hope and pray God will give us at least a long resite from tension and war.

Let us pray that the little boy outside my hotel, and all others like him, will grow up in a world filled with peace, prosperity, security and faith in God.

Many Foreign-Born And Second Generation U.S. Voters Will Be Listening To President

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) —A multitude of foreign-born and second generation United States voters will be listening closely for what President Eisenhower may say at Geneva about the captive nations of Eastern Europe.

Theirs is the most urgent interest in the Communist satellites because they have relatives and friends in the old countries. Americans of Polish, Czechoslovak and German blood do not forget Mr. Eisenhower's proposals and the words of John Foster Dulles during the 1952 presidential campaign before the latter became secretary of state.

There was quite a flap, at the time. Speaking before the American Legion convention in August, 1952, candidate Eisenhower said the United States must try to obtain by peaceful means the restoration of freedom behind the Iron Curtain.

Dulles Raises Ante

Within a fortnight Dulles raised the ante considerably. He was speaking in Buffalo, N. Y., where there is a concentration of American citizens of Polish descent. Dulles said Mr. Eisenhower, if elected, would encourage "quiet" revolution in the Red - dominated countries through such methods as passive resistance, slowdowns and ndustrial abotage.

Harry S. Truman, then preident, snapped that the Republicans would increase the risk of war merely to win votes. Democratic candidate Adlai E. Stevenson said if Mr. Eisenhower were elected "some reckless action might ensue in an attempt to liberate the peoples of Eastern Europe."

"Prescription For Disaster"

Dean G. Acheson, then secretary of state, called the Eisenhower-Dulles plan "a positive prescription for disaster." It would be even less welcome now in Geneva than it was to the Democrats in the United States in 1952.

The Soviet Union holds that its European satellites are free and happy peoples who would not leave if the door were opened. Some of the Western Allies fear that strong U.S. pressure in behlaf of the satellites would wreck the summit conference beginning in Geneva today.

Mr. Eisenhower and Dulles have been urged to go easy. On unification of Germany the United States is likely to take a strong position. Both sides are talking about putting Germany together again although the methods proposed are as distant as the poles. The West simply wants free and adequately supervised elections. It would seem that Moscow dares not risk that.

Guided By Two Pressures

As for the remainder of Eastern Europe, Mr. Eisenhower is guided by two pressures. The administration holds that the imposition of the Soviet system on Eastern Europe was and is morally wrong and must be opposed. The second pressure is political. The American sons and daughters of Eastern Europe vote, and that will be a factor in any words of deeds by the President in Geneva affecting those areas.

American diplomatic strategists held from the first mention of a Big Four meeting at the summit that the satellites would be a propaganda gold mine for the Western conferees. It had been planned to make a lot of noise about them. They cannot be ignored, but, under pressure from Britain and France, Mr. Eisenhower may pull his punches somewhat in the interest of conference harmony.

Catholics To Plan Global Coordination

RIO DE JANEIRO (UP)—Catholics attending the 36th International Eucharistic Congress met in special sessions today to plan global coordination in the far-flung activities of the 31 world Catholic groups.

With the congress still in its preliminary phase, today's general program focused on the conference of international Catholic organizations, a lay group meeting concurrently with the congress.

Congress activities began with a colorful three-hour procession Sunday. The solemn opening, however, was not scheduled until Tuesday night when visiting cardinals take their thrones on the huge congress altar.

The conference of Catholic organizations, which deals with lay activities related to the congress strictly religious program, split up today into specialized groups covering culture and education, social service, labor and social problems, public opinion, nursing, family protection and general apostolate and mass movement.

These meetings were aimed at carrying out recommendations contained in Sunday's message from the Pope urging greater coordination of the world organizations.

The Vatican message declared that every organization duly recognized by the church, regardless of local conditions or methods of action, should participate in the common endeavor and benefit by an understanding of the problems of Twenty cardinals — the largest group ever assembled outside Rome—and more than 200,000 other pilgrims from 44 nations are taking part in the week-long congress.

Right and Wrong

Lesson for July 24, 1955

IT IS all very well to speak of the downfall of a nation, or of a national disaster, you can read in history books that such and such a nation finally was wiped out in such and such a year. Judah, for instance, ceased to eixst as a nation after 586 B. C. But these are cold words. When a nation, a city, goes to smash, it means that homes are burned down, people are killed, business is bankrupt, nothing is "as usual" any more. There is no way a nation can crash without taking many individual lives and much happiness down with it.

Dr. Foreman

Pulling Others Down

Out of the many lessons one can learn from the downfall of Judah and its capital Jerusalem is that innocent people suffer with the guilty and because of the guilty. Not every one in a wicked nation is wicked; some may have been doing their level best to keep the nation from going on the wrong track. Jeremiah is a prime example of this kind of man. An inspired prophet, he had been warning his fellow-citizens for years, as had Ezekiel and other prophets. But in the general disaster he suffered quite as much as anybody who was to blame for the whole mess. Jerusalem was swallowed, you might say, in two bites. The first was in 597 B. C. when the boy-king Jehoiachin was taken off to Babylon there to spend the rest of his days as a prisoner. Along with the kinglet went the royal family, the aristocracy, the top army officers, and a thousand skilled workers. Jerusalem and Judah were left to third-raters for eleven years; stupid, weak men who (to make a long story short) committed national suicide. Jeremiah suffered a great deal at the hands of these men. More than this he suffered in the final days of starvation and panic. (Of which more next week.) He was by far not the first, last or only innocent man to suffer in a nation's disaster. A good Christian like Niemoeller suffers for Hitler's madness; a saintly Christian like Kagawa suffers in Japan's defeat, even though both of them protested against their nation's policies.

Pulling Others Up

Needless to say, there is the other side of this. Just as the innocent are dragged down by the guilty, so the guilty are sometimes protected and benefited by the good. A nation by breaking God's laws pulls down many individuals who keep God's laws so far as they can; and on the other hand a nation that keeps God's laws pulls up many individuals who are quite indifferent to God. Take America at the present writing, for instance. The picture may have changed by the time you read this; but while it is being written our nation is at peace, prosperity blooms on every side, we are one of the two most powerful nations the world has ever seen. Who deserves the credit? Not all of us, surely! We talk about the heroism of our forefathers, immigrants and pioneers; but we are not very heroic. We talk about American smartness and know-how; but how few of us know how! We point with pride to our vast educational system — and we read the comic strips. We are happy to see erosion brought under control and fertility restored to waste land. But how many farmers were eager for such a program at first? We are proud of progress, when if it had been left to most of us, we would still be stuck in the mud.

The Price of Being Human

The truth is, and we cannot be reminded of it too often, that the human race is all tied together. Mankind is made for community. The human race is not like a tray of sand, where one grain can blow off without disturbing the others very much. It is more like a block of concrete; move one grain of that and it all moves. We are happy enough to be pulled up by the community or the nation when that is better than we are; so we have not too much to cry about when we are pulled down by the community or the nation when that is worse than we are. We can't have it both ways. We must not expect to benefit from the goodness of our good neighbors and at the same time not be hurt by the badness of our bad neighbors. It is the price of being human, that we are bonded together with countless others, and that with them we must often suffer the severe judgment of God.

FBI Finds It Harder To Detect Red Conspirators

WASHINGTON (UP) — FBI agents are finding it harder to detect Communist underground conspirators in this country, according to Bureau Director J. Edgar Hoover.

In a report to Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. on FBI accomplishments for fiscal 1955, Hoover said such work has become more troublesome because of security measures adopted by the Red party "and its extensive underground operations."

Hoover also spoke in favor of the confidential informant system for tracking down subversives. He said information passed on by anonymous tipsters during fiscal 1955 resulted in the arrest of 850 persons by the FBI and 400 by other government agencies.

Hoover reported that despite the newly - encountered intelligence troubles, the work of G-Men in the past fiscal year resulted in the arrest of 21 additional Red leaders.

Trials of Communist Party leaders charged with conspiring to advocate the violent overthrow of the U.S. government resulted in 18 verdicts of guilty, he said.

Merry Pranks

CHICAGO (UP)—A power failure disrupted a concert for about 10,000 music lovers in Grant Park Sunday night when it blew out the lights during a rendition of "Till Eulenspiegels Merry Pranks."

New Reason For Juvenile Delinquency

NEW YORK (UP) —Dr. Samuel Henry Prince, of King's College, Halifax, N. S., came up with a new reason Sunday for New York's high juvenile delinquency rate.

Dr. Prince told the congregation at St. Stephen's Protestant Episcopal Church that one cause for the crime rate may be that heat and noise keeps New Yorkers from getting enough sleep.

Officials Seek Knife-Bearing Wyoming Convict

RAWLINS, Wyo. (UP)—Wyoming officials today sought the identity of the convict who wounded a guard with a knife during a 15-hour riot but otherwise promised no reprisals.

The 80 rioting inmates released their three hostages early Sunday when Gov. Milward Simpson agreed to fire two hated guards and to allow weekly meetings of convict grievance committee with the warden.

Warden Deane Miller said he blamed the riot on other similar prison outbreaks throughout the country in recent months.

They (the convicts) have newspapers and radios," he said, "and no doubt, they must have gotten some ideas out of them."

WINTHROP, Mass. (UP) — A report on prison conditions was partially blamed today for a five-hour rebellion by 700 inmates at the Deer Island House of Correction.

The uprising ended Sunday night. Jail Master Edwin M. Malone said "The recent prison report papers have been read by the inmates, particularly by the troublemakers, and the prisoners know they got more than they bargained for in them."

Malone referred to a 200-age report made by a committee of experts following the 80½ hour revolt at State Prison in Charlestown last January.

Heavy straw residues from wheat or oats can be detremental to the stand of interseeded alfalfa or clovers, advise agronomists at Purdue University. To aid legume gdowth stubble should be clipped after combining and all straw removed. However, stubble with a sweet clover stand should not be clipped or the legume may be killed. Farmers, who must leave straw in the field, will find that clipping the stubble followed by cultipacking the straw residue is the next best method of handling.

Farmers who pasture wooded areas during the summer months should check for the presence of poisonous white snakeroot according to the botany and plant pathology department at Purdue University. White snakeroot is a white-flowered plant that thrives only in shaded areas. White snakeroot poisoning can be fatal to livestock.

Entertains With Luncheon Honoring Her Vancouver Guest

Miss Ruth Anthony of Vancouver, British Columbia, who has been a house guest at the Paul Morsches home, 313 North Main street, left Saturday for her home.

The daughter of Dr. and Mrs C R Anthony of Vancouver, she flew to Boston for a weekend visit with an aunt and will then fly to Montreal and then on to Vancouver.

Miss Anthony accompanied Miss Jane Morsches from Vancouver to her home in this city a month ago. Miss Morsches entertained with a luncheon on Friday at the Thirty Club in honor of her house guest.

Two shades of pink roses were combined with blue cornflower in a silver bowl, to form an attractive centerpiece on the luncheon table and tiny handmade pink rosebuds adonred the placecards that marked the covers. Pink candles in silver holders illuminated the table.

Miss Anthony was presented with a going-away gift.

Guests besides Miss Anthony included Miss Sheila Burke, Forrest Hills, N.Y. the Misses Judy Langohr, Zoe Ann Stafford, Linda Spence, Jo Ellen Adams, Roberta Stickler, and Mrs. Paul Morsches, Jr. and Mrs Paul Morsches, Sr.

Earl W. Fisher Family Makes 18 Day Vacation Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Earl W. Fisher and two sons, Roger and Phil 113 Maple Ave., returned Friday evening from a 5000 mile trip which took them through 12 states. The Fishers were gone 18 days. They traveled the southern route as far as Phoenix, Ariz., where they visited an uncle of Mrs. Fisher, Carl A. Adams, a former resident of this city.

They then drove as far north as Salt Lake City. They visited Oak Creek Canyon in Arizona, and Grand Canyon and Bryce Canyon National Park. They crossed the Continental Divide on their way to Pikes Peak and at Colorado Springs, the Fisher boys snowballed on the 9th of July.

They returned through Nebraska and Illinois where they visited an aunt and a number of cousins. The two Fisher boys were particularly interested in irrigation which they saw throughout the western states.

Mrs. Huffman Shows Colored Slides Before Jefferson Club

The July meeting of the Jefferson Township Home Demonstration club was a joint meeting with the 4- Hgirls, held during the past week. Thirty-three members of the club attended the meeting, also 13 4-H Girls.

The 4-H Girls held a dress revue with Mrs. Teeter, a former teacher and club leader, as judge. Janice Hindbaugh demonstrated candle capers and a number of the Home Demonstration club members modeled dresses they had made recently.

Delegates to the Purdue conference gave reports of the conference and Mrs. Huffman showed colored slides on a trip she had made recently through the western states.

There was a picnic dinner at the noon hour.

Peacocks Return From Trip To New Mexico; Make Trip With Son

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Peacock of Jefferson township have returned from a trip to Albuquerque, New Mexico, where they were guests of their son-in-law, and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Kentfield. Mr. Kentfield is a draftsman engineer in atomic research in Albuquerque.

The Peacocks left June 30 for New Mexico. On the Fourth of July they had a picnic in the Jamez Mountains. They also visited Jamez Springs and drove through the Ozark mountains in Missouri enroute home.

The Peacocks made the trip with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Peacock and son, Mickey Bentley Fort Wayne.

Fellowship Circle Entertained At St. John's Parish Hall

Mrs. Paul Bremer was hostess at the Parish hall for a meeting of the Fellowship Circle at St. John's Lutheran church, Thursday. Mrs. Martin H. Trier who was in charge of devotions, read Psalms 22-16.

Readings were given by Mrs Phil Sheeler and Mrs. Kenneth Hart. Janice Anders sang a solo number and was accompanied by Mrs. Charles Argerbright at the piano.

Mrs. Bremer and her co-hostess, Mrs. Albert Wiehe, served ham salad sandwiches, potato chips, fruit salad, mints and coffee.

Guests included Virginia Wolfe and Janice Anders.

Union Township Club Holds Meeting With 4-H Girls

Thirty-one Home Demonstration women in Union township and 29 4-H Girls attended a combined meeting held Friday at the 4-H Community Center.

The meeting opened by the group singing of "America" and Mrs. Maurice Ruckman was in charge of devotions. Aprins, skirts and dresses were modeled by the 4-H girls and reports were given of the Purdue conference by Mrs. Jack Pettigrew, Mrs. Harold Wherry and Mrs. Cecil Egolf.

A picnic dinner was served at noon.

The Waterfalls Here From California

Mrs. Margaret Waterfall with her daughter, Sally of Los Angeles, Calif. arrived here Sunday for a visit of several weeks with her parents-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Waterfall at Tri Lakes.

Mrs. Waterfall, who is the wife of the late John Waterfall, formerly resided in Fort Wayne.

They made the trip by plane.

TO SPEND A WEEK WITH HER SON

Mrs. Cora Kessler of South Elm street accompanied her son, Rev. Maurice Kessler to his home in Upland Monday to spend a week.

Internal Revenue Collections Drop

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—Internal revenue collections from all sources in Indiana dropped during the last fiscal year for the first time since 1949.

District director Gary Campbell announced today the total was $1,387,162,597, a drop of about $314,000,000 from the 1953-54 fiscal year.

Since 1949, the intake had risen steadily from $944,222 429 to a peak of $1,701,801,208, the highest on record.

There were decreases in income from most of the major sources.

Withholding taxes, greatest source of revenue, fell from about 723 million dollars to about 581 million. Corporation and excess profits taxes produced 285 millions compared with 340 millions the year before.

Individual and estimated taxes dropped from about 234 to about 215 millions, and taxes on distilled spirits from about 270 to about 217 millions.

Among increases were in gasoline, estate and gift transportation, coin operated devices and musical instruments taxes.

that have characterized most of our negotiations of the past 10 years.

"We are here in response to the peaceful aspirations of mankind to start the kind of discussions which will inject a new spirit into our diplomacy and launch fresh negotiations under conditions of good augury."

The French premier echoed the American President's high hopes that the conference might start the world on a path to peace. But the outline of French aims was received coolly by the American delegation. The French proposals were said to have caused considerable concern to President Eisenhower and other members of the U.S. delegation. Suggestions for a possible European security system in which the Soviets might join the West, American sources said later, went "far beyond anything he had described" to the Americans in advance.

Greets Zhukov Warmly

The President underscored the optimistic tone by shaking Soviet Defense Minister Georgi Zhukov's hand in a "very enthusiastic" meeting between two old war comrades.

In a speech opening the Geneva summit conference Mr. Eisenhower appealed to the meeting to "generate and put in motion the new forces needed to set us truly on the path to peace."

"All humanity will devoutly pray" for this, he said.

The President declared:

"We can, perhaps, create a new spirit that will make possible future solutions of problems which are within our responsibilities.

"And equally important we can try here and now at Geneva the first steps on a new road to a just and durable peace.'

Steps Towar dPeace

The President proposed these eight issues for discussion by the conference between himself, British Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden, French Premier Edgar Faure and Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin as a step toward a Cold War break:

1. German reunification following free all-German elections.
2. An East-West security system in which a united Germany would have the right to choose its own allies.
3. Right of the Soviet satellites to choose their own form of government.
4. Tearing down of "communication and human" barriers between the Soviets and the West.
5. An end to subversion by international communism.
6. Limitation of armaments.
7. A higher standard of living for underdeveloped nations.
8. Development of the peaceful uses of atomic energy.

French List Points

Premier Faure spoke immediately after President Eisenhower and laid down in detail a Western program for ending the Cold War. He said such an end must be based on these three outstanding principles:

1. German reunification.
2. No neutralization of Germany.
3. Satisfaction of the legitimate security desires of all European countries.

Faure then reiterated his own recently announced plan for all the powers to cut their spending for armaments and to apply the money saved to help underdeveloped countries.

"Our conference has been described as that of the last chance. It also could be that of the first step," he told the conferees. Eden and Bulganin speak in the afternoon session.

Eden Makes Offer

Eden opened the afternoon session with a speech that flatly offered Russia the following:

1. "A security pact of which those around this table and a united Germany might be members."
2. Discussions on "the total forces and armaments on each side in Germany and the countries neighboring Germany." This, he said, would entail "reciprocal control to supervise the arrangement."
3. "We should be ready to examine the possibility of a demilitarized area between East and West."

Soviet Premier Bulganin was scheduled as the day's last speaker.

Goes To Russians

Mr. Eisenhower, immediately upon entering the conference chamber, strode over to the Russian delegation and shook hands with Bulganin, Soviet Communist Party first secretary Nikita Khrushchev and Foreign Minister V.M. Molotov.

Then with a great smile, the American President walked over to Marshal Georgi Zhukov for what White House Press Secretary James Hagerty described as a "very enthusiastic meeting" between the two old comrades-in-arms.

Turning back the clock to the days when both were soldiers after World War II, the President inquired about the health of Mrs. Zhukov and the marshal's whole family.

Zhukov inquired about Mrs. Eisenhower and said he hoped to see their son, Maj. John Eisenhower, who is in Geneva as an aide to the President.

Families to Meet

Mr. Eisenhower assured Zhukov that he would see both Mrs. Eisenhower and Maj. Eisenhower tonight when the entire Russian delegation will be the dinner guests of the President at his villa.

After photographers snapped pictures for 10 minutes of the Big Four around the table, Mr. Eisenhower made his 1,000-word opening speech.

The conferees listened gravely in the conference room of the palace of Nations outside this traditional city of peace.

Before the Big Four got down to their talks, United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold was called into the conference chamber and in a brief speech welcomed the delegates on behalf of the U.N. to the parley in the building which is the world organization's European headquarters.

Hammarskjold said he spoke for al lU.N. members when he wished the conference "all the success in the world.

In their opening talks on procedure, the Big Four decided that French Premier Faure would preside Tuesday. President Eisenhower presided today.

A spokesman said present plans were that the foreign ministers would meet in the morning and the heads of government in the afternoons.

Aim Is Simple

"We meet here for a simple purpose," Mr. Eisenhower said. "We have come to find a basis for accommodation which will make life safer and happier not only for the nations we represent but for people elsewhere...

"We cannot expect here, in the few hours of a few days, to solve all the problems of all the world that need to be solved. Indeed the four of us meeting here have no authority from others that could justify us even in attempting that. The roots of many of these problems are buried deep in wars, conflicts and history."

The President's speech frankly challenged Russia to "improve the international climate" by cooperating with the Western powers in disarmament and the use of atomic energy for "constructive purposes."

Serious and almost grim, the American chief executive prayerfully began the summit meeting by suggesting his eight-point agenda.

Mr. Eisenhower asked for prompt and just unification of Germany, the development of "effective mutual inspection" as "the foundation for real disarmament" and Russian cooperation in the establishment of an international stockpile of fissionable material to be used for peaceful purposes.

The President suggested creation of the atomic stockpile in 1953 after his meeting with the British and French in Bermuda. He said today that he regretted Russian failure to accept the proposal.

Russia's Intention

GENEVA (UP)—Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin joined the Western Big Three heads of governments today in declaring Russia's intention to do everything possible to make the Geneva summit conference a success.

Eisenhower, who listened attentively to Bulganin's address closing the opening day's conference at the summit, expressed his satisfaction with the seemingly determined attitude of all delegations present to "work for an honest pursuit of peace.'

President Eisenhower had opened the conference seven and a half hours earlier with a challenge to Russia to agree to a free, united Germany and to controlled disarmament which would guarantee against "frightful surprises" in this atomic age.

The President laid down an eight-point program for world peace.

Bulganin climaxed the day of hopeful and optimistic statements and of a cordiality unmatched since World War II by assuring the other government chiefs that Russia will do "all it can to justify the hopes of all peoples waiting for a tranquil and peaceful life.

He said the Russians "hold a different point of view from the West on some questions."

"But this," he said, "should not prevent the conference from succeeding in its work."

Bulganin said it was his government's "sincere wish' that this conference should be "a fruitful one.'

It apparently was the Soviet's answer to President Eisenhower's invitation to the Kremlin to take a "new road" to peace with the West.

Mr. Eisenhower, chairman of the opening day's meetings, arose after Bulganin had concluded his speech.

"I have noted with the greatest satisfaction that the spirit of a friendly attitued has expressed itself as determined to work cooperatively with the others in an honest pursuit of peace," he said.

ankles. She stated that she had lunch with him at 12:15 p.m. Saturday and then left.

Officers state Kissinger's body was bound in chains and robed in his wife's clothing. It is believed that Kissinger was playing a practical joke on his wife when in some manner he was strangled by the heavy chains about his neck. Mrs. Kissinger found the body on the floor when she returned about five o'clock after shopping and doing the family laundry at a self service laundry.

Investigation and arrangements for the mother's trip to Texas was made through the Red Cross by Woodfin Jones, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. The Columbia City newspaper office received a call this morning from Mrs. Kissinger confirming her arrival in El Paso at 11:30 Sunday morning.

Services At Austin

The army is returning Kissinger's body to Austin, Texas, for services and burial. The Rev. A. Bertram Miller, who officiated at the marriage of Mr. Kissinger and Miss Barbara Jean Meier at the First Congregational church in Austin September 5, 1953, will officiate at the memorial and commital services in Austin.

William Byron Kissinger was born April 28, 1931 in St. Petersburg, Fla., to Betty Farmer Kissinger and the late William H. Kissinger, who was a well-known attorney in Columbia City.

The promising young scientist was graduated from Columbia City high school in 1949. He was interested in photography, chemistry and electricity and was a member of the 1949 annual board and a member of the Columbia City High School Band for four years under the direction of Robert Welty.

Kissinger later attended the University of Texas for five years and received his degree in electrical engineering in 1954.

His father, who was honored by the Whitley County Bar Association with a dinner on his 50th anniversary as a member of the Association, a short time before his death built a home at 620 Dennison Drive, in Austin, where the Kissingers resided while their son was attending the university. Mr. Kissinger, who for 50 years practiced law and was a builder in Columbia City, died in this city, June 20, 1951.

Kissinger is survived by his wife and mother, also two-half brothers, John K. of South Bend and Richard K. of Washington D.C. and his grandmother, Mrs. Edith Briggs of New London, Ohio, who is now at the Kissinger home near this city.

EL PASO, Tex. (UP)—The Army listed the death of Pfc. William Kissinger as accidental today and civilian authorities said there was "no indication of murder or foul play."

Kissinger, stationed at Fort Bliss, Tex., and a native of Columbia City, Ind., was found strangled and his body bound with heavy padlocked chains and dressed in his wife's clothing.

Sheriff Jimmy Hicks said there was no indication of murder. Maj. P.L. Klein of the Fort Bliss public relations office said the case is closed as accidental death as far as the Army is concerned.

Hicks said the soldier evidently was strangled by the chains.

Secretiveness On Whereabouts Of Josef Mindszenty

VIENNA, Austria (UP) — Communist secretiveness on the whereabouts of Josef Cardinal Mindszenty indicated today he still may be under police surveillance in spite of Red Hungary's claim that he has been freed from prison.

The Hungarian Justice Ministry refused to disclose the Cardinal's whereabouts.

A telephone call to Mindszenty's palace at Budapest brought the admission from its staff: "We don't know where he is."

When the United Press asked to meet or to speak with Mindszenty, the Justice Ministry said such a request must go to the Interior Ministry — which controls Hungary's Red police network and its prisons.

The implication seemed clear that the Cardinal still was not making his own decisions and was under police control.

Needlecraft News

by Nancy Baxter

As soon as a little European girl is able to manipulate her fingers, she is introduced to a pair of knitting needles. Because of economic necessity, she learns to knit many beautiful and practical things throughout her lifetime. In America, many of us want to knit for economical reasons, too, but others choose this needlework hobby for its relaxing effects. Like a soothing balm, knitting eases the nervous tensions of the day. With the quiet click-click of the needles, we find the contentment that brings us added satisfaction and pride when an attractive article is completed.

KNITTING NOTES

Here are a few bits of needlework knowledge that you'll want to store up for those pleasant moments with the knitting needles. Since the binding off and seaming of a knitted article are important to the over-all appearance of a garment, they deserve special attention.

When binding off, be sure that you make loose stitches. Many knitters, especially beginners, bind off too tightly. Some needleworkers use a needle two sizes larger, in their right hand, to prevent this.

When making seams, first place right sides together, and pin together so that all pieces are evenly matched. With the same thread or yarn used in making the garment, sew the seams. Do not pull the stitches too tight or else you will have a puckered seam. Press the seams open and flat. For added strength, reinforce the shoulder seams with tape.

COTTON KNITTED BLOUSE

A jaunty bodice for casual wear is this easy-to-do style knitted in white, double-thick cotton. The simplest of all stitches, the garter stitch, is used for the body of the garment. The neckline, sleeves and waist are banded with ribbing for a snug fit. Full knitting instructions for making the cool, casual, cotton blouse in sizes 12, 14 and 16 may be obtained from the Needlework Department of this paper. Please send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for Leaflet No. S-461.

Summer On Mound, But Christmas In Dugout When Alston Unwrapped Craig And Bessent

By FRED DOWN
United Press Sports Writer

It was 92.8 degrees on the mound at Ebbets Field but it was like Christmas morning in the Brooklyn Dodgers' dugout when Manager Walt Alston unwrapped rookie pitchers Roger Craig and Don Bessent.

Thrown into action shortly after their arrivals from Montreal and St. Paul, the two 24-year-old righthanders came through with splendid major league debuts that enabled the Dodgers to whip the Cincinnati Redlegs, 6-2 and 8-5. Their performances not only helped the Dodgers maintain their 12½-game lead but gave Alston's sore - arm plagued staff a dramatic respite.

When Alston finally put in the emergency call to General Manager Buzzy Bavasi for mound help from the minors, the Dodgers' staff had dwindled to three able-bodied performers and their National League rivals were beginning to hope they could yet be over-hauled.

Craig, a native of Durham, N.C., who had a 10-2 record at Montreal turned in a glittering three-hitter in the opener backed by an attack that included Duke Snider's 31st by Gil Hodges, Carl Furillo and Peewee Reese. Craig walked five batters but he struck out six, yielded only one earned run and didn't permit a hit after the second inning.

Bessent, who hails from Jacksonville, Fla., and had a 6-3 mark for St. Paul, pitched six-hit ball for eight innings before he tired and Ed Roebuck was summoned from the bullpen to lock things up. The Dodgers had scored six runs with the aid of three Cincinnati errors in the fourth inning and added another pair in the seventh before the Redlegs started to hit Bessent.

Yankee Lead Dwindles

The American League race, meanwhile, continued to tighten up when the Chicago White Sox drubbed the Baltimore Orioles 3-2 and 5-4, and moved to within a game and a half of the first-place New York Yankees. The White Sox now have won seven straight games — equalling the longest winning streaks of the year in the American League.

The Yankees dropped their ninth decision in 13 games when Earl Torgeson stole home while Bob Turley slept to give the Detroit Tigers a 6-5, 10-inning triumph. The Cleveland Indians beat the Boston Red Sox, 6-5, after losing the opener, 6-0, so the White Sox picked up ground on all three contenders. Frank Shea pitched a three-hitter in his first start of the season to give the Washington Senators a 4-0 win over the Kansas City Athletics in the other American League contest.

Billy Pierce pitched a four-hitter for his sixth win and Dic kDonovan won his 12th game on Walt Dropo's eighth-inning homer as the White Sox made it four one-run victories in a row. Pierce's earned run average dipped to 1.93 while Donovan's 12-2 mark is the best in the A.L.

Torgeson's theft of home at the expense of reliever Bob Turley came with two out in the 10th after Ray Boone's two-run eighth-inning homer produced a 5-5 tie. Bucky Harris' Tigers thus swept the three-game set and gave the Yankees a 1-4 record on their current rocky road trip.

Tom Brewer's three-hitter for his sixth straight and seventh win of the year gave the Red Sox the opener easily but the Indians came back with the aid of homers by Ralph Kiner and Jim Hegan to take the nightcap. Mike Garcia won the nightcap while Herb Score suffered his eighth loss in the first game.

The Milwaukee Braves scored five unearned runs in the eighth inning to beat the New York Giants, 8-7, and then got nine-hit pitching from Chet Nichols to win the second game, 3-1. Joe Adcock hit two homers for the Braves and Del Crandall one in theopenerto negate Wes Westrum's six runs batted in.

The Philadelphia Phillies handed the Chicago Cubs their sixth straight loss 12-11, but trailed, 5-4, when the nightcap was suspended in the seventh inning. And the St. Louis Cardinals led, 1-0, behind Harvey Haddix when their second game was suspended in the eighth after they beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 9-8, in the opener of their doubleheader.

Oscar Fraley's Heart Beats For Nation's Athletes

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP) —My heart palpitates for the nation's athletes today because they may take to heart what is being said about heart trouble.

A Philadelphia specialist named Dr. David Gelfand asserts you can contract heart trouble by acting meek and mild when you don't feel that way. His advice is to go ahead and blow your stack, even at the boss.

Maybe he's just fed up with the Phillies and figures this is a good way to get some new baseball talent in his town.

It might work, even on quiet Mayo Smith. But the consequences could be much more explosive in some of the other dugouts around the league. Consider, as example, the hectic case of the player who "blew his stack" at Leo Durocher.

It might ease the player's heart but there is a question of what would happen to his ears, eyes, nose and throat, not to mention other portions of his anatomy. Leo is not one to be bothered by the Marquis of Queensbury when somebody hollers "thar she blows."

A Number of Others

There are a number of others like Chuck Dressen and Lou Boudreau, who are accustomed to sending as good as they receive, if not quite some better. And looking back into the past, imagine what would have been the result of a fractured stack against such as John McGraw and Joe McCarthy.

Pro basketball players will drool at the thought of somebody "telling off" Red Auerbach of the Boston Celtics and what college man, even a big wheel, would dare glare into the icy optics of Eddie Hickey, the "Little Napoleon" of St. Louis, or the well-named "Phog" Allen, the Kansas version of the five o'clock whistle.

Consider Biggie Munn, now. In his days as a football coach Biggie had some mastodons under his direction. But I'd bet o nBiggie and the Munn version of the flying tackle against just about anybody except, possibly, Antonio Rocca.

The "boss," in the case of ballplayers, is, of course, the umpire. Quite frequently, as the doctor may well know, they blow their stacks at the man in blue. It may be good for their hearts but I can't think of many times when it helped the blowee, or his team.

A Sock And A Pink Slip

Among athletes the guy who blows his stack at the boss is not only in danger of getting the pink slip but he also well may get a whack on the kisser. This makes it tougher than on the average citizen, but he has his troubles, too, when you figure he might wind up doing his heart a favor to his stomach's disadvantage.

The good doctor has a fine idea because, as they say in the current song, "You Gotta Have Heart." It would be a medical phenomena, though, if you didn't. It's sort of like levitation. Fine, if it works.

I know I've tried that "blowing your stack" in my own home, and they do say a man's home is his castle. All it got me was into the dungeon proving, no doubt, that it's a genuine castle, anyhow. As for the rest, Doc, I just don't know.

It's enough to take the heart right out of a man.

Lowry Favored To Beat Wilson

NEW YORK (UP) — Welterweight Pat Lowry of Detroit is favored at 9-5 to beat Sugar Al Wilson of Englewood, N. J., tonight in their TV 10-rounder at St. Nicholas Arena.

Lowry won five straight bouts this year after dropping a decision to Miguel Diaz in his last bout of 1954. His 40-8-0 record includes 28 knockouts.

This year he took two decisions over Pete Adams, knocked out Jimmy Warkins, and outpointed Jimmy Martinez and Bob Rossie.

Lanky Wilson, whom most welterweights avoid, was able to get but one bout this year and two last year. He dropped a close decision to Ronney Delaney on March 7. His 24-14-2 record is spotty because too often he had to fight middleweights or remain idle. He knocked out eight.

Lowry was stopped once and so was Wilson.

Beverly Hanson Wins National Ladies PGA

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (UP) —The ice was broken today for blonde Beverly Hanson, who won the $6,000 National Ladies PGA championship with hot putting for her first victory of the year.

The former National Amateur champion from Indio Calif., collected $1,200 by turning back stylist Louise Suggs, Sea Island, Ga., 4 and 3, in Sunday's 36-hole contest, giving her medal and match play honors as well as revenge.

It was lithe Louise who beat the tall California miss in the playoff for the Los Angeles Open crown last January.

Miss Suggs, who collected $800 to run her 1955 earnings to $11,258 —tops in the women's pro circuit— built up a three-hole lead in the morning round before her opponent birdied four holes on the back nine to even the match.

Miss Hanson took the lead on the 26th hole by canning a 12-foot putt. Starting with 25, she tossed six birdies and one par and putts ranging from 12 to 30 feet at the Georgia Peach to take a four-up lead.

The match ended on the 33rd hole when Miss Suggs conceded.

Third place went to National Open titlist Fay Crocker Montevideo, Uruguay, who rallied to defeat Jackie Pung, Honoulu, 2 and 1. Miss Crocker won $650, Miss Pung $525.

Mary Lena Faulk, Thomasville, Ga., won fourth place and $475, defeating Betty Hicks Palm Springs, Calif., 1-up. Miss Hicks got $400.

Tony Trabert Gains Third Straight Title

HAVERFORD, Pa. (UP) —Tony Trabert, who only Sunday gained his third straight major title in the National Clay Courts championship to boost his campaign for world tennis leadership, was top-seeded in the 56th annual Pennsylvania State Lawn Tennis championships starting today.

The 24-year-old ace from Cincinnati again displayed his best form as he whipped defending champion Bernard (Tut) Bartzen in straight sets, 10-8, 6-1, 6-4 in the Clay Courts final at Atlanta.

Thus terrific Tony added that national crown to the French National championship and the Wimbledon championship that he won on his recent European tour. Still ahead for Trabert who wants to become the "world's best amateur" as a possible prelude to a pro career, are the U.S. and Australian championships, as well as the defense of the Davis Cup title.

Trabert will have to readjust his game from the Clay Courts surface for this tournament, played on grass as a traditional preview of tournaments during the past year, is not only the defending champion though Vic Seixas of Philadelphia the national championships at Forbut also nominally still ranked No. 1 nationally by the U.S. Lawn Tenest Hills, N. Y., in September. nis Association.

Blonde Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., recent winner of the women's Wimbledon championship wa sseeded first here in women's singles.

Second - seeded Mrs. Dorothy Head Knode of Alameda, Calif., won the women's Clay Courts championship by upsetting top-seeded Barbara Breit of North Hollywood, Calif., 6-4, 6-3.

In other Clay Courts finals, Trabert and Ham Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., won the men's doubles by beating Bartzen and Eddie Moylan of Trenton, N. J. 6-1, 6-2; Sam Giammalva of Houston, Tex., and Yola Ramirez of Mexico City won the women's doubles by beating Jerry Moss of Modesto, Calif., and Janet Hopps of Seattle, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3; and Bryan (Bitsy) Grant of Atlanta won the seniors title by beating Jack Staton of St. Petersburg, Fla. 6-0, 6-4

Gale Smith Wins 2 Races At Warsaw Speedway Saturday

Gale Smith, Warsaw, was the top money winner in the Hoosier Hot Rod Races Saturday night at Warsaw.

Smith, driving a car owned by Bob Gibson of Columbia City, took first place money in both the second heat race and the race among the six qualifiers with the fastest times and also second place in the feature race. The latter race included the 20 drivers with the fastest qualifying times in the trials earlier in the evening.

Other winners of the heat races were First heat: Jimmy Hullinger, Bunker Hill; Bob Shlater, Churubusco; and Bob Tucker; Second Heat: Smith, Bob Staley, Warsaw; Arden Leiter, Pierceton; Third Heat: Charlie Howell, Gerald Bills, Columbia City; Paul Brown; Fourth Heat: Ray Staley, Columbia City; Tom Meadows, and Rollin Smith, Warsaw. The other two winners among the six fastest qualifying cars were Kenny Leiter, Pierceton, and John Fike.

Ten drivers received money prizes in the feature race. Winner of that event was Hullinger, winner of the first-heat race. Following second-place winner Smith were Howell, Ray Staley, Meadows, Cliff Gibson, Don Riley, Bob Shlater, Arden and Kenny Leiter. Shlater was driving a car owned by "Pop" Phillips of Columbia City.

In the consolation race Gibson was the winner with a car owned by Tenney's Motor Sales of Columbia City. Other places went to Archie Holle, Warsaw, and Dick Parker, Columbia City, who drove a car owned by Rader's Market, although the name was spelled "Markert".

Another feature event included a race between 12 "jalopies".

The races are held each Saturday night at the Warsaw Speedway under the sponsorship of the Hoosier Hot Rods, Inc., of which Charles E. Gibson of Columbia City is president.

LONDON (UP) — The mass-circulation Daily Mirror reported today that Britons are two-to-one against capital punishment.

The newspaper with 4,500,000circulation said more than 30,000 readers answered an opinion poll following the controversial hanging last week of blonde killer Ruth Ellis. The paper said 20,509 voted against the death penalty and 11,057 in favor.

The case of the 28-year-old model who shot one of her two lovers stirred a storm of protest against capital punishment.

TEL AVIV, Israel (UP) — Gov. Averell Harriman of New York was scheduled to confer wit htop Israeli officials today and inaugurate the new Yarkon River irrigation system at Negev. The touring governor visited Lydda in central Israel Sunday.

BUENOS AIRES (UP)—Church-going hours passed quietly Sunday when demonstrations resulted in injuries to six policemen and arrest for more than 100 Catholics.

The only reminder of church-state friction was an unsigned editorial in the Peronist organ Democracia. It said Argentina's only troubles in the past two weeks have been "street disorders and provocative pastoral acts" which it blamed on "those who have the deaths and the sorrows of the wounded of June 16 on their consciences." June 16 was the date of the navy-led revolt.

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Cancer-stricken Suzan Ball, fighting for her life in City of Hope Sanitarium, remained in "serious condition" today and doctors promised an evaluation within 24 hours.

The 22-year-old actress' right leg was amputated a year and a half ago because of the disease. Recently it ws indicated the malignancy had spread to her lungs.

BLACKPOOL, England (UP) — Marlene Dietrich took the day off from London nightclub appearances Sunday to make her opera house debut.

The provocative singer wore a conservative white linen suit for her two appearances at this Irish Sea beach resort. She attracted capacity crowds to the performances, but she went almost unnoticed at the airport and on her arrival at the opera house.

SYDNEY, Australia (UP)—The city's two morning newspapers resumed normal publication today for the first time since last Monday. The two afternoon papers were expected to follow suit. A newsmens strike was settled Friday.

MONTEVIDEO (UP) — Eugenio Gomez Jr., son of Uruguay's No. 1 Communist, has been expelled from the party as a Yankee spy," it was announced today.

A brief announcement published by the Red organ Justicia said young Gomez had been a member of the "Yankee espionage service." It gave no details.

COLOMBO, Ceylon (UP) — Premier Kotelawala cabled British Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden at the Big Four Geneva conference today urging the early admissio ninto the United Nations of countries like Ceylon.

lion dollar highway program with increased taxes on gasoline and tires. He said he is "violently opposed" to President Eisenhower's plan to pay for th ehighways with a bond issue.

Minimum Wages: The House Rules Committee cleared the way for House action on a bill to raise the federal minimum wage from 75 cents a dollar an hour.

Air Academy: The Air Force showed the Senate Military Appropriations subcommittee revised designs for its new academy buildings The original designs stirred an angry controversy on capitol hill.

Congressional Cooperation: The White House explained the cause for President Eisenhower's thanks to congressional leaders for their "generous cooperation" on his trip to the Geneva Conference. The leaders agreed to hold up action on non-vital legislation until he comes back.

Social Security: Democrats planned to ram through the House a bill to liberalize Social Security benefits and raise Social Security taxes. It would add more than one million persons to the benefit rolls but would levy more than $1,500,-roll taxes on jobholders and employers

Legislation: With the official target date July 30 for adjournment of Congress, signs indicated that President Eisenhower can hope for only about half of the 13 point legislative program which he called for during the final month of the session. Even Republican leaders in the Democratic - controlled Congress do not view all of Mr. Eisenhower's proposals as "must" bills for action this year.

Highways: House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr., announced that GOP leaders will offer President Eisenhower's highway program as a substitute to the new Democratic road bill this week when the issue reaches the House floor. Martin said he has hopes "of securing sufficient Democratic votes" to make the move successful.

Reserves: Sen. Richard B. Russell (D - Ga) predicted that Congress will pass an "effective" military reserve bill. But Russell said any bill passed would not include 9President Eisenhower's goal of 2,900,000 combat-ready reserves by 1960. The House and Senate have passed different reserve bills, and a conference committee will work out the differences this week.

Missiles: Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash) said there is a "strong possibility" that Russia may win the race to develop the deadly guided missile. He said this country must set up a guided missile program similar to its World War II atomic bomb project or face possible annihilation by Russia.

Builders: Rep. Olin E. Teague (D-Tex) said he would seek legislation to give the Federal Housing Authority the same authority as the Veterans Administration for suspending builders found guilty of "questionable practices." Teague, chairman of the House Veterans Committee, said he would offer the provision when the federal housing bill reaches the House floor.

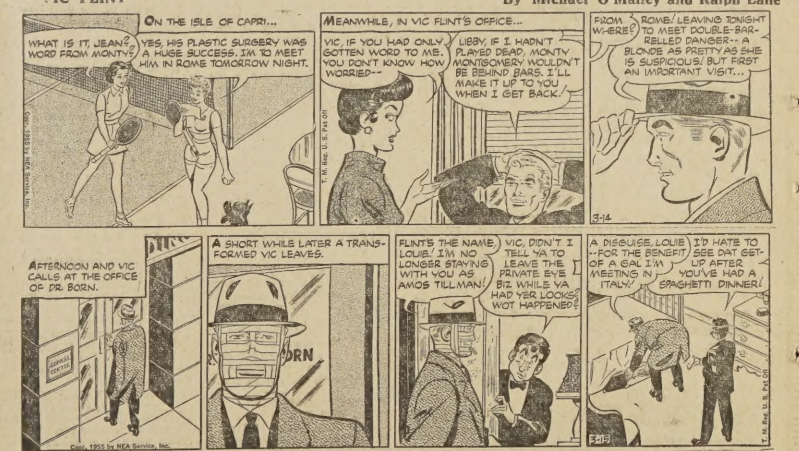
VIC FLINT By Michael O'Malley and Ralph Lane



ON THE ISLE OF CAPRI...
WHAT IS IT, JEAN? WORD FROM MONTY?
YES, HIS PLASTIC SURGERY WAS A HUGE SUCCESS. I'M TO MEET HIM IN ROME TOMORROW NIGHT.
MEANWHILE, IN VIC FLINT'S OFFICE...
VIC, IF YOU HAD ONLY GOTTEN WORD TO ME. YOU DON'T KNOW HOW WORRIED-- LIBBY, IF I HADN'T PLAYED DEAD, MONTY MONTGOMERY WOULDN'T BE BEHIND BARS. I'LL MAKE IT UP TO YOU WHEN I GET BACK.
FROM WHERE?
ROME! LEAVING TONIGHT TO MEET DOUBLE-BARRELLED DANGER-- A BLONDE AS PRETTY AS SHE IS SUSPICIOUS! BUT FIRST AN IMPORTANT VISIT...
3-14
AFTERNOON AND VIC CALLS AT THE OFFICE OF DR. BORN.
A SHORT WHILE LATER A TRANSFORMED VIC LEAVES.
FLINT'S THE NAME, LOUIE! I'M NO LONGER STAYING WITH YOU AS AMOS TILLMAN!
VIC, DIDN'T I TELL YA TO LEAVE THE PRIVATE EYE BIZ WHILE YA HAD YER LOOKS? WOT HAPPENED?
A DISGUISE, LOUIE --FOR THE BENEFIT OF A GAL I'M MEETING IN ITALY!
I'D HATE TO SEE DAT GET-UP AFTER YOU'VE HAD A SPAGHETTI DINNER!

WHAT'S THIS I HEAR ABOUT YOU BOYS GOING ON A VACATION?
WHATCHA MEAN, "YOU BOYS"? SHUCKS, MAN, YOU'RE COMING WITH US!
THAT'S RIGHT, DOC, WE'RE ALL A BIT FRAZZLED... A SPOT OF FISHING MIGHT BE GOOD FOR US.
3-14
WELL, I HAVE HEARD IT'S A FASCINATING SPORT... ANYWAY, WE'LL NOT HAVE FAR TO GO WITH ALL THAT WATER RIGHT AT OUR DOOR.
PHOOEY! WHO'D WANT TO FISH IN THAT?
HECK NO... LET'S GO SOMEWHERE EXCITING!
THAT'S RIGHT! UP IN THE BACK COUNTRY WHERE IT'S WILD!
YEH... SOME PLACE THAT HASN'T BEEN ALL FISHED OUT!
BUT MY STARS, I'M NOT MUCH OF A FISHERMAN... ALL I'VE EVER CAUGHT'S BULLHEADS.
BULLHEADS! HAW! MAN, WE'RE GOIN' FOR SUMPIN GOOD... BASS!
BASS MY EYE! IF YOU EVER TIED INTO A SNOOK, YOU'D THROW ROCKS AT BASS.
...WE'RE GOING DOWN TO SNARK BAY WHERE THERE'S REAL FISH, MAN!
YEH? WHEN WE GOIN'?
WELL, WHY NOT RIGHT NOW... ALL WE'VE GOT TO DO'S LOAD OUR GEAR AND TAKE OFF!

Will View Indiana Corn Champ's 1955 Crop At Field Day

LAFAYETTE — Farmers will have an opportunity to observe methods used by A. J. Custer, 1954 Indiana 5-acre corn champion, during the Agronomy and Horticultural Muck Crop Field Day in DeKalb county Thursday, July 28.

Ernest Lesiuk, DeKalb county agent, is general chairman of the event sponsored by the Purdue University extension service. M. O. Pence, extension agronomist, and Roscoe Fraser, extension horticulturist at Purdue, will assist in the direction of the field day.

Custer announced plans last winter to apply 3 tons of fertilizer and have a population of 30 to 40 trousand plants per acre on his 1955 5-acre corn plot.

In 1954 Custer's 5-acre entry yielded 241 bushels per acre for an all-time record. Ideal weather conditions prevailed and adequate rainfall fell when needed to produce the tremendous yield. Progress of the current crop under 1955 weather conditions will be of interest to 5-acre corn club members as well as other Hoosier farmers.

Farmers will convene at the court house in Auburn and will depart for the Custer farm at 9:15 a.m. In addition to the 1-acre and 5-acre corn plots, Custer's tomato field planted on mineral soil will be viewed.

LAFAYETTE, — Hoosier dairy farmers have been invited to attend the fourth annual Dairy Day at Purdue University Friday, July 22. The program will open at 10 a.m. at the University's dairy center, shown in part above, on Cherry Lane, West Lafayette. Ten topics concerning the latest developments in the dairy industry are scheduled. Dr. Herrell DeGraff, world-known economist and Babcock professor at Cornell University, will present an address during the afternoon program.

Banquet At Kokomo Will Be Start Of State Farm Tour

LAFAYETTE — Farmers attending the State Farm Management Tour this year should also plan to attend the kick-off dinner at the St. Joan of Arc church in Kokomo, Tuesday, July 26, at 7:00 p.m.

According to A. M. Nichter, Purdue University farm management specialist, the general outlook for agriculture will be presented at the dinner meeting by Dr. L. S. Hardin, acting head of the agricultural economics department at Purdue. Francis Kutish, agricultural extension economist at Iowa State College will speak on the "Outlook for Farm Commodities." The market situation for hogs and cattle will be discussed by Commodore Edmondson, of he Indianapolis Stockyards.

Farmers desiring tickets for the outlook banquet and the tour luncheon should see their county agent or write the Purdue University agriculture economics department. Overnight facilities will be available for both men and women in Kokomo.

Four Drown In Indiana During Weekend

By UNITED PRESS

At least four persons were drowned in Indiana during another hot, humid weekend.

Richard Hult, 18 LaPorte High School basketball star until his graduation last month, drowned while trying to swim 100 yards from a raft to the shore of Pine Lake Sunday.

Hult was a 3-letter athlete. He was named outstanding member of his graduating class and won two scholarships to Purdue University.

William Napier, 28, Whiteland, lost his life in Sugar Creek in Shelby County Saturday while on an outing with his family.

Roscoe Rousey, 48, North Vernon, fell in the Mascatatuck River near North Vernon early Sunday while on a fishing trip and drowned.

The body of a middle-aged man was found floating in Lake Michigan near Hammond Saturday. It was clad in swimming trunks. A doctor said the man had been dead about 12 hours.

United States Army Withdrawing From Asia

TOKYO (UP)—The U.S. Army is withdrawing from Asia, leaving the defense of the anti-Communist nations to American atomic bombers and untried Asian armies, it was indicated today.

U.S. Defense Secretary Charles Wilson's disclosure that another Army division would be brought home from Asia in the current fiscal year, coupled with his rejection of the appeal of former Army Chief of Staff Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway against further ground force cuts, cemented the trend in U.S. policy planning.

The Army withdrawal is not being matched by buildup of U.S. air or naval forces based in the Far East.

The planners are counting on rapid reinforcement from U.S. continental bases in an emergency.

"But when the whistle blows," one high officer recently admitted, "we're likely to find this is a secondary theater and the reinforcements can't be spared."

William H. Neible Found Dead At His Home Sunday Morning

Lived In Thorncreek Township 40 Years

William Henry Neible 74, Thorncreek township farmer who lived three and one-half miles north of this city on State road 9, was found dead in bed at his home at 5:15 a.m. Sunday by his sister. In December 1953, Mr. Neible was seriously ill and underwent two major operations at the Whitley County Hospital, however, he recovered sufficiently and recently was doing his own farming.

He was born January 16, 1881 in Washington township, the son of Mathias Neible, a native of Whittenberg, Germany, and Elizabeth Eberhard Neible a native of Columbia township.

Mr. Neible had lived on the same farm for 40 years, having moved there from the Paige farm in Union township. He never married.

He is survived by a brother, Albert Neible, Pleasant Lake, and a sister, Miss Ida Neible, with whom he resided. Two neices also survive. They are Mrs. Robert Keiser, Etna-Troy township and Mrs. Josh J. Campbell, Auburn.

Friends may call at the J. A. DeMoney and Son Funeral Home. Rev. Marion Shroyer will officiate at the funeral services at 2:00 p.m. Tuesday in the funeral home. Burial will follow in the South Park cemetery here.

Memorial Rites Held Monday Afternoon For William E. Rumsey

The Rev. Marion E. Shroyer of this city officiated at funeral rites Monday afternoon at the Miller Funeral Home at South Whitley for William E. Rumsey 72, Cleveland township farmer. Burial was made in the South Whitley cemetery.

The death of Mr. Rumsey occurred Saturday in Whitley County Hospital where he was a patient one week.

He is survived by his wife and son, Sidney of near South Whitley also three grandchildren. Five sisters survive. They are Mrs. Clara Smith of Liverpool, Ill., Mrs. Fancon Lawson, Mrs. Lewis Bonar, Mrs. Violet Downing, Canton, Ill., and Mrs Beulah Jaque, Gibson, Illinois.

Mr. Rumsey was a member of the Centenary Evangelical United Brethren church near South Whitley.

Minnesota has 30,000 miles of fishing streams in addition to its 11,007 lakes.

A. H. Moeller Dies At New Smyrna Beach, Florida; Burial There

Mrs. Velma Moeller returned Saturday morning from Florida where she and her son, John David, were called by the death of their husband and father, A H. Moeller.

The death of Mr. Moeller occurred Saturday, June 25, in Fish Memorial hospital in New Smyrna, Beach. He was hospitalized two different times before his death. Ill of a heart condition Mr. Moeller had seemed improved and was expecting to leave the hospital when death came.

Mrs. Moeller and her son and daughter-in-law and grandson, David, who reside at Vandalia, O., made the trip to Florida by plane.

Russian Farmers Find Out What Makes U.S. Tick

Get Month-Long Tour Underway

DES MOINES, Iowa (UP) — Twelve Russian farmers bounced across Iowa's tall-corn country today in a tractor-drawn flat bed wagon and found out what makes America tick.

The Russians, accompanied by three Soviet newsmen, got their month-long tour of the nation's breadbasket underway with a visit to the 160-acre farm of Richard L. Alleman, a 25-year-old Army veteran, near Slater, Iowa, north of here.

Their main purpose was to learn how America builds up huge food surpluses while Soviet production lags.

And Alleman said he and his family would be happy to answer all the questions they might ask. He said he felt quite honored that the delegation of Soviet experts picked his farm to visit.

Alleman, who served with the Army in Alaska; his wife, Verda, 23, and their two children, Bruce 3 and Sherry 1, wore their everyday clothes for the Russians' visit.

The delegation got right down to business today following an enthusiastic welcome by Iowa residents and officials upon their arrival Saturday night.

They were to return from the Alleman farm at about 2 p.m. EDT; attend a luncheon addressed by Profs. Herbert Howell and Frank Riecken of Iowa State College; then a news conference and finally wind up the day with a dinner sponsored by the agriculture committee of the Des Moines Chamber of Commerce.

Sunday night's cordial welcome was in direct contrast to the booing given Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov when he passed through the Midwest recently on the way to the tenth anniversary celebration of the United Nations in San Francisco.

A crowd esimated at 2,700 persons waved and applauded the Russians as they arrived here by ing broad smiles.

A sign with "Welcome" spelled out in Russian drew the biggest plane in ill-fitting suits but wear- laughter from the Soviet delegation. The sign-bearer was Charlotte Graves, Des Moines, a young, pretty Russian major at Bryn Mawr (Pa) College.

Vladimir Matskevich, balding chief of the delegation and first deputy minister of Russian agriculture, beamed and waved.

In a five-minute speech, he was "happy" to be making the trip.

Polio Victim Gives Birth Under Hypnosis

Doctors Think It Is First Such Case

DALLAS, Tex. (UP) —A 32-year old woman who gave birth to a baby boy under hypnosis while critically ill with polio showed much improvement today.

Doctors said the mother, Mrs. Edward J. Schwartz of Dallas, still was critically ill. But they said she showed an immediate improvement as soon as the baby was delivered Sunday, a month early.

Doctors said the baby was "very healthy." Nurses said the baby is "stout-lunged," and "howled for a bottle Sunday not too many hours after his birth.

The delivery of the baby was made by a staff of experts from the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School here. A psychiatrist performed the hypnosis for the delivery.

"Now we have four sons," Mrs. Schwartz beamed, as she spoke her first words after the delivery. Later she told her husband, a jewelry salesman, that it was the most painless childbirth of the four she had known.

Doctors said that "as far as we know" Mrs. Schwartz was the first polio patient ever to deliver a baby under hypnosis.

Mrs. Schwartz was eight months pregnant when she was stricken with paralytic spinal polio last Tuesday. Since then, she has been in critical condition and had much difficulty in breathing.

Doctors said pressure of the unborn child against her chest area made breathing almost impossible. They induced her labor with drugs and delivered the baby with instruments.

An immediate improvement in her breathing was noted after the birth, doctors said.

Nixon May Call Cabinet Meeting And Preside

WASHINGTON (UP) — Vice President Richard M Nixon probably will call and preside at a Cabinet meeting this week during President Eisenhower's absence in Geneva, the United Press was reliably informed today.

The meeting has been scheduled tentatively for Friday.

Mr. Eisenhower left Nixon a hand-written authorization to summon and preside over the Cabinet in his absence.

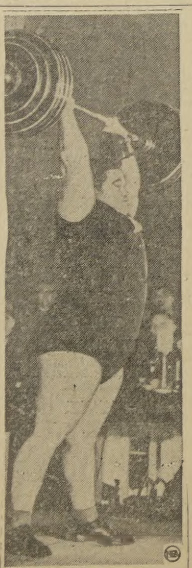
e president also was authorized to call a conference of legislative leaders if he deems it desirable.

Friday is the usual cabinet meeting day when Mr. Eisenhower is in Washington. And the chief executive normally meets with Republican congressional leaders every Tuesday morning when Congress is in session.

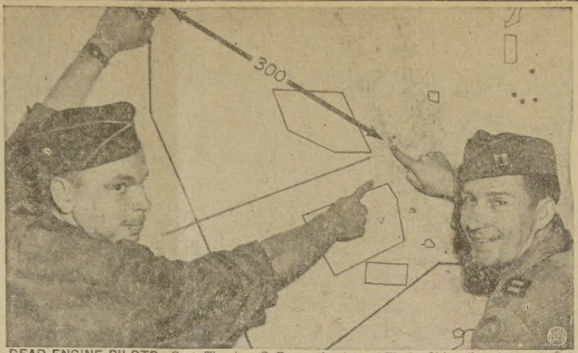
There is no acting president when the chief executive is absent from Washington. Mr. Eisenhower carries on his presidential duties whether he is in Washington or Geneva.

Altitude Of Summit

GENEVA (UP)—Here is a note for lovers of statistics: The altitude of the "summit" is 1,237 feet.



BIG BOY—Here is a close-up of Paul Anderson lifting 401.5 pounds in the two-handed heavyweight event in Moscow. The 341-pound native of Atlanta, Ga., broke two world records in less than 10 minutes, the other being a 426-pound hoist in the clean-and-jerk.



DEAD-ENGINE PILOTS—Capt. Theodore S. Roosevelt, right of Elyria, Ohio, pilot of the crippled C-124 Globemaster which made an emergency landing at Hamilton Air Force Base, Calif., with two dead engines, points to the base as his copilot, 2nd Lt. Harry R. Simpson, Akron, Ohio, measures the 300 miles of their hazardous flight from out over the Pacific. The transport carried 79 troops and eight crewmen and was bringing the GI's from overseas as part of "Operation Gyroscope."

THE GOOD EARTH—Old Mother Earth looks mighty good to these three members of the 187th Airborne Regimental Combat Team as they kneel down to kiss the ground at Hamilton Air Force Base, Calif. This trio, and 76 other GI's being returned to the U.S. in "Operation Gyroscope," were aboard the C-124 Globemaster which made the last 300 miles of the flight over the Pacific with two of her engines dead.

Disneyland Makes TV Debut Sunday

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Walt Disney's amusement park, Disneyland, made its debut on television Sunday but behind the cameras many of the 30,000 invited guests complained that the opening was a "confused mess."

The first headache was the bumper-to-bumper traffic for seven miles before reaching the park, dubbed the "worst traffic mess we've ever seen" by police. The 17 million dollar park was built 20 miles from downtown Los Angeles in suburban Anaheim.

Long lines stretched in front of the various concessions, and many a moppet wept in frustration. Even movie stars, including Lana Turner, James Mason, Frank Sinatra and George Gobel, elbowed like everyone else in the bargain-basement crush to get their children on the rides.

Government Cracks Down On Promoters

WASHINGTON (UP)—The government is cracking down on fraudulent promoters who issue penny-ante uranium and oil stock to raise money for new, unproven ventures in this country and Canada.

The Securities & Exchange Commission Sunday announced proposals for tightening up its regulatins governing "small stock issues" for such purposes. It allowed 15 days for comment on the proposals.

That'll Teach Him

DALLAS, Tex. (UP)—Theo Alexander's efforts to break up an argument between two women in a Dallas bar early Sunday cost him a cut scalp.

When efforts to calm the women failed, Alexander drew a pistol and fired at the ceiling. A piece of the ceiling hit him on the head and it took two stitches to sew up the cut.

Inclination

CHICAGO (UP) —Gov. William Stratton has vetoed a bill which would have banned cashing pay checks in taverns because of "the inclination of a very few to spend an abnormal amount of money for liquor."

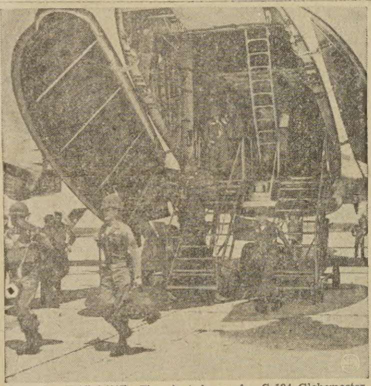
Chilean Train Accident Kills 30

SAN BERNARDO, Chile (UP)—Chile's worst train wreck in history was blamed today on an engineer's failure to see a danger signal before his train plowed into the rear of another standing in the San Bernardo station. An official report listed 30 persons killed and 50 injured in the accident Sunday.

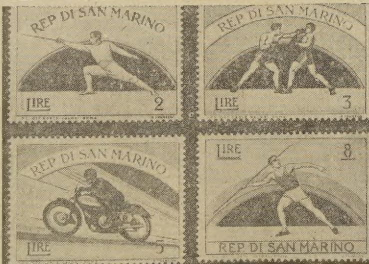
Police And Robbers Wage Hour Battle

MIAMI (UP)—Hundreds of persons caught in a gunbattle between 25 policemen and four armed robbers cringed in fear while bullets whined about a busy street for nearly an hour, killing one bandit and wounding a policeman and another bandit. The shooting broke out in a main throughfare to the International Airport when patrolmen interrupted a loan office robbery and were fired upon by the bandits.

Want Ads Pay



END OF THE LINE—The giant doors of a C-124 Globemaster stand open as GI's of the 187th Regimental Combat Team hurry out at Ft. Bragg, N. C. This is the end of the line for "Operation Gyroscope," huge airborne transfer of troops between Japan and North Carolina. Some members of the 187th, which will be based at Ft. Bragg, have been in the Far East for five years. One of the Globemasters, with 79 members of the 187th aboard, limped into California with two motors dead.



TINY REPUBLIC GOES SPORTY—Sports fans will be interested in these new stamps from the tiny (38 square miles) Republic of San Marino, located near Rimini, Italy. The stamps have a winged wheel watermark.

Iowa Farmer Touring Russia Finds The Fish Good, Plentiful, But Not Like Steak At Home

(Editors Note: A group of 12 American farmers is touring Russia. The farmers have talked with Russians, seen Moscow sights and attended an agricultural exhibition so far. One of the Americans, Ralph Olson of Ellsworth, Iowa, gives his impressions in the following dispatch.)

By RALPH OLSON
Written for United Press

MOSCOW (UP)—So far our food has been good and plentiful, but of course not what we'd eat at e. We've had lots of fish, but not one of us has found a steak.

Why, this bunch of 12 farm people out for dinner anywhere else would all have had steaks for dinner. The fish was good, though — breaded whitemeat chicken filet. And a novelty for us was the tea, the best I have ever drunk.

At the mammoth agricultural fair, we were given lots of fresh fruit, including apricots, apples, plums, grapes and some of the best peaches I ever ate.

In the Hotel National restaurant however, we were offered only preserved fruits — canned apples in juice and cherries and plums.

I hear from people who live here that oranges cost between 80 and 90 cents apiece in American money, and eggs 40 cents each.

Finds Few Smiles

People don't seem to smile much, at least the people you see on the streets. They seem very sober-faced, but maybe that's their nature. They've had a pretty serious existence and some hard struggles.

The thing that impressed me the most in the two days we've been here is how big Moscow is and how many people there are—they tell me seven or eight million. I didn't think there were so many. I wonder how they all get along.

They don't dress like the people in Des Moines. They seem pretty well dressed, but not as stylish. In Des Moines, for example, women dress like women in New York or Paris. But maybe the cotton prints women wear here are stylish for this part of the world.

In my opinion, the materials don't seem to be the best quality, although I guess they are adequate.

The people seem healthy and well-fed. Their color and complexions are fresh and rosy, even though most women don't use make-up.

Pigs Raised Big

At the agricultural fair, special pigpens were scrubbed clean and the pigs were kept gleaming by white-smocked women who washed the legs continually. They also keep feeding hogs here until they are huge. W esaw one six years old that weighed 1,174 pounds. This is different from our practice. Pigs that big would make porkchops about a foot long and giant hams that would be unsalable because meat off big hogs is of lower quality.

We were mightily impressed by the horses—their sleekness. The farm machinery is all on a scale much bigger than ours, so big we would find it cumbersome. Ill be interested to see these machines in operation during the long trip we were about to make.

I was also surprised to find that antibiotics are not used in feeding hogs, as we use them, to improve the general health of the pigs as well as making them grow faster on less feed.

Casablanca's Police Commissioner Fired

CASABLANCA, Morocco (UP)—France fired Casablanca's principal police commissioner today in the wake of race riots that have turned the city into a bloody battleground.

Resident General Gilbert Grandval, enraged at police inefficiency in dealing with the terrorism and violence, ordered the dismissal as part of a drastic shakeup of the police department.

The latest uprisings raised the total dead to at least 63 in four days. Unofficial reports set the death toll as high as 200. At least 125 persons have been wounded.

The French government, fearful of the effects the race-fiots may have on Premier Edgar Faure's position at the Big Four Geneva conference, brought in 260 fresh gendarmes aboard 11 transport planes.

The new troops strengthened government forces around the city's old native quarter where tanks backed up Foreign Legionnaires, Negro riflemen and federal police attempting to enforce martial law.

The tank-supported units used machineguns and 37-mm. cannon Sunday against a grenade-hurling Moroccan mob looting and pillaging Jewish shops in the Arab quarter.

Police reports said at least 7 natives were killed and 15 wounded in the clash. Earlier the rioters stoned a Spaniard to death.

The native quarter has been one of the major scenes of bloody conflict since the current wave of terrorism broke in this city of 700,000 inhabitants last Thursday. Angry Europeans have invaded the quarter seeking revenge for the bombing deaths of six Frenchmen which touched off the rioting during Bastille Day celebrations.

Resident General Gilbert Grandval, who declared martial law Saturday, called in his aides today to discuss a complete shakeup of the Casablanca police.

Forger

CORNISH ,Maine (UP) — Paul McDonald, deputy secretary of state in charge of motor vehicles, will be very interested to see police catch up with a forger who bought a new automobile here with a no funds check.

The forger signed his check "Paul McDonald."

Chances Fade Further For Passage Of Liberalized Social Security Bill

By UNITED PRESS

Chances faded further today for enactment this year of a House-approved bill to expand and liberalize the Social Security system.

The bill, approved 372-31 by the House Monday, would add about one million persons to those now receiving Social Security payments. It would increase payroll taxes Jan. 1.

The Senate Finance Committee decided to start hearings on the bill Friday but did not indicate it would try for passage this year. Chairman Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.) said the committee would give "full consideration" to the measure.

With Congress shooting for adjournment by the end of next week, there appeared to be little likelihood of getting the bill through

Other congressional news:

Caps: Harry Lev, millionaire capmaker to the government, told Senate investigators five weeks ago he never paid "one broken cent" to a federal employe to land a contract. At resumed hearings today former government clothing inspector Michael Weintraub testified Levi "tried many times to bribe me and called me filthy and profane names when I refused."

Highways: The House Public Works Committee tentatively approved $12,400,000,000 in new taxes over 16 years to finance its proposed roadbuilding program. The committee revamped a financing program it had approved earlier, making changes which would mean a net gain of 400 million dollars for the treasury.

Rain, Hail, High Winds Cool Off Parts Of Indiana

By UNITED PRESS

Heavy rains, hail, high winds and a would-be tornado cooled off parts of Hoosierland Monday, but hotter temperatures were in the outlook for next weekend.

The Weather Bureau said today in its five-day outlook that temperatures possibly could get as high as 99 degrees in Indiana during the period. They will average 3 to 6 degrees above normal maximums of 86 north to 93 south and normal minimums of 64 north to 68 south.

The warmup will come Friday through Sunday.

The northern section was hit by the worst of the storms Monday. A "funnel cloud" of tornado proportions was sighted southeast of South Bend late in the day, the weatherman said, but it dissipated without touching the ground. No damage was reported.

However, a savege wind and hailstorm tore a five-mile swath through Madison County near Elwood earlier. Trees were blown down and farm buildings were damaged.

Rain poured down 1.80 inches at Rochester during the 24-hour period ending early today. The weatherman reported 1.30 inches at Bedford, 1.20 at Edwardsport, Bloomington and Petersburg, 1.10 at Shoals, .90 at Vincennes, .—? AT Columbus and .29 at Evansville.

The mercury stuck at a "cool" high of 80 degrees at Indianapolis Monday. But at Fort Wayne the state's high was 89. Evansville got 88 and South Bend 87 at high points.

Today's forecast called for highs ranging from 85 north to 90 south.

Thundershowers were expected in central and south portions today and tonight. The outlook said Hoosiers can expect precipitation averaging less than one-fourth inch in scattered showers in the south tonight.

Wednesday will be mostly fair with highs ranging from 82 to 90. There will be little change in temperature Thursday, the outlook said.

Lows tonight will range from 65 to 70, slightly cooler than lows early today which ranged from 71 at Evansville and Indianapolis to 67 at Fort Wayne.

Opponents Keep Close Watch On Juan Peron

This Week Could Be Most Crucial

BUENOS AIRES (UP)—Political opponents of President Juan D. Peron kept a close watch on Congress today for signs that the days of dictatorship may be over.

Congress was in session Monday for the first time since Peron pledged to give up all special powers and to restore full constitutional government to the country. Congress had been in recess since June 30.

Legislators and the Ministry of Interior were expected to play leading roles in backing up Peron's pledges with action. Political observers believed this week could be one of the most crucial in the country's political history.

While the congressional session officially began Monday, it was not expected to produce any concrete action before Wednesday at the earliest. Congressmen from remote interior points were still on their way to the capital.

Peron's opponents, who looked with a wary eye on the President's promises last Friday, sought indications that the state of internal war will be lifted as promised. They said this would be strong proof of Peron's sincerity.

The country has been in a state of internal war since 1951. As such, the President has exercised special powers and certain civil rights

In a speech to the Congressional leaders of the Peronist Party last Friday, Peron resigned as head of the party and promised his political opponents full exercise of their rights. He promised to give up his special powers and to end the dictatorship form of government in force since 1951.

To Take Action In Sit-Down Prison Strike

Governor Will Study Situation

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UP) — Gov. Charles H. Russell of Nevada prepared today to take "whatever action I deem necessary" in a sit-down strike at Nevada State Prison.

Russell was scheduled to fly here from Las Vegas the first thing this morning to study the situation at first-hand. He did not indicate what measures he would take to end the strike.

There has been no violence. The prisoners merely refused to line up for dinner following the end of their regular exercise period at 6:40 p.m. DT Monday.

Through a regular three - man grievance committee, none of whose members was involved in the sitdown, the strikers presented a list of 12 demands. One was for a public meeting with the governor.

Clad only in dungarees and thin T-shirts, the prisoners spent the night loafing in the brilliantly lighted exercise yard. It was warm during the day and evening, but the temperature steadily fell to around 45 degrees.

Twenty-two highway patrolmen walked around the walls surrounding the yard, keeping a watchful eye on the convicts. They were ready to use tear gas at a moment's notice if any rioting should break out. Some of the convicts lined up to return to their cells, but a few of their number dissuaded them. Prison officials said the ringleaders passed the word around, "We all go in or no one goes in."

Warden Arthur Bernard blamed recent prison disturbances at Walla Walla, Wash., and Rawlings, Wyo., for the sitdown. He said the trouble had been brewing for "a couple of weeks."

Bernard said the 222 prisoners were either led or coerced by a "hard core" of about 25 "long-term inmates." The 136 remaining inmates, all trustees, returned to their cells.

You Can Take Your Pick For Which Position Ike Is Grooming Nixon, Number One Or Two

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—You can take your pick now whether President Eisenhower is grooming Vice President Richard M. Nixon for continued service or a promotion after 1956.

The urgent hope and considerable confidence of most top drawer Republican leaders are in agreement that the vice president is being groomed merely for continued service as No. 2 man on a 1956 Eisenhower-Nixon ticket.

However that may be, Mr. Eisenhower repeated a tremendous political gesture in Nixon's direction before taking off for Geneva. In a handwritten note he authorized the vice president to summon and preside over a cabinet meeting and to convene a legislative conference if such were needed. Nixon has presided at cabinet meetings before this when the President was absent from Washington, but this is the first with Mr. Eisenhower in foreign lands.

Expresses Satisfaction

This continuing expression of confidence in the young—age 42—man from California is the latest of many. The President so frequently has expressed satisfaction wuth Nixon's conduct in office as to convince almost anyone that he'd like him on the ticket again, if there is an Eisenhower ticket.

Nixon's barbed campaign charges last year that the Democrats had been soft on Communism enraged that party's leaders. Mr. Eisenhower moved shortly before the election to give the prestige of his own endorsement to Nixon's political strategy. It was one of those 'Dear Dick" letters

WCTU Urges No Drinking At Geneva

EVANSTON, Ill. (UP) — The Woman's Christian Temperance Union has "prayerfully urged" President Eisenhower that there be no drinking at the Geneva "summit" meeting.

In a cable, the WCTU recalled what it termed drinking among envoys at the Yalta and Potsdam conferences and asked that there be "no use of alcoholic beverages preceding or during the Geneva conference leading to major decisions."

Enthronement Of Special Papal Representative

Will Highlight Eucharistic Congress

By JUAN DE ONIS
United Press Staff Correspondent

RIO DE JANEIRO (UP)The enthronement of Benedetto A. Cardinal Masella, personal representative of Pope Pius II, and all other cardinals on the monumental altar marks the solemn beginning tonight of the 36th International Eucharistic Congress.

The installation of the cardinals on their individual thrones, one of the highlights of the week-long congress, will be followed by the delivery by boat of the Blessed Sacrament.

The sacrament will be brought across Guanbara Bay in a torchlight procession and enshrined on the altar in Congress [illegible]

Quarter-million Pilgrims

Francis Cardinal Spellman, archbishop of New York, was to arrive this afternoon aboard the S.S. Brazil to complete the record attendance of 18 cardinals at the congress. Some 100 bishops and archbishops are participating along with an estimated 250,000 pilgrims.

Jaime de Barros Cardinal Camara, of Rio, will deliver the welcoming address to Cardinal Masella, an extremely popular figure in the Brazilian capital. The papal legate served as papel nuncio ambassador here for 17 years, ending in 1946.

Masella will read a papal bull to the throngs in mile-square congress square following his installation. Jose Costa Nunes, president of the permanent committee of the Eucharistic Congress, will also speak.

In the purely ritual sense, the congress will not open until Wednesday when a solemn Pontifical Mass will be celebrated by Fernando Cardinal Quiroga Palacios, archbishop of Santiago de Compostela, Spain.

Eucharistic Blessing

This afternoon, Abel Isidoro Antezana, archbishop of Lapa, officiates at a eucharistic blessing for all sick and crippled at the congress altar.

In one of the few actual congress activities Monday, Cardinal Benjamin Arriba Castro of Spain celebrated a Solemn High Mass in Candelaria Church for Spain's national holiday.

Earlier, Cardinal Masella told a news conference that the Pontiff is "in good health" although he works harder than his associates would like to see him work. The cardinal said the Pope's dedication to the church is so great that "he works beyond his own endurance."

Nancy McClain Returns From Irene Byron

Nancy McClain, who has been a patient at Irene Byron Sanitorium since December 27, 1954, was dismissed July 11 and returned to her home, it has been announced by Mrs. Velma Moeller, executive secretary of the Whitley County Tuberculosis Association.

Miss McClain is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted McClain, 209 West Jefferson street.

Her dismissal leaves only five patients from the county at the institution, Mrs. Moeller said.

Brotherhood Of First Church Of God Plan Ice Cream Social

The Brotherhood of the First Church of God held its monthly meeting Monday night in the basement of the church.

The business meeting wad devoted to planning and naming of the committees for the ice cream social to be held in July on the courthouse lawn.

Robert Taylor, a member of the Allen County Agriculture Extension Staff, gave an interesting talk on soil, and how the state of Indiana had changed during the "'past million years." He also demonstrated how the various ingredients in the soil affected plants, using corn and soy beans as examples.

After the meeting refreshments were served.

Big Three Go To Geneva To Speak With One Voice

Show Difference Of Accent On The First Day

By K. C. THALER
United Press Staff Correspondent

GENEVA (UP) — The United States, Britain and France went to Geneva to speak "with one voice" at the Big Four summit conference, but they showed marked differences of accent on the first day.

President Eisenhower said in his opening statement that the talks were designed "to find a basis for accommodation" that will make future concrete solutions possible.

British Prime Minister Anthony Eden offered Russia a five-power non-aggression pact with a demilitarized buffer zone between East and West.

French Premier Edgar Faure suggested a security organization to include all European countries as well as a new disarmament deal.

Reflect Western Agreement

A first assessment of the West's peace plans led observers to conclude that these views reflected Western agreement on the broad principles of a possible settlement but the absence of a joint plan so far on how it could be achieved.

Western observers welcomed President Eisenhower's policy statement as a "sober and conciliatory" outline of Allied strategy

Toastmasters Club Holds Barbecue At Louis Schalk Farm

The Thomas R. Marshall Toastmasters Club held a barbecue dinner meeting Monday evening as the guest of Louis A. Schalk at his farm in Thorncreek township.

The dinner of barbecued ribs was served at 6:15 p.m. and was preceded by smorgasbord at 5:45.

Franklin Dillman was awarded the speaker of the evening cup for his speech entitled "Time For a Change." He discussed the proposed new world calendar in which the year would be divided into four equal quarters. The year would have only 364 days with each quarter having 91 days. The extra day would be known as world day, with two such days coming in leap year.

Dillman showed a sample of the calendar and pointed out some of its advantages.

Other speakers on the program were Woodfin Jones, whose speech was entitled "The Jones Boy," and Thomas Bennett speaking on "The Greatest Sport." Arlo Schilling, a former member of the club, gave an impromptu talk on his recent tour or Europe.

Robert J. DeMoney, president of the club, presided at the meeting and introduced Clarence Gall, who served as Toastmaster. David Spence served at topicmaster and called on six members of the club for extemporaneous speeches. General evaluator of the speeches was Robert Leach. Schilling served as wordmaster.

Walter Binder was introduced as a guest at the meeting.

Congressmen Are Optimistic Over Geneva Meeting

Some Frown At Soviet Russia's Opening Proposal

By WARREN DUFFEE
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—Congressmen keeping a long - distance watch on developments at Geneva were generally optimistic today over the Big Four meeting's opening tones of cooperation. But some frowned critically at Soviet Russia's opening proposal for European security.

Sen. John J. Sparkman (D-Ala), a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said Soviet Prime Minister Nikolai Bulganin's proposal for liquidating the North Atlantic Treaty Organization is "impossible for us to agree to" without some kind of workable arms control plan for Europe.

Sen. Homer E. Capehart (R-Ind), another committee member, said "I'm not in favor of liquidating NATO." But he said he did not think the Russian proposal "closes the door" to possible progress at the Big Four talks.

Most Senators Optimistic

Congressional leaders expected to get their first report on developments today from Vice President Richard M. Nixon. It was agreed at a White House meeting last week that congressional leaders would receive special progress reports on the Geneva talks.

Many senators voiced open optimism about prospects for success at Geneva in light of the opening statements by the "Big Four." There was strong praise for President Eisenhower's eight-point program. And some were especially interested in British Prime Minister Anthony Eden's arms control plan for Europe.

Chairman Walter F. George (D-Ga) of the Senate Foreign Relations group said that "as a first step," Eden's plan "might well be kept under consideration." He said that "once there can be an agreement, even general, some progress may be possible."

"Nothing New" On NATO

Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark), a member of the committee, said there is "nothing new" about the Russian desire to "eliminate NATO." But he said the proposal should not be the "preclusion of further attempts" by the Western powers toward progress at Geneva.

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ), the committee's second - ranking GOP member, said Eden's proposal was "something that ought to be explored." He told a reporter that "our whole attitude must be one of optimism and hope that the attitude of conciliation" by all parties at the talks "will be really sincere."

Sen. Mike Mansfield (D - Mont), another committee member, said he was "very happy" with the generally mild tone of Bulganin's speech.

Valuation Of Railroads, Utilities In Indiana Passes Billion Mark

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—The indiana State Tax Board says taxable valuation of Indiana utilities and railroads has passed the one-billion dollar mark.

The board announced late Monday the valuation for property tax purposes totaled $1,056,897,970, an increase of nearly 58.5 million dollars, or 5.5 per cent over 1954.

Board chairman A.L. Fessler attributed the increase to continuing growth of private power companies in Indiana. He said the new figures "indicate continued prosperity and expansion within the state for years to come."

Expansion projects of the Public Service Co. of Indiana Indiana-Michigan Electric Co., Northern Indiana Public Service Co., and Indiana - Kentucky Electric Co. were singled out primarily for the gain.

Community Chest Committee Meets, No Action Taken

The first meeting of the budget and admission commitee of the Whitley County Community Chest was held Monday evening in the City Hall.

Only four of the committee consisting of 11 persons attended the meeting and no action could be taken. However, requests by two of the participating agencies were heard. Mary Evans represented the Northeast Indiana Heart Foundation, and Edward J. Meyers presented the request for the Whitley County Council for Retarded Children, Inc.

Another meeting of the committee is planned for Monday evening at 8:00.

Police, Troops Patrol Streets In Morocco

Enforce Uneasy Truce Between Colony, Natives

CASABLANCA, Morocco (UP)—Thousands of armed police and troops in armored cars patrolled the narrow blood-stained streets of the city today enforcing an uneasy truce between the European colony and the natives.

The major rioting and terrorism, in which at least 65 persons have been killed, appeared to have subsided under the guns of the tank-supported government forces.

The bomb - killing of a night watchman Monday was the latest in a series of violent deaths that have resulted from the race riots. Five days of murder, arson and pillage have followed the tossing of a bomb into a crowded cafe last Thursday.

At least 200 persons have been injured in the outbreaks. Unofficial reports have put the death toll as high as 200, with the bodies of many more victims believed to be concealed in the winding back streets of the native quarters.

Martial law and the curfew were still in force. The newly-appointed military commander of the city Gen. Andre Franchi, toured the new and old Medinas Monday night with the Pasha of Casablanca, the city's highest Arab leader.

French Resident General Gilbert Grandval kept in close touch with Premier Edgar Faure at the Big Four conference in Geneva, advising him of developments in the situation. The violence was regarded as the worst in the North African territory in many years.

Agree To Give German Issue Top Priority

Was Concession By The Soviets

BULLETIN

GENEVA UP —President Eisenhower told Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin today that the United States never would wage an aggressive war against any nation.

The American chief executive gave the Soviet leader that assurance in the course of today's first shirt-sleeve working session of the Big Four summit Conference.

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer

GENEVA, Switzerland (UP) — The Big Four heads of government today tackled the complicated and touchy problem of German reunification in their first shirt-sleeve working session.

The Big Four foreign ministers—Molotov in an unusually cooperative mood—had agreed in a morning session to give the German issue top priority on a four-point agenda which also included, in this order:

European security.

Disarmament.

Development of East-West contacts.

The decision to give top billing to German reunification was a concession by the Soviets, who had wanted to consider first the issue of European security. And it represented a substantial strategic victory for the Western Big Three, all of whom had the German question fir_t on their lists.

See Good Sign

The very fact that an agenda was agreed upon in an harmonious 90-minute session of the foreign ministers was considered a good augury for the conference. Many an earlier East-West conference has collapsed in disputes over what items should be considered

Russian Agricultural Experts Sit Down Today To Neighborhood Picnic With Iowa Farmers

DES MOINES, Iowa (UP) — Twelve Russian agricultural experts sat down to a neighborhood picnic today with 25 Iowa farm folk.

The picnic was held on the dirt farm of George Hora, six miles north of Washington, Iowa, about 100 miles southeast of here.

The menu included a dozen plump spring roosters, potatoes, gravy, potato salad, corn on the cob, hot rolls and farm buter, strawberry jam, three kinds of pie, cake and iced tea.

The occasion was another visit to a "typical family-owned farm home' by the Soviet delegation on its month-long tour of the nation's bread basket.

The Russians arrived in this country Saturday and will spend their time trying to learn how America builds up its huge food surpluses while Soviet production lags.

Hogs Bring Honors

Hora's 160-acre farm was singled out for inspection because it was the first honored by Iowa State College for master swine producing.

Also on hand today were the 100 or so newsmen and photographers whom Vladimir Matskevich, chief of the delegation and first deputy minister of Russian agriculture said "got in the way of the cows"

Matskevich, particularly, had a hard day Monday, although, in keeping with the good will attitude he has generated since his arrival, he smiled through it all.

Makes Peace Plea

In addition to his visit with the delegation to the farm of Richard L. Alleman, a 25-year-old Army veteran, and his running barbs at the newsmen, he made a plea for peace and explained the desperate straits of Russian agriculture.

Matskevich was far more impresed with Alleman's farm near Slater, Iowa, north of here, than he was with the newsmen.

Bouncing across Alleman's 160-acre farm in a tractor-drawn flatbed wagon with his companions, he said the crop layout was "very impressive."

He admitted some Russian farms were downright "lousy" and jotted down copious notes as he toured the fields.

The Russians inspected Alleman's 80 acres of corn, 40 acres of oats and 40 acres of rotated hay and pasture, then moved on to his 121 spring pigs and 12 sows, his 48 heifers and his wife's 200 pullets.

Couple Farms Alone

They were impressed when Alleman explained that he and his wife, Verda, 23, farmed the land

Freak Accident Kills Four People

ALEANDRIA, La. (UP) — A 10-year-old boy told today of a freak accident in which his father, his sister, a friend and a passing motorist were killed one by one as they came to his assistance.

The boy, Willie L. Voorhie Jr., said his family had been visiting friends and were preparing to leave Monday night in the family automobile. Willie went first to the car and was stunned by an electric charge when he touched the metal body of the automobile.

Willie's father, Willie L. Voorhies Sr., 33, rushed to help him and was killed when he touched the car. Linda Carolyn Voorhies, 6, a sister of the injured boy, touched the car and she too was killed.

The next victim was William L. Brassette, 31, at whose home the Voorhies had been visiting.

A passing motorist, Y.E. Tillman Jr., 32, stopped to investigate, touched the car, and was killed also.

Police said a 110-volt electric line was knocked down during a rainstorm and fell on the automobile charging it with current.

Willie Voorhies the sole survivor of the tragedy, was taken to Baptist Hospital. Attendants said he had suffered burns but was in good condition.

About 55 Workers At Studebaker Walk Out Again

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UP)—About 55 workers on the final assembly line of the Studebaker-Packard Corp. walked out again today.

The strike halted production for the second day this week, causing most of the 9,000 production workers at the plant to be sent home.

The dispute on the assembly line concerned seniority rights. The company and Local 5 of the CIO United Auto Workers have been negotiating a dispute about establishing new production standards at the plant.

The 55 workers stopped work Thursday, Friday and Monday mornings and shutdown the plant. Company and union officials said the stoppage was unauthorized. William Ogden, local president, said union officials were trying to keep the 55 men on the job.

FHA Program Has Been Repaired And Modernized

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Federal Housing Administration reported today that its blacklist and tightened restrictions have driven the "suede shoe boys" from the home-improvement field.

The fly-by-night operators peddled shabby home repairs and improvements last year on such a scale throughout the country that a major scandal resulted at the FHA. And tens of thousands of American families were swindled.

The FHA today cited a letter from the National Better Business Bureau, Inc., of New York, to back its claim that its home modernization and repair program has itself been "modernized and repaired."

The scandals prompted investigations by Congress and the executive branch of the government and narrowly missed ending the FHA program under which a home owner can get federal help in fixing up his house.

All the owner had to do was get a "Title I" FHA loan for as much as $2,500. He had up to three years to pay for his improvements.

The trouble was that often as not his new roof peeled off, the insulation didn't insulate or the flooring cracked. The salesman was nowhere to be found.

Loneliest Bar In Geneva Is At The Russian Headquarters

By KENNETH MILLER
United Press Staff Correspondent

GENEVA (UP)—The loneliest bar in town today is at Russian headquarters in the Hotel Metropole.

For two days, the bartenders have lived in utter boredom, since few Russians have showed up for a drink.

"Very serious, these Russians," one bartender said.

They aren't doing much public drinking while here for the Big Four summit talks, he said. The Russians have no real bars at home and aren't used to this Western form of taking aboard a load. Their drinking is done fast and with food, the bartender explained mournfully.

Russians Hit Night Spot

But not all the Soviet delegates are stay-at-homes, and their leaders have taken unprecedented steps to show themselves to the populace.

Three Russians were spotted Monday night inspecting the scenery at one of Geneva's many night spots which feature nude shows. The visitors sat well back in a corner. They drank only coffee, while a band played, "Can't We Talk It Over?"

Premier Nikolai Bulganin, Soviet Communist Party Secretary Nikita Khrushchev and Marshal Georgi Zhukov have amazed the Swiss by riding around in an open limousine with scant security precautions.

Only One Security Guard

Before the conference opened, five of them piled into the back seat of a convertible, with Bulganin and Khrushchev on the jump seats, and took off on a tour of old Geneva.

Only one security car accompanied them. They waved and smiled in friendly style to passersby.

At the conference opening, the Russian delegation had almost casual style security protection, whereas President Eisenhower was covered swiftly and efficiently by a large Secret Service detail.

"The Russians looked like they were arriving at a Shriners convention," one visitor commented.

Eisenhower Shops In Downtown Geneva

GENEVA (UP)—President Eisenhower became the center of a minor mob scene in downtown Geneva today when he went shopping for toys for his three grandchildren.

Mr. Eisenhower faced a moment of temporary embarrassment, after making his selection, when he discovered he had no Swiss currency.

He asked the shopkeeper if he might buy on credit.

The shopkeeper charged the purchases, gladly.

Mr. Eisenhower sped into Geneva from his suburban villa at Cruex-de-Genthod for a conference at the American delegation headquarters in the Hotel du Rhone before attending the afternoon's summit meeting.

He stopped off at a small toy shop on the banks of the swirling green Rhone River in mid-Geneva to "shop for my kids."

Schedule Services

DETOIT (UP)—Services were scheduled today for Mrs. Marjorie Booth Koch, 29, daughter of Detroit News President Warren Scripps Booth.

Mrs. Koch died Sunday at William Beaumont Hospital in suburban Royal Oak after a short illness.

President's Stop Order May Apply To Only Six Units

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower's stop order on new water, navigation and power projects voted by Congress may apply to as few as a half dozen units, it appeared today.

Congress added 107 projects to administration recommendations in passing a public works appropriation bill. The President in signing the bill last Friday said funds would be withheld for any of the padded projects on which detailed engineering and cost studies haven't been completed.

Democratic senators denounced his statement Monday, calling the implied fund impoundment a "usurpation" of congressional power. Later in the day, Budget Director Dowland R. Hughes said no funds had been impounded.

This came after Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La.), who handled the appropriation bill in the Senate, said engineering is complete on all but a half dozen of the added projects. If the Budget Bureau has the same estimate as Ellender only those would be held up.

However, until the Budget Bureau makes a more definite statement, all 107 projects added by Congress to the original budget estimates apparently are in doubt.

Mother Gives Up Hunger Strike

MIAMI (UP) — A "very religious" mother who staged a four-day hunger strike protesting the drafting of her son today gave her "consent and my good wishes" in his military career.

Mrs. Martha Blumenbach, 52, Monday night ended her four days of fasting. She was reported pale and weak, after living on nothing but water since late Friday.

Her husband, Earl Blumenbach, well-to-do appliance dealer at nearby Coral Gables, Fla., said his wife "is a sick — very sick — woman."

He termed her vow to fast "unto death" in protesting the induction of their son, Dr. Thomas Blumenbach, 26, as a "case of having too much religion."

"The entire ordeal was caused by a nervous breakdown which stemmed from an over zealous religious attitude," Blumenbach said.

After breaking her fast in which she lost three or four pounds she said, "from here on he (the son) shall have my consent and my good wishes in the service."

Dr. Blumenbach entered the service through the Coast Guard and was assigned to the U.S. Public Health Service Marine Hospital at Savannah, Ga. He called it the "lesser evil" when faced with immediate induction.

Howard Hughes Sells RKO-Radio Picture Studio

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UP)—Millionaire Howard Hughes' sold RKO-Radio Pictures, Inc., Monday to the General Tire and Rubber Co. for 25 million dollars cash in a deal believed to be the largest single financial transaction in the history of the motion picture industry.

An announcement said payment is due to be made by check on July 25. The transaction was believed to be one of the largest cash sales by an individual in the history of American finance.

The contract was signed by Hughes and Thomas J. O'Neill, vice president of the rubber company and president of General Teleradio, Inc., and Mutual Broadcasting System, which are subsidiaries of General Tire and Rubber.

The studio will be taken over by General Teleradio. The new owner also will acquire control of about 400 old films and some new ones. It was believed they would be shown on the Mutual Television Network.

O'Neill said no immediate personnel changes were planned as a result of the change of ownership.

Clint Walker Becomes Star In First Acting Job

By ALINE MOSBY
Unitedy Press Hollywood Writer

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—A one-time bouncer at a Las Vegas hotel found himself a star in his first acting job today.

Warner Studios unveiled its plans for TV this fall. And, on Hollywood manner, the Warner program has a few items in common with the Walt Disney program that pioneered the entry of major film studios into TV.

One segment of the Warner show, which begins Sept. 13 on ABC-TV, will feature handsome Clint Walker, 28, former deputy at the Sands Hotel in Las Vegas, in a Western series, "Cheyenne."

Like Crockett, Walker will have a sidekick "Smitty," played by L.Q. Jones.

"But I don't wear a coonskin cap,' Walker drawled.

"And I don't wear those frilly Western clothes. Just simple things."

Walker's story is a true Cinderella tale. He quit high school in Alton, Ill., to enter the Merchant Marine. Later he was a laborer and an insurance salesman. He moved his wife and baby to Texas in a $65 car. They lived in a shack without running water for $15 a month rent.

He tried working on the docks at Long Beach and finally headed for Las Vegas. Walker is 6 feet, 5 inches tall and weighs 235 pounds so he quickly won a job as a bouncer.

Bounces Into Job

In the Sands Hotel the entertainers "kept telling me I should be in movies." Van Johnson introduced Clint to a Hollywood agent. Finally Clint quit his $300 a month job and looked up the agent. On the ex-bouncer's first job interview, at Warner's, he was signed to the starring role for the TV series.

He had never acted before in his [illegible] when he faced the cameras last week for the hour-long filmed show.

"I always was scared to death of box cameras but when I got in front of the movie camera it didn't bother me," the slow-talking actor said.

Broad - shouldered, handsome Clint looks as if he ought to be a movie star. Though he's never been seen on the screen, three children asked him for autographs while we sat in the Brown Derby Restaurant.

"My wife has been working in a drive-in restaurant but now she can quit,' he said. "I want to use this opportunity to improve myself. Some people never have the chance to expand their lives. But you should climb all the time."

Harmon Nichols Sees Three Black Bears On Mountain

By HARMN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent

KEMANO, B.C. (UP)—We were at the 2,600-foot level of the mountain here, looking at nothing in particular but the snow on top of, when along came a lady bear.

She was followed by her next of kin, two of the cutest teddies you ever did see.

This was the cruel north country. The concrete-pounding reporters on the trip had come to look at the new Kitimat smelter development, which one day will be he biggest of its kind in the world. Eventually 550,000 tons of aluminium will be processed here annually.

So what do they see but three black bears. The newsmen, financial writers mostly, and therefore on the serious or fact-wise side, were on this day, in a holiday mood.

Every last one, except this character who forgot his brownie, carried a camera. Most eager of the group was a bright scribe from the New York Times named Jack Ryan.

Jack was trying a new color movie camera on for size.

Gets Real Close

Well, the bear looked a little hungry, so an unnamed member of the group produced a candy bar and pitched it in the direction of the lady bruin. She was interested, and right away started to play Hollywood. She came up real close and our eager colleague, Jack, got the closest of the close and started grinding away.

The bear, whom we named Tebiatha, in honor of the late aunt of one of our crowd, did a few tricks. Then Tebiatha stood up, gulped the last of her sweets and headed for the woods, followed by her family.

I asked Jack what a lady bear looked life, close up. He looked a little miffed.

"How do I know?" he said, "but I'll fill you in when I develop these films. But let me tell you something—I know a little about bears."

Jack opened his brand new movie box to re-load his film and let out a howl. He hadn't loaded in the first place, and all the while he had risked life and limb to re-prove.

A Ruined Bruin

"What'll my wife say,' he said. "She'll never believe that me, a fine amateur photographer, got so close to a lady bear without bringing back some evidence via film.

"Well," said the unnamed character who provided the sweets, "You caused me to throw away my last candy bar. I like candy bars."

"But worse," complained Jack. "I didn't get a chance to ask the lody bear what is on the other side of the mountain. I've always wanted to know."

Well, Jack felt a little better the day when we saw the other side of the same mountain. And to be real truthful about it, it looked just like the side we saw the day before.

Adenauer Vacations In Alps Near Geneva

BONN, Germany (UP) — West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer left today for a vacation in the Swiss Alps' close to Geneva where the Big Four heads of government are in conference.

Big Four

and in what order.

The West also appeared to have successfully closed the door at the Geneva summit talks to explosive Far Eastern issues which Russia had threatened to bring into the discussions. The West insists Far Eastern matters should not be considered here, in the absence of Far Eastern delegates.

A British spokesman said the foreign ministers did not discuss the length of the conference. But authoritative sources said the talks among the heads of government would end on Friday.

President Eisenhower's press secretary, James Hagerty said it would be up to the heads of governments to decide whether consideration of each agenda item would have to be finished before the next was taken up.

If any of the heads of government want to discuss further items during the conference he can raise the matter and seek agreement from the other chiefs of state, the foreign ministers proposed.

The Western leaders went into this morning's session determined to put German unity at the top of the list. Molotov surprised them by agreeing.

After the agenda was announced by press attaches of the four delegations, French Premier Edgar entertained British Prime Minister Anthony Eden and Sovit Premier Nikolai Bulganin at lunch.

President Eisenhower did not attend. The President, being a chief of state as well as a head of government, outranks the other members of the conference from a technical protocol stand point and apparently has decided not to attend some of the social functions given for conference delegates.

The West had expected the Soviets to resist putting German unification at the top of the program.

Faure to Preside

French Premier Edgar Faure got his turn to preside over the heads of government session this afternoon. President Eisenhower was chairman Monday.

Monday night, President Eisenhower played host to the Soviet delegation at a champagne supper in his villa.

The President gave Marsha Georgi Zhukov, the Soviet defense minister, wedding presents for his daughter. They were a small portable American radio and a marble pen and ink stand inscribed from Mr. Eisenhower.

Zhukov passed up his daughter's wedding to renew his friendship with the President at the present conference. They first met as occupation commanders in Berlin after World War II.

The dinner gave the Americans a chance to sound out the Russians on serious maters, but it went off in convivial fashion.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Soviet Foreign Minister V.M. Molotov swapped jokes and champagne toasts.

After dinner, the President toasted Soviet President Klimenti Voroshilov, nominal head of state. Bulganin responded, expressing hope the present conference would succeed.

Molotov saluted Dulles in another round of toasts, with the U.S. secretary of state responding in a humorous vein.

Since it also was the birthday of Deputy Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko he, too, came in for a round of toasts.

In addition, there were toasts to peace, to good fellowship and to the leaders of all the nations represented at the summit parley.

The dinner was a stag affair because the Russians did not bring their wives to Geneva.

Red Lip Serivce

In his opening speech Monday afternoon, Bulganin indicated clearly that the Soviets, while paying lip service to the German unification issue, do not believe it is a matter of practical politics at the moment. Bulganin hinted pretty strongly that the Russians did not feel this was a subject to which the Big Four should devote their energies right now.

On the contrary, Bulganin indicated the Russians are more interested in reaching agreement or disarmament and security at the present parley.

Further, Bulganin dropped a hint in his opening speech that the Russians would seek to drag in the Far Eastern issue, although the West has made it quite clear it does not regard the present Geneva conference as the appropriate place for a debate on that subject.

In his address, Bulganin indicated the Russians would raise the Formosa question and would propose again that it be settled by a direct conference between the United States and Red China. The U.S. already has rejected the idea of any such meeting.

Furthermore, Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, who recently visited both Moscow and the western European capitals, said in New Delhi today that the Far Eastern situation is the most urgent topic which could be considered by the Big Four at present. He said "it is a more explosive problem than Germany" and added that "it cannot be ignored by the big powers."

Thoroughly Dejected Charley Grimm Finds Only One Straw To Clutch At In Evaluation

By FRED DOWN
United Press Sports Writer

A thoroughly dejected Charley Grimm found only one straw to clutch at today when he evaluated his Milwaukee Braves' chances of overtaking the Brooklyn Dodgers in the National League pennant race.

"I managed the Chicago Cubs in 1935 when they won 21 straight games to close out the season," Grimm said after the Braves' disheartening 6-5 loss to the New York Giants Monday night. "That's the only way I can figure it now—you're only out when they count '10' over you."

Grimm, who was under fire himself for his third-base coaching in Monday night's sloppy scramble of so-called contenders, pondered a moment and then added: "If we were right, we'd have swept the series with the Giants."

As it was, the split of the four-game series left both teams without a reasonable argument for believing they could catch the Dodgers—who, incidentally, bowed to the Cincinnati Redlegs, 9-5, Monday night.

Cubs' Losses Mount

To make matters even more rosy for the Dodgers, the pseudo-contender Cubs' losing streak mounted to eight straight games when they were defeated, 8-6 and 2-1, by the Philadelphia Phillies. The first game was the completion of Sunday's suspended contest in which the Cubs led, 5-4, in the sixth while the second was a regularly scheduled contest in which Herman Wehmeier outdueled Warren Hacker, 2-1.

Center-fielder Bill Bruton's muff of Willie Mays' 410-foot fly with two out in the seventh inning permitted Alvin Dark and Whitey Lockman to score with two unearned runs that gave the Giants Monday night's victory. Don Liddle received credit for his third win while Warren Spahn suffered his 10th loss.

Grimm, Milwaukee's third-base coach, was under fire for failing to send Del Crandall, who had tripled, in to the plate in the top of the seventh when Spahn flied to Mays for the first out. Grimm held up Crandall and Mays' throw was far off the plate although very strong.

Bruton followed with a shorter fly to Mays and Willie cut down Crandall at the plate with a one-bounce throw to catcher Wes Westrum.

Klu Gets No. 30

Joe Black, former Dodger, received credit for his fourth victory for Cincinnati behind an attack that included two homers by Stan Palys and No. 30 of the year by Ted Kluszewski. Karl Spooner yielded five runs and seven hits in four and a third innings to lose his fourth game.

Pinch-hitter Glen Gorbous' three-run homer enabled the Phillies to rally for five runs and win their suspended game with the Cubs and Roy Smalley's two-run fifth-inning homer against his former teammates provided all the runs Wehmeier required to notch his seventh triumph. The Phils have won five straight.

N. L. castoff Jim Wilson turned in his fourth shutout of the season—a two-hitter—as the Baltimore Orioles snapped the Chicago White Sox's seven-game winning streak with a 3-0 decision. Gus Triandos hit a two-run homer in the first inning and Hal Smith doubled home the third run in the eighth. Wilson now has a 7-9 record for the Orioles.

Roy Sievers' 13th and 14th homers of the season paced the Washington Senators to a 6-3 triumph over the Kansas City Athletics in the only other major league game played. Ted Abernathy was the winner and Cloyd Boyer the loser.

Young Men Lead Field In Golf Tourney

ROCKFORD, Ill. (UP)—A young man who won his first tournament just last month and another not yet out of his teens led a field of 164 into the second round of the Western Amateur Golf Tournament today.

Robert Brue, a 20-year-old ex-caddy from Milwaukee, and Rex Baxter, 19, of Amarillo, Tex., fired three under par 68s Monday on the rolling Rockford Country Club course.

By one stroke, they led John Levison of Highland Park, Ill., one-time New England champion; Harold Brink, a 33-year-old Grand Rapids, Mich., used car salesman; and Hillman Robbins Jr., 33, former national intercollegiate champ from Memphis, Tenn.

Two strokes behind at even par 71, but exempt from qualifying, was Bruce Cudd, defending champion from Portland, Ore. Eleven others also had 71s.

MANILA, P.I. (UP)—Italo Scortichini, 156, Rome, Italy, stopped Marshall Clayton 155 New Orleans (8).

NEW YORK (UP) St. Nicholas Arena)—Sugar Al Wilson, 145¾, Englewood, N.J., outpointed Pat Lowry, 146 Toledo Ohio, 10).

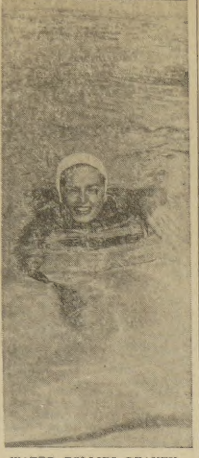
WEST JORDAN, Utah (UP) — Bob Baker, 214, Pittsburgh, outpointed Rex Layne, 210 (10).

Favorites Remain In Command

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UP)—Favorites remained in command today in the Western Junior and Boys tennis tournament on the University of Illinois courts.

Top-seeded Mike Green of Miami Beach, Fla., moved into the third round of the junior division along with all other top-seeded netters with a 6-0, 6-1 win over Jim Jarrett of Decaur, Ill., in the second round Monday.

In the boys division, top-ranked Earl Bucholz and George Stoesser moved along easily.



WATER FOLLIES BEAUTY — Mary Dwight, world's champion in synchronized swimming, is shown here in action. She's a star of Water Follies of 1955, the spectacular variety show coming to Zollner Stadium in Fort Wayne July 28 through 31 under the sponsorship of Zollner Productions, Inc. There will be four shows at night and two special children's matinees (half price) Saturday and Sunday.

Bob Baker Wins Decision Over Layne

WEST JORDAN, Utah (UP) — Second-raking Bob Baker, won on a decision over Rex Layne Monday night.

The Pittsburgh powerhouse battled toe-to-toe with Layne to score his second decision this year over the Utah slugger.

Layne, who tipped the scales at 210, was the aggressor throughout the night—but though a strong combination punch gave him early rounds, Baker at 214, was consistently the sharper puncher.

The match was billed as heavyweight elimination bout, many observers predicting the winner would meet Marciano if the champ successfully defends his title against Archie Moore.

Baker said he "hopes' he'll get a crack at the champ but that nothing is set at present. He said he thinks "I've got a chance of winning" should he meet Marciano.

Lach To Coach Team

MONTREAL (UP) — Elmer Lach, former star center of the Montreal Canadiens, will coach the Canadiens' Montreal Royals farm team of the Quebec Hockey League next season. Lach, who retired as player last year, coached the Canadiens' junior Canadiens team last season.

Manager Names His Batting Order For All-Star Team

By UNITED PRESS

Manager Kirby Farrell of the Indianapolis Indians announced the American Association batting order today for his All-Star team that will play Minneapolis July 21.

Still to be chosen is the pitcher who will be named by Farrell from among six selected in the poll.

The All-Star lineup is Don Blasingame, Omaha, 2b; Marty Keogh, Louisville, cf; Lou Skizas, Denver, rf; Bert Hamrich, St. Paul, lf; Frank Malzone, Louisville, 3b; Frank Torre, Toledo, 1b; Jack Spears, St. Paul, ss; and Darrell Johnson, Denver, c.

Toledo, meanwhile, protested its slim hold on first place Monday night despite a loss to Indianapolis 2-1. The Sox' only run was scored in the last of the ninth. Indianapolis put over single runs in the first and eighth.

Minneapolis holds a single percentage point lead for second place over Omaha.

The Millers lost to St. Paul, 8-6, while Omaha, on a three-run sixth inning, edged Denver, 3-2.

Charleston and Louisville were scheduled for a double-header but the second game was rained out after Louisville routed the Senators, 6-2, in the opener.

Wilson Promised Boxing Match

NEW YORK (UP)—Welterweight Sugar Al Wilson, who has had only four fights in two years because he's too dangerous, was promised another job soon today as a reward for his televised triumph over Pat Lowry.

Wilson, from Englewood, N.J., left-jabbed and left-hooked his way to a unanimous 10-round decision over Lowry, of Toledo, Ohio, in the feature bout at St. Nicholas arena Monday night.

Promoter Tex Sullivan said Wilson may be matched with the winner of next Monday night's bout in the same ring between Gene Poirier and Danny Jo Perez. Or Wilson and Lowry may be rematched because of the closeness of their bout.

Frick To Discuss Winter Baseball With Caribbean Officials

NEW YORK (UP) — Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick held "exploratory" talks Monday with officials of the Caribbean Baseball Federation, which has threatened to bar its winter leagues to all but Latin American-born players unless restrictions on the number major leaguers permitted to play are lifted. Frick will discuss the subject at the major-league meeting in Chicago Aug. 1, and meet with Caribbean officials here again, Aug. 12.

Boston Celtics Sign 6

BOSTON (UP)—The Boston Celtics pro basketball team had six players under contract today with the signing of veteran Don Barksdale and rookie Henry Dooley. Barksdale was the Celtics' fourth highest scorer last season. Six-three Dooley of Wiley (Tex) College scored 2,478 in four collegiate seasons.

Jack Fleck May Break Jinx Set By Ben Hogan

NORTHVILLE, Mich. (UP)—Not since Ben Hogan turned the trick in 1948 has anyone swept both the National Open and PGA titles in th same year but Jack Fleck, the former farm boy from Davenport, Iowa, will have high hopes of completing the "double" when he tees off Wednesday in the opening round of the PGA Tournament.

Fleck, 32-year-old pro at two municipal courses in Davenport, leaped from the ranks of the unknown last month with a dramatic playoff victory over Ben Hogan for the National Open crown at San Francisco.

"I've always been quite consistent—never really hot and never too cold," Fleck said. "A steady golfer can go a long way in a match play tournament unless, of course, he runs into someone who hits a hot streak.'

Slammin Sammy Snead, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.; Dr. Cary Middlecoff, Kiamesha Lake, N.Y.; Walter Burkemo, Franklin, Mich. and defending champion Chick Harbert the host pro, rule as co-favorites among the 134 who will start the week-long event.

Withdrawals have trimmed the field by eight with such top players as Julius Boros, Southern Pines, N.C.; Lloyd Mangrum, Niles, Ill.; Bob Toski, Miami Fla.; oberto de Vicenzo, Mexico City, and Henry Picard, Cleveland plus former champions Johnny Revolta, Skokie, Ill.; Olin Dutra, Los Angeles, and Paul Runyan, La Jolla Calif. pulling out for various reasons.

The PGA winner will pick up a check for $5000 but victory in this tournament is actually worth almost 10 times that much. Exhibitions and endorsements provide the extra revenue.

U. S. Runner Wins 2 Events In Finland

KUOVOLA, Finland (UP)—John Bentt of the United States scored two victories in an international track meet Monday, winning the broad jump with 7.59 meters (24 feet, 10¾ inches) and the high jump with 1.85 meters (six feet, ¾ inches. Other U.S. wins were by Dick Blair in the 200 meters in 21.0 seconds, Tom Courtney in the 400 meters in 47.6 seconds, and Bob Seman in the 1,500 meters in 3:48.6.

Helfand Expected To Tell Next Step In Boxing Probe

NEW YORK (UP) — Chairman Julius Helfand of the New York state Athletic Commission, fortified by a decision from the state Supreme Court, probably will announce Wednesday the next step in his investigation of the Boxing Managers Guild.

He may order hearings for the six managers now under suspension for refusal to testify at the commission's inquiry into the conduct of the New York chapter of the International Guild.

Those hearing would determine whether the suspended managers should be reinstated or have their licenses permanently revoked.

Also at Wednesday's commission meeting, additional testimony may be taken in the practically completed fact-finding inquiry, which was the first move in the investigation.

It was a "particularly pleased" Helfand who contemplated Wednesday's meeting; for Judge Martin M. Frank had not only upheld the commission's taboo against the boxers of suspended managers but had given sweeping Supreme-Court recognition to the commission's powers to investigate "the conduct o fthose who hold or apply for licenses." That applies to boxers, managers, seconds, matchmakers and promoters.

Monday's decision upheld the contract for Danish welterweight Chris Christensen to fight Gene Poirier of Niagara Falls at St. Nicholas Arena next Monday night. Christensen's pilot, Charley Bauer, is one of the six managers under suspension.

Bunning Replaces Maas On Tigers' Staff

DETROIT (UP) — Righthanded pitcher Jim Bunning, strikeout leader of the International League, today replaced Duke Maas on the Detroit Tigers' hurling staff. Bunning has struck out 111 batters so far this year for Buffalo. Maas, who had a 5-6 record but had failed to win since June 18, was sent to Buffalo.

Scortichini Scores TKO To Defend Crown

MANILA, P.I. UP)—Italo Scortichini, 156, Rome, Italy, successfully defended his Philippine middleweight champion Monday night with an eighth-round technical knockout over Marshall Clayton 155, New Orleans. Scortichini, the 6-5 favorite, won every round except the fifth and Clayton's manager threw in the towel at the start of the eighth.

Nixon

with a real sock.

"Whenever my burdens tend to feel unduly heavy," the President began, "I admire all the more the tremendous job you have been doing since the opening of the present campaign."

Salute To Mrs. Nixon

There was more, including a right hand salute to pretty Mrs. Pat Nixon. As recently as last month in San Francisco, Mr. Eisenhower was privately telling California state party leaders how Nixon had matured in office. Somewhat earlier he philosophized for a news conference on the relationship of presidential and vice presidential nominees. A No. 1 nominee who was given an unsatisfactory No. 2 running mate should refuse to run, the President said. He added a few cheers for Nixon and the job he was doing.

This bit of philosophy quickly was interpreted as meaning that Mr. Eisenhower would refuse to drop Nixon for a compromise right-wing Republican vice presidential nominee next year — Sen. William F. Knowland of California, for instance. Knowland is one of the so-called Taft men. He has bucked the administration on foreign policy and on the issue of Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.)

There have been other examples of Mr. Eisenhower's fondness for Nixon, personally and officially. For his part, the vice president is among the most active of the draft-Eisenhower Republicans.

Pigs should be weaned in the morning so the sows and pigs will have all day to get over the separation.

for future diplomatic moves.

But they also noted its cautious and noncommittal air. Which contrasted with the more firm British and French approach to the methods for a European settlement.

Interest focussed particularly on the vital question of European security which all three Western government chiefs mention, but with a marked difference of emphasis.

Mr. Eisenhower referred to the "legitimate security interests of all concerned." He also expressed readiness to take account of "legitimate security interests of the Soviet Union."

"Practical Start"

The British plan called for a "practical start" and advanced the idea of a security pact between the United States, Britain, France, Russia and Germany, binding each country to go to the aid of a victim of aggression.

France had its own ideas. Faure suggested that the Western powers sign mutual security guarantees with the Soviet under which any nation attacking Russia would lose the aid of other Western European Union or NATO countries.

Moreover, France envisions a security organization to include all European nations willing to join it, with additional defensive guarantees.

This would approach the Soviet concept of an all-European security pact. But the essential French provision is that the West's regional defense organizations — the WEU and NATO — would remain intact along with the Soviet bloc's "Eastern NATO" formed under the Warsaw pact.

M. Edward Sheckler Dies Monday Evening; Had Long Been Ill

Morning Rites To Be Held Thursday

Maurice Edward Sheckler, 78, of Thorncreek township, died at 7:30 Monday evening at his home. He had been ill since 1951 and seriously ill for the past three months. He underwent surgery July 13 and had just returned to his home from the hospital.

A native of Thorncreek township, he was born May 26, 1877 to Thomas and Charlotte Wilder Sheckler on the farm where he died. His marriage to Florence Alta Egolf occurred in December 1902. He spent his life as a farmer and carpenter.

Survivors are his wife; two sons, Marshall, Thorncreek township, and Max, Loon Lake; one daughter, Miss Ruth P. Sheckler at home. Seven grandchildren survive. A sister and three brothers and a son are deceased.

Friends will be received at the J. A. DeMoney and Son Funeral Home after 7:30 this evening. Services will be held at the funeral home at 10 a.m. Thursday. Rev. Marion Shroyer will officiate.

Burial will be in the Stough cemetery.

John Q. Adams Will Admitted To Probate

The will of John Q. Adams, who died July 7, was admitted to probate in Whitley County circuit court Monday.

The will was filed by John Whiteleather, a witness to its signing. Hester C. Adams, widow of the decedent, was named executrix and sole beneficiary of the will.

The court ordered letters testamentary issued to the executrix upon her furnishing bond of $20,000.

Social Security

Civil Defense directors, gave a House group what he called an "interesting example" of what sometimes happens when state Civil Defense groups buy emergency supplies. He said the federal government sold surplus litters to a dealer for $4 each and then helped the state of Connecitcut buy 10,000 of them for $9.98 apiece.

Wages: Democratic an dRepublican leaders agreed the House will pass a bill increasing the federal minimum wage. The question was, by how much?

Some recommended a hike from the present 75-cent level to $1 an hour. But the administration wants a 90-cent figure, and some Republicans planned to fight for that level in today's debate.

Other Republicans were expected to offer a compromise plan under which the minimum would move first to 90 cents and then to $1 in a gradual, step-by-step process.

Polls among House members indicated the deciding vote would be fairly close with proponents of the $1 figure having a slight edge. The Senate already has approved a $1 level.

Other congressional news:

Social Security: The House approved 372-31 Monday a Democratic bill adding 1 million persons to those now receiving Social Security payments and increasing payroll taxes to finance the expanded benefits. Informed sources said there is little chance of the congressional leaders reaching their goal of adjournment a week from next Saturday.

Peace Ship: The House approved by voice vote Monday a bill authorizing construction of a newly designed, passenger-freight ship to be powered by a specially developed atomic engine. The ship would be a substitute for President Eisenhower's proposed "atoms for peace" merchant ship, which would have consisted of a conventional hull with a reactor like that already in the submarine Nautilus. The Senate Commerce Committee will meet Wednesday to vote on an atomic ship bill similar to the House measure.

Highways: The status of a Democratic multi-billion dollar highway construction program was clouded again today. As the 12-year, $48,500,000,000 plan was being readied for floor debate, the House Public Works Committee voted Monday to reconsider the bill throwing it wide open for changes. As originally written, the program would have been paid for in part by a 12-billion dollar hike in gasoline, tire and other highway "user" taxes.

Uniforms: The Senate Investigating subcommittee reopened its hearings today on alleged graft in the purchase of military uniforms. The subcommittee recalled Chicago capmaker and government contractor, Harry Lev, who promised on June 11 to remember how he spent nearly $214,000 in cash in two years. He said then he could not recall what he did with the money but was sure he never paid "one cent" to a government employe.

Talbott: Air Force Secretary Harold E. Talbott was questioned in private Monday by the Senate Investigating subcommittee about his connection with the firm of Paul B. Mulligan & Co., industrial engineers. Talbott is a partner in the business. Sen. Karl E. Mundt (-SD) told reporters that Talbott said he has solicited no business for the firm since taking his government post. Mundt also quoted Talbott as saying the firm's clients have no substantial defense contracts.

Vaccine: The Senate passed and sent to the House Monday a bill to supply either the necessary money or vaccine to states and communities which set up free polio vaccination programs for children and expectant mothers.

Air Academy: A revised design for the Air Force Academy—one with less emphasis on glass walls and elimination of the controversial accordion-like chapel — was well-received Monday by the Senate Appropriations Committee. But Air Force Secretary Harold E. Talbott refused to release the new plans for publication until he shows tical of the original design.

Asked if the profit motive might have contributed to the excellence of Alleman's farm, Matskevich said:

"The farm is excellent because the farmer is good. If Mr. Alleman worked as a director of a machine factor station (in Russia) he would also do good."

The Russians were particularly impressed by Alleman's corn crop, something they want Soviet farmers to produce more of. One of the delegation, A.V. Tulupnikov, took a large ear of corn from the granary, broke off a handful of kernels and munched on them.

"Very good corn," he said.

Method Surprises Russian

Peter Svechnikov, chairman of a 35,000 acre collective farm employing 2,700 Russian farmers, appeared startled when informed that Alleman planted up to five kernels in each hill.

He insisted that corn won't grow if more than two kernels are planted in each hill.

All the Russians seemed to be in good humor.

Alexander Ezheviski, an assistant to the minister in charge of Russia's agricultural implement production, climbed aboard a tractor for photographers and posed with a vacationing Chicago boy, Peter Harris Jr., 9.

Peter, who was wearing a Davy Crockett shirt, said, "First live Russian I ever saw."

Teller admitted 11 robberies and four burglaries during his frantic criminal career. He also took full blame for the criminal career of Lora Lee, his 17-year-old mistress, saying: "She's a good kid who went bad because of me. I'm bad but she isn't." Bail for Teller was set at $105,000, highest ever set in the history of Cleveland's Federal Court. Arraignment of Mrs. Ritenour was not completed before the court adjourned for the day.

Angels Rake In Tidy Profits From Two Broadway Plays

By KEITH L. MARTIN
United Press Staff Correspondent

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) —A half dozen employes at the Indiana Statehouse are raking in a tidy profit as angels for two Broadway plays.

They own a share of "Pajama Game" and "Damn Yankees," which are among this season's top money-makers in the theater world. Their venture has become a fascinating hobby with a sizeable financial gain which makes co-workers envious.

At the outset, these people were such show business novices they thought "Variety" wa sthe spice of life. Now they read the trade-sheet of Broadway faithfully.

The "angel" who started it all was Tom Robinson of Frankfort, public counselor of the State Public Service Commission. He knew Hal Prince from his Air Force days and while honeymooning in New York, learned Prince and two other men were going to produce a play from the book "Two Cents."

Prince wondered if Robinson would be interested in backing the $250,000 production. The minimum price, he said, would be $625 for one-eighth of a share in a limited partnership.

210 Per Cent Return

Robinson rounded up five fellow PSC workers—his secretary, Mary Bowland, his Assistant, Gil Snider, Ben Koebel and Joe Jarvis of PSC's accounting staff and commissioner Elliott Belshaw of Munster.

Each put up $104.17 for a forty-eighth of a share on Feb. 2, 1954. They've since collected $2.10 for each $1 invested and profits are mounting steadily.

They collected from the original "Pajama Game' show in New York, from a traveling company which has toured such cities as Cincinnati, St. Paul, Montreal and Seattle, and from a musical album.

Future prospects are even brighter. Warner Bros. bought movie rights for $750,000, which will be paid through 1962, and 50 per cent of the films profits.

British Show Forming

In addition, Prince now is in London, preparing a British production of the play which will open in September. The Queen Mother saw the play in New York last fall, saying Princess Margaret frequently played records of songs from the show.

When Prince started a second play—"Damn Yankees"—the six put up $1,000 and $500 was added by two other PSC workers, Accounting Chief Bernard Perry and Mrs. Bernice Bales, the switchboard operater, and by three of Robison's friends, Thomas Peters of Delphi and Dr. Paul Van Kirk and Rawlings Ransom of Frankfort.

"We had so much success with 'Pajama Game' we were eager to hop onto the second one," Koebel said.

After just two months on Broadway, "Damn Yankees" has returned 40 per cent of the investment in dividends.

More Angels Wanted

Miss Bowland is a sort of press agent for the group. She keeps scrapbooks crammed with the clippings about the two palys.

Army Gives Stevens Big Send-Off As He Steps Down As Secretary

WASHINGTON UP)—The Army gave a rousing send-off today to Robert T. Stevens who stepped down as its secretary after a turbulent 2½ years of public life.

The tall, shy executive will return to the J.P. Stevens Co., one of the nation's largest textile firms, in which he was forced to give up his holdings before the Senate would confirm him in January, 1953. Stevens first, however, plans an extended vacation on his Montana ranch.

Wilber M. Brucker, defense department general counsel, will be sworn as the new Army secretary Thursday.

Stevens, who became familiar to millions during the Army-McCarthy hearings last year, said as he left public life that he felt he had "struck a blow for the prestige and honor of all the armed services."

The Army scheduled a farewell parade for Stevens at Fort Myer, Va., featuring a 19-gun salute, marching troops of the 3rd Infantry Regiment and an aerial flyover of 30 Army aircraft. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chief of staff, was to present Stevens the secretary's personal flag.

In what the Navy called "an unprecedented step,' Navy Secretary Charles S. Thomas today presented Stevens with the Navy Distinguished Public Service Award marking contributions "in the field of interservice cooperation.' Normally, the award is given to civilians outside government for outstanding contributions to the Navy.

Stevens' resignation, announced at the White House last month long had been expected but frequently denied by Stevens. A year ago, at the close of the public battle with Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.), Stevens told reporters the Army's "integrity" had been vindicated. He said then that he intended to stay in office as long as President Eisenhower and Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson "believe that I'm of service to them and the country.'

He had spent the better part of 14 days in the witness chair in the Senate committee hearings which grew out of the Army-McCarthy fight on the issue of subversives in military service.

Harry S. Truman To Address IDEA Diamond Jubilee

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—Ex-President Harry S. Truman was announced today as chief speaker for the 75th anniversary meeting of the Indiana Democratic Editorial Association at French Lick Aug. 27.

Mr. Truman and Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler of South Bend will speak at a banquet climaxing the IDEA's two-day annual fall session Aug. 26-27.

The announcement was made by Charles Skillen, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, and T. Perry Wesley of Spencer, president of the IDEA.

State Democrats were elated that Mr. Truman agreed to come as the main drawing card for the party's biggest rally in preparation for the Indiana Municipal Elections in November.

Democrats, now outnumbered two to one in mayoralty seats among Indiana's 104 cities, hope to use the Truman appearance and other features of the IDEA session as a springboard to get back in power in a majority of Hoosier municipalities.

The party's editors will meet Friday night during the convention for a business session. Next morning, a political strategy campaign for mayoralty candidates and party workers will be launched.

Council Sees No Increase In 1956 Tax Rate

Decision Based On Items Tentatively Slated For Budget

The city tax rate is not expected to be increased, next year, according to a tentative draft of the budget for 1956 presented to the City Council at a meeting Tuesday night by Franklin Dillman, city clerk-treasurer.

The council discussed and held a general review of items to be included in the budget.

No definite decision was made on the amount to be included for a steam heating plant to be installed in the City Hall, although it is expected to require a sizable amount of money. The council is awaiting an estimate on the cost of the plant to be made by William Baer, a Fort Wayne engineer hired for the purpose.

$1,200 For Election

Another item included in the draft is $1200 for the citl election in November. The last election cost the city $1012.66.

The council agreed to carry-over from last year's budget an appropriation of $2,000 for the City Planning Commission. Out of this amount is expected to come the salary of the building commissioner and incidental expenses of the

Senate-House Conferees Agree Tentatively On Compromise Military Reserve Bill Today

By UNITED PRESS

Senate-House conferees agreed tentatively today on a compromise military reserve bill.

Conferees said only minor differences remain to be worked out between versions passed by the House and Senate. They predicted final approval by the conference committee Thursday.

The compromise would:

1. Make reserve service compulsory only for men entering the services after enactment of the bill. The administration wanted the compulsion applied to everyone entering the services since July, 1953.

2. Reduce the total military obligation of servicemen in future from the present eight years to six. Thus a man drafted for two years would have to spend only four years in the reserves. The administration opposed any reduction.

3. Provide incentives for building up the reserves with volunteers in the next two years. These incentives were not made public. But the conferees knocked out a bonus proposal which had been approved by the Senate.

The administration had objected to any postponement of compulsory reserve service and to reduction of total obligation on ground it would delay planned creation of a 2,900,000 ready reserve by mid-1959. Military leaders said the delay might be as much as two years.

Other congressional news:

Roads: The House Public Works Committee again approved a 12-year, $48,500,000,000 road-building program calling for $12,400,000, in additional gasoline and other "use" taxes to help pay for it. The new taxes would apply for 16 years. Speaker San Rayburn said the bill "should pass the House all right." But Rep. Tom Steed (D-Okla.), a sponsor, predicted the House will kill it because tire and truck interests are fighting the tax provisions with "the most effective lobby I've ever seen." The bill is tentatively scheduled for House debate next week.

Minimum Wage: Rep. Augustine B. Kelley (D-Pa) predicted the House would pass before nightfall a bill raising the minimum wage from 75 cents to $1 an hour. Kelley, floor manager of the bill, said he expected approval of the $1 figure despite a joint effort by Re-

Oat Demonstration Plots To Be Discussed

Questions about new varieties of wheat and other grains will be answered by G. P. Walker, Purdue agronomist, at the oat variety demonstration meeting of the Glenola and Joshua Barnes farm, Union township, Thursday noon, July 21, at 12:45 o'clock. Nine late varieties of oats will be seen growing side by side.

The effects of fertilization on oats and different rates of nitrating will also be observed. The demonstration is supervised by County Agent B. V. Widney. The Barnes farm is approximately 2 miles north of Coesse and a half mile east on the Yellowstone Trail. All person interested in small grains are invited to attend the meeting.

Terrorists Set Fires To Shanty Town In Fedala

Fire Also Destroys Much Of Brada

CASABLANCA, Morocco (UP)—A crowded shanty-town section of the oil port city of Fedala was destroyed early today by fires which police said were set by terrorists.

Between 5,000 and 6,000 Moroccans were driven from their homes in the El Alia slum section of Fedala by the fires, police said. They also reported that a fire had destroyed much of the town of Brada, on the main road out of Fedala.

At first the fires were reported to have been set Tuesday night by the shanty town and slum area dwellers themselves. Later, police blamed political terrorists.

A huge cloud of black smoke hovered over the burned out district this morning. Groups of natives squatted in the dust and ashes of what once had been their homes.

The burned skeletons of animals caught in the flames lay around them. The shanty town had housed from 10,000 to 15,000 persons. Most of the homes were made of straw, reeds, planks and corrugated iron. The flames swept through the area swiftly, destroying hundreds of shanties and driving men, women and children into the countryside.

The fires shifted terrorist activity from Casablanca, where a curfew had brought calm to the native quarter the past 48 hours. In five days of race riots that began Thursday night 65 persons were killed and 200 were injured in Casablancas native quarters.

Mrs. Cayot Able To Leave Hospital

Mrs. Harold Cayot, who has been hospitalized at the Whitley County Hospital since receiving injuries in an automobile accident more than two months ago, was dismissed Tuesday morning. Mrs. Cayot has returned to her residence in Washington township where she will be in bed for further convalesence. The trip was made in the Hollingsworth ambulance.

Mrs. Nellie Hathaway of South Whitley was admitted to Whitley County Hospital Wednesday morning. She was brought to the hospital in [illegible] r ambulance.

Warehouse Burns In 2-Alarm Fire At Evansville

Six Other Buildings Damaged; Paint Factory In Danger

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (UP)—A wholesale grocery warehouse was destroyed and six other buildings damaged in a fire which threatened to ignite a paint factory at the south end of the business district here Tuesday night.

Fire department spokesmen estimated damage was "at least $100,000."

Two firemen were injured, neither critically, when hit by flying bricks and glass as a wall collapsed. They were taken to the hospital.

The cause of the two-alarm blaze was unknown. The A. Bromm & Co. warehouse, was destroyed. The 4-story brick structure contained canned goods and paper supplies for grocers.

The Milton Sales Co. next door was damaged badly. The roof fell in.

Authorities feared the Red Spot paint factory and warehouse directly across the street from the grocery warehouse would catch fire, possibly taking a whole city block with it. The building contained more than 50,000 gallons of inflammable varnishes, lacquers and paints.

Firemen sprayed a curtain of water in front of the building, preventing fire. But heat broke windows and there was water damage.

About 200 women were evacuated from the YWCA, nearly a block from the heart of the fire, as a precaution.

The fire was brought under control in less than two hours, but firemen continued to spray water on the simmering ahes and remains early today. The fire started at about 11:30 p.m.

Volunteer firemen supplemented the regular firemen and extra police and civilian defense police were called out.

The injured firemen were James Lindenschmidt, 27, and Jack Thiel 27.

A large crowd on its way home from hearing singer Lilly Pons at the Ampitheatre, watched the fire.

This was the third big fire here in the last three weeks. They were in widely separated parts of the city. A garage and auto agency and a downtown warehouse each were damaged more than $100,000. The garage fire was started by paint fumes which seeped into an electric heater. The cause of the warehouse blaze was unknown. Authorities saw no connection among the three fires.

Urge Studebaker Employes To Return

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UP)—Resumption of negotiations to settle a seniority dispute hinged today on return of final assembly line workers at the Studebaker-Packard Corp. plant.

The firm broke off negotiations Tuesday after about 55 employes struck for the fourth time in six days and most of the 1,000 production workers were sent home.

William Ogden, president of Local 5 of the CIO United Auto Workers, said his negotiating committee has urged all employes to return so the dispute can be settled.

Seniority became one of the key issues when the firm established new production standards recently, prompting the laying-off of about 1,600 workers.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Wolfe, 506 Indiana street, are the parents of a daughter, Gina Maria, born Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. at the Whitley County Hospital. The baby weighed 6 pounds 6½ ounces.

The mother's maiden name is Velma Jean Cearbaugh. This is the couple's first child.

Court Hears Evidence Against Gibson, Wells

2 Men Charged With Taking Equipment From American Tractor Corp.

The court completed the hearing of evidence Tuesday afternoon of the suit charging Samuel Wells, Jr. and James L. Gibson with grand larceny in the taking of seven pieces of equipment from the American Tractor Corporation

The trial continued at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday when each side was expected to present its final arguments to the court.

Both men were employed by the tractor manufacturing company. They are charged with stealing the items on or prior to June 24, 1955 in the affidavit signed by Jack Clayton, assistant to the vice-president of the company.

Gibson and Wells both entered pleas of not guilty to the charge when they were arraigned July 11 in Whitley County circuit court. Their attorney is Charles Z. Bond

According to the testimony of Blain Schang, State Detective, who investigated the case and took the two men into custody on July 8, Wells admitted taking the items which were found at his home from the company where he was employed.

Gibson Denies Part

The equipment included two hydraulic control valves. Testimony of Clayton at the trial was that the items cost the company a total of $260 but that their replacement value was $525.

Schang said that Gibson denied any part of the theft of the items. However, he was identified by Perle Byrd, a state witness, as the driver of a car to the tractor plant. At the trial, Byrd related that he saw Wells come out of the tractor company with one of the hydraulic

One Year Ago Today

What happened here one year ago today? How could you have forgotten. Shortly after 7:00 p.m. July 20, 1954 the worst windstorm in many years (if not the most destructive) hit this community.

Thousands of dollars in property damage was caused by the almost tornadic winds that knocked over barns, trees, blew in store windows and damaged the roof and steeple of one church. The winds of this storm were recorded as 86 miles per hour winds, and the temperature dropped from the day's high of 98 degrees to a low of the day of 68 degrees. Only .63 inch of rain fell in this city.

Falling trees snapped power lines and cast most of this city in darkness for much of the remainder of the night. It was not until 3:30 a.m. the following day that all primary circuits were restored. The rural area was also without electric power. The following day, and for a few succeeding days, workmen were busily engaged hauling broken tree limbs and even trees off the city streets. Churubusco and South Whitley also had jobs of cleaning, although Churubusco was hardest hit.

The McCoy elevator, which was in the process of being built back up after it was blown down earlier in the year, was again toppled by the storm. The barn on the Herbert Gross farm in Smith township and the barn at the Crooked Lake Golf Course were blown down. The roof and steeple of the Eel River Baptist church were damaged, cars here and in Churubusco were smashed by falling trees, and hundreds of property owners had to have roofs and windows repaired.

That happened only one year ago and we hope that many years from now we will be able to refer to that storm as the worst—we don't want any to surpass it in fury.

Ohio Governor Has No Desire For Presidency

Name Frequently Pops Up As A Possible Candidate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UP)—Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche said today, "I have no ambition to run for president.'

The five - term governor, whose name frequently pops up as a possible presidential candidate next year, said, "In my heart, I have no desire to run for the presidency."

The governor attributes the occasional mention of his name as a presidential possibility to the over-enthusiasm of his friends.

As the Midwest's most conistent Democratic winner, Lausche has had support for the nation's top office from Southern governors and from some Eastern interests. Many feel he may be a good bet as a compromise candidate if a deadlock develops in the Democratic National Convention in Chicago next year.

Favorite Son Candidate

Lausche's friends, however, have not ruled out the possibility the bushy - haired governor might consent to be Ohio's "favorite son" in next May's primaries to name delegates to the convention. They picture Lausche as "concerned" that the "political bosses" he has long denounced may attempt to gain control of the state's delegation "for their own selfish uses in trading."

Lausche, in an interview, left the door open to run for governor again next year or to enter the contest for U. S. senator. If he chooses the latter course, he would shoot for the seat held by Republican George H. Bender of Cleveland.

"I cannot say now what I will do a year from now," the governor said.

"Events are changing with such rapidity, both on the state and national level, that it is impossible for me at this time to tell what my future course of action may be,' Lausche said.

Republicans Kept Guessing

Republicans wish they knew. The conservative governor has won five times out of six in a state that elects Republican senators, a Republican Legislature, and Republican state officials. He carries the big industrial centers despite opposition from labor leaders. He holds his own in the rural areas. In 1952, Lausche ran almost as well in Ohio as did President Eisenhower. The governor's opponent was Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati, brother of the late Sen Robert A. Taft.

The governor told newsmen after winning his fourth term in a row last fall that he did not plan to run for the office again. He repeated the statement publicly several times. But he hedged by saying he had done everything possible to get out of the race except actually announce he was getting out.

The general feeling among politicians is that Lausche will run for governor again next year. Members of the recent General Assembly said after conferences with the governor they gained the impression he would seek re-election.

USS Seawolf To Be Launched Thursday

GROTON, Conn. (UP)—The USS Seawolf, the world's second atomic-powered submarine, will be launched Thursday to the stirring strains of the "United Press March."

The 30-piece band of the General Dynamics Corp., builder of the submarine, will play the march. The band program also will include the traditional "Anchors Aweigh" as the craft slides down to sea.

The UP March was composed about three years ago at the suggestion of Hugh Baillie, then president of the United Press, by the noted composer, Paul Lavalle.

The students will return on Saturday.

Ike Carries Out Pledge To Keep Congress Posted

On Events At Conference

By DONALD J. GONZALES
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower, with a lot of in-between help, is carrying out his pledge to keep Congress posted on events at the Geneva conference.

However, the involved, long-range liaison between Switzerland and Capitol Hill so far has not produced any surprising or earthshaking information.

Lawmakers and administration officials said the content of the reports to Congress are about the same as those available to any avid American newspaper reader.

Congressional leaders said there have been two main encouraging points in reports they have received so far on the Geneva meeting. One is the high degree of U.S.-British-French unity and the other is the apparent continuing friendliness of the Soviets.

Difficult Problems Ahead

Sen. Walter F. George (D-Ga), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said Tuesday he feels "the whole conference has moved steadily in the direction of reasonableness."

He described German reunification as "one of the difficult problems to be met" and said reunification will be difficult to achieve "without some serious concessions on our part."

Before going to Geneva, the President called in congressional leaders and promised them full information on progress of the Big

President Calls Military Advisers To Be On Hand

For Discussion Of Crucial Item

BULLETIN

GENEVA, Switzerland (UP) — President Eisenhower and the Soviet delegates to the Big Four conference agreed German reunification and today they have reached a dead end on the issues of European security.

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer

GENEVA, Switzerland (UP) — The Big Four heads of governments met in their fourth formal session today to tackle the problem of European security—second big and trouble-filled item on the summit conference agenda.

President Eisenhower called in his highest military advisers — Adm. Arthur Radford, chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, and NATO Supreme Commander Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther — to be on hand for the crucial discussion of European security. His disarmament expert, Harold E. Stassen arrived by air from Paris earlier. Radford and Gruenther were due in from Paris later today.

The optimism with which the conference opened three days ago was severely chilled by their failure in Tuesday's initial working session to find even a small area of mutual ground from which to begin work on the first agenda item, the reunification of Germany.

President Eisenhower had a private, man-to-man talk with Soviet Marshal Georgi Zhukov at a luncheon at his villa in a Geneva suburb today in an attempt to keep alive the German reunification issue which the Western Big Three made the No. 1 objective of the Man Blames Suicide Attempt On Low Standing Of Pirates

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Henry Thorp, 82, held in South Side Police Station after an unsuccessful attempt to commit suicide, explained to officers today:

"At my age there's nothing much to do except listen to the ball games and when you see the low standing of the Pirates — well, what do you think?"

The Pittsburgh Pirates are in last place in the National League, 31 games behind the first place Brooklyn Dodgers.

Second Polio Shots Will Be Given Whitley County Children After School Reopening

The second polio inoculation shots will not be given to children in Whitley county until school reopens. That statement was confirmed in a letter from the county medical society secretary, Dr. Linus J. Minick, to Joseph R. Roe, county polio chairman.

The medical society prolonged giving the shot until school reopens because it felt too many families and children were away on vacation during the summer months. By giving the shots before school begins, no date could be selected when all children entitled to a shot could receive it.

Children in grades one and two received the shots here on April 26, while shots were first started in the rural schools on April 19. The second shots for the children getting the first shots were scheduled for May 17, but were prolonged because of the rate of polio outbreak in the country.

When it was announced that two shots would be sufficient, the following statement was made to this paper by Mr. Roe.

"Up until April 12 it was believed that a series of three shots would be required for protection during the 1955 polio season. However, in his report on that date, Dr. Salk indicated that the first two shots, properly spaced, induce sufficient primary stimulation of antibodies for protection this year. The booster, or third shot administered at least seven months later, is for protection in 1956 and for some period thereafter."

Just As Effective

The question now is, how much good did the first shot do and how effective will the second shot be since it will be given more than four months after the initial shot.

Mr. Roe answers this question with a quotation from Ed Britton, state Infantile Paralysis Foundation representative at Indianapolis. Mr. Britton says, "the second shot will be just as effective even though it was prolonged longer than previously planned."

DePauw University Receives Bequests Totaling $107,000

GREENCASTLE, —(Spl.) —Two separate bequests, including one for $101,275, have been received by DePauw University, according to President Russell J. Humbert.

Both of the bequests, which total $107,000, will be added to the university's unrestricted endowment.

The larger gift was left under the will of Mrs. Jessie Patton of Rushville, who died in 1953. She was the widow of Cary O. Patton, prominent Rush County farmer.

Mr. Patton's brother, the late Henry Brown Patton, also of Rushville, graduated from DePauw in 1894.

The second bequest for $5725 was willed to the university by Charles H. Enderton, a native of Lafayete and 1882 alumnus of DePauw.

Although Enderton died in 1920, final settlement of the estate was not made until this month. He was active in the insurance and investment business in Winnepeg, Canada, at the time of his death.

Insurance Reduced For Auto Owners

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—An automobile insurance rate reduction of $3,032,0000 a year was approved today by the Indiana Insurance Department.

State Insurance Commissioner Harry Wells said about 350 major companies will reduce rates, effective Wednesday, on two types of coverage—collision and comprehensive coverage, and bodily injury and property damage.

The rate reductions resulted from fewer accident claims, Wells said, and "speak well for the concentrated effort that has been put forth by the state enforcement officers."

For the entire state, comprehensive private passenger rates will be reduced an average of nine per cent.

Motorists carrying $50 deductible collision policies will receive an approximate 20 per cent reduction, and those with $100 deductible policies will receive reductions varying from nine to 23 per cent.

On passenger cars driven by women under 25 years old, collision premiums will be reduced 13 per cent.

On passenger cars where the driver under 25 years old has completed a driver education course, collision premiums will go down 10 per cent.

The reductions in bodily injury and property damage coverage will range from $4 to $6 in Marion and Vigo Counties.

That reduction will range from $1 to $2 in Anderson, Elkhart, Kokomo, Lafayette, West Lafayette, Logansport Marion LaPorte Michigan City, Muncie, Richmond and surrounding areas.

Elsewhere, the rates will not be be changed because of an "unfavorable" number of claims, Wells said.

Indianapolis To Hammond Highway Survey Approved

INDIANAPOIS (UP)—The Indiana Toll Road Commission had the green light today to complete a survey of the Hammond-to-Indianapolis superhighway as governor Craig predicted construction of the project may begin next spring.

The Indiana State Finance Board, by a vote of 2-to-1, Monday approved transfer of $265,000 in highway funds for the survey. Craig and state auditor Curtis Rardin voted for the project while state treasurer John Peters dissented.

Peters, who also voted against spending $70,000 for a preliminary survey of the proposed road several months ago, said he objected to transfer of the money until the upstate east-west toll road is in operation.

Craig said the survey should be completed by late September. He said the tantative route runs from Hammond to a point 12 to 15 miles east of Indianapolis, linking up with U.S. 40.

Dispute Over Issue Of U. S. Passports To Suspected Subversives Just Begins To Boil

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — Instead of being over and a big victory for somebody, the dispute over the issue of U.S. passports to suspected subversives is only beginning to boil.

American citizens will learn, as the argument develops, that the United States long has had a tighter grip on their foreign travel than is imposed, for example, by Canada, France or Britain.

A footnote to that fact, however, is that all French and British security precautions against subversion are notably weaker than in the United States. Canadian security is rated good.

Americans also will learn that Franklin D. Roosevelt is vigorously on record in this dispute. FDR lined up with those who would deny U.S. passports to unreliable citizens. He issued an executive order in the peacetime year of 1938 expressly authorizing the secretary of state "in his discretion to refuse to issue a passport."

Truman On Record

Former President Truman is similarly on record and his secretary of state, Dean Acheson, made the stringent regulations effective through the passport division which was headed by the efficient and strong willed Ruth B. Shipley. Miss Francis Knight recently succeeded Mrs. Shipley.

Miss Knight is cut from the Shipley pattern, which means that she will do everything in her power to prevent issuing a U. S. passport to any individual who, on the balance of evidence, may reasonably be judged to intend knowingly to advance the cause of Communism.

The secretary of state for 50 years, perhaps always, has exercised discretion in the issue of passports. However, before World War I it was not necessary to have a passport to travel overseas. Now it is. Under the regulations inherited by Miss Knight from the Roosevelt and Truman administrations and as the Eisenhower administration wants them enforced, Miss Knight will keep American Communists and their active sympathizers at home, so far as the courts will permit.

Avoids Legal Showdown

The Eisenhower administration avoided a legal showdown on the issue of a passport for Dr. Otto Nathan, a German - born professor at New York University and executor of the late Albert Einstein's estate. U. S. District Judge Henry A. Schweinhaut ordered the State Department on June 1 to issue thepassport and the order was supported by the U.S. Court of Appeals to the extent of ordering a further departmental hearing. The State Department ducked the question by giving Nathan his traveling papers, although under protest.

It had denied the passport on grounds that Nathan had been a German Communist in 1933 and since had associated with Reds and their fronts. Nathan denied membership but refused to swear he had not belonged to Communist front groups.

The department backed up again this month. It reversed a decision that foreign editor Joseph Clark of the Communist newspaper Daily Worker could not travel to cover the Gene va Big ou r meeting. F the Geneva Big Four meeting. And after six years of refusing a passport, the department issued one to Dr. Martin D. Kamen of Washington University, St. Louis, Mo., an atomic scientist formerly accused of Communist affiliations. His passport had been seized in 1947.

Now Comes Paul Robeson

Now comes Paul Robeson, Negro singer, demanding a passport but refusing to swear he is not and never has been a Communist. The chances of Robeson getting papers for travel in Europe are slight, although he was authorized Tuesday to keep a recital engagement in Canada. No passport is required to cross that border.

The administration's alternatives are these:

1. Scrap the regulations whereunder the State Department has kept certain unrealiable citizens at home.
2. Select a good case and carry it to the Supreme Court.
3. Appeal to Congress for more specific legislation on the subject.

Congressmen might hesitate to vote against a bill which provided merely the refusal of a passport to persons reasonably suspected of seeking foreign travel to work against the best interests of the United States.

CIO Is Insisting On New Name For United Organization

WASHINGTON (UP)—The CIO will back out of the proposed merger with the AFL unless the AFL agrees to a new name for the united labor organization, CIO sources have disclosed.

The sources said the CIO is willing to give up its name—Congress of Industrial Organizations — but that it will insist on the merged organization being titled something other than American Federation of Labor.

The CIO position was made known in advance of a scheduled meeting of the AFL-CIO Unity Committee tonight to be attended by both CIO President Waltre Reuther and AFL President George Meany.

The issue of the name for the merged AFL-CIO is expected to come up at the meeting since it is one of the last remaining items of unfinished business on the merger plans.

Both Meany and Reuther have said they fully expect that the issue will be worked out and that it will not prevent the organizations from going through with their plans to merge formally in December.

commission. About $1700 of the $2000 appropriated this year was paid to the Metropolitan Planners, Inc. of Indianapolis for drawing up the zoning plan.

The council also sees the need for additional appropriation for repair of the City Hall roof, contract for which was let at the last meeting July 12. The money in the repair fund now was appropriated last year when it was thought that the roof would not require such extensive repair. This appropriation is expected to be delayed until later in the year, until it can be seen what additional city repairs are needed.

City Valuation Up

The City Street Department is also slated to receive additional money to cover the cost of employing additional men. The department now employs nine men, whereas last year at budget time it had only six men. The department has been rushed recently by new paving of streets and alleys, in addition to paving private driveways, for which it receives payment, and its other duties.

Dillman also revealed that the valuation of the city has increased from $6,081,210 last year to $6,254,590 this year. This amount includes taxable property within the city placed upon the Whitley Products limits and also includes the value Company, which burned after the valuation was made March 1.

The increase in property valuation is reflected mostly in the added new homes and automobiles by citizens within the city.

The council also discussed with the trustees representing the townships affiliated with the Four Townships Fire Department located in Columbia City the agreement by which the citizens of the area are assured of fire protection.

It was agreed that the present arrangement should be discussed with a view to giving the townships a bigger part in operating the department.

Four meeting.

Mechanically speaking, the State Department is receiving communications at all hours from U.S. delegation headquarters in Geneva. They make up a good part of the volume of dispatches flowing into the diplomatic code room here around the clock.

Work Starts Early

Some State Department officials roll out of bed at an extra early hour to start work on the daily summary of incoming cables, including the heavy load from Geneva. This process continues throughout the day.

Acting Secretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr. sits down at his State Department desk about 8 a.m. EDT to scan overnight reports from the President, Dulles and their Geneva helpers. So far this week, Vice President Richard M. Nixon has been stopping off at Hoover's office about 8:15 a.m. for a briefing before going on to Capitol Hill.

Nixon throughout the day has been passing on some information informally to important congressional officials. Chief responsibility for briefing Congress, however, has been delegated by the State Department to Assistant Secretary of State Thurston Morton, former representative from Kentucky. During the day, Morton contacts Republican and Democratic leaders as well as various committee members to give them reports on Geneva.

pumps and place it on the rear floor of the automobile.

Byrd, a welder on the night shift at the plant, said he had rode to work in the car with Gibson the evening of the theft of the pump. The car belonged to Wells.

In addition to the charge of stealing the items against Wells, the State, represented by James Biddle and Edward Meyers, Jr., county prosecuting attorney, is attempting to prove that Gibson acted as an accessory in the theft, since he drove the car to the factory.

Schang said that Wells admited to him that he took the hydraulic pump, the one Byrd mentioned that was placed in the car, from the tractor plant on the night of June 24, 1955.

Employes Testify

According to witnesses at the trial, Wells later denied taking the tractor parts, and said that one of the men at the plant had given the items to him. He could not identify the man. This was a contradiction of his earlier statement, according to Schang, that he knew he was wrong in taking the items and had no right to take them.

Both Cuarles Garver, a machine shop foreman, and Norman Vick, machine shop inspector, at the tractor firm, stated that Wells had contacted them about locating or purchasing some of the type of equipment which he is charged with stealing.

Bond, attorney for the defendants, attempted to have Gibson dismissed as a defendant by contending that the State had failed to prove his implication in the theft. However, Judge Lowell Pefley denied the contention by saying that evidence by a witness for the State implicated Gibson as an accessory before the fact.

Bond also asked for a verdict for his clients claiming that the State had not established that the theft occurred in Whitley county, but only in Churubusco, Indiana. Judge Pefley also denied that request stating that Churubusco was established as being within Whitley county.

Biddle is representing the State in the case since he was acting as deputy prosecuting attorney when the two men were arraigned July 11.

Vatican Newspaper Appeals To Big Four

VATICAN CITY (UP) — The Vatican City newspaper Osservatore Romano appealed today to the Big Four at Geneva to prevent war and move toward "a true and just peace."

The newspaper said in a front page editorial that Pope Pius XII found "intimate satisfaction" in the Geneva meeting.

The Geneva talks are "the first step toward the reconstruction of peace," said the newspaper, which frequently reflects the opinions of the Pope.

Noontime Ceremony

FRANKFURT, Germany (UP)—West Germany today observed two minutes of silence at noon to mark the opening of the Big Four conference in Geneva. Communist Berlin ignored the noontime ceremony.

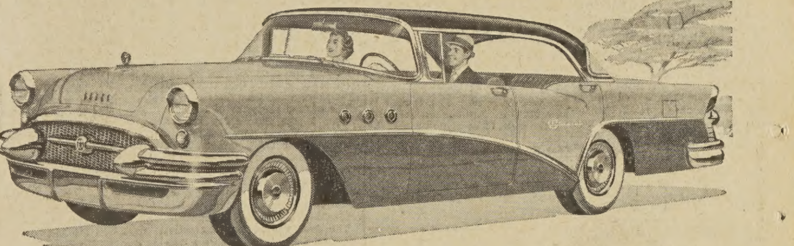
RAUPFER HARDWARE

No wonder this Hardtop is the HIT OF THE YEAR !



IT'S 4-DOOR HANDY

—and priced for action!

This one you'll just have to see.

It's a beauty. It's a brand-new kind of car. It's a Buick Riviera with four doors. And to top it all—it's a SPECIAL—the lowest-priced of all Buick Series.

Know what that means?

It means you can have the newest hit in hardtops—the most advanced new body design yet—and you can have it in the price range of America's smaller cars.

It means you can have a steel-roofed car with the long, low, sweeping sportiness of a convertible—with no center posts in the side window areas—and with two separate doors to the rear.

And you can have all this hardtop beauty with sedan comfort and convenience at the easy-to-take modest extra cost of a 4-door model over a 2-door model.

But if you think that's all—listen:

This gleaming grace of automobile is a Buick through and through—a '55 Buick, from the hottest-selling line of Buicks in all history.

So here you have the soft, firm steadiness of Buick's all-coil-spring ride and torque-tube stability. Here you have Buick brawn, Buick solidity, Buick handling ease, Buick styling and visibility and interior luxury.

And here you have the lift and life of vigorous new V8 power of record might—and coupled to the spectacular performance of Buick's Variable Pitch Dynaflow.*

Why wait a day longer—when you can come in right now and try the first true hardtop with the extra comfort, room and convenience of a full-sized 4-door sedan?

Drop in tomorrow, first thing—for a look at the price, and an idea of the whopping-big trade-in deal our huge sales volume permits us to make.

Variable Pitch Dynaflow is the only Dynaflow Buick builds today. It is standard on ROADMASTER, optional at modest extra cost on other Series.*

The Gongwers From California Make Three Weeks Visit In County

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Gongwer and daughter Marie of Covina, Calif., left today for the east after a visit in the county since June 28. They were house guests at the home of Mr. Gongwer's sister, Mrs. James Hess of near this city.

They also visited in the county with Mr. Gongwer's brother, Harry Gongwer in Cleveland township, and at the William Hasty home in Jefferson township. Mrs. Hasty is Mr. Gongwer's sister.

About 50 people attended the picnic dinner and get-together given Sunday at the Hess home in honor of the Gongwers, who will visit Washington D. C. and tour the east before going to Miami, Fla., where the family of Mrs. Gongwer resides.

The Gongwers plan to be back in California by the time school begins.

Ralph E. Widdifield, Mrs. Alma Marquart Wed In Church Rites

Announcement is made of the marriage of Ralph E. Widdifield of this city and Mrs. Alma Shaffer Marquart of Huntington. It was solemnized last Thursday in the sanctuary of the Evangelical and Reformed Church in Huntington, which has been the parish of the bride's family for many years.

The Rev. Raul A. Rasche, the bride's pastor, read the quiet and informal ceremony at 4 o'clock, in the presence of a few close friends. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kacy of Huntington atended the couple.

After a week's trip north, the couple will be at the Widdifield summer home at Lake Wawasee and in the fall will be at home in this city.
